The convention of the National Fire Protection Association had some figures to face and some suggestions to make to reduce the loss by fire in the U.S. Almost onefourth of the time lost by strikes and industrial disputes, is lost in man-days of work due to fires - in one year. In one year, 25,000,000 man-days of work in one year. The loss in lives, 10,000 and in property, $560,000,000. When viewed in the light of money lost in property, it would buy enough lumber and timber to build two million five-room houses. The suggestion is to make Burkburnett realize fires in terms that would hit the pocketbook as well as the heart.

A GOOD CUP OF COFFEE

Some like it hot, some like it luke-warm, some like it to drip and others want it percolated. When a group of Chicago business men spend $10,000 to work out a good cup of coffee for the common man, that is news, but when they can find a handful of folks who agree on what IS a good cup of coffee, that's momentous. There is the coffee drinker who likes it black, those who take thick cream, like medicine when sweetened. Some like coffee dark and syrupy, some like chickory in it. There are those drinkers who want the pale variety that barely has a coffee flavor. If it isn't steaming hot it isn't good, or if it is past the lukewarm stage it is too hot to enjoy. There is the one who doesn'

Is a good cup of coffee something standard that can be named as such and please everyone. People don't agree on the make, grind or method. There is the advocate of silex, another of the drip brand, percolator or plain oldfashioned boiled coffee with the egg as accompaniment. How long to let cook, how much coffee per cup, whether a glass, aluminium, granite, pot, are points of argument. Getting Ready To House Birds

This is the time when many poultry raisers should be thinking about housing their birds for the fall and winter. Housing is an important task, one which requires plenty of preparation. If the job is done well, it means the poultry raiser has taken the first step toward achieving high winter egg production and toward giving his flock the protection it needs against diseas

Make Necessary Repairs

The first step in preparing for housing is to make whatever repairs are necessary in the laying house. Plugging up cracks and crevices, replacing broken windows, and nailing down loose boards will help eliminate drafts. Examine the roof for any necessary repairs. No dictator warps their interpretation of the news. No gagging censorship distorts the facts presented to their readers. This is the free American way ... the Texas way ... that leads to full public knowledge and freedom of opinion.

Yes, the newsman conserves the truth for posterity, helps the readers conserve their right to read and think as they please. So do other groups work to conserve all those things we cherish in Texas. So, too, does United Gas recognize its place in conserving Texas' resources.

Many Texas cities and towns receive natural gas service directly or indirectly through United Gas. Not until United and others built pipe line systems to link wells with markets did natural gas become of value to the producer or of importance to the people of Texas. Seek Conspiracy in High Prices; U.N. Warned on Greek Situation; Tax-Exempt Co-ops Are Studied Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Plane builder Howard Hughes sat aloof and alone amid a forest of chairs in a senate caucus room after the investigation of his aviation contracts had been abruptly and mysteriously called off. Hearings were scheduled to resume November 17.

CONSPIRACY:

Many Americans who have had to empty their pocketbooks to fill their larders probably have entertained, from time to time, the theory that were a conspiracy of some sort.

Now Attorney General Tom Clark has been struck with the same idea, and he is dead serious about itthreatening jail sentences for anyone who can be proved to have conspired to keep prices of food, clothing and shelter in the strato-

Assuming a "get tough" attitude, the justice department ordered a full scale investigation to determine whether there is any subterfuge behind high prices in the nation, as industry spokesmen hurried to point out that their records were unblemished and that they would welcome the uprooting of any existing evils.

In the meantime, the CIO full emplo*ment commission urged that congress be summoned into special session to restore price controls and roll back prices to where they were when OPA expired. Congressional committees were already looking into price increases in the East and

The justice department's anxiety and its proposed drive to combat monopolists was one of the strongest indications yet that the government is gravely concerned with the possibilities of uncontrollable inflation in the nation.

That divelopment followed a deadlock brought about two weeks previously then Russia vetoed an America plan to have a U. N. commission keep order along the northern frontier of Greece.

And it came on the heels of a report that a seven-nation subcommittee had been unsuccessful in finding a way to resolve the stalemated Russian and U. S. stands. Delivered to the security council by Herschel V. Johnson, deputy

CO-OP INQUIRY:

Two Questions

Although the public is not too well informed about it, one of the most important and flercely waged domestic post war battles is that being fought between private business and cooperative enterprises. Crux of the feud is the fact that cooperatives are tax-exempt, while private business is not. From this evolve two basic questions:

1. What effect does tax-exemption have upon growth of the cooperatives?

2. Is tax-exemption a factor of discrimination against private business?

A house small business subcommittee has begun an attempt to find the answers with an investigation The United States has put one of the cooperative community enmore iron in the international fire terprise at Greenbelt, Md. In the business groups have charged that the government has aided the cooperative in keeping private business out of the development area.

This hearing, as well as others on the west coast, is being conducted by Rep. B. Walter Riehlman (Rep., N: Y.) as acting chairman of the subcommittee.

In view of the theory that taxes will remain high, compared with the past, for at least 50 years, according to economists, the taxexemption feature of co-ops' existence will grow increasingly impor-

DOUBLE TALK:

Inter-American

Indications at the outset were that the 21-nation inter-American tion. The squalid conditions, the inconference at Rio de Janeiro, offiworking out a permanent mutual defense treaty among American republics, might find itself more concerned with economic aid discus-

U. S. policy, as guided by Secretary of State Marshall, will attempt to hold down to a minimum any Latin American hopes for United States loans. The North American delegation was expected, instead, to stress the fact that U. S. capital investments in South America are more available and healthier than outright loans.

Although some South American governments are slowly trending bor (Eccles, 5:12). toward that same idea, public opinion is lagging, particularly because of Communist and nationalist-inspired anti-U. S. propaganda,

In the meantime, other of the republics were thinking in terms of a 'little Marshall plan' for American aid to Latin America.

All in all, it looked like another exciting diplomatic period.

WAGES:

Building Trades

Making the biggest jump in any single 12-month period since 1920, wages of union workers in the building trades rose 15 per cent in the past year, according to a report by the bureau of labor statistics.

That increase worked out to about 25 cents an hour for nearly 500,000 workers in seven major construction crafts, with most of the wage controls were removed.

Work Is Good

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 31— Proverbs 6:6-11; 18:9; 24:30-32; Ecclesi-

MEMORY SELECTION — Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.—Ecclesiastes 9:10.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copy-righted by International Council of Re-ligious Education; used by permission.

By WILLIAM CULBERTSON, D. D.

WISE indeed is that legislator who understands that there are two extremes to be avoided in dealing with the problems of the working man. The one extreme is that heartless, cruel exploitation of labor which grinds men to powder, which deals with individuals as chattel. The other extreme is to provide such an amount of free time for the individual that both his personal life and economic prosperity are in danger.

Work is good. It is well to keep in mind that before the fall man was commanded to tend the garden. Perhaps to some of us that command is not a command to work, because the evidences of sin in a cursed creation were not present!

Life without purpose, life without activity for good, would be vain and actually intolerable.

I. An Illustration of Prudence and a Warning Against Indolence (Prov. 6:6-11; 18:9).

scripture states, have no overseer, ters, "daisy" wreath. and yet they are diligent in providing for the time of need.

It would seem as though they are constantly active in caring for present and future needs. In Palestine, where they may be active throughout the year, there is still the need of stored provisions for the rainy season, and so it is true that the ant gathers food in the harvest for future need.

Anyone who is tempted to be indolent would be wise to consider the ways of the ant, and to manifest as much concern for present and future needs.

The sluggard is described as one asleep, as one who is never satisfied, but constantly wants more slumber. Such folding of the hands. such indolence, brings poverty, and that poverty comes as a robber.

Indolence is not mere passivity. The man who fails to work is not guilty of omitting to do what he should do, but he is actually a robber of society. There is an active element involved in indolence; not only has the man failed to contribute, but, in addition, the good that he might have done has remained undone. The sluggard is therefore a brother to the destroyer (Prov. 18:9)

II. An Illustration of Indolence and a Lesson in Prudence (Prov. 24:30-

T IS striking that the Word of God presents the ant as the illustration of prudence, but when it comes to an illustration of indolence it directs our attention to man.

The illustration is that of the man who is lazy, who is void of understanding. The Preacher visits him. Going to his field and vineyard, he finds it grown over with thorns, covered with vetches, and the stone wall broken down.

Instead of citing the particular lessons learned, the Preacher simply observes that he looked on, thought deeply, and received instruction. Perhaps the best antidote to laziness is to see it in its inacability to cope with emergencies cially called for the purpose of that we normally see in the life of the man who wants only ease are sufficient to warn most of us against Entirely apart from the dignity of labor, the homely recompense of being able to meet our own needs is the compensation of selfrespect that initiative and resourcefulness bring. May we have a higher goal as we labor than merely providing for our own needs, though this is certainly important. Beyond it, of course, is the ability to help others also (cf. Eph. 4:28).

III. A God-Given Reward for La-

NE of the great compensations of faithful labor is sleep. This passage speaks of the sleep of the laboring man as sweet. When as Christians we have fulfilled our duty, when we have given an honest day's work, the recompense of the Lord is surcease from labor.

The great stress of the Word of God is similarly on the man in authority doing that which is right for these who labor under him, and on the laborer, to be worthy of his hire. Thus does the Bible guarantee a cordial and happy relationship between employer and employee. When either party departs from biblical standards, chaos results.

Here is a plan as up-to-date as the present hour, as workable as the most precise mechanical device ever made. All that is necessary is that the Word of God be followed. Released by Western Newspaper Union.
