GRASS ROOTS OPINION

COATESVILLE, PA., RECORD: "Whatever his income, the taxpayer is hard pressed today. He pays local tax, state taxes, sales taxes, inheritance taxes, and corporate taxes through the manufactured products he buys. Heaviest of all is the Federal income tax, which taxes from 22.2 to 92 cents of every taxable dollar."

PAMPA, TEXAS, DAILY NEWS: "So many federal hand-out programs have grown up in the past 20 years that most people have lost track of the count long ago. That's why testimony that there are more than 40 federal grants-in-aid programs currently on the books is more than a little startling."

MILBANKS, D. HERALD ADVANCE: "People who are for more economic government must be heard above those who are asking special consideration. There cannot be any genuine economy without a lot of groups and a lot of individuals having to make a small sacrifice in the national interest."

BROWNSVILLE, PA. TELEGRAPH: "The rank and file of the people are demanding tax reduction but it's hard to achieve that objective when all sorts of groups are still looking for handouts and special privileges."

THIS IS OUR BUSINESS

We are beginning to recognize the fact that very few of our major public problems are any longer the sole concern of the cities or of the countryside. The highway problem is a case in point. Traffic jams—and the other costly results of our outworn, inadequate road system—are as familiar to Helper, Utah and Big or Little Eastatoe, S. C. as to Times Square or Market Street or Michigan Boulevard.

The recent General Motors Better Highways Wards contest reflected as well as stimulated the nationwide concern over the need for better roads. And it demonstrated impressively that the city dweller, the small townner and the farmer each is aware that the problem extends far beyond his own muddy farm-to-market road or traffic-choked boulevard.

From persons in all walks of life and in every state who were competing for $194,000 in cash awards, GM received 44,000 essays on "How to Plan and Pay for the Safe and Adequate Highways We Need."

A man who lives in a sizable city warned against overlooking the importance of "logging roads, mining roads, rural mail delivery routes, roads to cotton gins, to rural school houses, milk collecting routes." And farmers did not forget such chiefly urban problems as expressways and off-street parking.

Practically all of the more thoughtful contestants—including New York City Commissioner of Parks Robert Moses, who won the $25,000 first national award—agreed with GM President Harlow H. Curtice that "There is no miracle solution to the highway problem." They agreed that the big roadblock is the financial one, and that only overwhelming and articulate public demand for better roads can clear that roadblock.

The importance of the GM contest, it seems to us, lies in the fact that it stimulated 44,000 Americans to the point of actually putting down on paper their ideas of how to solve this national problem. Thus it is reasonable to believe that countless thousands more thought about the matter more seriously than ever before, and fully intended doing an essay on his or her solution. And we may be sure that all this skull practice will result in more conversation about roads than we have ever had before. Nor will it be idle chatter. It will be better informed more constructive and louder.

But we need many more such activities. In the words of one contestant:

"When the public thoroughly understands the highway needs and expresses its will forcefully enough and takes steps to fill those needs, it can have highways when and where it wants them."

THE GRASS ROOTS WILL DECLINE

An old but ever accurate truism holds that in the long run a people get the kind of government they want and deserve.

For instance, public desires and public pressures will determine whether we will have efficient, economical government—or prodigal, drunken-sailor government.

Representative Norris of New Hampshire touched on this by indirection when he said, "We have reached that point in the session when the full impact of protests against appropriation cuts really hits us. It is at this point we always begin to wonder whether folks really want economy or only think they do."

The future of our government will be decided in the grass roots, not in Washington.

Money In Circulation

Washington—(American Peoples Encyclopedia News Service)—Money in circulation in the United States passed a billion mark for the first time in November of last year. It indicates that many households use currency when they will be expected to keep accounts. In the halcyon days of 1929, the Encyclopedia says, hand-to-hand or money with which all was conducted was less than a billion dollars.

Mrs. Mamie Long is still in very weak condition. She reported Sunday evening she is doing very well. She enjoys the visits of her friends and the many cards, letters she receives.

Now! Power Steering

for as low as $134⁴⁰* Ford brings you the lowest priced power steering in its field . . . and the finest in power steering at that!

We all know the advantages of power steering. Most of us would like it. And now many more of us can afford it! By spending testing time and development money, Ford brings you Master-Guide power steering for nearly three quarters the price of any other system in its field. For the facts, read the captions on this page. For a thrill, Test Drive Master-Guide power steering in the Ford!

So simple . . . So safe!
Blowouts become less risky with Ford Master-Guide power steering. It helps you steer to a safe straight-line stop. And power steering helps you park easier, too . . . does up to 75% of the work for you!

No radical change in driving habits! Unlike many other systems, Ford's system gives you much the same "feel" of handling that you get without power steering. Then, too, you always turn the wheel the same amount as you would with regular steering.

And, because Ford's Master-Guide power steering has a more natural "feel" than many others, you don't have to change your driving habits radically. The steering gear ratio is the same as without power steering and the hydraulic system gives you the right assistance when you need it.

Worth more when you buy it . . . Worth more when you sell it!

Texas Below On Rainfall Average

Below-average rainfall had this result: Crops and pastures are suffering over most of the state as moisture reserves run dry. Dry conditions are now prevailing over Texas. Temperatures of 100 degrees above have fired maturing and wilted late crops. In west and northwest, dry-land and cotton are barely holding on. Corn in the north and south has suffered. Late corn needs rain. In the area sorghums have been burned by hot dry winds. Much of the acreage has been lost to blowing sand. Commercial drouth has hurt commercial crops in all areas. Heavy showers have brought temporary relief. Both surface and subsurface moisture is depleted in a great many areas. This has been our rainfall this year which has caused such a dismal picture?

The state's average rainfall is 45.37 inches. The last "good year" was in 1950 when the average was 40.22 of rain evenly distributed.

In 1951, the first onset of the present drouth, only 27.23 inches of rain fell. The following year, 37.06 inches were received but it was poorly placed most of it soaked East Texas and left other areas dry.

The most recent 1953 report revealed that we had received some 10.21 inches of poorly distributed rain. At the same time last year an average of 10.32 had fallen. The normal at this period of the year is 12.03 inches.

With the exception of one month, the Upper South High Plains area has gone some 33 months without receiving the normal amount of moisture. Some South Texas and Western Plateau states have been below average for 24 months.

Weather experts estimate it would take two months of very wet weather to restore some of these counties to normal crop and pasture conditions.

There is little, of anything, that we can do to remedy the situation. The farmer and rancher can only keep his eye on the weather developments and make his plans accordingly.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

What nicer picture for the family album than a close-up of a little girl and her kitten?

Children and Pets—a Combination That's Hard to Beat

FROM the days since we first heard about Mary and her little lamb, and Little Bo Beep and her sheep, we've always known that children and pets make a terrific combination—whether in nursery rhymes or real life.

And it is certain that they do in pictures! They make an ideal subject combination, whether they share the honors or one is serving as interest center or prop for the other.

Picturing your child with his pet is an almost sure-fire method of getting a good story telling snapshot. When the child becomes engrossed in play with his cat or dog—or even with watching a newly acquired pet turtle—all traces of camera shyness vanish. Gone is any tendency to face the camera stiffly with a singular lack of expression. This may not give you a laughing, full-face view of the child, but it will give you a picture that will bring back fond memories as you turn through the family album in years to come.

If, on the other hand, you have a pet who is practically a member of the family, and you would like a really good picture of him—having a youngster in it with him may be the answer to any posing problems. If the animal has tendencies of not staying put, the child's presence—or hands—may serve as just the right amount of restraint to keep him where you want him until the picture is snapped.

So far I have been talking about pictures you pose—but, which because of the subject's interest in each other, have an unposed quality. However, you shouldn't overlook the opportunities for truly unposed pictures. You may see the child and pet at play in situations that would be difficult to duplicate at will. Sometimes it's a matter of mood on the part of one or both. That's a good reason for keeping the camera—with film in it—always close at hand. Then you can snap the picture when it happens, rather than trying to make the picture happen when you're in a snapshotting mood.

Our Terrible Thirst

If your town doesn't have to worry about its water supply, you're lucky. A lot of towns do.

Trouble is, some communities never dreamed that they might double and triple in size, that new industries would come to town, that citizens would use more water than ever before. We've reached the point where we use about 1100 gallons per person a day in the United States.

Yet why should water be short when 25 times our needs falls from the skies every year?

Unhappily, it doesn't always fall when and where we need it most. Many reservoirs were built with no idea that towns would grow so fast. And 75% of our communities rely on water from lakes and streams. Today many of these are polluted and require treatment before use.

When faced with a shortage, cities suddenly discover to their sorrow that new water sources take time to complete.

For years General Electric has contributed toward development of better and more efficient water-works equipment. This is not so unusual, since motors and other electric equipment are important in water systems, large or small.

Some of the things we've learned about water supply, and the related problem of water pollution, have been put together in motion pictures and booklets, prepared in cooperation with the U. S. Public Health Service. Any town fathers who are interested in what's available can write to General Electric, Room 123-2, Schenectady 5, N. Y.

Motorists Enjoy Vacationing In Old Mexico

American motorists are enthusiastic about vacationing in Mexico, according to a survey completed by the International Travel Department of the American Automobile Association.

The study, made at the Laredo office of the AAA, included interviews with more than 400 motorists returning from trips into Mexico.

The travelers spent an average of 14 days "South of the Border", and spent an average of about $14 per day per person. Nearly all, 98.9 percent visited Monterrey; almost as many, 79.8 percent, visited Mexico City.

Roads were found in good repair by three out of four of the travelers, who were pleasantly surprised to find automobile repair service, gasoline, oil tires, and car parts readily available.

Of the group, about 100 thought the prices were low, half thought they were medium, while a few said they found prices quite high. Nine out of 10 found accommodations to their liking, with good food and service. About half agreed Mexican hospitality and courtesy were outstanding; opinions of the others ranged from "good" to "just fair."

One interesting sidelight is that three out of four of the tourists said they would be interested in traveling all the way to the Panama Canal or beyond on the Pan American highway when it is completed.

Finally, the Three-A travel survey showed that 95 percent of the motorists who had visited Mexico would recommend the trip to their friends at home. The AAA maintains border stations for the convenience of travelers to Mexico at Laredo, Brownsville and El Paso.

Your Senator Reports

by LYNDON B. JOHNSON

(Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, writing from Washington, gives a weekly report on happenings in the National Capital as they affect Texas and Texans).

RETAIL TRADE: Business is off in Texas towns.

Retail trade in town of under 2,500 population was down 11 percent during the first five months of the year, as compared with the first five months of 1952. Even in the larger centers, reports the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas, business in May was 5 percent below the January high mark.

Drouth and the continued decline in prices for farm products are mainly responsible, the Bureau says.

HARD MONEY: Texas home builders and automobile dealers write me that they are being especially hard hit by higher interest rates resulting from the Administration's "tight money" policy.

Some temporary relaxation of the policy was indicated in the Federal Reserve Board's action in making new money available to banks. But interest rates are still up.

Congressman Wright Patman of Texarkana is pressing for House action on his resolution requiring the Federal Reserve System to support prices of Government bonds at par. Congressman Patman, an expert on fiscal policy, told the House his resolution is sponsored by Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn, Democratic Whip John W. McCormack and a majority of the Democratic members of the House Banking Committee.

HELP FOR TEXAS: A number of Texans came here to press for immediate action to furnish governmental assistance to drouth stricken farmers and cattlemen. I conferred with them and with President Eisenhower before introducing my bill to authorize immediate aid in the affected areas.

This is a matter in which there is no room for partisan politics. I was happy to have several Republican Senators as co-sponsors of my bill.

KITCHEN ECONOMY: "Money-Saving Main Dishes" is the title of a bulletin published by the Department of Agriculture. I will be glad to send a copy free to any Texas housewife requesting one.

COTTON QUOTAS: Several West Texas cotton growers appeared before committee hearings last week to urge that the increased production of cotton in their area be taken into consideration when acreage allotments are set for next year's crop.

Included in the group and welcome visitors at my office were A. M. Muldraw of Brownfield, J. D. Patrick of Pecos, M. T. Glenn of Tulia and W. G. Kirklin of Odessa.

HILLBILLY MUSIC: Cathy and Jim Wells of Alice write as follows about the proposal to establish National Hillbilly Music Day.

"Let the people have their hillbilly music, but with this stipulation—that it be the ONLY day in the year when hillbilly music could be played."

CONSERVATION: I tried to get increase of 30 million dollars in funds for the Agricultural Conservation Program. My amendment was defeated, but it had the effect of nullifying an effort to reduce funds recommended

Green Peas—A Year 'Round
Favorite Canned For Many Use:

Courtesy of Ball Brothers Company

The green vegetable which may be counted upon to please most palates at any time of year is small, sweet green peas. That's why wise home canners always put up a plentiful supply when the fresh home-grown ones are available and use them not only as a main vegetable dish, but also in salads, soups and casseroles. It's an economy and convenience to have home-canned peas on hand.

Peas will be the first thing that many of you will be putting up this year. Perhaps you will enjoy a family project. "Many hands make light work," and Daughter might help with such details as picking and shelling. Sonny or Dad might even contribute a few moments.

Can Them Often

Watch your own garden or the market for fresh peas that are green throughout, tender and sweet. When they are just the way you like them for cooking and serving, they are just right for canning.

If, like so many others, you are relying upon your home garden for peas, can just a few jars each day. This way you can put up peas immediately after they have been picked at the peak of their perfection.

Peas are a low-acid food and should be canned under pressure because hotter than boiling temperature is needed for destroying the spoilage-causing bacteria within a reasonable length of time. A steam pressure canner or cooker is preferred for large quantities but you can use a pressure saucepan for canning a few pint jars at a time if the gauge is accurate and you add 20 minutes to the processing time. The home-maker in the picture is going to be sure her peas will keep for yet another reason—she is using easy-to-test Dome lids and bands so that she will know the jars are safely sealed.

Canning Peas Simple Process

Directions for canning peas are simple. Wash the pods and drain, lifting them with your hands and allowing the water to drain from them. Shell out the peas and, if you like uniform sizes, grade them for size. Rinse, cover with boiling water. Boil small peas 5 minutes, large peas 5 minutes.

Put the peas into hot fruit jars, leaving one inch headspace. There should be enough liquid, either from the water in which the peas were boiled, or just plain boiling water, to cover them in the jar. The pack should be loose enough to allow easy heat penetration.

Run a knife down the side of the jar to remove air bubbles. Add salt to season if you like, one-half teaspoon per pint, and then place Dome lid and band on jar, twisting the band to snug fit but not forcing it. Use your pressure canner or saucepan according to instructions and process the peas 45 minutes in canner, 60 minutes in saucepan, at 15 pounds pressure.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Friend and children of Abilene, Texas, spent the 4th of July holidays visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Spivey in Burkburnett.

Nowadays when the boss tells the late arriver that he should have been in the office at nine o'clock, he usually gets the answer, "Why—what happened then?"

Mr. and Mrs. George Counter, Jr., visited friends in Abilene over the week end.

Mrs. Charlie Gresham of Fort Worth, was a Burkburnett visitor Monday. She is a former resident of Burkburnett.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mayes and Carolyn of Seymour, Texas were weekend visitors in the George Byerly home.

We were chiding a Californian the other day for bragging about California's 365 days of sunshine, only to have him come back with the remark that perhaps it wasn't exactly true, because in leap years it was 366 days.

News From The Congress

By FRANK IKARD

Since Archer, Baylor, Clay, Foard, Hardeman, Jack, Knox, Montague, Throckmorton, Wichita, Wilbarger, Wise and Young Counties have been designated as being in the critical drouth area, the Government feed program should start functioning in those counties almost immediately. This feed program will be directed in each county by a Committee of five men, one of whom will be from the PMA who resides in the county, one from the Farmers Administration in the county, the County Agent of the county, a representative rancher and a representative banker. The rancher and the banker who will serve on this Committee will be selected by the County Agent, and the representative of the PMA and the Farmers Home Administration. The duties of this Committee will be to screen applications for feed and to determine the need and receive orders. Already the surplus stocks of the Government have been released and the actual deliveries should be forthcoming almost immediately. The President has indicated that he would shortly announce some credit program that would make credit available to the stockmen in the drouth area. The President, through the Secretary of Agriculture, also announced that the Government will purchase substantial quantities of beef to be used by the Government in school lunch programs, by the military, and for sale overseas. It is hoped that these purchases will have the effect of stabilizing the market. Unless there are general rains throughout the Southwest, there, no doubt, will be many counties added to the disaster area within the next few weeks. Unfortunately, the long range weather predictions announced for the next 30 days do not offer much relief from the drouth before Fall.

There has been considerable speculation here just what will happen to the excess profits tax. All indications are that a bill to extend the tax will pass the House if it is ever brought out on the Floor for a vote.

The Administration apparently had decided at one time to by-pass the House Ways and Means Committee, which has had the extension bill bottled up for some time, by going directly to the Rules Committee and bringing the bill on the floor. However, at the last minute, this plan was abandoned and it was decided to send it back to the Ways and Means Committee. This Committee will meet again on July 8 or 9 and will probably consider this matter. There is still some question as to whether or not this Committee will report a bill out so that the House can vote on the matter.

The House and the Senate approved and sent to the White House a bill to authorize lower down payment requirements for FHA homes and to continue for one year most of the FHA mortgage program. Also the bill would continue for one year the authority for the Veterans Administration to make direct loans to veterans and to give the FHA additional funds in its mortgage insurance account and rescinds the VA's order of May 18, banning discounts on GI home loan mortgages.

Congress also took final action this week on a bill that would create a 25-member Commission on Intergovernmental relations to study the overlapping of the functions of state and federal governments. It is hoped that the studies of this Commission will provide facts for legislation that will make possible the return to the states of many of the functions of government that are rightfully theirs. Also awaiting the President's signature is legislation passed by the Congress that will

ICAO Trains Ethiopians

Longhorn Cavern Becomes of Age

Texas Longhorn Cavern, third largest cave in the world, is finally about to come of age as one of the state's prime tourist attractions, H. H. (Hob) Galloway, manager of the cavern, declared Saturday.

Cavern visitors will total more than 250,000 long before the cave's 21st anniversary as a public showplace, Mr. Galloway predicted after studying attendance figures for past years. In fact, the quarter millionth visitor probably will pass through the famous Sam Bass entranceway same time in July, he said.

When the cavern was first opened for public inspection by the State of Texas back in the fall of 1932, after four years of development, few people even knew about it except the folks who lived in this area—like Mr. Galloway and his boyhood friends who used to play hide and seek in the dark reaches of the cave.

"We were a little bit off the beaten track then," recalled Mr. Galloway, who is also president of a bank, former mayor and a director of the Burnett Chamber of Commerce.

But today heavy tourist traffic streams down US Highway 281 a direct Canada-to-Mexico route. And many tourist take time out to visit the cavern, reached by a paved road which enters Longhorn Cavern State Park at a point four miles south of Burnet.

"We're getting people from every state in the union now," Mr. Galloway said "and you'd be surprised how many Texans visit the cavern and are amused when they see what a spectacular natural wonder it is."

"We figure it's really unusual when a Texan is amazed at something that in Texas."

This summer, Mr. Galloway estimates that more than 5,000 tourists and resorters a month will visit the cavern.

Two miles of the cavern have been developed and modern illumination installed to bring out all its natural subterranean beauty. Guides relate all of the cave's domantic legends of Indians, desperadoes and buried treasure. Visitors are royally entertained and filled with cavern at the same time.

their banking regula-limit this. These farmers are asking for long term credit at a reasonable interest rate knowing that they will have to pay it back. For many, it will be years before their crop land and pastures will be back to normal.

Another request made to the government was a chance to buy some of the surplus feed that they have rotting in storehouses at the same price foreign countries are paying for it. This is a reasonable request. We didn't hesitate to send a million bushel of wheat to drouth stricken Pakistan. It does look like we could help the men that made the gift possible in the first place.

The farmers and ranchers have quit thinking about profit they have seen their money go to pay last winters feed bills and living expenses. Now they face the prospects of the fourth year of a drouth. They are trying to save their foundation herds of cattle, their leases on their land, and many, their farms. These men are facing the possibility of the biggest bankruptcy in the history of agriculture.

If this happens, the entire economy of the United States will be effected. After what the Congressmen saw on their criss-cross air trip over Texas, I think these men can be assured of getting three things they need, time, credit and feed. It will take a power higher than any government to bring the most important item needed, rain.

Senator Johnson Offers Relief On Drouth Measure

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, joined by 14 of his colleagues, including Senator Price Daniel, has introduced a bill to authorize immediate aid to farmers and ranchers stricken by drouth in Texas and other Southwestern States.

The measure, entitled "The Drouth Disaster Relief Act of 1953," would authorize emergency loans in the affected areas. It would grant the President clear authority to rush seed, stock feed, urgently required farm equipment and other needed items to the drouth disaster areas. The bill would authorize the appropriation of such sums as may be necessary "to carry out the purposes of the act."

Senator Johnson said he introduced the legislation to clear up any doubt as to the powers of the President to meet the emergency existing in drouthstricken farm areas.

"Unless action can be taken quickly, a whole section of our country is threatened with economic extinction," Senator Johnson said. "The whole nation would feel the effects if the rich agricultural production of the Southwest were eliminated."

The Senator is pressing for quick action on the bill, which was referred to the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Great Southern Life Insurance Co. Lists New Officers

The Directors of Great Southern Life Insurance Company announced the promotion of a number of company officials to new positions following their meeting in the home office.

Pat M. Greenwood was elected president of the company succeeding L. S. Adams, whose retirement as of June 30 had been previously announced. Mr. Greenwood began his career with the Great Southern in their Dallas office in 1925 and has occupied various positions with the company. He moved to Houston in 1945 and subsequently became executive vice-president, the position he held prior to his election to the presidency.

Acting as spokesman for the company, Mr. Greenwood has announced the promotion of Mr. E. A. Kiker from vice-president and secretary to executive vice-president. Mr. Kiker has been with the company since 1912. Another promotion of importance is the elevation of F. Jack Greenwood from assistant vice-president to vice-president and secretary, in recognition of his eighteen years association with the company.

A newcomer to the official family of the Great Southern is Dr. F. Ray Black as Medical Director. Dr. Black graduated from Sam Houston State College of Huntsville with a B. A. Degree in 1926, attended the University of Texas and received his Medical Degree from the University of Texas Medical School at Galveston in 1930. He served as an interne in John Sealy Hospital of that city for one year and returned to Huntsville to engage in private practice. He established the Huntsville Medical and Surgical Clinic and has been one of the leading physicians, as well as one of the leading citizens of his community for the past 22 years. Dr. and Mrs. Black and their three sons will make their residence in Houston and he will officially assume his new duties with the Great Southern on August 1st.

Another appointment of interest is the election of Dr. Ghent Graves, of Houston, as Consultant to the Medical Department of Great Southern. Dr. Graves, long an outstanding physician in Houston, has had wide experience in life insurance medicine. William Sexton has been elected director of public relations and, as such, will head a new department in the Great Southern, handling advertising and all matters connected with public relations.

Other promotions announced by Mr. Greenwood include H. L. Smith to assistant vice-president; L. G. Brock to assistant vice-president; and H. L. Williams to assistant vice-president. "Each of these three men has been with the company more than twenty-five years," said Mr. Greenwood, "and have capably handled their various assignments."
