CAN'T YOU READ?

A hunter who has been discourteous enough to ignore the "No Hunting" sign, wouldn't be considerate of others when he isn't hunting. To show contempt of another's property is rude and unlawful. Not everybody likes to hunt. Many prefer to keep their game and protect it on their property. In the past farmers and ranchers have been reluctant to prosecute trespassers. With the new hunting law in effect, it is not necessary for a piece of property to be posted to be protected. Regardless of whether signs are up or not, you are trespassing if you go on a man's property without his permission. The law is very strict, and no doubt was brought about by poor hunting sports in the past. Whatever you do, if you want to hunt some place, get permission from the owner or manager. It could save you a lot of time and money.

WE WAIT TO SEE

Britain's devaluation of the pound takes courage in her attempt to regain financial independence. But this step alone will not solve the problem. When more people want to deal in dollars than pounds and some are even willing to pay premiums to exchange pounds for dollars and when there follows a dollar shortage, something happens. So Britain devalues the pound, enabling her to interest world trade. The aftermath of this devaluation may lead to demands at home for price and wage increases in order that the British can avoid a further tightening of the already too-tight belt. If this happens, the object of devaluation is lost. Such a drastic move needs the backing of the entire nation. To have a more balanced trade, Britain will need increased production at a reduced cost, will have to lower taxes, have more rigid economy in government. It will impose hardship on a people already mightily limited. This country of ours has a stake in the recovery of Great Britain. We hope their economic venture is a success.

YOUR NEWSPAPER

National Newspaper Week is heralded each year, October 1-8. Where the press is free, its readers are privileged to applaud or condemn it. Responsible newspapers study the reader's reactions. A newspaper serves, proud of its tradition, aware of its force, be it weekly or daily. Every newsman plays a role in keeping this country the best and most fully informed of any in the world.

Of course there are newspapers that abuse their freedom, play up sensationalism, highlight the morbid, break faith to increase circulation, fail to take part in building a better community, and so on. These papers are in the minority. No newspaper is infallible. Dealing with humanity it takes on the faults of humans. To mold opinions, influence thinking, is a grave and awesome responsibility. To report unprejudiced, unbiased news is a job for self-discipline. If the finished product is an organ of reliability and industry, a pattern for a valuable foundation of daily life, then that newspaper is a success. We shall strive to make Burk Burnett proud of this newspaper.

WORMS CURTAIL YIELD AND GROWTH

Worms are a hindrance to poultry raisers because they often are responsible for reduced egg yields as well as for prolonging the time required for chickens to reach marketable size. While the effect of worms on poultry is not often easy to detect, the harm done over an extended period may be of considerable importance.

Of the many types of worms known to be poultry parasites, there are but few which are numerically important enough to cause serious trouble. But these few species are found almost everywhere poultry is raised.

The Large Roundworm
One of the commonest is the large roundworm. This is the worm with which most poultrymen are familiar. It is large—1-1/2 to 4 inches in length—and causes heavy damage when great numbers of them infect a flock. They are prolific breeders, female worms passing several thousand eggs daily.

Under favorable conditions a small roundworm develops in an egg in about two weeks and when such an egg is eaten by a chicken, an adult worm develops after another five to seven weeks. This worm then hatches more eggs which the chicken passes back to the soil through the droppings.

Large roundworms, in their development in chickens, cause considerable damage to the intestinal wall. This damage frequently causes birds to become emaciated and stunts their growth. If the infection is severe enough, the bird will die.

The Cecal Worm

The cecal worm or pinworm is a tiny worm between 1-4 and 1-2 inch in length. It lives in the tips or blind ends of the ceca of chickens and turkeys.

While it is not especially harmful to chickens, the cecal worm acts as the carrier of blackhead organisms infecting turkeys and is often responsible for severe losses in turkey flocks. Its life cycle is similar to that of the large roundworm.

The several types of poultry tapeworms are flattened, ribbon-shaped segmented worms that are found in the intestines. They vary considerably in size, carry both sexes in each segment, and do not have either a mouth or intestinal tract. Flies, ants, grasshoppers, and bugs serve as intermediate hosts for tapeworm eggs, and when one of these insects is eaten by a chicken, the tapeworm infection gains a foothold.

AUSTIN Highlights

By Senator "Cotton" George Moffett

A large number of new laws will go into effect on Oct. 5, 1949, which is 90 days after the Legislature adjourned. Some one frequently asks me why some bills become law as soon as the governor signs them, while others are not effective until 90 days after the Legislature adjourns. The state constitution controls this matter. Our forefathers thought when they wrote the constitution in 1876, that a three months period of time should elapse after the passage of a bill, before it became a law, so as to give the people time to familiarize themselves with it.

However, it was also recognized that there would be some instances in which a new law ought to become effective at once, so the framers of the constitution also provided that in an emergency, that if a bill received two-thirds of the votes in each branch of the Legislature, it would become law when the governor signed it, but if it passed by only a simple majority in either branch, it was not thought to be of sufficient emergency nature to become effective until 90 days after adjournment.

Of the more than six hundred bills passed by the last session of the Legislature, the governor only vetoed three or four. Many of these six hundred bills were of a local nature, such as a squirrel or minnow bill affecting only one county. However, these local bills must follow the same rules, and be placed on first, second and 3rd readings, in each branch, just the same as the famous Gilmer-Akin bills, or other important bills. This takes considerable time.

Among the semi-important bills passed at the last session was one which makes it illegal to throw pop bottles, rocks, or other dangerous missiles at a foot ball game. This law applies to players and officials, as well as spectators, and was brought about by a pop bottle throwing episode at a game in Dallas, about a year ago. Upon investigation at that time, it was found that there was no law against it.

Another bill which was particularly important to Houston and several other Texas cities, was one establishing heavy penalties including a jail sentence, for selling horse meat unless it was plainly marked and described as such. This bill received more than the necessary two-thirds vote in each branch, and thus became the law the minute the governor signed it. Other bills of interest will be discussed in a succeeding article.

A Community Is No Better Than
Its Farm Land

A speech by Dr. Paul D. Sanders, a Richmond editor, was so sound and reasonable that Senator Robertson of Virginia inserted it in the Congressional Record. Dr. Sanders warned of evil days to come if this nation should make the mistakes made after World War I, allowing farmers to lose their purchasing power.
"The farm always has been and always will be the seedbed of the nation's population and it is the nation's responsibility to preserve it," declared our editor-neighbor. But he asserted there are "evil signs on the economic horizon today, and powerful forces that would deny credit to low income families and knock the props from under economic prosperity."
He observed that "this grassroots prosperity will continue only so long as business and labor and government are willing to give the farmer a fair return for his labor."
He added: "I contend that prosperous agriculture is the key to sustained prosperity in this country."

Scarlet Fever Is Dangerous Disease
Says Dr. Geo. Cox

Scarlet fever is one of the most disabling and dangerous diseases usually associated with childhood, although actually it is confined to no age limit, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. While only six cases were reported in the state during the week ending September 24, it brought the year's total to 911 cases.
The Doctor described scarlet fever as an acute infectious disease, the onset of which is sudden. The first symptoms including sore throat, vomiting, fever and headache, may appear in three to five days after ex-posure. These are followed by the distinctive red rash which gives this disease its name, Dr.
Cox stated.
Complications may cause prolonged disability or death. The children suffering with scarlet fever may develop sinusitis and middle-ear infections which can lead to mastoiditis. As the germs spread through the child's system, the joints, kidneys, and heart may become involved, causing lifelong invalidism or crippling.
"A child with any kind of a sore throat should be seen by family physician promptly," Dr.
Cox asserted. "If scarlet fever is present, the treatment recommended will do much to alleviate discomfort and reduce the possibility of serious complications."
Dr. Cox stated that children under ten years of age are most susceptible, and that those persons who fail to contract scarlet fever until grown stand an excellent chance of never having the disease.

The Lord's Way of Saving People

The Lord's way of saving people may be stated in very simple way:

1. THE GOSPEL MUST BE PREACHED. The Lord
"Preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." (Mark 16:15, 16). The Lord did not have to say: "He that believeth not and it not preached shall be damned." Why? Simply because if one does not believe, he cannot do anything else acceptably.
If one believes and is not baptized, he cannot be saved.
If you want to fuss about this matter, it is between you and the Lord.

2. THE GOSPEL MUST BE OBEYED. "Wherefore lay aside all filthiness and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls." (James 1:21). And again: "But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your souls." (James 1:22). It is only self-deception to hear and not do. Hearing and doing, we build on the rock;
if we do not do, we build on the sand. Both structures will be tried. Only the doers will stand.

Since such is true why not accept the invitation of the Lord before the going down of another sun? It will be the best thing you have ever done for yourself. That you do this is our humble prayer to God in Jesus' name.

Farm Bureau News

By Mrs. John Wesley

George Lewis, president of the Wichita County Farm Bureau, has announced that all team captains will meet in the directors room of the State National Bank in Iowa Park on Monday night, October 10, at 7:30. Purpose of the meeting is to work out final plans for Farm Bureau membership work Lewis said. Mr. J. Z. Munn, president of the Wilbarger County Farm Bureau, has accepted an invitation to speak to the group on this occasion.

October 20-27 has been designated as Texas Farm Bureau Organization Week in Texas by official proclamation issued by Governor Allan Shivers on Sept. 10. Recent Bride Shower Honoree

The Mary Martha room of the First Baptist Church was the scene of a bridal shower complimenting Mrs. Eugene Cypert, the former Miss Vivian Suttles.

Using pink and white as the chosen colors, the reception table presented an attractive picture. Under an arch way bedecked with tiny silver wedding bells stood the miniature bride and groom, along with the two bridesmaids. A lovely arrangement of small pink and white chrysanthemums stood on the piano.

Mrs. Fred Fewin introduced Miss Alice Millikin who sang "Through The Years," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mamie Mason. A quintet, composed of Patsy Morgan, Nathalie Foster, Judy Willingham, Shirlene Richards, and Bonnie Lahm presented two numbers which were dedicated especially to the honoree. The first song, "Put Your Shoes On, Lucy," brought smiles to the faces of all present. "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" was the group's second selection.

Mrs. Ruth Smith presented the many lovely gifts with the poem "Home," by Edgar A. Guest.

Dainty refreshments were served to the assembled friends. Miss Beatrice England presided at the punch bowl, with Miss Noma Willis assisting. Mrs. Vernon Duke secured the guests' names.

Hostesses for the affair were: Mesdames B. H. Preston, W. W. Browning, Fred Fewin, J. B. Ady, J. F. Kelley, Ray Mills,

Gayle's swallowed a bobby pin!

When her two-year-old daughter swallowed a bobby pin late one evening, Mrs. Chenoweth rushed to the telephone—and this series of calls followed. She says that she wouldn't even try to guess what these calls were really worth to her. But she can tell you what her actual cost was—less than 2c each! Mrs. Chenoweth knows the cost because she kept an accurate record of all her telephone conversations, then checked it against her monthly bill. "I never realized before," she reports, "how much the telephone helps me run our house, keep in touch with our friends and meet emergencies. It's a real bargain!"

To Mrs. Chenoweth's verdict, may we add: We're doing our best to make your telephone service a real bargain today . . . and to keep it growing in value every year. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

B. W. C. Enjoys Hamburger Supper

The BWC met Tuesday evening at 7 P. M. at the First Baptist Church and enjoyed supper together in the Mary Martha class room. The menu consisted of hamburgers, baked beans, potato chips, relishes, cookies and coffee.

After the repast, the circle assembled for their regular Royal Service program. The meeting opened by all singing Send the Light and was followed by prayer by Mrs. John Brookman. A short business meeting was conducted by the chairman, Mrs. R. P. Thaxton. Mrs. McMurry read the Devotional from Acts 17 and Psalm 103 and very ably discussed the Sin of Idolatry, after which Mrs. Stewart lead in prayer. Christ the Answer for the Pagan Peoples was then discussed from different angles by Mesdames Harris, White, Beldon and Lohoefer. A closing song was sung, Lead on Oh King Eternal, and the circle was dismissed in prayer by Mrs. Minick.

Those enjoying the supper and missionary program were: Mesdames I. C. Evans, John Brookman, Lynn Stewart, Robert James, A. C. Houser, A. H. Lohoefer, Amy Moore, A. C. Harris, A. B. Fields, J. G. Cheney, Agnes Boyd, R. P. Thaxton, C. B. Beldon Mintie Miller, F. G. Jeffers, W. A. Minick, F. M. McMurry, Harry Mayes, Troy Miller, Ralph White, E. L. Wright, and Misses Jewell Reed, Bessie McKnight, Katherine Beckham, Carol Lohoefer, Noma Willis, Alice Millikin and Corrie Stewart.

Roofs Made to Resist Wind

Although high winds blasted this house more than three feet off its foundation, none of the asphalt roof shingles blew off, because they were properly applied.

Chances that the roof on a building will be damaged by high winds are materially lessened if the roofing has been applied properly. Special precautions can be taken in areas where high winds are prevalent.

Asphalt strip shingles can be given additional wind-resistance by putting a spot of asphalt cement under each shingle tab. Each spot of cement should be about the size of a 50-cent piece and should be applied with a caulking gun or a putty knife. Lift the tab and put the cement on the surface of the underlying shingle.

Particular care should be given to cementing down shingles along exposed roof edges—eaves, rakes, flashings, hips and ridges.

Shingles which are designed especially to resist high winds are used by many builders. Some of these asphalt shingles interlock with each other for added strength while others, the staple-down type, are joined together with metal fasteners.

Square butt asphalt strip shingle will gain resistance to wind if they are laid with 4 inches of each tab exposed, instead of the normal 5 inches. In this case, nails should be placed one inch lower than with the 5-inch exposure.

Correct nailing is essential to proper application. Six nails, located according to the manufacturer's recommendations, should always be used in each three-tab, square butt, asphalt strip shingle.

Rebekahs And Odd Fellows Enjoy Party

The Odd Fellows Hall was a place of merry making Thursday night, September 29th, when Rebekahs, their husbands, their sweethearts and friends, Odd Fellows, wives and friends, met for a social hour at which time a Pie Walk and Forty-Two were most heartily enjoyed.

The Hall was beautifully decorated in blossoms of the season and the meeting was called to order by the Noble Grand, Ethel Wofford, who asked that all present join in singing America and that God's blessings be asked by Bro. O. E. Meyer. Odd Fellows and all visitors were introduced and welcomed. The meeting was then turned to Frances Smith, Social Chairman, who had charge of all social activities, and served most delicious pie and coffee to about thirty members and friends.

Spencer Clifton of Kingsville, Texas, visited Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Neal Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McDonnell and Gary spent the week end in Fort Worth.

Mrs. J. W. Allen escaped serious injuries Tuesday afternoon when she fell from the car in which she was riding in downtown Wichita Falls. She was riding with Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Wofford when the accident occurred. She very luckily escaped with just a few scratches.

Rev. N. E. Dickson recently returned from the Colored Methodist Conference in San Angelo. She was returned to the local church for the 12th year.

Public Deluges A & P as Company Voices Defense

As letters, telegrams and telephone calls continue to deluge stores and offices of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, protesting anti-trust efforts to dissolve the Company, the 90-year old food chain released this week a second full-page advertisement to 2000 newspapers across the country.

A flood of endorsements of A&P came from housewives, farmers, manufacturers and labor leaders. According to the new message appearing under the headline "Why Do You Want to Put A&P Out of Business?" the Company reported: "an enormous number of customers are telling our Store managers, and clerks that they want to continue to enjoy our low prices for quality foods; farmers and other suppliers are asking what they can do to pre-serve this efficient outlet for their products, and our 110,000 employees are asking us to protect their jobs and pensions. Labor leaders are wiring us their opposition to this threat to labor's living standards. If all of these people will be hurt, why then do the anti-trust lawyers want to put A&P out of business?"

The message quotes these lawyers as saying that A&P Food Stores "have regularly under-sold competing retailers" and added that for the past 90 years "we have constantly stepped up the efficiency of our operations in order to give our customers more and more good food for their money." And as for the allegations that A&P's low prices prevented competitors from doing business, the advertisement pointed out that in the last ten years 275 rival food chains have grown up and some 30,000 individual grocers have gone into business. Moreover, while A&P had 11.6 per cent of the national food market in 1933, it had only 6.4 per cent in 1948, according to figures of the anti-trust lawyers themselves, said the advertisement. If the A&P should be compelled to quit, not only will food prices go up, but "the way will be cleared for the destruction of every other efficient, large-scale distributor," concluded the message, asking: "Is this in the public interest?"

Band Growing Says Max Stanaland, Director of Band

The Band is growing. Maybe it isn't the fastest growing Band in the state, but where we had six uniforms at the beginning of school that were not in use, we now have them all in use and are in need of three more right now. We have most of our school horns being played now and some of them are being doubled up on. The Band, with some intensive training, should be very good, and will be by the time foot ball season is over. We still need some flute players and some trombone players. Of course we could use any other horns but the above mentioned are all ones that we need most of all. Here is one thing that I do not understand. It seems funny to me that there are no foot ball players in the band. In most communities where I have been there are usually quite a few of the boys who do both. This is hurting both the team and the Band. It should be remedied. One thing to do is to break down the idea in the boys' minds that playing in the Band is for sissies. That isn't so any more than the idea that all foot ball players are a bunch of bruisers with strong backs and weak minds. This sort of ideas is the result of knowing nothing about the subject. The whole student body should be working together and not in groups or grades or segregated clubs. So come on. Let's get together and work for the good of the school and our community.

Let's all come out to the foot ball game Friday when we play Seymour and show the boys that we are rooting for them. The bigger the crowd the better the boys will play. You can give them a big boost by just being there. We'll see you Friday nite. —Director

A&P, TOO, TAKES OFF ITS HAT TO MR. C. WHIT BLOUNT OF WAYNESBORO, GEORGIA

-AND TO ALL OUR OTHER GOOD COMPETITORS WHO HAVE TAKEN A SIMILAR STAND

[ An Editorial From The Atlanta Journal,
Thursday, Sept. 29, 1949 ]

Competitor Denounces Suit Against A&P

THE BOLD three-column advertisement in the current issue of the Waynesboro True Citizen catches the reader's eye. We quote it in full.

To our notion that advertisement by C. Whit Blount states the economic and governmental aspects of the case against A&P with a clarity and forcefulness that most of the editorial comment has lacked.

Also it strikes us as a fine example of sportsmanship in business.

Incidentally, it is about as effective an advertisement as could have been written for Mr. Blount's "Grocereria".

Makes you sort of wish you were in Waynesboro to trade with him, doesn't it?

[ An Advertisement From The Waynesboro True Citizen ]

A Word For Our Competitor The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

There has been a move by the anti-trust department of the Federal Government to destroy our leading competitor, the A&P Food Store.

It may seem odd, but we are opposed to this move.

The A&P Co., is definitely our strongest competitor - they keep us hopping. But, we are still in business - And Expanding. We do it by selling quality merchandise, buying at a close margin and selling at CLOSER margin.

The so called "trust-busters" charge that the A&P Co. control some of the production and processing ends of the food business. As a result, they hold the cost price down on foods.

WELL, WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS??

If A&P holds the costs down, it makes our suppliers hold their costs down to the same competitive level. They can sell cheaper, AND SO CAN WE.

We intend to continue to try to sell better merchandise than A&P; We also will continue to have competitive prices.

BUT, We don't believe the government, or any individual should try to break up a firm that is doing a good, clean, efficient job of serving the people of this country.

C. Whit Blount

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

A county roadside ditch is now being sloped on the Wilbur Prechel farm on the Clara Conservation Group, this week. The work is being done by county equipment in Iowa Park Precinct of Commissioner E. E. Voyles. The roadside ditch will take care of water from terrace outlets from cultivated field of Mr. Prechel.

Land leveling is now in process on the Cliff Brogdon irrigated farm Southwest of Iowa Park. The work is being done by maintainer. New irrigation laterals have been constructed and borders are now being built. Length of borders are determined by soil type and the ability of the soil to absorb water. Mr. Brogdon plans to plant the area being leveled to alfalfa for hay and to alfalfa and Johnson grass for pasture. Most of the alfalfa hay raised on this farm will be used on his dryland farm or ranch to feed cattle during winter months.

1 1/4 miles of terraces have been completed on the Jacob Roessler farm of Pumpkin Center Conservation Group. The terraces were of the broad base type and were constructed by equipment of the Electra Precinct of Commissioner H. H. Haynes.

Irrigation borders are now in process of construction on the Dr. W. T. Wells farm and Hardin College Farm. The area being leveled and bordered will be planted to alfalfa for hay and to cool weather grasses for pasture. Equipment owned by the irrigation districts is doing the work. The Soil Conservation Service furnished the technical engineering services.

Several cooperators all finding alfalfa to be a very profitable soil improving hay and pasture crop on the sandy land along Red River. Good hay and pasture yields were made this year on the Howard Henderson, Frank and Josephine Foster, Jeff Kennedy, Walter Kaspar, Wilbur Prechel, Oscar Klinkerman, Walter Mersiousky and other farms. Frank and Josephine Foster and Arthur Ramming are planting or have planted more alfalfa this fall. Most of the farmers planting alfalfa this fall applied 300 pounds of 20% phosphate prior to seeding.

District Supervisors received applications this past week on farms of F. M. Kotulek, C. E. Nolin, Oscar R. Harris, Gail V. Mitchell and H. A. Grisham, a total of 724 acres for assistance of the Wilbarger-Wichita Soil Conservation District.

SPORTS AFIELD
 By Ted Kesting

Is Mexico slaughtering our waterfowl? To find out, Albert M. Day, head of the Fish and Wildlife Service, late last year visited the region around Mexico City where gunning is heaviest. He reports: "We found hunting pressure that would be absolutely inconceivable to the average American duck hunter—because it is so light."

Day is convinced that much of the criticism that we in the United States level at the Mexicans is due to a difference in fundamental philosophy about waterfowl hunting. Here duck hunting is a cherished sport. Every waterfowl hunter in the United States contributes annually toward the management of this resource through purchase of the federal duck stamp. The duck hunters of this country have long been seasoned to regulation by the government. They have felt restraints and restrictions for more than 30 years.

In Mexico the situation is entirely different. Hunting is in the same status there as it was here 50 years ago. Game management as we know it is practically nonexistent. The native population takes waterfowl for food pretty much wherever and whenever it can, the same as farm boys in many of our states consider it proper to take rabbits. Yet their methods are so crude and inefficient, and the wintering concentrations of birds are so widely scattered that the total take of birds is small. By the very nature of waterfowl habits combined with the use of ancient weapons, the kill by natives consists in large part of coots.

It is true that wild ducks are sold on the market in Mexico—but they probably wouldn't be sold in restaurants were it not for the demand created by American tourists. And it is true that the outlawed armadas (multiple-barreled guns) are still in operation. But the claim that Mexican sportsmen are killing off our ducks is unfounded. And if you've wondered why we were restricted to 30 days of duck shooting when Mexicans had four months, think of this: actually it was a total of 93 days in the United States against 120 days in Mexico. And the breadth of these United States is less than the length of Mexico, so the comparison is not nearly as odious as some would have us think. In analyzing information from the Fish and Wildlife Service and other qualified observers, it must be concluded that the take of birds in all Mexico probably does not exceed five per cent of the total kill on the North American continent each year.

Mexicans point out that Mexico sells 5,000 hunting licenses as compared to the 12 million in the United States. Of these only about 20 per cent are duck hunters. As for native hunting, we should go a bit slow in our criticism. Alaska and Canada both recognize the importance of waterfowl in filling the needs of a native population for food and clothing.

Mexican game officials and sportsmen are fully aware of their waterfowl situation and the problems involved in improving it. There is every reason to believe that the management of this important continental resource will become better.

TALK ABOUT BIG GAMES!!

Tiger Hunting in India

Probably no animal in the world is feared so much by man as the tiger... yet no animal demands more respect for his courage in battle. Now, I've never been tiger hunting myself, but the stories about killing them have always thrilled me a lot. The supreme achievement of most of the big game hunters is to kill the tiger.

The animal will attack either day or night, and against practically any odds. His favorite dish is a young ox, a deer, or a couple of natives. Once he kills, he waits for the flesh of his victim to cool, and usually returns at night to feast in leisure. Smart hunters take advantage of this leisure, and the tiger's boldness, and wait in ambush to kill the ferocious villain. The tiger is always looking for a nice, meaty meal, with absolutely no respect for the price of beef. The hunter will kill a deer, or a zebra, and place it at a vantage point to lure the beast in for a feast. And this scheme nearly always produces an exciting adventure for the hunter, plus the coveted kill, unless some smaller beast beats the tiger in for the meal. And this, too, can easily result in a "hair-raising" sort of an adventure.
