LIONS CLUB

Meets at Town Hall, 7:00 P. M. Each Tuesday

John Durham had charge of the program. He presented Joe Bob Tyler, head High School football coach, who told members of the possibilities of this year's team. According to Tyler, the team is especially strong on the line, but due to the loss of four star backs, the backfield has a long way to go. Barring injuries, Burk should win their tough non-conference games.

John G. Tower, Prof. of Political Science at Midwestern University, was a guest and invited members to see Midwestern home football games this year. Tower said the new coach was one of the best in the nation, and the team appeared especially strong this year.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

RALEIGH, Miss., Reformer: "We go along with the Rural Electrification program in which associates borrow from the government to finance construction of electric systems and later repay their loans. However, no candidate can curry favor with us by advocating outright ownership of electric distribution systems in which a whole nation is taxed for the benefit of a few small sections. Such is Socialism pure and undefiled—the first long stride toward Communism."

HILLSBORO, Ore., Argus: "Do you know that on an average business day, nearly 1,000,000 Americans act as capitalists, investing more than $250,000,000 of savings in a variety of financial enterprises? Yes, the nation's private investment is comprised of the cumulative savings of people from every walk of life and income group. If mass production symbolizes the unparalleled economic development of the United States, it is this system of mass capitalism which has made it possible."

TWO SYSTEMS

U. S. News and World Report has printed a number of photographs of Russian scenes, taken by two Americans who recently spent a month traveling in the Soviet union.

One shows a middle-aged worker and his wife window shopping in Stalingrad. They are peering at a motley display of odds and ends, including tea kettle. That teakettle, the caption says, would cost the man 11 hours' wages. Another shows a young laborer. A tailored suit, this caption says, would cost him three weeks' wages.

These statements are in line with many authoritative surveys showing what a Russian must pay for clothes and food and other goods as compared with what an American must pay. In every case, measured by the authoritative barometer of working time needed to earn the money, cost to the average Russian is many times the cost to the average American.

In Russia all the means of production and distribution—which means agriculture, manufacturing and retailing—are either owned by the state or rigidly controlled by the state. The state fixes the prices—and, save for a few subsistence items, fixes them at very high levels in order to siphon off consumer purchasing power.

In the United States the means of production and distribution are privately owned. Under the system we know as free enterprise, competition is wide open and intense—as everyone who patronizes retailers can testify from personal experience. And prices for practically everything sold at retail are within the means of the average family.

HOW TO GET THINGS DONE

There are two ways to get things done. One is through the use of force, coercion and threats. The other is to offer incentives and high hopes. A good example of these diametrical opposites is found in oil production in this country as contrasted with Russia.

Searching for oil is a long shot proposition. The great majority of wells drilled in new territory turn out dry and worthless. One Texas oilman has actually sunk 196 dry holes in a row. But he's still working and still hoping. For, if the dream of a big strike is realized, he'll be able to reap a good profit in return for the time and money and labor he expended, and the risks he freely took.

In Russia, according to a Soviet geologist who escaped to this country, it's a criminal offense to fail to strike oil. Under Soviet law, a geologist who brings in a dry hole can be, and sometimes is, packed off to forced labor in Siberia.

How do these two systems of getting results work out, comparatively speaking? Here's the answer: American oil men produce close to 6,500 barrels of crude oil daily to Russia's 1,000 barrels. Putting it another way, we produce 66.3 percent of the world's oil, while Russia together with all her satellites produce only 11.5 percent.

You can make a man work by putting a gun in his back—but you'll always get minimum results. Prison labor is less productive than free labor. And that's why an economic system based on free enterprise — on getting results by voluntary action spurred by inducements — is always far more productive than a system based on the power of government to order men and women about.

MASS DISTRIBUTION IN ACTION

It is reported that the nation's department and specialty stores experienced an excellent first quarter, and that there was no longer no letup in the improvement noted in the last three months of 1954. The most important aspect, the report says, is found in an increase in profits.

From this it might be judged that each time we spend a dollar in one of these stores, a large amount sticks in the hands of the owners. That is hardly the case. For, even with the improvement, the stores' profit amounted to but 1.4 percent of sales, after taxes. In the same period last year it was 1.1 percent.

James Stewart Is Unforgettable In "The Man From Laramie"

"Strategic Air Command," Stewart plays "The Man From Laramie," giving an unforgettable portrayal of a fighting man.

From Laramie to the sun-baked wasteland of New Mexico, Stewart has trekked a thousand weary miles to find and kill the man who sold Apaches the repeating rifles that resulted in a massacre and death of his brother. From its early scenes where Stewart is manhandled, lassoed and dragged thru a campfire by the tough-bitten range riders of the all-powerful Barb Ranch, "The Man From Laramie" rakes the screen with its fury, its power and its feeling for the early West.

Stewart finds himself pitted against relentless adversaries. Arthur Kennedy, determined foe man of the Barb Ranch, means to share in the valuable holdings when its iron-willed owner Donald Crisp, passes from the scene; Allied with Stewart is Aline MacMahon, courageous rancher with unrequited love for Crisp, and Cathy O'Donnell, Kennedy's fiancée until she learns of his mad greed for the Barb.

In the film's grim showdown, Stewart tracks down and corners the man he has come so far to kill, only to discover that he cannot murder in cold blood; he leaves his victim to face Apache justice.

Mrs. Nora Wood was hostess Tuesday, Aug. 23rd when the H. D. club met for their regular meeting. The H. D. agent, Miss Green of Walters, was present and led the program on choosing decorating materials. Refreshments were served to nine members and one visitor.

The Tommy Monson family north of Devol feel that their troubles come in double doses. Their oldest son, Tumpty, received a broken collar bone Saturday when he was out for football practice at Grandfield. He was treated at a Lawton hospital and sent home. Then Saturday evening his sister, Gail, was driving some cows up from the pasture and was thrown from her horse and broke her left arm just below the shoulder. ## feeding hogs is EASY the Purina way

Modern feeding methods have taken the guesswork out of hog feeding. Today you know, even before you start, how much feed it should take to put your hogs across the market scales. And, on the Purina Program, you know that 5 1/2 months is plenty of time to get hogs to market weights.

The Purina Hog Program itself is just as simple as good nutrition will allow. Even if you have no grain, there's a Purina ration ready to feed right from the bag. Purina recommendations on breeding, feeding, sanitation and management are sound and practical—because they're based on more than 25 years of experience at the Purina Research Farm.

We'd like to see you give hogs and Purina a try on your farm. This combination has made money for thousands of people. Put it to work for yourself.

If you're thinking about hogs for your farm, we'll be glad to help you get started. Stop by soon and talk it over with us.

Wilbarger-Wichita Soil Conservation District News

A pasture dream drill has been received by the Wilbarger-Wichita Soil Conservation District. The pasture dream drill places fertilizer in the soil and seed at levels above the fertilizer.

Jack Martin, farming an irrigated farm one mile south of Iowa Park has over seeded coastal bermuda pastures with alfalfa sweetclover or barley.

Technicians for the Soil Conservation Service recommended overseeding of coastal bermudagrass to either alfalfa, sweetclover or barley.

Dan Robert, manager of 77 Ranch will use a pasture dream drill in their over seeding practices.

Deep placement of phosphate is most important because it does not move in the soil.

Texas Safety Association

"Most traffic accidents don't happen. They are caused!"

That statement was made today by Mr. E. C. McFadden of Dallas, vice-president of Employers' Casualty Company and President of the Texas Safety Association.

"In most traffic accidents somebody is violating the law," he said. "Last year nearly two-thirds of the drivers in fatal accidents were violating a traffic law at the time of the accident."

According to Mr. McFadden, many of these violations involved ignoring laws expressed in signs or other devices on street or highway. "National Safety Council reports show," he said, "that such violations as exceeding the posted speed limit, failing to keep to right of center line, and disregard of warning or stop signs are common."

"Accidents resulting from such flouting of the law are certainly inexcusable," Mr. McFadden said, "and they show that a great part of our annual traffic toll could be wiped out if people would heed the signs provided for their protection."

He urged all motorists to know traffic signs by their shapes and to heed them on sight. These are the basic shapes: Octagonal, stop; Diamond-shaped, caution; Rectangular, regulatory; Round, approach to highway-railroad intersection; Cross-buck, designation of highway-railroad intersection; Triangular, yield right of way.

Mr. McFadden also stressed the importance of driving at speeds safe for conditions.

"Slow down and live," he advised motorists. "Don't tempt fate by heedless driving."

How To Be

At Home With The World

By WILLIAM PARKER McFADDEN, Prominent Interior Decorator and World Traveler

"Souvenir hunting" can be one of the most rewarding - or one of the most wasteful - features of any trip, whether it's 100 or 10,000 miles from home.

The ultimate value of any souvenir you acquire depends on "selective buying" - the purchase of good items which can be worked into your everyday pattern of living.

One of the chief objections to souvenirs - which can mean any object acquired as a reminder or memento - is that people store them in boxes in the backs of drawers. Consequently, they are never reminded of anything, unless it's the presence of a lot of "junk" when they start cleaning out those drawers.

"Selective souvenir hunting" was the objective on a three-month trip around the world to acquire furnishings and art objects for a series of model homes being decorated by McFadden Associates at the 1955 State Fair of Texas.

Articles were brought back to Dallas from Japan, India, Finland, Mexico, Denmark, Hong Kong, Siam, Burma, Spain, Morocco, Java, Bali, Lebanon, Syria and Italy. The various items as used in the State Fair rooms will illustrate how you can be "at home with the world" in Dallas, Texas.

One very inexpensive thing used very effectively was a collection of coins from all of these countries. Instead of burying the coins in a closet, we have had them embedded in black plastic trays which form the top of a long coffee table. In this way the trays and coins are in constant use - thus fitting them into a daily living pattern. The same thing could be done with tiles, or with any number of items people usually buy when they are traveling.

Another example is a ceremonial wash basin from Japan. Something like this makes a wonderful conversation piece when used as a salad bowl or centerpiece filled with colorful fruits. Everyone can enjoy it in use, whereas no one would enjoy it as a "museum display piece."

This is just as true of items you can purchase in a trip to El Paso or Galveston as to Japan or Africa.

The model rooms at the State Fair will be in connection with the new International Center, devoted to Spain, Morocco, Java, Bali, Lebanon, Syria and Italy. The various items as used in the State Fair rooms will illustrate how you can be "at home with the world" in Dallas, Texas.

Must We Hang Up Our Guns?

Is there any future for shooting in America?

The answer to this question concerns hunters and shooters because of their interest in the sport; arms and ammunition manufacturers; clothing and shoe firms; hunting camp operators; outboard motor and boat manufacturers; and state game dept.

The editors of Sports Afield magazine, vitally concerned with the question, have set out to give an answer in their September issue in the first of a series of articles which will survey what shooters now have, what they want, and how they can get what they want in a article, "Must We Hang Up Our Guns?"

No other sport of any importance is surrounded by so many obstacles and restrictions as shooting. Shooting is severely regulated by city, state and national laws that are becoming increasingly severe. Restrictions affect the purchase, shipment, carrying and use of guns.

Hunters have their own state game departments, operating on license fee money; they have millions of hunting acres bought with their license money, and more millions of acres not owned by game departments, but under control and open to hunting; they have many gun, hunting, and fishing clubs; there are small bore ranges in some schools, sponsored by the National Rifle Association, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and others; and they have a growing number of controlled shooting grounds.

The firearms industry has been on the defensive, almost apologetic. Yet, it could readily be aggressive with the support of 15 million licensed hunters, and the many shooters who don't hunt, but only fire on target ranges.

As for the juvenile delinquency problem, horrified adults see gang shooting wars. Firearms are not the cause of delinquency. And too-stringent firearms laws leave the average, decent citizen at the mercy of gangs or hardened criminals.

Instead of banning firearms, maintains Sports Afield magazine, it would be far better to divert that gang-with firearms instinct into healthier channels. The boy with an urge to use a gun, and every normal boy has it, can let off a lot of steam by going to a public shooting range and firing 100 rounds of ammunition at targets.

The too-strict anti-firearms laws, such as New York State's Sullivan Law, have failed to reduce crime. Rather, they have armed the criminals and disarmed the law-abiding citizen.

Labor Day Safety Assures Post Labor Day Labor

If you expect to drive in the heavy traffic expected during the coming Labor Day weekend, it may pay you to look over the "Big Ten" safety rules outlined by Danny Eames, noted chief test driver for Dodge Division, Chrysler Corp.

- 1. Traffic regulations are for your protection. Observe them. 2. Keep a safe distance between yourself and the car ahead, particularly at higher speeds. 3. Stay in your own lane on hills, curves and in "no passing" zones. 4. If driving at night, dim your lights to oncoming traffic. 5. The right of way may rightfully belong to you, but if a pedestrian comes along, give it to him (And that doesn't mean "Let him have it!"). 6. Always be on the alert for children! 7. Know the proper hand or direction signals and be sure to use them! 8. Watch where you're going, and where the cars behind, ahead and on both sides are going. 9. Give the other fellow more than his share of the road and watch him! 10. Regulate speed to road conditions, rather than posted speed limits. You can't think of ten things at once, but try to keep Danny Eames' "Big Ten" tips in the back of your mind when you drive this weekend. If you do, you'll be sure to get back to your labors on Tuesday, Sept. 6th.

Give some men three high balls and they will strike out for themselves.

Q-If I take a correspondence course under the Korean GI Bill at what rate will I use up my GI training entitlement?

A-One-fourth of the length of the course will be charged against your entitlement. If the course runs for two years, for example, you will have used six months of entitlement.

Q-I have just been discharged from military service. What is the time limit for applying for Korean GI insurance?

A-You must apply, and pay your first premium, within 90 days after the date of your discharge.

Q-I am a disabled veteran in school under Public Law 480. Would I be entitled to VA dental treatment if I need it to prevent interruption of my training?

A-Yes. You would be entitled to dental treatment to avoid interrupting your training.

Q-I am a World War II veteran, and I have been thinking of going to Canada and buying a farm. Could I use a GI loan to purchase a farm in Canada?

A-No. Under the law, a GI loan cannot be placed on property outside the United States or its territories or possessions.

Q-In computing my yearly income for VA pension purposes, do I include only my take-home salary or my gross salary including deductions?

A-You must include your gross salary, rather than your net take-home salary after deductions.

Car In Good Mechanical Shape

Driving conditions on crowded highways make it imperative that the State's automobile owners assume greater responsibility for the safety of their vehicles.

It was expressed today by Morris, executive director of the Highway Safety Council, in a statement announcing that the non-profit organization is undertaking a national program to encourage motorists to "Get a Safety Check, too" each time their cars are serviced.

Oil change and grease job are important to the life of any car," Morris said, "but a complete check of the key safety points on the automobile may be far more important to the life of the driver and the other occupants."

"Our surveys indicate that a regular 1,000 mi. lub check-up has become a habit with most automobile owners who are aware of the value of their car," he reported. Automotive Servicemen estimate, however, that not one in ten drivers ever ask for a check on the safety of brakes, lights, wheels steering mechanism, or other such key factors in safe driving.

"The standard practice, he said, 'seems to be to wait for trouble to develop and then hope that it does not cause a fatal or crippling crash before it can be corrected.'"

Morris said that the three-year old Texas inspection law had improved the general standard of mechanical safety for vehicles operating on Texas highways, but that the requirements for annual inspection do not include some key safety elements.

"On modern day automobiles and other vehicles, the steering mechanism deserves far more frequent and careful attention than it receives," he said as one illustration. "More than five major accidents each week are caused by steering failures and this does not include innumerable accidents in which the cause cannot be determined."

The Texas inspection law no longer requires inspection of the steering mechanism, Morris noted.

Morris said that the Highway Safety Council members hope to make regular voluntary safety inspection a regular habit among automobile owners when they leave their vehicles for servicing at garages.

"No amount of alertness, caution, or training can help a driver prevent an accident when his automobile fails for mechanical reasons while traveling at highway speeds," Morris said. Mechanical failures must be prevented before the driver gets on the highway."

Thoughts At The Sight Of A Redbird

Money couldn't buy from me The sight of a redbird, Or, better still, two redbirds Speaking to each other In their soft Southern language Reserved for their own domesticity In the privacy of their favorite tree, Or a peaceful deer, Glimpsed in the thicket As I am on my way to work; Why, once I saw a buck, A doe, and two small fawns, A family group, enjoying The cool of the morning. At such times, as I thrill Which He looked upon in the beginning And called it good, I always feel a pang of sorrow For those who cannot see, Who can't behold the beauties All about us, And I am made to think Of what a man who had gone blind Said in church one Sunday morning — He said that he was glad It was his physical eyesight He had lost Rather than the inner eye With which he saw

HELP... continue treatment for POLIO VICTIMS

ELIZABETH KENNY Polio FOUNDATION

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS - MINNEAPOLIS, MINNESOTA

Teams of Specialists Determine Needs of Kenny Polio Patients

Minneapolis, Minn. — Because no single individual can cope with all the problems posed by a severe case of poliomyelitis, the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation employs all the knowledge, ingenuity and skills that modern science can provide to meet the rehabilitation needs of patients hospitalized at its Kenny treatment centers across the country.

Doctors and Kenny Therapists play the major role in rehabilitation. Other highly-specialized personnel, ranging from laboratory technicians who can measure the exact quantity of oxygen in an iron lung patient's blood to individuals who design and build to order gadgets that can be substituted for missing muscles, frequently are pressed into service.

As soon as the initial stages of the patient's treatment are completed, he is placed under the care of an Occupational Therapist who seeks to build up his strength by giving him various projects to perform with the affected muscles. Kenny Therapists and Occupational Therapists are directed by doctors who specialize in physical medicine and rehabilitation.

As the patient progresses, social workers and job-placement experts work with him, his family and his employer to effect a successful adjustment and to help locate employment within the limits of his ability.

For example, at Elizabeth Kenny Institute in Minneapolis, headquarters for Kenny work throughout the country, a team of specially-trained people has worked together for a number of years and has treated nearly 10,000 cases of polio. It has become a smooth-functioning unit and is capable of effecting total rehabilitation of patients with a variety of partially-curable diseases.

The Kenny Foundation has broadened the scope of its services by incorporating the application of effective techniques and rehabilitation of patients with various neuro-muscular diseases.

WOODY'S FIX-IT CLINIC

Squeaking floor boards can be silenced by nailing them to the sub-flooring. Drive two-inch finishing nails in at an angle, close to the edges of the boards. Use a nail set to sink heads of the nails below board surface. Fill holes with Plastic Wood, a little over-full. When Plastic Wood has hardened, sand it down with medium-fine sandpaper. Touch up with paint or shellac to match boards.

You can work with less mess when using paint, stain or varnish from a small can, if you put the can in an old cup. The cup will catch any drippings that run down the sides of the can, and the cup handle makes it easy to hold or move the paint without smearing your fingers.

Good Bye To Summer

By R. D. Laney

The leaf, and fading tree, white in a sullen sea," famous good-bye to summer takes a sad note which is appropriate to the Americaner not for the arrival of autumn. For the departure of autumn. For the trees glow with reds and oranges with fall advances on the countryside. Paola Tosti wrote his "over which our mothers sighed" drawing room sighs after dinner in an elegant and Victorian decade, another sort of autumn. had become a London celebration wrote these silver days whose twilight at early tea time in London and over the downs in the southlands. The beauty of the season in the north differ very sharply will note when an up-summer in the USA south-lands loses its balance with suddenness into the year, a new era of color unfolds like a car-ny hue over the val-les hills. The beauty of the colored land fans into a glowering appreciation any spark of discontent that one may harbor in his dreams. The change keeps pace with the passing hours. The wind speaks of it more sharply from day to day, brushing a path for the silvered environment of frosted leaves and grass. There is a vigor in the air; the crisp loud snap of the autumn atmosphere is all around, in the field and pastures and wood along the streams.

A thunder shower, moving at last upon the countryside to break the long dry spell, brings a deep richness to the meadows and woods and pasture-lands. The shower comes with a moistening comfort to the parched fields. The brown of a summer pasture craves the welcome rain, and one watches the shower building up in the west. The hour seems as though it were a serene silence, with hardly a stir in the wind. The thunderheads work higher overhead, and the skies darken over the rim of the western hills. All is silent except the chattering of swallows dipping low in their flights over gardens and the fields.

The faint rumble of thunder gives an almost certain indication that relief is close at hand. The thunder grows louder, there is expectation and hope, and even before the shower is actually upon us, we hear the driving sheets of rain and wind sweeping over the neighboring woods.

Pools of water form in the hollowed pockets of the dry earth, and the shower is sufficient to start a trickle of water in the creek, dried by rainless weeks since early June.

As if the changing year did not come swiftly enough, more show-ers come to sweep over the hills and hurry the change along, spreading the flow of color and of frost, keeping in tune with the swiftness of the current of the stream. The liquid fingers of water touch the bright October leaves; the hues are even darker in the golden sun that follows. One is more aware after a shower, of the splashing tints of reds and browns and yellows that assume so brilliantly their role over the once soft green of a summer hill. Unseen pencils and brushes color the land in gowns that soften even the shadows of night.

A person thinks of the change itself as something like the dawn that pushes its way over the night. There are the deep dark hours. The next thing one knows, the hour of dawn has come. And so it is with the season of summer, putting aside its green hills and woodland for a rich autumnal gown. The thermometer shows less red in the morning now when the mercury dips lower and lower into the realm of frost. A whole new world seems to have moved in upon the hills and valleys, overnight.

Good study habits are easier to form...

when LIGHT is RIGHT for homework!

Your school-age youngster will form good study habits more quickly when lighting is right for homework. Good lighting aids concentration... makes homework seem easier... helps develop good study habits that can contribute so much to future success. Check the lighting under which your child studies. Make sure there is enough light to prevent eye-strain and fatigue.

See your dealer now for the lamps and right-size bulbs you need. He'll gladly help you with suggestions.

A 150-watt bulb is recommended for best light from a table study lamp. The lamp should be placed close to the work area. A diffusing bowl is recommended to soften the light and prevent glare.

Two wall lamps with 100-watt bulbs in diffusing bowls may be used against a light-colored wall or tackboard. This arrangement leaves entire desk top free for books and work papers.

Emil Schroeders Return From Month's Interesting Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schroeder have just returned from a month's vacation, spending most of their time with a daughter and her family in South Dakota.

They visited relatives in Hartley, Texas, Olney Springs and Boulder, Colo., before arriving at the Lyle Eatons in Rapid City, South Dakota.

Every day brought new and exciting adventures as they saw the beauties of the Black Hills, Mt. Rushmore Memorial, a likeness of Presidents Washington, Jefferson, T. Roosevelt, and Lincoln carved into a solid granite mountain proportionate to men 465 feet tall was the first "must". From there a drive through the Needles offered some unusual sights in the form of tunnels, pig-tail bridges, and rock formations.

Rapid City attractions included Skyline Drive and the world's largest Reptile Garden, Dinosaur Park with its prehistoric animals, the School of Mines Museum, a tour through Wildcat Cave, and a visit to the State Fish Hatchery.

The most fantastic trip was to the Badlands, where one of the strangest formation of ravines and ridges found on earth were seen.

Topping off all of this was a trip to Yellowstone National Park. Mr. Schroeder's cousin and husband from Boulder, Colo., met them in Rapid City and all went west in two cars, past Devil's Tower and the most breath-taking drive over Granite Pass, down switch-back curves into the canyons of the Big Horn Mountains. Yellowstone Park offered unbelievable sights, and many colored pictures were taken.

After returning to Rapid City one more trip was made north through historical old Deadwood, and Lead, where the largest producing gold mine in the western hemisphere is located, through Spearfish Canyon, and then to the Black Hills Passion Play—a spine-tingling performance of
