UNITED NATIONS CHARTER

To keep the peace, to join a world organization to insure the well-being of this nation, is the hope of the United Nations Charter. It was twenty-six years ago that Woodrow Wilson placed his hope, the League of Nations, before a war weary country and for the ratification of his senate. At that time the reception was cool and bordering on the suspicious and loary. The choice of isolationism of this country for the preceding years made it turn a cold shoulder on the League. Wilson made an earnest plea, that this League was necessary to repel such intolerable aggression as exhibited by Germany in the war just passed, a plea for "such a continuing concert of free nations as would make wars of aggression and spoliation" nevermore. He asked his senate, Dare we reject it, and break the heart of the world?

The presentation of the United Nations Charter calls for ratification by all United Nations and it is expected to have all of their formal approvals by early fall. There must not be great delay in signing and approving. As we come to August 14, the birthday of the Atlantic Charter, we might do well to concentrate on this new charter in its stead. This treaty is seeking to remove the economic and social conflicts that cause international trouble. It hopes to settle international disputes by peaceful means and justly. It expects to promote world-wide programs and better standards of living everywhere. The main objective is to prevent future wars. When two wars of such devastation as World War I and II, occur in one generation, it is time we enact the charter, without having to plead for it as did Wilson for the League.

There is no certainty that international agreements will definitely work, that they will be positive peace-makers, but what is there to offer that is better, more agreeable, more certain.

There have been instances when information against the enemy was exchanged for a bar of soap. Always did the over-seas box contain a cake of it, as one refugee put it, "good for the soul". Today in this country there is a lack of soap and in some sections a serious lack of it. Many report of nothing but hand soap, the laundry bars and boxed chips, flakes, powders, all off the shelf. The housewife of Burk Burnett will tell you that if it comes to doing without soap or butter, she can manage to run her house without the butter, not the soap. There has been some panicky buying in some areas but the majority of towns so hard hit declare there isn't any of the product to buy in order to create a panic of purchase. The lack of eggs may cause some disturbance but there is none compared to having no soap. How keep the American clothes-line in use, asks local housewives. There is to be no rationing of it, says the government, so all we can do is put on a dirty shirt and listen to a daytime radio program as a reminder of those good old sudsy days of yesteryear.

Burk Burnett History

As revealed by the files of the Star 17 years ago.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Weber, formerly of the Dr. H. Weber lease in the Northwest Field, deeply sympathize with them in the loss of their only child, Joe Frank Weber, 2 years of age who was killed Monday, July 30, when struck by a large truck on the streets of Mineral Wells where he was visiting.

The child is said to have jerked away from his mother's hand while leading him, and ran before the truck. She, too, was injured in trying to save the child. He passed away the following day in the Mineral Wells hospital.

A rich sand believed to contain oil in paying quantities has been found and casing is being set preparatory to making test.

The standard rig at the well has been drilling night and day for several weeks, with the exception of a delay on account of replacing the derrick which was blown down by high wind.

The citizens living and owning property on Vann Street have started a movement for improvement of that street. The plan is to have a concrete curb with gravel topping on the street. Vann street does not have proper drainage in rainy weather becomes all but impassable.

Getting Your Old Job Back

IF YOU, now a discharged veteran, worked for a private employer or for the federal government on another temporary basis immediately prior to your entry into the armed forces, you are entitled to get your job back or one substantially equivalent in every respect...

Questions and Answers Q.—I am on a 30-day furlough from an army hospital, awaiting an artificial arm. Can I get a job with this handicap?

A.—If you have a service-connected disability which results in an occupational handicap such as you describe, you can be taught a new type of work, after your final discharge from the hospital, and you will probably find the handicap will be no disadvantage.

Q.—How long can I wear my uniform after I am discharged from the army?

A.—The regulations provide that you may change into civilian clothes immediately or wear your uniform until you reach home, provided this does not take more than 90 days.

Q.—Am I required to report to my registration board after I am discharged from the army?

A.—Yes. Once the veteran reaches home he is required to report the facts on his separation to his selective service board within 10 days.

Q.—Does the government pay interest on guaranteed loans under the G.I. bill of rights?

A.—The Administrator of Veterans Affairs will pay interest on the guaranteed amount of the loan (not to exceed $2,000) for the first year.

Kathleen Norris Says: Blessed Are the Meek

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

"I adore my Bill, but that doesn't mean that I want to swallow his family whole."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS TODAY'S letter comes from a bride of only a few months; Marjorie married her flier when he came home, honorably discharged, after 22 months of hard service.

Bill is handsome, clever, devoted—and rich. Marjorie didn't know how rich until now, when they are going to his home city, Philadelphia, to live.

"This is my trouble," she writes. "My people are poor, but we come of good stock. My mother for many years supported my grandmother and myself by teaching. She is not strong now, lives with my grandmother, and there is almost no money, but for fitness and goodness there never were two more genuine saints."

"Bill and I are to have 'one of the family houses' to live in. We are to have 'Uncle Phil's house,' which he says is filled with old revolutionary junk, or 'Grandpa's house,' which is handsome but smaller. His mother writes me that 'old Emma' will come to us at once as cook, and bring two granddaughters to 'make themselves useful.' Aunts and cousins of Bill's write him that they want to know when 'dear Marjorie' would like to be entertained—would I like a tea or a formal reception?"

Too Much 'Class.' "All this appalls and annoys me. I hate that sort of thing. Bill takes it all seriously; he has three brothers, one sister, and countless cousins and other relatives. He hopes his grandmother will give us the Revere porringers, and wants me to be painted by 'the feller that has painted us all.'"

"I begin to feel that no wealth or position will make up for the independence I have enjoyed for years as a newspaper woman, and am sure already that I want my mother and grandmother to go East with me. I will be lost and strange in that big family, obliged to grin and bear all sorts of things that are absolutely unnatural to me, and I'll need support—and confidants. I adore my Bill, but that doesn't mean that I want to swallow his family whole. This business of having a house picked out for me, and servants, too, is a little thick. Bill says we'll have plenty of room for Mother and Gran, but is afraid they won't like it. Mother is dubious, but Gran says she'll do anything I want. They both love our San Diego cottage, and their life here, but neither is young, and I simply can't bear to leave them. Bill won't promise to come back, and altogether I don't know what to do."

My dear Marjorie, I say in answer, you are trying to pour old wine into new bottles, and it won't succeed. More than most young wives, your place is to follow Bill's lead now, and accept the situation in Philadelphia wholeheartedly. Go on there determined to be good-natured, adaptable, friendly in every way. Don't have much to say.

Soap From Coconuts Possibly 40 per cent of the 1945 imports of copra into the United States will go to priority uses, but most of the remainder will probably be used in making soap. Glycerine, in great wartime demand for the making of explosives, is a by-product of soap-making. Coconut oil yields about 40 per cent more glycerine than domestic fats and oils.

Soap-making is now a highly technical process. For instance, tallow gives body to soap, but it takes coconut oil to make it lather freely.

Improved Uniform International LESSON

ISAAC'S TESTIMONY TO GOD

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 26:13-33. GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who only doeth wondrous things.—Psalm 72:18.

A man of peace in a war-torn world may seem to be a bit out of place, but he assuredly is not if the peace he has and promotes is the peace of God.

Our world has seen anew a demonstration of the awful results of the philosophy that might makes right. Violence and bloodshed have been man's way of asserting his supposed or assumed rights. One could hope that we are now ready to recognize that we need a new viewpoint, that patience and meekness are not weakness, that kindness and love are Christian virtues worth emulating and cultivating.

That result can come only if men will recognize Christ as the King of their lives and nations will receive His Word as their law. Let us proclaim His truth and the gospel of His grace anew, and win all we can to Him.

Isaac was a man of peace. He was a rather ordinary man, one of the common people, but his life is both interesting and instructive. He had come through varied experiences of victory and defeat before the time of our lesson. Fearing a famine, and apparently not trusting God at the moment, he had gone down from the promised land to the country of the Philistines, there re-digging the wells which his father Abraham had dug. The result was that he prospered. Ere long, however, envy on the part of his enemies taught Isaac that one may expect

I. Strife in the World (vv. 19-21). Isaac had prospered, but he was still out of the promised land, and while he was in the land of Philistines he could expect no permanent peace.

We are in the world. We long for peace, and would throw all our influence and service into the cause of bringing a righteous peace to the troubled peoples of the world. But let us not be misled by that desire into the support of unscriptural and impossible peace programs. This world is a sinful world, and as long as that is true, there will be strife and war.

Our business in such a world is to preach the gospel of grace, winning men to Christ, that they may become men of good will. Isaac was such a man, willing to yield even what seemed to be his right, rather than cause contention.

Undoubtedly there are times when one must defend his name and his possessions, but all too often those who do "stand for their rights" have wrecked homes, churches, and nations, and have gained nothing but an empty victory.

The peace of this world is temporary. Is there then no real abiding peace and joy?

II. Joy in God's Fellowship (vv. 22-25). When Isaac came up into Canaan, the land which God had promised to him, he found real peace and an abiding joy in renewed fellowship with God. Even so, the Christian man and woman who will step out of a spiritually destructive fellowship with the ungodly world and come over wholeheartedly into the spiritual Canaan of full consecration and separate living, will find true peace and satisfying communion with God.

III. Testimony in Right Living (vv. 26-31). These men were wicked men, even speaking falsehood in their claim of friendship toward Isaac (v. 29). Now that they perceived that God was continually blessing Isaac in spite of their repeated injustice toward him, they decided it would be well to make a covenant of friendship with him. Even those who follow the way of war and aggression cannot deny the effectiveness of true Christian testimony.

Observe also that by his patience and kindness, Isaac ultimately made friends out of his enemies. "It is better to turn enemies into friends than to beat them, and have them enemies still." And so this man with the patient, self-sacrificing spirit brought peace not only to himself, but to those about him, because he believed and trusted God. "When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him" (Prov. 16:7).

IV. Blessing in Service (vv. 32, 33). The thing to do when the selfishness of others is about to cause strife is to go and "dig another well." If we will do that, we will find that God has been there ahead of us and prepared a rich flow of fresh water with which we may refresh and encourage ourselves.

Isaac's men said, "We have found water," and he then named the place Beersheba, which means "the well of the oath," referring undoubtedly to God's fulfilled promise to bless him. He had found the way of peace, fellowship and blessing, because he had gone God's way.

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 12.

The Golden Text is: "What man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God" (I Corinthians 2:11.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon is the following from the Bible: "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit being God, there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one infinite and therefore one God" (page 334.)

Calvary Baptist Church

(Fundamentalist)

Sunday School begins at ten A. M. with all classes studying the 2nd chapter of Leviticus—"The Meal Offering—Christ The Bread of Life." "Finding Christ in the Scriptures." is our Sunday School motto. Bring your Bible and study with us.

Preaching at eleven A. M. Sermon subject of pastor, "What God's People Need Most."

Night services: Young people meet at 7:45. Every young person of the Church, and any other who will come, are strongly urged to be present for a special service at this time.

Preaching and song service at 8:30 on the lawn next to the church. Sermon by the pastor will be, "The Powers That Be—Political Powers; Social Powers; Scientific Powers; Military Powers; Nature's Powers; and God's Powers (His Secret Weapon—What is it?)"

Don't forget the Saturday Night Street Services at 8:30 next to City Cafe. The individual who was drinking and tried to break up the service last Saturday night (and himself was broken up) acted a man, and hunted this preacher up Sunday to ask his forgiveness. My heart goes out to men like this, and I am going to help them. I expect to win him and others like him to my Lord. There is a lot more manhood and principle to a fellow like this than some self-important, self-wise, self-righteous individual who works like a snake in the grass to hinder God's work, because they don't have the nerve this individual had to come out in the open with his opposition. Come on down on the streets Saturday night. We are having lots of fun. We have a God who stands by His word and work.

You always have a warm-hearted welcome at Calvary Baptist Church, the Church where the Bible is preached as it is to men as they are.

Grace Lutheran Church

Every true Christian insists that the Bible, and the Bible alone, is the standard of truth, by which all statements of creed and all practices are to be measured and weighed.

Let infidels neer that we accept are religion of a book, let agnostics repeat the question of the father of lies. Yea, hath God said; let the enemies of God attack and ridicule it and call God a liar—it still remains the impregnable rock of Holy Scripture.

Remember, the grass withereth, and the flower thereof fallth away; but the Word of the Lord endureth forever. And this is the Word which by the Gospel is preached unto you.

Come, men and brethren, and hear the Word of life!

Grace Lutheran Women Have Interesting Meeting

The Women's Missionary Society of Grace Lutheran met Thursday afternoon, August 2, at the parsonage, 412 E. Main, with Paul Kaiser acting hostess.

The meeting was opened under the direction of Mrs. Rinefeldt with the singing the hymn "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and with prayer.

Print for Spring Spurs Bond Sales

Have you ever known so many things to happen in Austin in so short a space of time as recent developments there? Without commenting on the merits of the matters, there have been:

The placing of the University of Texas on probation—a kind of publicity all over the nation that our State could very well do without.

Game, Fish and Oyster department.

The protest from some local law enforcement officials against a policy of pardons and paroles which, it is asserted, in three years has reduced the number of men in prison from 7,000 to 3,900—while the rate of crime is climbing.

Texas needs leadership.

The magically short time in which the great Texas citrus industry has developed may be grasped in epitome, from a statement by H. Raymond Mills of Weslaco that along about 1922 the Valley had six or seven cars of grapefruit for shipment to the outside world so Houston was selected and a delegation went to that city to advertise the product. Jewelry and other stores would put a grapefruit in a show window and Houston became "citrus conscious" and the entire shipment was sold. Now, the Valley ships out about 30,000 cars of oranges and grapefruit a year.

Have you ever been polled in a Gallup Poll? I never have and it is a cherished ambition to lay been so interviewed, maybe even to touch him with the tip of a reverent finger.

A great woman recently passed away. Mrs. Clara Driscoll, Savior of the Alamo. When your columnist made a race for State office three years ago, the afternoon before the primary a letter arrived from Mrs. Driscoll saying, "I am voting for you," which was esteemed as a real honor. Many throughout Texas mourn the death of E. H. Whitehead, publisher of the Polk County Enterprise and for many years an outstanding executive in Chamber of Commerce circles.

with the West Texas, the South Texas, Temple and Conroe or energy, of great achievement, one who built for others, a true friend.

Mrs. Roy Murphree left Sunday for Bentonville, Ill., to join her husband who is stationed there.

POST-WAR FLYING IN YOUR HOME TOWN

By C. C. CAMPBELL, Member, Aviation Writers Association, Washington, D. C.

National Groups Aid in Airpark Planning

The day is not far off when a town that does not possess community landing facilities will be as much out of the American scene as would be a town without roads leading to other sections.

As personal flying and feeder airline transportation become a definite and important feature of our everyday lives, much of the community activity will be centered around the airpark. For this reason, progressive town officials look forward to building an air service installation that will be attractive, convenient,

At Washington, the Civil Aeronautics Administration has an airport division which will supply diagrams and working plans for air landing facilities of every description. Regional offices of the Civil Aeronautics Administration work closely with State aviation executives.

Various privately operated aviation organizations can provide much salient information. For instance, the National Aeronautic Association is helping communities to plan their air future and aiding them to gain their position on the "Main Line." More than 40 years of accumulated

The Joint Airport Users Conference, designed by the National Aeronautic Association as a discussion and study group, meets in Washington. Conference membership includes such organizations as the American Road Builders Association, the American Public Works Association, the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities, the American Association of Nurserymen, and many other technical and professional groups with an interest in airport planning, construction, and use.

and economic, as well as being capable of future expansion.

Naturally few citizens know much about the construction of an airpark, so seek expert advice. Fortunately, this is easily available. Both the Government and several non-profit aviation organizations are ready with information and advice from the early decision to have an airpark through all the stages of selecting a suitable site and arranging for runways and buildings.

The usual community will find that its State Capitol offers a wealth of information. Most states have aviation commissions and boards functioning for this very reason. State officials know the local conditions and geography, are aware of what the neighboring towns are planning, and usually have data on the number of feeder or area airlines contemplated and lists of prospective owners of personal planes.

SNAPPY FACTS about RUBBER

By drastic planning, production and supervision of current supplies, the equivalent of 900,000 tires was saved in one year in Britain.

By an arrangement of overlapping rubber lips, a zipper has been developed by B. F. Goodrich that effectively seals liquids, air and gases. Now being used in pressure-sealing doors for airplanes, waterproof supply kits and aviation fuel cells, its post-war uses are numerous.

Internal Reform Faces Britain, But Diplomacy to Remain Same; Allies Give Japs Peace Terms

With the war in the Pacific in the decisive stage, map shows disposition of Japanese forces throughout Asiatic theater.

GREAT BRITAIN: Future Outlook

Though profoundly affecting Great Britain's internal economy, the sweeping victory of the Laborites in the first general election since 1935 is not expected to appreciably alter the country's foreign policy based on maintenance of the empire to assure comparatively high living standards.

Laborites Attlee, Morrison, Bevin.

ture that retention of ties abroad, strength on the seas and control over vital bases undoubtedly will remain the substance of its foreign policy.

With Laborites ruling, concessions may be made to Leftist elements in Europe and elsewhere, but in overall policy, Great Britain's historic diplomacy will remain essentially British.

At home, however, tradition-bound old Britain may be in for a radical remodeling, with the Laborites' platform for nationalization of industry tempered by the amount of private management that will be tolerated.

SECURITY CHARTER: Fight Ahead

With only a scorching address by Senator Wheeler (Dem., Mont.) marring the even temper of the debate, the United Nations security charter headed for quick senate ratification, with indications that the big battle lies ahead when the upper chamber will consider the power of the U. S. delegate and the contribution of armed forces.

Declaring that like President Wilson the late Mr. Roosevelt had jeopardized the prospects for successful postwar collaboration by concessions to the major European powers, Wheeler himself foreshadowed an impending fight over details of U. S. participation. Though he would vote for ratification, he said, he would do so only on the strength of statements that the senate would later work out operational arrangements.

VET TAXES:

Servicemen have been exempted from paying several kinds of taxes by the action of state legislatures convening this year, the Federation of Tax Administrators reports.

Tax exemptions which servicemen have been granted include those for income, property, veterans loans and motor vehicles. In addition, one state has exempted estates of deceased servicemen from taxation and two states have abated unpaid taxes of persons dying in service.

PRICE CONTROL: To Stick

Despite the impending relaxation of price control over minor items, firm regulation will be maintained over principal products and services until supply balances demand so as to avert postwar inflation, OPA Administrator Chester Bowles declared.

In loosening up on price control on minor items, OPA will take action when the commodity or service is not essential; continued regulation involves difficulties out of proportion to the importance of the product, and no materials, facilities or manpower will be diverted from more necessary industries.

Because various manufacturers will be in the market for vast quantities of raw materials to fill orders, and civilian demand for essential goods, food and many services will far exceed supply, maintenance of price control in the immediate postwar period will be required for curbing runaway prices, Bowles said.

WAR CONTRACTS: Keep Cutting

With war production down 9 per cent from the peak level of March, the impact on the economy will grow as more reductions are made on actual work rather than on paper commitments. By the end of the year, munitions output is expected to drop 32 per cent below the March figure.

Whereas cancellations of paper commitments comprised 31 per cent of the cutbacks in April and 14 per cent in May, such reductions made up only 5 per cent of the total in June.

Reflecting cutbacks, aircraft production was down 10 per cent in June under May; ships, including maintenance and repair, down 5 per cent; guns and fire control, down 13 per cent; ammunition and bombs, down 16 per cent; combat and motor vehicles, down 8 per cent; communications and electronic equipment, down 5 per cent, and other material and supplies up 1 per cent.

Matador Up in Air

UNITED NATIONS: Relief Requests

Having already distributed $296,563,000 worth of relief to Greece, Italy, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, China and Albania, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA) has been asked for $700,000,000 of assistance by Russia.

At the same time, Deputy UNRRA Administrator Roy F. Hendrickson revealed that trucks constituted the No. 1 priority for relief shipments to facilitate the movement of European crops.

Under UNRRA regulations, uninvaded nations are supposed to contribute both toward the relief and administrative expenses of the project, with the invaded countries chipping in only for running the organization. Of the $1,862,788,348 of authorized contributions of participating nations, it was revealed, the U. S. share amounts to $1,350,000,000.

SUEZ TOLLS: U. S. Balks

With U. S. troops pouring through the Suez canal en route to the Pacific, and with toll payments already amounting to over $11,000,000, the government again pressed the British to absorb such charges under reverse lend-lease.

In pressing the British, American authorities pointed out that the U. S. defrays the cost of British ships passing through the Panama canal, with such payments already past the $9,000,000 mark.

Because the lend-lease act provides that a country can supply aid from purchases with its own money, the British say they are not obliged to pay the canal tolls, since they must be made in Egyptian currency. As it is, the British declare, they already owe Egypt large sums for wartime purchases.

TROOP TRAINING:

An intensive training program faces veterans returning to the United States from Europe before they are sent to the Pacific theater. The ground forces redeployment training program includes 44 hours of training a week, with lectures, group discussions, orientation courses and movies furnishing background for the course.

Training subjects include Japanese tactics and technique and identification of Japanese weapons, uniforms, insignia.

Newspaperman Staff:

Add Things I Never Knew Till Now: In 1812 a newspaperman named Nathaniel Raunsvelt was taken into custody for refusing to divulge the source of his information about the secret activities of some politicians. . . He was threatened and jailed but stood firm. . . Thus was established the principle of the reporter's duty to protect his news source. . . The first American newspaper was discontinued by authorities because it published some gossip about the family troubles of the King of France.

Heywood Brown was a skilled exponent of the rapier retort. He directed some of his most devastating arguments against Huey Long. . . He once accused Huey of "murmuring the truth." Long promptly shrieked for a retraction. . . Brown replied: "Huey says that he never murdered the truth. That's because he never gets near enough to do it any bodily harm."

Along similar lines there's the classic about the small town gazette which conducted a vigorous campaign against the town council. . . One of their yarns was headlined: "Half the Town Council Are Crooks." . . The outraged politicians demanded an apology, and the editor promised to run one. . . Next day the daily carried this headline: "Half the Town Council Are Not Crooks."

About a century ago the press was in its Mother Hubbard stage. . . Namsy-pamsyism was rampant. Editors took a long view of the news. This sidelight illustrates their ultra-fuddy-duddy attitude: One gazette front-paged an apology to its subscribers because a reporter had used the word "trousers" in a yarn when he should have used the word "unmentionables!"

Tiffs among newsboys nowadays belong in the taffy-pull category when compared with the journalistic slug-fests during the James Gordon Bennett era. . . Bennett was physically assaulted a half-dozen times by opposition editors who had been clawed by his barbed-wire editorials. . . But Bennett refused to dilute his potent attacks against competitors. He merely reported the brawls on his gazette's front page and reaped added circulation. . . The anti-Bennett journalistic barrage also blasted his family. The slanders finally drove his wife and children out of the country. They moved to Europe and made infrequent visits to America, while Bennett continued his free-swinging style of journalism.

Joseph Pulitzer's N. Y. World set journalistic standards few newspapers have equalled. Yet Pulitzer arrived in America a poor, friendless, semi-illiterate immigrant. He spent all his spare time educating himself. . . His enlightened opinions on the subject of newspapers are always worth absorbing. . . Frixample: "What is everybody's business is nobody's business—except the journalist's. It is his by adoption. But for his care every reform would be stillborn. He holds officials to their duties. He exposes secret schemes of plunder. He promotes every hopeful plan of progress. Without him public opinion would be shapeless and dumb. Our Republic and its press will rise or fall together. An able, disinterested, public-spirited press, with trained intelligence to know the right and courage to do it, can preserve that public virtue without which popular government is a sham and mockery."

Hollywood has depicted foreign correspondents as overgrown Rover Boys. . . It has created the impression that these newsboys have a glamorous occupation. Actually they have a difficult, perilous task with few rewards. . . O. D. Gallagher, a British correspondent, dodged bombs and bullets, and traveled 100,000 miles in three years for his news stories, which readers forget five minutes after reading.

This is the wisest counsel for columnists we have come across: "Get around town—find out what people are talking about. Give your readers a little daily jolt on something they are gabbing about at home, perhaps, and can gab about some more. Controversial stuff—so they can argue. The big idea is 'his: Make half of them happy and half of them sore.'"

Reporters aren't as hard-boiled as the legends would have you believe. . . When President Wilson made his grueling cross-country tour (in an effort to gain the support of Americans for his world peace plans) he was broken in body but not in spirit. . . Reporters who accompanied him were aware that he was sacrificing his life for his ideals. . . As Wilson made his final stirring plea for world peace, newsmen listening to his eloquent address openly wept.

'Extinct' Fish Found Alive; Exuded 20 Gallons of Oil

A live fish, belonging to the Coelacanth group which was thought to have been extinct for 50,000,000 years, was brought to the surface from a depth of 240 feet by a trawler off the coast of South Africa in December, 1938, says Collier's. During the three months that it was kept in a London laboratory awaiting identification, this 5-foot, 127-pound "fossil" exuded 20 gallons of oil through its scales.

With branches all over the World

THERE'S no business institution more thoroughly American than the General Store.

Yet, do you realize that America is not even self-sufficient enough to keep that General Store running efficiently and prosperously?

For instance, its delivery truck was made in America; but 300 products, from 56 countries, went into its making. The telephone over which the orders come is American-made. But 18 of the telephone's important materials came from outside the country.

The coffee, the tea, the sugar, the tin in the cans, the cocoa and chocolate. . . these and many more of the things the store buys and sells came from overseas. Take them away and business languishes, becomes more difficult to operate. Take them away, and the community's standard of living declines, life itself becomes less pleasant.

No country can build a fence and hide behind it these days. For lasting prosperity, as well as durable peace, we must cooperate with the rest of the world. Planes, radio, rockets, have made of this shrunken earth, one world. Cooperation means getting along even with peoples whose beliefs do not jibe with ours. It means contributing our share toward world order. It means making the effort necessary to understanding It means every citizen must accept the responsibility of making international cooperation work. You can do these things: First, get and keep yourself informed about the specific proposals for peace and international cooperation which are now before us. Second, interest your friends on these questions. Get them discussed in groups to which you belong. Third, write what you think to your Congressman and Senator. Declare your own self.

Texas war chest campaign, Don Weldon, publicity director of the United War Chest of Texas, announced today.

The highly dramatic 30-minute air show will be broadcast from 9:30 to 10 p. m. from a Dallas studio, and will reach every town and county in Texas by way of a great all-station network created especially for the program, Weldon said. Stations in all parts of the state are cooperating to make the war chest show one of the greatest ever staged over the Texas air waves, he said.

With music by the famed 32-piece Eighth Service Command Band, and a script that carries listeners to every part of the world where National War Fund services go "For Our Own and Our Allies," the broadcast will give Texans an authentic picture of the work being done by their war chest dollars.

Texans who contribute so generously to the war fund, through their local war chest organizations, should know just what their dollars are doing for our fighting men, the war chest announcement said. The all station broadcast will give that information in a highly dramatic and entertaining manner. We hope every Texan will hear the broadcast, and believe that every citizen of the Lone Star state will feel a great pride in the work made possible by Texas contributions to the National War Fund.

One of the greatest stories of the war concerns two friends from Texas. Here it is, as told in Time magazine.

A slender 19-year old marine reported for duty last week at the carpenter shop of Camp Pendleton, Calif. For one of the mightiest small fights in World War II, Pfc. Andrew Jackson (Duke) Carter, Jr. of Paducah, Texas, had only one mark to show; he had a deep red scar on his right hand.

In Mare Island Naval Hospital, 450 miles to the north, lay 22-year old Sgt. William George Harrell, Carter's best friend and doughty ally in the fight. Sgt. Harrell had no hands.

The night they made Marine history, Carter and Harrell were riflemen of Company A of the 5th Division's 28th Marines—the regiment that planted the flags on Mt. Suribachi. It was March 2, long after Suribachi had been secured, and the 28th had moved into the line along the steep ravines of northern Iwo.

Before dark the two men dug their foxhole. One slept an hour while the other watched; then they swapped.

About 5 A. M. Harrell was awakened by rifle fire near his ear. By the light of the yellow star shells he saw Carter firing at four Japs who had tried to filter through the line. They lay where they fell, ten feet away.

More Japs came. Harrell killed two with his Carbine, at 25 yards. Another Jap popped into the ravine below. Carter got him. Then his Garand jammed.

While Pfc. Carter ran back a few yards to get another rifle from the company command post, the enemy started tossing hand grenades. One landed inside the foxhole. Harrell tried to find it and throw it back. It blew off his left hand. His left thigh was broken, too, and he bled from many wounds made by fragments of the grenade.

As Carter came back into the foxhole, two Japs charged. Carter fired twice, but his new rifle jammed, too. He grabbed a Jap rifle, yesterday's souvenir, and impaled one of the attackers on its bayonet. The other Jap swung his saber, split Carter's hand. But Bill Harrell still had one hand left. He raised the carbine, shot the saber waving Jap.

Carter ran back to get another rifle. While he was gone two Japs got into the foxhole. Harrell had a little left. He pushed the grenade away from him with his remaining hand. The explosion took his hand off. It also killed the Japs.

When Duke Carter returned, the Japs had given up trying. As Bill Harrell was carried away he opened his eyes and muttered: Get that saber for me. Carter got it, sent it home to his friend's mother in Mercedes, Texas.

After daylight other marines counted the dead Japs around the foxhole. There were twelve.

Keep that story. Show it to your friends. And read it again in October, when a solicitor from your local war chest asks for your contribution to the National War Fund. If it doesn't make you double the size of your check nothing will!

Paying Parliament

How would you like to be elected to the board of governors of the finest country club you ever saw? Unless you are an exceptional person, you can't afford such a job. It uses a lot of time and there's no salary connected with it. Helping to boss a lovely palace in the middle of a big playground is fun (I imagine) but it's an expensive pastime.

People who habit such spots to enjoy their spare time are in the financial upper brackets. If they work at all, they do things they enjoy doing, or perhaps they do a few jobs nobody else can do as well. Such wealthy people are usually competent but they engage others to handle their routine work. This leisurely class is growing steadily smaller, but it still exists.

Work Well Done

A rich country club is proverbially well managed. It does not need to economize and cut corners, but that's only part of the story. It is governed by men of singular ability with spare time, who like their club and take personal interest in it. They have no better minds than men who hustle for business and use their wives for stenographers, but excellence thrives on calm deliberation.

By the way, Mrs. Harry S. Truman used to serve her husband as secretary when he was senator from Missouri. The President told it himself to the press while he was discussing the proposal to allow additional expense pay to representatives. It would be hard to find stronger testimony that members of the Congress of the United States need better compensation for the work they do.

No Time to Think

In every practical sense, members of Congress have been elected to the board of governors of the world's grandest country—not a country club. They represent important segments of people who have chosen them to help boss (not a playground) the most influential power under the shirring sun, and, until early last June, they got $10,000 a year—the pay of a junior executive.

One of America's ugliest habits is criticizing Congress for shortcomings that result directly from being poorly paid. No one man can study all the profound issues congressmen must vote on, and no $10,000 man can afford to pay experts to digest them. Often congressmen use precious hours doing chores for people back home because they can't afford enough competent assistants.

A Good Man's Job

Many solons labor intemperately. Rep. Doughton, who is past 81, rises regularly at 5:00 a. m., and starts his 12-hour day at 6:30; this after 34 years in the House and 14 years chairman of the Ways & Means Committee. What $100,000 official of industry claims to be worth more to his firm than Doughton is to his state and nation? American legislators are top-flight, except in pay.

Must we send rich men to Congress because poor men lack funds to finance the job, or can't afford to maintain an extra home in wealthy Washington? Do we want incompetents in Capitol Hill who stay there because they could never earn so much anywhere else? The answer is "no" of course; America can afford the best. Then congratulate your congressman on this increase and don't let him wait 20 years for the next one.

Ross L. Jacobs is expected to arrive home next week, August 15, after spending 2 years in the South Pacific. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jacobs of this city.

URGENT NOTICE

From The War Department—The Navy Department—The Federal Bureau of Investigation—The Office of Censorship. . . The great amount of military information reaching Japan from this country is a matter of grave concern. Case after case shows that much of this information is obtained from the American public—through careless talk. It is vital that every American understand the problem—You are urged to read and remember the information below.

WHAT CAN AN AMERICAN CIVILIAN DO TO HELP?

DON'T DISCUSS—

- (a) Location or movements of men, ships, and materials within, to, or from the Pacific-Asiatic area.
 - (b) New weapons.
 - (c) Military information gained in confidence.
- Don't try to beat censorship by using codes to learn the whereabouts of your serviceman. The rule that he shouldn't disclose his whereabouts is made for his protection. Remember the enemy wants to know more than you do because he wants to kill him. The wise thing is to keep in confidence any specific information learned from servicemen. Don't pass on rumors about military matters—they may have an element of truth which the enemy could spot immediately and put to use against us.—Even though you know the location of your serviceman, here is why you should not mention it to others, unless the location of his unit has been released for publication. . . .
- The Army and the Navy never release this information until they are certain that it can be of no value to the enemy. Don't trust your own judgment.

Word from Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wright, who were called to Palestine, Texas, ten days ago on account of illness of their daughter, Mrs. Thorval Addington, reports her improving slowly, and that they will remain with her another week.

Bobbie Woodley, Fireman 1st class, Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Woolley arrived home two weeks ago on a thirty day furlough. He will go to Oklahoma City August 15th for reassignment.

Mrs. Bill Stephens transacted business in Ardmore last Monday, spending the night with her daughter, Mrs. Billie Jefferies, at Duncan.

Mrs. Stofer and Joe Bill Dodson returned Tuesday from Oklahoma City where they visited Mrs. Stofer's brother, Dr. Boley and family.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lavender and daughter, Dana Beth visited the past week in the R. R. Lavender home.

Miss Temple Weaver, Washington, D. C., and Miss Nelma Weaver, Wichita, Kansas, spent their vacations at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Weaver. The family attended graduation exercises of another daughter, Mrs. Margene Weaver Smith, from Oklahoma A. & M.

Donald Coker S 2/c is home on a seven day furlough from San Diego Naval Base, where he has been in training since May 24th. At the end of his furlough he will take up a sixteen weeks course in Fire Control.

The news in this community, as in others is "Canning Peaches." Some families have as much as 400 quarts canned. They may be short of shortening this winter but they will have the fruit.

Another example of saving as well as by canning: Mrs. Joe Champion lost a fat hog this week by heat. She with aid of her mother, Mrs. John Coker, rendered the fat and obtained 8 gallons of fat which will be made up in soap. This should make sufficient soap for several washings.

Little Caroline King of Duncan is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hale. Mrs. Clifford King has been elected to teach again in the Devol School.

TO INCLUDE MAPS

Maps of the United States are to be included among the supplies paced aboard hospital pines by the American Red Cross. This inclusion results from a recent survey in which the wounded benefit transported to inland hospitals expressed their desire for this additional service.

Rubber Has Kept American Forces Moving to Victory

IN 1944, 711,000 TONS IN MILITARY AND ESSENTIAL CIVILIAN PRODUCTS. TIRES, MECHANICAL GOODS, HARD RUBBER, FOOTWEAR, HEELS & SOLES, COATED MATERIALS AND RUBBER SUNDRIES.

WASHINGTON—In a report to the nation on its multi-billion dollar contribution to the war effort, the rubber manufacturing industry disclosed recently the staggering quantities of rubber products that it has channeled to the armed forces. For example, it requires: Tires by the tens of millions to mount vast land, sea and amphibious assaults on enemy strongholds all over the globe. Ten million hard rubber battery cases to power our mechanized attacks. More than 60,000 pounds of rubber to keep each battleship in fighting trim. Forty-five million pairs of rubber boots and shoes to keep our armies on the march, entirely apart from 77 million pairs of rubber soles and 104 million pairs of rubber heels turned out for the troops alone in 1944. More than 30,000 other different rubber products to win the war against Germany and to press home the final attack against Japan. The story is set forth in a pictorial booklet, "We Had to Have Rubber," published by the Rubber Manufacturers Association. Statistics of astronomical proportions explain home-front shortages of rubber goods during the war years in terms of the tremendous mountains of supply that the rubber manufacturing industry has produced for the armed forces. "The record is a miracle of our synthetic rubber industry," said A. L. Viles, president of the Rubber Manufacturers Association, "The war could be lost out it. And within three years after Pearl Harbor, Japan's quest had choked off more than 90 per cent of the entire world's supply of natural rubber. "The story of America's synthetic rubber in great quantities packed months is a one. It is one of the epics of the war. "The story of the uses to which it, matches the great chapter of our synthetic rubber effort under great pressure a strange and difficult new material. Research and production telescoped into months of months and progress that have been expected under conditions in a decade or more. "The full measure of the try's achievement is clear, amazing production records brought together here to show the nation's absolute dependence on its wartime as well as peacetime economy," Mr. Viles said.

MOLECULES

DON'T WEAR OUT!

Gas refrigeration is based on the circulation of a simple, harmless fluid which is made up of tiny particles called molecules. The heat from the Magic Flame of natural gas applied to this fluid causes it to rise in vapor form and circulate through the refrigerator, producing cold. This circulation goes on steadily and endlessly, but the little molecules that make up the fluid never wear out.

Actually there is nothing so technical about this action. The gas refrigerator is built simply and with no moving parts, assuring you ALWAYS of silent, trouble-free, economical refrigeration service.

If you want the best in refrigeration, you will buy a gas refrigerator when they are available again.
