"Lend Me A Hand" Is 1951 Slogan for March of Dimes

"Lend me a hand." That is the slogan of the 1951 March of Dimes which will open here and throughout the nation on January 15th. The four words are expressed eloquently by the poster-portrait of a bright faced American boy whose arms have been crippled by polio. He is Larry McKenzie, 12 years old, one of some 54,000 men, women and children to whom a helping hand was extended by the March of Dimes last year.

In three successive years, polio has struck more than 100,000 people in the United States. In that time it has cost the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis $58,000,000 to help them, as well as earlier victims still needing care. Since 1938, the patient care outlay alone has been $94,000,000 in March of Dimes funds.

But these are only inanimate figures—the real story of the March of Dimes is PEOPLE. That story is unfolded in hospitals, rehabilitation centers and clinics throughout the country where real people—not "cases"—are fighting their way back to useful lives. It is told in homes, factories and offices by men and women who have made comebacks over great odds and at great cost.

The knowledge that the individual battle can be and often is won should stimulate everyone to back the fight against polio. Tragically enough, the ranks of polio sufferers will be increased this year. We cannot control that—yet. But we can ALL lend a hand through the 1951 March of Dimes, January 15-31st.

Final Arrangements Completed For Annual C of C Banquet

Mother Comes to the Aid of the Children's Party

Food, fun, frolic and first aid are often the ingredients of a children's party. Wise mothers make plans for all four in advance; it means a better time for everyone concerned.

FOOD should be kept on the simple side. Everyday menu items can be dressed up in real party fashion. Simple puddings, for instance, become gala dishes when poured into individual tart shells and decorated with pastry cut-outs to suit the season—witches for Hallowe'en, trees and bells for Christmas, animal crackers and horses for the circus or birthday party.

White cake cut in squares may have figures outlined on it with cinnamon candies or gay gumdrops. Scoops of ice cream take on new personality when given eyes, nose and mouth of cinnamon candy, and hair of tinted coconut.

FUN doubles itself when it's done in partnership. Young children like to play games by twos, with prizes awarded teams and partners instead of individuals. To eliminate tears and disappointments, it's best to see that each child gets a prize to take home. Grab-bags often solve this problem, with the winners of various games being given "points" and allowed to pick first from the grab-bag.

FROLIC is fine, but it's a good idea to alternate between active and quiet games. If the party seems to be getting over-zealous, it's often wise to dress all the guests up and let them play an "around the block" game out-of-doors. This respite often gives mother's helper a chance to get refreshments in place.

FIRST AID—let's hope there's no need, but should there be a scratched knee or bruised elbow, the wise mother will have a few first-aid items on hand. Antiseptic should be applied; then a sterile gauze pad may be taped on to keep out further dirt. Sterile gauze pads are individually wrapped and sterilized in protecting envelopes that keep the pads sterile for use. Hostesses will find them handy for applying antiseptic, covering a wound, or removing a speck of dirt from a child's eye.

First-aid items at hand, prompt attention and matter-of-fact calmness will go a long way toward healing any hurt and helping the party get back into swing again.

Test Tube vs. Polio Is Daily Battle In Laboratories

For generations polio was accepted as one of the "mystery diseases" of mankind, an elusive destroyer and crippler, striking unpredictably with epidemic force. Today, medical science knows a great deal about polio. The "mystery" phase is past. The period of exploration, discovery and eventual conquest is well under way.

With funds provided by the March of Dimes, the nation's top scientists are hard at work in hospital and university laboratories exploring every reasonable approach that may lead to the ultimate control of polio epidemics and conquest of the disease as an individual affliction.

The recent discovery that polio virus could be grown in test tubes, using non-nervous tissue as the culture medium, has been acclaimed as a new milestone in polio research. It has greatly widened the field of the research scientists in their efforts to find a vaccine, drug or serum effective against infantile paralysis.

In its thirteen years of existence, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has authorized the expenditure of $11,753,736 in March of Dimes funds for research. Of this amount, $8,841,158 has been granted in the field of virus research, while $2,912,578 has been allocated to study of prevention and treatment of the disease's crippling after-effects. There is a sound basis for the hope that some day polio will be controlled or wiped out by science—through the March of Dimes.

Miss Brookie Lynn Mooring of Houston and Miss Louise Miller of Baylor University were week end guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Brookman.

According to J. C. Boyd, Jr., General chairman for the Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet, final preparations for the affair are complete.

FACING FACTS

Weekly more cities are organizing for civilian defense. By proper training and structure, with a few minutes warning, civil defense can reduce as much as 50 per cent the casualties caused by atomic bomb attack in undefended areas. School children are being instructed in defense measures, as horrible as the necessity is. Ignorance, fear and hysteria can take lives as well as bombs. Adults should learn facts. For instance, within a radius of one-half mile of the point beneath an atomic explosion there would be complete destruction, window breakage for eight miles, within two miles nylon hose would disintegrate from the terrible heat. Within a three-mile radius, about 50 per cent of the people would receive a fatal dose of the nuclear radiation but a large majority of these would actually be killed by the blast and heat before the radiation would have its effect. We can't afford to avoid knowing these things. Such knowledge is beneficial in knowing how to meet the situation should the necessity arise, which we pray will never be so.

ON OUR OWN

The matter with voluntary controls, is human nature. Why didn't the government begin earlier to impose mandatory controls, asks a local critic? Maybe capable men needed at such a time are difficult to lure to Washington, to take on hard, thankless jobs that are unsteady, pay low salaries, are upon to constant, severe political attack. Anyhow, we are now asked, as patriotic folk to voluntarily refrain from charging too much, paying too much, buying too much. Self-controlled, duty bound, civic-minded citizenry would make an ideal situation but, unfortunately, the plan didn't work when voluntary price control was tried during World War II, and human nature hasn't changed since then. It didn't work at the time of the Civil War when voluntary enlistment, with an inducement of cash bonuses, didn't appeal and finally the draft system was inaugurated.

It is the same old story over again, to hold the excess demand over the limited supply, to make a stable price level. Voluntary or mandatory, the control may restrain or dam inflation, but the pressure is still there. Taxes and credit controls are used to reduce the consumer's demand for goods. This is hateful to us but is a necessary measure to reduce spending, though it lowers our level of standard of living. This comes under the heading of sacrifices. During wartime, surely price control is not the greatest sacrifice asked of us. Americans can take it, the majority want it and feel the government should have acted sooner.

AT TIMES LIKE THIS

Current events change newsprint from hour to hour. Today we write of peace, tomorrow we write of war. Today we hide from the horrible facts of the atomic bomb, tomorrow we face its use to conquer our enemies and, we are warned, to eventually destroy ourselves. The ink does not dry before the news is old, the cold war becomes hot. The paper goes to press while hopes are high and is read when hope is abandoned. Man is an object of despair, misery and doubt as he reads of war measures, of peace gestures. But man, being man, trusts in the balm of Gilead. He is mindful of the force within himself which is his armor and guide, his power and his bread of life—his prayer. Yesterday we wrote of Thanksgiving and Christmas, tomorrow of peace. Man lives in hope.

TEXAS' OLDEST STUDENT ORGANIZATION — THE ROSS VOLUNTEERS

Organized in 1887 as an honor company and crack drill unit, the Ross Volunteer company at the A. and M. College of Texas is the oldest student organization in the state. The first company was called the "Scott Volunteers" in honor of the popular Col. T. M. Scott, then business manager of the college. In 1890, when the illustrious Lawrence Sullivan Ross, Confederate General and former Governor, became president of the college, the name was changed to honor him, and the group became permanently established as the honor company of the college. Through the years the Ross Volunteers have held to high standards of character, scholarship and military precision. In addition to their spectacular precision drills, they have served as honor guards for distinguished visitors to the campus and have participated in many state ceremonies as an honor guard to the Governor. Ross Volunteers, in their white dress uniforms, are shown here grouped around the statue of their patron, Sul Ross, which is a campus shrine at the Texas school.

Army & Air Force Gives Enlistment Quotas for Month

Army and Air Force will continue to accept volunteer enlistments on a monthly quota basis. The quota for the month of December was announced to remain about the same for the past two months, according to SFC Boyd L. Sullivan of the Army-Air Force Recruiting Station, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Mental standards for the Air Force were lowered effective December 1, and the acceptance of men with dependents gives opportunity to enlist or re-enlist of those whose applications have been on file for the past 18 months.

And contrary to previous announcement which permitted enlistment of men who had received notice to report for pre-induction, then obtain release from local draft board to volunteer, will not longer be accepted for Army or Air Force. Once a registrant has received notice to report for draft physical, he will under no circumstances be allowed to enlist.

Miss Grace Revier was in Dallas Friday to attend the North Texas Conference Council meeting.

New Furniture Combines Beauty, Strength, Long Life

Combining beauty with the qualities of permanence and strength, hardwood veneer represents the highest standards of craftsmanship in the manufacture of fine furniture. Many of the unusual wood patterns to be found in modern furniture could not be produced except through the fabrication of hardwood plywood and face veneers. Wherever wide surfaces are used, either flat or curved, hardwood plywood construction gives the most satisfactory results both in attractiveness of the wood grain and durability.

Apparently some people have the mistaken idea that hardwood veneer furniture is inferior in quality. The truth is that wood veneers are unsurpassed in beauty, strength and stability. Crotch, burl and stump wood—which provide the most beautiful wood figures—could not be utilized otherwise because of a tendency to crack and split if used as solid pieces. Applied in the form of thin face veneers on hardwood plywood panels, these fine grains can be utilized to the utmost without splitting or chipping at corners and edges.

This explains why 75 percent of all wood furniture exhibited at leading furniture shows in Chicago, Grand Rapids and New York were of hardwood veneer. It also is the reason hardwood plywood is used extensively in the manufacture of television and radio cabinets.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Taylor of Groesbeck, Texas have moved to Burkburnett to make their home. They are living in the Ted Harwell house in Rose Lawn.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Sutton and Susan of Bryan spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Skipwith.

Motorcycle Rider Joins Marine Corps

After an 8,000 mile motorcycle trip, Martin W. McWhorter, of Birmingham, Ala., has decided to do some traveling with the Marine Corps.

Pvt. McWhorter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart A. McWhorter, also of Birmingham, is now in "boot" camp at the Marine Corps Recruit Training Depot at Parris Island, S. C.

The regular Marine recruit received wide publicity when he attempted and completed successfully a round trip from Birmingham to Spokane, Washington, traveling alone by motorcycle.

Pvt. McWhorter, whose hobby is dare-devil swimming, gained recognition earlier last year by swimming St. Andrews Bay near Panama City, Fla., on a dare from several friends.

Several years ago he swam the Mississippi River below Memphis, Tenn., at a point where his journey across was about three miles long including the distance he was swept downstream by the current.

Pvt. McWhorter is married to the former Miss Betty Gore, of Sylacauga, Alabama.

Planned for Corner Lot

Containing six rooms with an attached garage, this house is well-adapted to a corner lot site. The plan features excellent circulation with all rooms accessible from the front entrance hall. It has been selected as Plan No. 205 by American Builder magazine, 30 Church St., New York.

Service rooms, such as the kitchen and garage, face the street front with the living room and dining room toward the rear. Storage area is provided in the attic, and a full basement contains space for all utilities and recreation.

Separating the living room and dining space is a free-standing bookcase and china cabinet four feet high. If desired, this unit can be placed against the wall, making one large "L" shaped area of the two rooms.

Overall dimensions of the house are 56 feet six inches by 40 feet six inches, including the garage. The roof of fire-resistant asphalt shingles is the key to a pleasing color scheme, in a blend harmonizing with the white clapboard siding and with fixed blinds on each side of the windows in a suitable accent color.

(Detailed building plans for this house are available from American Builder, 30 Church St., New York 7, N. Y. Refer to Plan No. 205.)

HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

Q—I plan to paper the plaster walls of my newly-constructed house. How soon can I do this?

A—A new plaster wall should not be papered or painted until it has dried out thoroughly. Usually this will require at least two months. Calcimine, in white or one of the many tints, can be used for immediate decoration if desired.

Q—I want to put a new roof on my house which stands in an exposed location where winds of gale force are frequent. What roofing would you recommend?

A—Several types of roofing could be used, but it is likely you will use asphalt roofing which today is supplying about 90 percent of the nation's roofing requirements. It will be advisable to cement down the asphalt shingles by applying a daub of quick-setting cement about the size of a fifty-cent piece under the exposed portion of each tab.

Q—Is a special type of paint required for painting concrete?

A—Ordinary house paint can be used in painting concrete and portland-cement stucco. But the concrete must be dry. Sufficient time should be allowed for night dampness to dry off, and after a rain three or four days are required to permit the concrete to dry out thoroughly.

Q—What is the proper method of taking care of waxed floors?

A—Waxed floors should be dusted with a dry brush or cloth and polished once a week or so. This holds true whether the wax is applied directly to the wood or over varnish or shellac. But do not use an oiled mop because oil will soften the wax.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

The cottontail rabbit is our favorite game animal. If you don't believe this, just look at these facts dug up by George Heindol: Some 11 million hunters take to the field each season and bag between 30 and 40 million bunnies. The incredible harvest puts nearly 100 million pounds of succulent meat into the national stewpan. According to a recent national survey, the rabbit toll adds up to more than 50 per cent of all other small game combined!

Now there are several sporting ways to hunt rabbits. Men who like grade-A hound music send beagles into the field. But many other breeds will serve the purpose. In fact, any pooch that will tree the neighbor's cat will also run a rabbit.

For tops in sport, however, certain qualities are necessary in a rabbit dog. Among these, nose and persistence are the most important. Experience will be the best trainer.

Unlike foxhounds, low geared speed is desirable in a rabbit dog. A race track dog will run the game into dens and stone walls, but a slower one drives in a circle and almost invariably brings the bunny back to where the chase began. Next to the beagle, my second choice for a rabbit dog would be a spaniel or terrier.

But you can hunt without a dog. The main thing is knowing where to look for rabbits. The cottontail can usually be found snoozing in brush lots, meadow lands, grassy thickets on the fringes of farms and suburbs, on ill-kept farms and cutover wood lots. Never pass up a brushy, sunny slope when hunting on farmland. Buckshot dung, piles of little brown pellets are the signs to look for.

Then after the first snow blankets the woods, you can try the traditional New England pastime of "Injun-walking" rabbits. This is a simple but stimulating sport because following tracks etched in fresh snow keeps you in contact with the movements of your game.

There is an important rule to remember when injun-walking rabbits: although they are hard to evict from their beds the first time, they are very apt the second time to jump the new lair before you can get close enough to kick the cover. So watch it.

By Nancy Plyler

THE SMALL BOY pressed his face closer to the window. Outside the snow lay a white blanket over the community, and darkness had drawn its curtain upon the day's activities. Johnny had been standing there since dinner.

His mother and father sat nearby. "He hardly touched his dinner!" his mother explained.

"It's too bad! He was very fond of that dog," his father said seriously.

"I'm so sorry this happened. It's just two weeks until Christmas and there's so much to do. Scouring the neighborhood for the dog at this time will interfere with our other plans," the mother said.

While they were talking, the doorbell rang. The wife went to answer it and found two teen-age boys on the porch.

"Yes?" the wife questioned. The boys seemed to be out of breath from running. "Mrs. Rice, we saw two men take your dog into their car. They drove away with him," one of the boys explained. "What? When?" the wife was beside herself.

"Did Santa Claus send him back to me, Mommy?" was all he asked.

"About two hours ago. We were taking the groceries to Mrs. Jane; we couldn't turn back to tell you. Besides the car was gone before we knew what had happened. I think we'd know them if we saw them again," the boys finished.

"Don't you come here?" Mrs. Rice called to her husband. "Now, will you please tell my husband what you have just told me?" she turned to the boys.

They reiterated the same facts to Mr. Porter.

His first statement was, "Don't say anything about this to Johnny."

He questioned the boys further, thought for a time, then asked the boys if they would agree to go around the neighborhood with him to see if he could trace the men.

Agreeing to this, the two boys left with Mr. Porter.

MRS. PORTER was sitting in the living-room when Mr. Porter returned. Her eyes questioned what her lips could not say.

"No luck!" he sunk into a chair. "I didn't really think there would be any use to go out and look for them. There just wasn't anything else to do. Poor kid! With Christmas coming on and everything," Mr. Porter was very solemn.

On Christmas morning Mrs. Porter was up very early. The Christmas tree was trimmed to perfection. The wreaths were hung. The living-room was very picturesque. Johnny's stocking was hung over the mantle; it was brimming to the top. All kinds of toys that would delight the heart of a five-year-old boy were under the tree. His mother took one last look before she called to her husband to awaken Johnny.

A sleepy, tousled-haired boy crept down the steps to behold the wonders of another Christmas day. After viewing the scene, he gave one leap to the hobby-horse that waited for him. By now he was no longer sleepy, but had mustered energy to open all his gifts without any help from his parents.

And for a time Johnny seemed so engrossed in the many toys that he never mentioned about his dog. But their hopes were short-lived! For while they were planning for the day, they noticed that Johnny was watching at the window. Mr. and Mrs. Porter looked at each other and knew that they had lost in their endeavor to make Christmas Day a happy time for their boy.

When Mrs. Porter was nearly on the verge of tears, Johnny gave one scream from the window. They ran to it and looking out, saw a small white dog scurrying up the path. Mr. Porter never opened a door more gleefully and the dog dashed into the room, into the arms of his master. Johnny was laughing and crying at the same time. "Did Santa Claus send him back to me, Mommy?" was all he asked.

"Yes, dear," she whispered. "The dog either broke away; or, the spirit of Christmas must have worked in those men's hearts," Mrs. Porter smiled to her husband.

Color Gives Barracks 'New Look'

This is the Army, Mr. Jones—1950 style—at Westover Field, Mass., where barracks as modern and colorful as model homes are being provided for officers and enlisted men.

Approximately 2,000 units, each accommodating two families, are under construction at the Westover Air Force base as a result of a bill passed by Congress two years ago and amended last Spring to provide improved housing at permanent military installations.

The families of Westover enlisted personnel are the first to benefit from the program which calls for construction of rental housing through cooperation with private builders. Rents range from $55 to $85 monthly for enlisted men and officers pay $105.

A combination of ranch house and colonial design, the homelike-appearing barracks feature bright colors both inside and out which get away entirely from even the slightest suggestion of military drab. This is the work of Beatrice West, New York color consultant and designer, who contends that liberal use of color is the most effective way to give each home individuality when dwellings of the same general design are grouped.

As the roofs are highly visible and are the largest single unbroken areas to meet the eye, the asphalt shingle roofs in five basic colors—green, brown, slate, red and black—set the tone for the various color schemes. Only after deciding on the roof color did Miss West select the colors to harmonize with the roof in the siding, trim and accent colors.

The light, cheerful, carefully-planned kitchens feature modern appliances, gaily-colored wall papers and attractive floor coverings. The handsomely-grained flush doors of hardwood veneer and the carefully-styled cabinets and counter tops are easy to clean and to keep clean. There are no hard-to-get-at corners to collect dirt and grease.

Both inside and out, the accent is on color. A typical color scheme designed by Miss West begins with a medium green asphalt shingle roof. Siding is of a similar shade of green. The trim is a creamy or "warm white" and the accent color, on front and rear doorways, is either coral or banana yellow. Accent colors in other exterior color schemes are rose, cerise, ming and regency.

Miss West says that the color schemes are popular with the wives of servicemen. "They seem to go for the plan which calls for chartreuse accent," she adds. The barracks have picture windows facing what someday will be a tree-lined courtyard, closets with sliding doors and radiant heating systems which push warmth up through the floor. Every apartment has a garage, facing the street.

Westover Field enlisted men and officers have a choice of one, two, three, and four-bedroom apartments, with eligibility extended even to trainees who have been at the base only a few weeks.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q—My kitchen sink edge is covered with aluminum, and when I stand against it my apron and dress front gets black. How can this be prevented?

A—Liquid wax, applied periodically, is recommended. If clothing still becomes discolored from contact with the sink edge, you might try roughing up the aluminum with steel wool and then applying shellac.

Q—I have been unable to find a small leak in my roof. How can I locate it?

A—Examine the under side of the roof in bright daylight. When you find the spot where light shows through, put a piece of wire or a sliver of wood through the hole so it can be located from outside. If your roof is worn, however, other leaks can be expected to develop shortly and it would be economical to put on a new roof rather than to attempt to patch the old one. Asphalt shingles usually can be applied right over the old roofing material.

Q—Some of the windows in my home are difficult to open and then, once opened, require considerable effort to close. What causes this, and how can the condition be overcome?

A—There are several causes of sticking windows. Hardened paint in the grooves in which the window slides may be responsible, and swelling of the sashes or parts of the grooves is another cause. The sash can be made to slide more easily, however, by rubbing paraffin on the grooves.

Is the heading correct? Is not the Cross a symbol of death? Not since history's supreme Man mounted to heaven by way of a cross. The ages have declared Him the man who lived abundantly. He found joy in human fellowship. He faced every sort of duty with eagerness, He healed and helped all those who came to Him in any need, He faced death unafraid, He was the Son of God. As the symbol of His own life the Cross gleams in the sunlight forever; it is also a symbol of the gracious and loving heart of God, our Father and our Friend, and rightly it glows with heavenly radiance. Christians have come to accept it also as the symbol of every noble and self-sacrificing life on the earth; they wear it about their necks and they crown the lovely churches of the world with it. Whatever is good and true and beautiful belongs somehow with the Cross.

Jesus was the 'friend of sinners' in the long ago, and He comes to us now as our friendly messenger, with a generous invitation to life and life more abundant. He calls to you and to me as He spoke to the fishermen by the lake, "Come, follow me." Are you thirsty? Come and drink the living water. Are you hungry? Come and eat. Are you carrying a heavy load? Come and let me get into the yoke with you. Are you in sorrow? Come and find comfort. Are you afraid? Fear not, for you are the children of the living God.

It is an invitation to rich and satisfying life. He invites to contentment instead of worry; He invites you to joy in place of sorrow; He offers health of body and mind; He calls you to trust instead of fear; He welcomes you to fellowship in place of your loneliness; He assures of inner peace instead of conflict and confusion; He would crown your life with "beauty in place of ashes"; He invites you to the love and forgiveness and kindness of the God who created you and sustains your life from day to day; you are invited to a good Life now and forever. This is "An Invitation to Life."

Pioneer Celebrates 90th Birthday

W. B. Ponder celebrated his 90th birthday, Tuesday, December 26th, with a birthday dinner at his home and friends and relatives dropping by during the day.

Mr. Ponder was born in Alabama in 1860 and spent part of his childhood there. He likes to tell of the happenings in the days spent there. He remembers when they made their own shoes of cowhide, and also picking the seed out of cotton, readying it for the spinning wheel. He had his first pair of trousers at the age of 9 and also got a new hat that year, made of pine straw by his mother. He says matches were not even heard of at that time and the saying "Going to a neighbor to borrow a coal of fire" was very true. Some times they used a piece of cotton and flint rock to start a fire.

His father was in the Civil War, leaving the mother and five children to farm. This was very difficult since all the horses were being used in the war effort. They had two calves they broke to pull and plow and aid in other chores around the farm, such as hauling wood, etc.

He remembers that some masters were good to their slaves and others weren't. He recalls a time that one had run away and when she was found and the owner came to claim her, he nailed her to a tree through the ear. Some owners who were good to their slaves kept them after the war.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

I just finished an article on gun handling by Ray Holland. It contained so many worthwhile things that I'd like to give you a few excerpts:

I have never had much use for "safes" on shotguns because they are likely to lend a false sense of security to the man handling the gun. When he looks down and reads the word "safe" he is too likely to believe it. All that safety snap does is block the hammers so they cannot fall and hit the firing pins. Guns become worn with use, and no one can tell when a jar might release a hammer.

At close range a shotgun is more dangerous than a rifle.

At lunchtime don't stand your gun against a tree for you or your dog to knock down. Take out the shells and lay it flat on the ground or across your lap while you eat. If you eat at the car, don't lean your pet shooting iron against it.

Loaded guns have no business indoors, in cars or in boats. If you are jump-shooting ducks from a boat, that is another matter, but be sure you know the man behind you.

There is no excuse ever to pass the muzzles of a loaded gun past your shooting partner.

It is a good plan to form the habit either of looking through your barrels or aiming at the sky and snapping the hammers before you put your gun in the car. Looking through the barrels is the better of the two habits... mud wasps have been known to use a shotgun barrel for a nest, and block it completely in a very short time. A skiff of snow in the muzzle may not hurt the shooter but it will put a nice bell muzzle on his gun, often giving it a lacy effect. Mud in the muzzle also does a good job.

The abomination of field sports is the gang hunt where four or more men hunt together. You can have it. Once in a while a fellow gets roped in on such a hunt and has to go along. I never kill much at such a time. I am too busy watching the other fellows to make sure they don't shoot me and that I don't shoot them.

A man should never shoot through brush when a companion is ahead of him even though off to one side. Shot will ricochet and do queer things.

Rich Beauty in Wood Veneer

Handsome-figured hardwood veneer wall panels blend harmoniously with table and chairs, also of hardwood veneer. The rich natural pattern of the wood grain in this paneling adds a luxurious touch.

One of the simplest ways in which interior walls of a home can be modernized is to cover them with hardwood plywood paneling. The panels are easy to apply and the cost is moderate. The homemaker who wants to give a "new look" to his living room or den can obtain appealing warmth and beauty by using durable hardwood plywood panels, faced with rich veneer. If desired, the paneling can be applied to the ceiling as well.

A wide range of hardwood face veneers gives the home decorator unlimited rein in selecting the tone of the completed room. The paneling can be chosen to blend with the furnishings, either in matching or contrasting shades and patterns, depending upon the individual taste.

The manufacturers of high quality furniture, television and radio cabinets use many varieties of hardwood veneers, all of which fit in harmoniously with suitably selected wall panels. The proper paneling is available regardless of whether your furniture is of walnut, oak, cherry, birch, mahogany or some other hardwood veneer.

Hardwood plywood possesses other properties which make it a desirable product for this purpose. Because of the nature of its construction--layers of veneer with the grain of the wood at right angles and joined together by a strong adhesive--it will neither expand nor contract. The approximate equalization of strength along both the length and width of the panel makes it resistant to splitting.

An advantage of using hardwood plywood panels is that frequently very little preparation of the wall is necessary. Once installed, the care and maintenance of paneled walls is negligible. This point is emphasized by the U. S. Department of Commerce in a report which says: "Wherever hardwood plywood is installed, it introduces a new note of economy and practicability. Maintenance costs, whether in residential project or public place, are minimized. Surfaces not subject to abrasion require nothing more than an occasional wiping to remove accumulated dust. Other surfaces need little more than a light waxing to restore their original brilliancy and beauty. The abrasion resistance of many hardwoods is in itself a guaranty against most of the mar- rying to which walls are prey. The construction of the hardwood panels protects them against cracking and splitting."
