Delinquent Juveniles or Adults?

Several cases of Juvenile Delinquency have been reported and investigated in the past few days in the Burkburnett area. When such reports are made, the police are inclined to shrug the matter off with the thought that they are just bad children.

We don't know much about the why of human actions or reactions. Our only claim to knowledge on the subject is the fact that we belong to the human race. We do not believe that children are naturally good or bad. As tiny tots they copy after and imitate the people. From such reasoning it follows that delinquent children have been influenced by good adults and delinquent children have been influenced by delinquent adults.

Too many times we hold that delinquent children come from delinquent homes and that the parents are solely responsible for the children. In a broader view that is not entirely correct. Adults have a responsibility to children, regardless of whether they are to be the parents or not. Sooner or later delinquent children will become the responsibility of the community other than their parents if corrective measures are not taken in time.

Kind, friendly, understanding counsel weighs heavily on children and adults alike. Human nature is not changed, nor is it easily fooled. Sincere help is better than criticism. Let's assume our responsibility by working at the problem from a different angle. A greater interest in children by all adults will pay dividends.

"Calcutta" Ladd's New Thrill-Film

In an unusual and exciting setting, with his enemies more sinister and much deadlier than ever before, Alan Ladd is, in advance notices say, at his fighting best in his latest "love 'em, slub 'em" thriller for Paramount, Calcutta. Co-starring Gail Russell, for romance, and William Bendix, for laughs, the film arrives next Sunday at the Palace Theatre. "Calcutta" places Ladd in India where he finds murder added to that country's much vaunted lures of amour and mystery. Pitted against the unerring accuracy and telling effect of his bullets and fists are the devious methods of the Orient, such as the first murderer weapon, a strangler's noose. By this method, Ladd's buddy is done in, and Alan and Bendix go into action to find the killer.

They are a pair of adventurous devil-may-care pilots who fly the dangerous "hump" from Calcutta to China. John Whitney, a pugnacious pilot, makes up the third of this happy, scrappy trio, and when he suddenly announces his impending marriage to Gail Russell, Ladd and Bendix are flabbergasted. On the eve of the wedding, however, death overtakes Whitney, who is found strangled. His two buddies, impatient with slow police methods, set out after his murderer. They become involved with jewel smugglers, a suave night club owner, an insidious looking Indian merchant, and Ladd, in between scraps, romances with the lovely Miss Russell, even though he suspects her. Before the unpredictable and stirring climax is unfolded, there are more murders and many thrill packed episodes.

Burk Boys Play On Tech Team

Coach Dell Morgan and his aides at Texas Tech are depending considerably on two Burkburnett lads, Freddie Brown and Joe Bob Tyler, to bring success to the Red Raider football team of 1947.

Brown quarterbacked the 1943 Texas Tech team and is a candidate for a starting position again this fall, after 27 months in the Army. His passing to Huberto, Bechtol, later All-American at Texas as a Naval assignee, placed the combination fifth among the nation's ground gainers in 1943.

Brown lettered at Cameron Junior College in Oklahoma in 1941 and 1942, shifting to Tech the following season. He was a star athlete at Burkburnett high school, winning four letters in football, three in basketball and three in track.

Tyler is a newcomer to the Red Raider squad this fall, but is making a battle for a starting guard post. He is a 1942 graduate of Burkburnett high, where he won four football letters as a lineman. He lettered at Northeast Junior College, Monroe, La., in 1942, served three years in the Army, and returned to letter at Northeast in 1946. He is rated as a tough lineman at Tech.

Rev. Herman Schelter Going to Cypress

Rev. Herman Schelter, pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church in Burkburnett, announced this week that he had received and accepted a call to the Trinity and St. Johns Congregation in Cypress, Texas.

He will preach his last sermon in Burkburnett this Sunday.

Mary Ruth Clement had as her week-end guests Miss Dovie Pogue of Snyder, Texas and Messrs. Charles McCook and John Sherwood of Abilene.

Firemen were present from Vernon, Electra, Burkburnett, Wichita Falls, Sheppard Field, Olney, Bowie, Archer City, Megargel, Seymour and Nocona.

Seymour won the attendance contest which was held at three o'clock with 11 men present. Burk was second with 9.

Dick Phillips of Wichita Falls was elected president to succeed Clark Gresham of Burkburnett.

The convention was climaxed with a steak supper served by the Electra Chuck Wagon Gang, followed by entertainment at the Red Roof.

WE REPEAT

Perhaps we stress too frequently to Burkburnett housewives, the importance of saving used kitchen fats. One is so informed by means of the press and radio of the continued need. There is still a shortage, in this country. When the hue and cry of war's demands has died down, we are apt to become careless and often thoughtless. It is a human trait that adds to national waste. We should have learned the lesson of conservation, but if we have forgotten this is a reminder that we do well to incorporate thrift in our daily living. Turn in your kitchen fats to protect yourself.

CONSTITUTION DAY

On September 17, 1787, delegates of the then twelve states of this country, signed the blueprint of our American way. The charter that recognized the cherished rights of Americans, was named the Constitution of the U. S. Powers had threatened our liberties, menaced our future. This proclamation was to protect and safe guard a liberty-loving people.

It was not without much wrangling and opposing, that the Constitution became an American doctrine. Four months they did as happens today in committee meetings, battling for certain principles, trading over opinions, arguing for special beliefs. Such is the way of the formation of political structures. It is necessary to hear all voices to complete with any success, such an undertaking. It was for the essential good of a whole nation. It is natural there of meat and dozens of high-priced eggs, instead of just an old hen with a new coat of feathers.

4. There is less danger of disease outbreaks and, therefore, lower mortality among all-pullet flocks.

Tests have shown that pullets lay from 20 to 30 percent more eggs annually than hens. A U. S. Department of Agriculture test showed that uncultured Leghorn pullets laid from 178 to 208 eggs in a year, whereas selected Leghorn hens laid 141 to 187. There have been other tests to substantiate the findings in the USDA experiments.

High Price Eggs

Remember that when egg prices are highest in fall and early winter, pullet flocks are just reaching a high production rate while hens are molting or taking a rest. No poultry raiser likes to spend money on valuable feed for hens which aren't producing.

Hens often carry such diseases as tuberculosis, cholera, pullorum and coryza — another good reason for raising pullets separately from older birds. Mortality rates in all-pullet flocks run from three to five per cent lower than in mixed flocks.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Buzbee had as their guests over the labor day week-end; Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Brumage and daughter of Dallas; also Mrs. G. E. Kress and daughters of Canton, Miss. Phyllis and Joan Kress are spending 2 weeks with their grandparents.

Raymond Beavers left Sunday night for Hobbs, New Mexico, where he is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Porter of Richmond, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Durrett of Ft. Worth, have been visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Bazell.

ALL-PULLET FLOCKS MORE PROFITABLE

When considered from every angle, there can be little doubt that an all-pullet flock is more profitable than one consisting of birds of various ages. The fact that more and more poultrymen are turning to the all-pullet idea is based on several important factors:

The Advantages

1. Pullets lay more eggs over a year's time than hens.
2. Pullets lay more eggs when eggs are at the highest price level—in the fall and winter.
3. The cost of feeding a pullet for the 6-month growing period is about the same as the cost of feeding a hen during her 4-month molt — and at the end of the growing months, you have a pullet representing four pounds

Ceremony Unites Well Known Pair

An impressive wedding ceremony was read Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to unite Miss Betty Lou Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams and Billie Bob Burns, in marriage. The groom is the son of Mrs. Joe Burns. The nuptial rites were read at the home of the bride's parents with Rev. T. H. Minga, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiating.

The nuptial setting was decorated with arrangements of pink roses and greenery. Musical recordings provided the traditional wedding march.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, James H. Williams, was most attractive in a smart aqua blue crepe frock. She carried a White Bible topped with a bouquet of gardenias.

Miss Bertie Williamson was maid of honor for the bride, and wore a grey velvet frock. She completed her ensemble with a corsage of gardenias. Junior Kirkpatrick attended the groom as best man.

Following the wedding, the couple was honored with an informal reception. The refreshment table, covered with a lace cloth was centered with an arrangement of pink roses. Mrs. Scottie Grizzle presided at the crystal punch bowl, and Miss Lou Ann Grady at the brides cake, a beautiful three-tiered creation. Wedding and reception guests were registered in the bride's book, where Miss Elsie Maud Williams presided.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns left for their wedding trip immediately following the reception. The bride chose to travel in a black suit with black accessories. They plan to establish residence on West 3rd St. in Burkburnett.

The bride is a graduate of the local high school, and is employed as a secretary for the Wolfson Pipe & Supply of Wichita Falls. The groom graduated from the Randlett High School and has been employed by the Riley Machine Works since his discharge from the U. S. Army.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Shots at the beach are summer favorites. Your camera-wise shooter, however, is careful to keep grains of sand from getting in his camera.

SUMMER CAMERA CARE

THERE'S probably no handier place to store a camera when motoring than in the glove compartment of your car. And no worse place either. For on these warm summer days a glove compartment will grow hot. It may grow so hot, in fact, that both your film and camera are affected.

A far better idea is to keep your camera on the seat beside you. And keep it in its case. A case is not just a neat, nice looking device in which a camera is placed. It leaves your hands free when carrying your camera, and it serves to protect it from dust.

Keeping a camera clean is important in any season of the year. But it's particularly important in the summer time, when dust is in the air. So when you start on a weekend trip, it's a good idea to clean your lens with a piece of lens tissue or a bit of soft, clean linen. A drop or two of a reliable lens cleaner will cut any greasy dirt.

To clean the inside of your camera, use a soft camel's hair brush. And once your camera has been cleaned, try to keep it that way. As mentioned, a case will help a lot and so will a bit of everyday common sense. Don't, for example, go to the beach and drop your camera on the sand while you swim. That's just inviting trouble. If you must leave your camera on the beach leave it in its case and set it on a towel or in a picnic basket—not where sand will reach it.

A bit of care of this sort will help insure you better summer pictures. So will another simple camera rule. This is: Always have your exposed film developed as quickly as possible after shooting. For while pictures have sometimes been obtained from films exposed years before development, it's best to have your films processed promptly.

FARM FACTS WORTH KNOWING

Q. When a few chickens in a broiler plant are suspected of having Newcastle disease, what steps should be taken to prevent spread of the disease?

A. Any chickens suspected of having Newcastle disease should be kept in strict isolation until an accurate laboratory diagnosis can be obtained. In a broiler plant, the plan to follow is relatively simple:

1. Quarantine.
2. Finish out the birds on the premises and then depopulate completely.
3. Thoroughly clean and disinfect the premises.

Q. Is it safe to keep rabbits that have recovered from snuffles in breeding stock?

A. No. Rabbits that have recovered from snuffles are likely to be carriers and may be a constant source of infection to other rabbits. It's a good idea to dispose of them and start with clean breeding stock.

Q. Will chicks hatched after May 1 make satisfactory replacements for a laying flock?

A. Yes. At the Research Farm of the Ralston Purina Company pullets are grown out each month in the year and on all types of feeding programs. These tests show that it is possible to grow out pullets for replacements any time during the year and by so doing have ready-to-lay pullets at any season to replace hens which are culled or die.

Q. What qualities should be considered in selecting brood sows?

A. Select only those sows that:

1. Are of desirable type and conformation.
2. Are from large litters that produce rapidly growing pigs.
3. Have broody underlines, with 12 to 14 widely and evenly spaced normal teats.
4. Have no blind teats.
5. Are feminine or maternally in appearance and have quiet and even dispositions.

Story With a Moral

One time there was a young man, the younger son of a well-to-do farmer. Times were good, prices were high. It was a period of prosperity for everybody. Apparently, spending had become a habit with most of the folks in that community. At any rate, this son saw that others were having a good time spending money. Since everybody's doing it, he thought, why shouldn't I enjoy myself?

So this fine young man who had all the opportunities one could wish for, and a brilliant future in sight, kept after his father until one day "the old man settled him off" with a good deal of money. This country boy then went to town and set out to have himself a better time than he had ever had before. He spent more money than he had ever spent before. Friends were numerous. Playboy super-de luxe, this young man had swarms of lady friends. But they required money.

He Achieved Wisdom
Now, you are wondering, if you have read this far, whether this misguided and pampered lad ever quit spending. He did. He quit spending when a depression set in, for that was the time when he found himself unable to obtain any more money. At this point, our broken-down playboy began to think. Wisdom was forced upon him and he learned the hard way. He found he couldn't even buy a sandwich, and panhandling was out of the question. Rather than starve, he took a farm job feeding pigs.

If this lad had done what some of our so-called statesmen advocate, he would have continued to borrow and spend. But having thought the matter through, he went to work, even though his hunger was scarcely outdone by that of the pigs he was sent to feed. He had spent all, and he was in want. You may read the rest of this story in Luke 15, for it is the story of the Prodigal Son who finally came to his senses.

No Money Mill
Must we as a nation spend all that we have before we come to our senses, like the Prodigal Son? With signs of depression approaching, we continue to spend and spend, apparently from habit. Doing little or nothing about our monstrous national debt of $260,000,000,000, we continue to look around trying to find things for which to appropriate money.

It is easy to justify any and every expenditure. Constituents in each and every community represented by Senator Bloake and Congressman Doake can spout a whole book of reasons why this or that pet project must go through. Folks are inclined to think that the money for the whole thing is a gift, just because they don't see where it comes from. But the founding fathers did not leave at Washington a mill which flows out perpetual dollars.

Day of Reckoning

Maybe it's not a nice thought, but you can't keep on spending money without knowing where it's coming from. This was a fact the Prodigal Son discovered. Neither can you safely manufacture currency to carry through your spending projects. Either course will soon lead to dire results. A day of reckoning will come to a country that spends all it has, just as it did to the Prodigal Son. Let us have more wisdom than the Prodigal, who found that he could repent only when hard times struck him.

Our spending, as opposed to saving, has created a situation that calls for the best brand of intelligent citizenship. It is already time to go to work. Without being penny wise and pound foolish, we ought to adopt fiscal policies that will cut down our growing debt. There's no prospect of doing this unless we do it while times are good.

Farm Bureau Notes Of The Week

The groundwork for the fall work of Wichita County Farm Bureau was laid at an important meeting of the directors and other officials in the office of G. R. McNiel last week-end when Austin A. Crownover of the state office, Waco and Loys Barbour, state director of sales in the insurance company, were present in an advisory capacity. C. A. Morgan of Burkburnett, county president, directed the business session.

Organization work is being emphasized in October with T. J. Pace as county chairman of the project and W. B. Downing of Wichita Falls, Emil Schroeder of Burkburnett, George Lewis of Iowa Park, and Ed Foster of Electra as precinct captains. The men from each precinct will be designated by the captains as assistants and will be expected to attend the district meeting in Henrietta in October. A good report from Wichita County is anticipated for the state meeting in Amarillo in November.

ATTEND WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Clement returned home recently from Houston, Texas, where they attended the wedding of Howard's brother, Gordon, to Miss Ann Iden. The bride and groom returned to Burkburnett, where they visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clement before going to Tucumcari, New Mexico, where Gordon will be minister of the Church of Christ.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Nolen spent a few days last week in Sulphur Springs, Texas.

People are always writing, phoning or dropping by to ask advice about a book they are planning to write. Almost without exception, they are seeking a short cut, a magic formula whereby one can get ahead in writing. Their faces fall when they are told that the only recipe is hard work, which is the recipe in just about any other field.

Hard work plus patience. For example, "Cub Reporter" is based on experience and observations of their chronicler while breaking into the newspaper game back in 1916, and the two years which followed.

The idea of writing the book came about 1927. My mother had written a letter from Memphis, Tenn., and enclosed clippings telling of the death of C. P. J. Mooney, editor of the Commercial Appeal.

After the work of getting out the Eastland Daily Oil Belt News was done, I sat at my desk, slowly read the clippings and then mused as twilight descended. The determination came to write a book about Mr. Mooney, my first editor, and the glorious crew of reporters of the old C. A.

Years went by. Slowly, subconsciously, the project took form.

Frequently, I thought of the undertaking but it had not matured. This, like the aging of certain beverages in the wood, is a process that can not be hastened. There is no substitute for time, its sifting, its mellowing, its hal- lowing.

One day, a pen was dipped into the ink and the writing began. The slower method of pen- ink gave a thought, a scene, an individual the full chance to unfold; it is the details which make a man or an event come to life on paper.

Nearly 50,000 words in ink— then revision, then typing it off on the machine, with changes of words, adding of touches as the task went along — and task it was, slow and hard.

And so Cub Reporter was written — 30 years after the happen- ings had taken place, 26 years after the idea of writing the book was born.

The whole project was done without a thought of whether the book would sell a single copy. It was something I had to do — something I wanted to do, a tribute to the memory of a great man, a salute to the forever per- ished days of glorious youth.

LIGHT THE WAY TO BETTER GRADES

Now that students are starting another school term, it is vitally important that they have enough of the right kind of light for easy seeing.

All lamps used by children for home study should have at least a 100-watt bulb—150-watts in many cases—to provide good light to make their home- work easier and to prevent undue eyestrain. Lamp shades, too, are important—they should be wide enough to spread the light evenly and keep glaring, unshaded light from striking the eyes.

Four out of every 10 youths leave school for lack of money. Most of them want—and need—all the education they can get.

Now, Let's See... Where Shall I Go to College?

WHERE I go to College will be my biggest problem about 15 years from now—not whether I go, but where.

You see, Daddy and Mother have already determined that I am going. They assured that with a Southwestern Life Educational Policy. It guarantees that I'll get to finish High School, as far as money is concerned, and then go on to a College of my choice.

It provides funds for my College tuition; for my College books; for my clothing, room, food, and incidental expenses, too. Every bit of that is taken care of in my Southwestern Life Educational Policy. So I don't have to worry about that. All I have to worry about is where I shall go to College...

College training prepares a boy or girl to think... equips them with the know-how they will need in business, in a profession, or in the home... gives them a chance in the future. Through Southwestern Life Insurance, you can guarantee your young- ster a real opportunity in life. Whatever your income, there's a Southwestern Life plan to fit your needs. Big engines... long trains mean lower cost to you

But union leaders want "half-trains"—double crews.

Big locomotives are built to do a big job in the big country which is America—a big job in peacetime as in wartime. They are built to pull long trains.

Long freight trains can handle more goods at less cost—to you—than short trains.

Long trains mean fewer trains—fewer chances for accidents—fewer interrup- tions to traffic.

But a few railroad union leaders op- pose long trains—among their current 44 demands for changes in rules is one limit- ing the length of freight trains to 57 aver- age cars. Why do they demand this?

For "safety," they say. But is it? Government figures show definitely that long trains mean greater safety to railroad employees and public alike.

Then, if safety is not the real reason—what is the reason behind this demand? It is to make more jobs which are needed—to get more pay! This "make work" would be sheer waste. Think of modern locomotives using only half the power.

For this waste, you—the public—would have to pay. Higher costs mean a lower standard of living for everybody. No- body wants that!

Here's the record...

In the quarter century... 1921-1946...

Average length of freight trains has gone up.....	39%
Average speed of freight trains has gone up..	39%
The rate of injuries to railroad employes has gone down.....	60%
Average wages paid railroad workers have gone up.....	84%
Price of railroad materials and supplies has gone up.....	58%
Railroad taxes have gone up.....	76%
But the average charge by railroads for hauling a ton of freight one mile has gone down.....	23%

Q. Will treating alfalfa with DDT greatly increase the seed yield?

A. Yes, DDT is effective against alfalfa weevil and Lygus bug, and control of them will greatly increase the seed yield. The Wyoming agricultural extension service announced the following results from a plot treated with a 10% solution of DDT compared to an untreated or check plot:

	No. 1 Seed	No. 2 Seed
Yield per acre of treated plot . . .	186.0 lbs.	14.0 lbs.
Yield per acre of untreated plot . . .	86.6 lbs.	14.5 lbs.

Q. How much feed does it take to produce a dozen eggs?

A. This will vary with annual egg production, and birds bred for high egg production will naturally require less feed per dozen eggs than low producing breeds. Figures from a New York egg laying contest for 1945-46 give the following averages on the amount of feed required to produce a dozen eggs:

Leghorns	5.5 lbs.
R. I. Reds	5.8 lbs.
New Hampshire	6.7 lbs.
Barred Rocks	6.9 lbs.

Q. Is it good practice to wean young rabbits at six weeks of age?

A. Yes. At the Ralston Purina Research Rabbitry young rabbits are taken from the doe at six weeks of age. Weaning young at this age has proved entirely satisfactory. The does are bred 21 days after kindling and are in condition to kindle again about 10 days after the previous litter is weaned. This practice results in more young rabbits per year, more pounds of meat, and less cost per pound.

Q. Has anything been done to control sex of calves from cows bred by artificial insemination?

A. Many experiments have been made on this, but so far all have proved a failure. A study of the sex ratio of cattle from 15,579 births showed that the number of males and females was almost equal.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

There's a trick to focusing for shots of this type which requires your focus to be set for the total distance from camera to mirror to subject.

MIRRORED SHOTS

A FRIEND of mine came upon today's snapshot not long ago and wanted to know how the picture was taken. "I've tried to take similar pictures," he said, "and never had very much luck. Most of them have turned out badly, whether taken indoors with a mirrored reflection or outdoors with someone reflected in a pool."

His trouble, we discovered, has been in focusing. For there's a trick to focusing for a picture of this sort. Instead of focusing on the mirror, it's necessary to focus for the total distance from camera to mirror and from mirror to subject.

For instance, if the camera-to-mirror distance is seven feet and the mirror-to-subject distance two feet, the camera should be focused for the total of nine feet.

The farther your subject is from the mirror, the more important this becomes. On the other hand, where your subject is close—as is the little girl in today's illustration—there's another point to remember. This is that you will want both the subject and the reflection in sharp focus. And to do this, you need a small lens aperture which gives good range of sharpness.

As an example, in making this picture the over-all distance from camera to mirror to subject was nine feet. However, the girl's left shoulder was only about five feet from the camera. So a small lens aperture was used to insure sharp focus everywhere between five feet and nine feet.

Another thing to remember in pictures of this type is to be sure that the camera and the photographer are not reflected in the mirror—unless you wish them there. This can be done by selecting your camera angle carefully. And you will want to place your light equally carefully so they, too, are not reflected in the glass.

Methodist Church

T. Herbert Minga, Pastor

Sunday School, 9:45. Morning Worship, 11. Evening Service, 7:30.

Our church is launching a campaign to increase its Sunday School attendance by fifty per cent. What is the reason for this campaign? Is it just to make a big show? It is definitely not our purpose to put on a big campaign that will increase our attendance for a few weeks and then make a report that we have reached our goal. Our main purpose is to help save our homes through Christian Education.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation says that there are today more arrests of 21 year olds than arrests of persons from any other age-group in our population.

We have read in our local paper an account of the number of juvenile delinquents in our own community. What are we doing to help solve this great problem? If your home is a Christian home and you are sending your child to school that child is associated with a lot of children who are juvenile delinquents. These children are not bad children at heart, they just haven't had a chance. Let us give them a chance by showing our interest in them.

HAS YOUR HOME ACCEPTED THE BACKING OF THE CHURCH as you make every effort to keep your young people off streets and out of mischief and to guide them into the good life? THE SUNDAY SCHOOL WILL HELP.

E. L. Blum and wife have returned home after spending the latter part of the summer on a Ranch West of Dumas.

FARM FACTS WORTH KNOWING

Q. Shouldn't calves vaccinated for Bang's disease stop reacting to the test?

A. About 5% of the calves vaccinated do not stop reacting. These should not be bred, and if they continue to react until they are 24 months of age, they should be considered actively infected and sold for slaughter.

Q. Just how effective is 2,4-D as a weed killer? Does it increase the yield per acre to any appreciable extent?

A. According to a carefully controlled experiment made at the Research Farm of the Ralston Purina Company recently, there was an increase of 2.8 tons of grass per acre in seven weeks as a result of pasture weed control with 2,4-D spray. Before the test, samples of weeds and grasses were taken from all pasture to be tested. Weeds and grasses when weighed separately averaged 63% weeds and 37% grasses on all plots. Seven weeks after the treatment of some of the plots with Purina Weed Killer, samples were taken again with the result that untreated plots averaged 52% weeds and 48% grasses while plots treated with 2,4-D Weed Killer averaged 97% grasses and only 3% weeds. The weeds involved were predominantly dandelions, chickweed, henbit, dock and plantain. The grasses were timothy, red top, blue grass and lespedeza.

Q. If sheep are sprayed with DDT, will the fleeces have to be sprayed again in the warehouse to keep the moths out?

A. No. Dr. Leonard Haseman of the University of Missouri has advocated dipping the sheep instead of spraying the bales of wool in warehouses. By dipping the sheep, Dr. Haseman says that the fleeces are not only protected against moths for as long as two years, but the sheep are protected against lice and ticks for some time.

Q. Which breed of chickens holds the record for egg production in standard egg laying contests?

A. The all time record was made in 1943 by a Rhode Island Red which laid 351 eggs.

A Present Threat

America today needs thinkers if any nation ever did. We not only have the responsibility of the world, but we have a debt of $2,000 for every man, woman, and child. This means a debt of $8,000 for a family of four. Just to pay the interest on that debt takes more federal income than the nation ever raised from taxes in any year before the war. We have, also, the added costs of war pensions and expenditures for veterans.

Moreover, we must keep strong armed forces as a hope of not soon being in another war. Again and again we shall be called upon for relief and assistance to foreign countries. The $400,000,000 for Greece and Turkey is only a beginning. The total demand over the next two years may run as much as $3,000,000,000 above all present obligations. Demand is everywhere, at home and abroad.

Essentials to Health. To meet all of these heavy demands we must have a healthy economy. This is not optional. It is a must. President Truman, Mr. Bernard Baruch, and others are calling for some of the essentials to a healthy economy. They have recently stressed longer hours, and higher productivity on the part of labor; lower profits and lower prices on the part of industry; and maximum production on the part of agriculture. These are good. They are essential, and I endorse all of them.

But one equally important item is being overlooked. It is so important, that I believe unless corrected properly it will act as a brake on our economy and prevent the very prosperity we all crave. I refer to taxes on incomes in the high brackets. The contention that we can keep the present high tax rate on big incomes and maintain a healthy economy is in my opinion fallacious.

Desire to Venture. A dynamic economy like ours requires that a lot of men each year must not only dream dreams of achievement, but that they actually must venture into business in an effort to satisfy American consumers. This is an obligation upon men who have large amounts of capital. But men in the high brackets now are being taxed up to 85 per cent of their net income. The take from income is so great as to threaten their willingness to risk. A man who could keep only 15 per cent of any additional income would not likely find it advisable to undergo the required risk necessary to increase his income.
