NOTHING GAINED

We might not hold with Henry Wallace's Communistic leaning, are deeply opposed to his theories for the common good, but we wonder what is gained by throwing eggs and tomatoes at him as he gives an address, rides through city streets. Many a cause, an unworthy one at that, is strengthened because someone is persecuted for its sake. A martyr gains a following, purely because he stands as the under-dog, is robbed of his rights, is stoned for his convictions. Keep our head, listen attentively to a man's belief, then use common sense in judging whether he is right or wrong. Use that head at the polls. The majority of Americans believe Henry Wallace is wrong, but we don't want the ones "on the fence," to be pushed in his favor, egg and tomato hurlers.

Modern Servant

How well are you solving the "servant problem" in regard to the greatest modern servant of them all-Electricity?

So that everyone may find out for himself, P. A. Wiggins, City Manager, has prepared this electrical intelligence test. To learn how carefully you are using electricity in your home, give yourself ten points for each question in the following list to which you can truthfully answer yes: DO YOU - -

Always have an experienced electrician make repairs?

Disconnect irons and other heating appliances as soon as you finish using them (you may be wrong in thinking you have turned the switch off)?

Use non-tamperable fuses (fustats) which cannot be bridged with pennies or replaced by the wrong size?

4 Always disconnect appliances by pulling the plug instead of cord (to avoid damaging the cord)?

Never allow electrical elements in appliances to get wet?

Never touch appliances when in the bath tub or standing on a wet floor?

If your score is a perfect 60, you are the careful sort of person who probably never will have trouble in the use of electricity. If your score is below 50, start checking up; you are running too many risks.

As shallow-sea divers for pearls, shellfish, edible seaweed, and various items of commerce, women of Oriental coasts for centuries have outdone the men.

Those of Cheju, 50 miles off Korea's southern tip, have been notably adept. An estimated 10,000 today live by harvesting ocean acres, while their men in some cases tend the children and prepare the meals, notes the National Geographic so-

From this feminine monopoly has grown the tradition of Cheju as an Amazon isle. It took positive form in the West about 1900 when a traveler brought back the tale that the island until 1850 had been populated solely by women and young children in storied Amazon style.

In the 1946 census, Cheju counted 276,148 inhabitants, virtually all on the coasts of the 45-by-20-mile oval of land. There were 113 women to each 100 men on Cheju in 1946, whereas on the Korean mainland men outnumbered women.

Cheju port on the north coast is the island's capital and chief center, counting 30,000 inhabitants. They live largely in crude, thatched-roof huts of mud and stone. Ancient walls to defend against pirate attack still stand along the shore.

Life of Samuel Colt

After being expelled from Amherst. Samuel Colt was sent to sea. The ship's paddle wheel gave him an idea for the revolving pistol cylinder. At the age of 14 he whittled out a model and it worked. Later, he quit his father's dye plant to seek his fortune as "Dr. Coult". In 1832 he sent his plan of a gun to the U. S. patent office, and was awarded a patent in 1836. After the original company failed, Colt invented the submarine "mine", while still in his twenties. He died wealthy at the age of 48.

This recent trip, according to Mr. Morton, was no V.I.P. excursion. (The Very Important People sometimes arrive at conclusions that tion. have been planned by their hosts in advance.) Actually, Mr. Morton rented a small French car and drove it 2,500 miles, talking to everybody along the way. Because he speaks French fluently, our Midwesterner was taken for a Frenchman when outside France, for an Englishman when in France-but hardly for an American at any time.

Peacetime Damage In France, Mr. Morton reported the cost of living up ten times over 1937, with wages having increased six times. "How an elevator operator, for instance, can live on 8,000 francs a month is a mystery. Or how a laborer can be content on the official ration of two-fifths of a pound of bread a day. Things are very much out of balance." However, Mr. Morton sees France on

Howard Henderson Home Scene For Hill-Billy Party

On Monday evening, September 13, the members of the Burkburnett Study Club opened their club year by entertaining their husbands and escorts with a Hill Billy party on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henderson with Opal Henderson, Virginia Allen, Jean Garrett and Lora Jamieson as hostesses.

The members and escorts donned their cowboy regalia and journeyed to the Henderson nome. Upon arrival each was given a bale of alfalfa for a eat to await the supper gong. Hearing the gong, the cowboys and cowgirls were directed to Happy Hollow where a delicious Hill Billy supper was served consisting of Bar-B-Q chicken, red beans, potato salad, carrot curls, celery and other things to make the meal complete, including plenty of black coffee.

The tables were arranged in the back yard which was very pretty. Bales of hay were placed around the edge of the yard, and lanterns hanging at intervals. The old rail fence was horses made of cigars for the men and ladies made of candy and perfume for the women. Old fashioned lamps holding candles furnished the lighting.

GREEK CRISIS:

Relieved

Few U. S. forays into the field of international aid have been so widely condemned and excoriated as the so-called "Truman doctrine" for economic help to Greece and Turkey

Almost since its inception the "Truman doctrine" has been denounced as a fraud, a farce and a flop. Much of the denunciation, however, seemed to be based on opinion rather than fact. Actually, for a long time it was almost impossible to assess the condition of the Greek aid program.

Now the government has come out with a report to congress that states bluntly that American military and economic aid has removed the danger of Greece falling to communism.

"While not all the problems in Greece are solved, the crisis of 18 months ago has been averted," one official said. "The aid program in Greece is over the hump."

The report, submitted by President Truman and covering the first year of American efforts to keep Greece free, embodied virtually the first optimism anyone has expressed regarding the picture in

So far does this optimism extend that Greece now is accepted officially as the "bright spot" in American attempts to help other nations resist the onslaughts of story of Acts 19. communism. In Asia and other Eudered sugar first. This helps the ropean countries the anti-commu-

Government emphasis, of course, is on the fact that the task in Greece still is not done. Between 15,000 and 17,000 Greek guerrillas remain at large despite recent successes by government forces. And guerrilla action may continue for several years, depending on the amount of aid received by the rebels from Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

Briefly, the official success story of the Greek effort claims that the nation's wild inflation has been resisted, the cost of living is dropping, about 1,000 miles of key roads have been reconstructed and the vital Corinth canal is open to Love in Bloom?

British tongues and heartstrings are vibrating with rumors of a romantic association (that's what it is when royalty is involved) between Princess Margaret Rose. youngest daughter of the king and queen, and the marquis of Blandford, a fair-haired young nobleman. Her parents have yet to pass judgment on him, however.

DEATH CAME: Charles E. Hughes

Regally bearded Charles Evans Hughes came within a whisker of being elected the 27th President of the United States in 1916.

At that time he was a crusty. unbending, academic man, and it was probably because of that temperament that he lost the presidential race to Woodrow Wilson in one of the closest elections in history-277 electoral votes to 254.

California's vote was the deciding factor in the final result and Hughes lost that when he incensed the California governor by failing to visit him while on a tour of the state. But Charles E. Hughes was, nevertheless, as near to being a great man as most people ever get. And he mellowed with time. He was the only American ever to be appointed twice to the U.S. supreme court - once in 1910 and again in 1930 when he returned to preside as chief justice.

He was twice governor of New York, his native state, resigning the position during his second term to become a supreme court associate justice.

In July, 1941, he retired from the supreme bench to withdraw into private life. Between that time and August of this year he made only one public appearance - to attend the funeral services of Harlan Fiske Stone, another chief justice, in April, 1946.

Late last month Charles Evans Hughes, 86 years old, died of congestive heart failure.

Lumber production in the U. S. this year probably will exceed the 1947 output by at least 5 per cent, the commerce department has estimated.

The department's lumber survey committee reported that this level would be attained if there is no slackening of demand. Lumber carrently is flowing to markets in ample quantity to supply the record-breaking construction activity.

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN SCRIPTURE: Acts 19:28-41. DEVOTIONAL READING:

For a Better City

Lesson for September 19, 1948

66 FOR A BETTER CITY" is a good slogan. No one would think of objecting to it. If the great tal and emotional conditions." city of Ephesus, capital and metropolis of the wealthiest and most thickly populated province of the Roman Empire, had had a chamber of commerce, no doubt they would all have been in favor of a Better City. There would be no argument about that.

The question is: What makes a city better? Four different ideas on that line-two very bad ones and two good ones-can be seen in the

You should read the story itself before looking over these comments. Because we are beginning toward the end of the story, with the very lowest and silliest of the four ideas how to make a city better. It is a very simple idea: Just "holler," yell, make a demonstration. Make it long, make it loud, and the city will be the better for it. For two mortal hours that absurd mass-meeting kept the uproar going: "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!"

A curious thing, the mobmind. If something is true, how can noise make it truer? If a thing is a lie, how can all the shouting in the world make it respectable? But the mob-mind thinks that if a thing is said loudly enough and by enough people, it is bound to be true.

So that theater-full of fools wasted a good afternoon shouting a lie into the deaf blue heavens. It did Diana no good. She was as dead as Marley's ghost, she had never lived, in fact. It was no use drumming up the decibels. Do you know people who think they can make your town better by shouting about it? It won't work. You can make a town or county famous if you shout long enough; but you won't make it bet-

Making Money

THE SILVERSMITHS there in Ephesus had another theory. The way they looked at it, the big thing is money. They used to make money selling their little silver shrines. Now this fellow Paul had come along, persuading people that hand-made gods are no gods at all. and the trade in "sacred" trinkets had fallen off. It looked like a bad year for the silversmiths. To make things better, they decided, they needed more money. More business! More production! The fact that what they produced was not only worthless but actually harmful, did not seem to bother them. Do you know people like that to-

Abiding By the Law

THE TOWN CLERK of Ephesus had a simple idea, vastily better than these other two. He saw no sense in the mass meeting, he seems not to have been taken in by the silversmiths' croccdile tears. If anything was wrong in Ephesus, he said, the courts were open and trials were open, and trials could be held. We have laws-let us live by them; that was the gist of his idea. That is not bad advice.

All honor to the honest serants of the public who now as then give their best efforts to seeing that good laws are made and well enforced.

Changing Lives

S PEAKING OF LAWS, there are three kinds of people in the world. One kind will not obey the laws whatever they are. These are the criminal classes. A second kind say "inside the law" but they never advance a step beyond them. A third kind, too rare, will go far beyond the law's requirements in personal living and in social help-

Now Paul had been in the city of Ephesus for some months, and he had nothing to do with the laws of that city. Yet what he was doing was more effective in making that city better than anything the courts could have done.

For what he was doing was nothing less than changing lives. "The trouble with people is that they're people," and the business of Christianity first of all is changing people. It is no use hanging out the slogan "For a Better City" unless you are working for better people.

A tree is no healthier than its roots, and a community's roots are the characters of her people. And from St. Paul's day to this, the one and only organization which sets out to change people from the inside, is the Christian church.

An American's Faith This year at the commencemen exercises of Harding College a notable address was delivered. It was no ordinary speech. The burder of its message was so significant, and the appeal so earnest, that I wish the audience had been many times larger. I am therefore taking this method of passing to you a portion of this solid and thoughtful address. It was made by Mr. Lamar Fleming, Jr., of Houston, Texas.

"This historic responsibility is new to us. . . . But those who view accomplishments in the atomic laboratories and the development of other terrible means of destruction must recognize that no one on earth longer has the power to decide whether he will live alone. That power of decision has passed to those who are evil enough to . . . use terrible new weapons for their evil designs-unless mankind combines to prevent them from so

Our Call from Destiny

"If we accept that, being sons of God, we are brothers to all Mankind, and that we are the only nation strong enough to lead Mankind to combine for suppression of violence and recovery of Peace, we cannot reject the role to which our Destiny calls us. We will cherish the memory of more placid days, when this responsibility was not upon us, but we cannot reject our Destiny.

"We must enter this role in humility, conscious of our shortcomings and determined to overcome them to the best of our ability. We must search our souls. We must do more than conquer the resistance to truth which springs from our animal instincts. We must chastise all who seek to inflame and prey upon our group grievances, greeds, and hatreds. We must remind ourselves constantly that our duty of human brotherhood is no less to distant peoples . . . than to our neighbors in our home towns. Men of Good Will

"We must realize that peace and well-being will not return to them nor remain with us unless we achieve the ability to work together in a brotherly and mutually helpful company, each placing the common good above the greeds and ambitions of any person, group, or nation. We must include . . . peoples temporarily prevented from cooperation toward the common good and must pray for the day when their chains will be removed and they will be free to join our com-

"Above all, we must require of this great undertaking that it function by the standards of m individual consciences, which are the communion of sons and daughters with their Spiritual Fathernot by group, party, or national ethics, in which conscience gives way to animal instincts, fears, and passions of the herd, and responsibility is spread so thin that no one feels it as his own. This calls for a profound spiritual revival-in us, and in all men and women of good
