Delores Fleming Candidate for Queen of Rodeo

BIG PARADE WEDNESDAY

Kiddie Parade Friday Afternoon 2:30 P. M.

To Form On Ave. D From City Park To High School 4 p. m.

The highlight of the Boom Town Celebration for the little folk will be the Kiddies' Parade Friday afternoon, June 15th. The parade will kick off from the corner of Ave. D and 2nd St. promptly at 2:30. That means the kiddies will have to assemble by 2:00 or before in order to be placed in their respective divisions, numbered and registered. The chairmen of each division will have large cardboard numbers to pin on the sleeve of each entrant. The name of the child will be registered on a sheet with the corresponding number. (That is the only way the judges have of identifying the winners—by the numbers).

(8) Bicycles.
(9) Mounted Cowgirls and Cowboys.
The parade will proceed to Main Street, travel West to the corner of Ave. B and turn south to disband along Mills Elevator. Dow Estes will announce the kiddies as they pass by the Corner Drug Store. Immediately after the procession has passed, winners from the various divisions will be announced. Then the little ones, some five or six hundred strong, will go to the Palace Theatre where Manager Wayne Wallace has arranged for a dandy entertainment program. There will be two comedies and a genuine Western shoot 'em up. The winners may pick up their prizes after the show from Kiddies' Parade chairman H. D. Smith at the Burkburnett Laundry office on Avenue D.

First, second and third prizes are offered in each division for boys and girls, with the exception of the Unique division—only three prizes offered in this division.
Parade Marshal Ralph Davis will line up the parade as follows:
Three Flag bearers—the American Flag, flanked by Texas and Oklahoma flags.
Next, the Junior High Band.
(3) Bluebirds.
(4) Cub Scouts.
(5) Boy Scouts.
(6) Girls and Boys Tricycles.
(7) Unique Group.

Committee helpers in charge of the divisions:
Ray Matherly, I. C. Evans and H. L. Connell, Cubs and Scouts.
Mrs. Ralph Davis, Mrs. I. C. Evans, Unique group.
Mrs. George Byerly and Mrs. Goldena Griffin, Bicycles.
Mrs. Margarette Luke and Miss Katie Luke, Tricycles.
B. O. Willis and Wayne Wallace, Cowgirls and Cowboys.
H. D. Smith and Buster Morgan, General Flunkies.
Jim Turner and Willis Bartley, Officers.

To Start Promptly At 5:00 P. M.

Wendell Goins, parade chairman, says the big affair will be kicked off promptly at 5:00 P. M. Wednesday, June 13th. The parade will form on Ave. D from the City Park to the High School. Floats will meet at the Park on the Wichita Falls highway; cars at the Park on the Gulf Road; Riding Clubs and horses at the Park on LaSalle Road. All horses will be unloaded at the rodeo grounds. Thirteen Riding Clubs have written they would be here for the annual parade. Other entries will be floats, old cars, new decorated cars, bands, the Queen candidates and their attendants, and dignitaries. Spectators may get a good view of the parade anywhere along Avenue D, or on the Main drag down town.

LIONS CLUB Meets at Town Hall, 7:00 P. M. Each Tuesday

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

FALLON, NEV., STANDARD: "The truth is that the right to work is as fundamental as religious freedom and the right of free speech, free assembly, and free press. Where the right to work does not exist, there is no real freedom."

TERRRE HAUTE, IND., TRIBUNE STAR: "The great foundation on which free representation government rests is free private enterprise. Government in business eats away at that foundation."

CARLSBAD, N. M. CURRENT-ARGUS: "Governor Averill Harriman of New York suggests getting completely off the New York highways all who have proved to be unfit as drivers. As yardstick for fitness, the Governor stated that two offenses should call at least for suspension. He reminded that when he formerly was 'working on the railroad,' an employee was suspended when involved in just one accident."

TELL CITY, IND., NEWS: "It seems that warm months offer many new means for the fast buck guy to operate. The field of operation may include everything from fake roof and gutter cleaners to phony telephone quizzes. Actually there is no need for this to happen. There is a cure. Let the fellows who are in business in local concerns do your work."

THEY'RE YOUR DIMES

"A good thing to remember," says the Abilene, Kans., Daily Reflector, "in these days of all kinds of 'federal aids' is that the federal government hasn't got a dime that it doesn't take away from the people, so it can't give anything to a school system, building program, county welfare, flood control, crop surpluses or anything else, without first having taken it away from the people."

In this gigantic federal process of taking and giving, a large chunk of the local taxpayer's dollar goes to support the bureaucracy which provides "give away" services that in most cases could be better handled locally in the first place. Moreover, the money that is taken from the people and returned in part under the guise of "federal aid" is to a large extent extracted from the taxpayers indirectly. The next time you hear the political cry for a higher tax on a business of an industry, you should remember that the latter are like government too, in one respect. They have no money except what they take from consumers in payment for products or services. Their profits are either regulated by law or by competition. When additional taxes are levied against them they are forced to become collection agencies for government. The taxes are passed along to their customers.

The old saying that you can't get something for nothing is still true, even though many of us act like we don't believe it.

LOVE THAT BILL

In Sponsoring the Kennedy-Payne accounting reform bill, Senator Harry F. Byrd declared that he'd been trying for ten years to achieve one its major objectives, to end the carrying over by Government agencies of enormous unspent balances from year to year. Except where long-range programs (that cannot be completed in a year) are involved, the new bill would require an agency to turn back its left over money to the Treasury at the end of each fiscal year.

Considering that the current total of such old, left over money is 74 billion dollars, we can all wish that Senator Byrd had reached this goal ten years ago. That kind of money would allow for quite a tax reduction.

Boom Town Celebration Rodeo Coming to Burk June 13-15

CLOSE TEAM WORK BETWEEN ROPER AND HORSE are the most important requirements for successful calf roping. Here, the roper has settled his loop on the calf and the horse is braking to a sudden stop as the rider dismounts to tie the calf. The horse will back to keep the rope taut as the cowboy rapidly ties any three feet with the pigging string he carries in his teeth. This is one of the thrilling events to be presented at the Boom Town Celebration Rodeo JUNE 13 - 14 - 15 at Morgan Stadium.

Hints Offered On Pasture Mowing

Mowing is an important practice in the management of cultivated pastures. Mowing weeds, sprouts, bushes, briars and also vines helps eliminate them and makes conditions more favorable for grass. Also, says B. T. Haws, county agricultural agent. Mowing cultivated pasture grasses tends to keep them in a growing condition and more palatable and nutritious.

Haws suggests that mowing be started when the worst weeds begin to bloom. They are weakest and damaged most by mowing when blooming. All weeds should be mowed before they can produce seeds, and some such as eastern bitterweed, a pest in Bermuda grass pastures, often makes enough regrowth to mature seed after even two mowings. Make the first mowing for bitterweeds high but lower each succeeding clipping to prevent seed production on the mowed stubble. Fall blooming weeds like yankee or rosinwood may need a summer mowing and another when fall blooming begins.

Any heavy duty power take-off mower when properly equipped can be used for mowing brush and sprouts up to an inch in diameter. The vegetation to be mowed will determine the type of clips, guards and sickle to use for best results. Rotary or chredier type mowers can be operated at faster speeds than cutter bar mowers but cannot be used if hay or silage is to be made from the clippings.

Haws says that some stockmen have said they lost grazing by mowing last summer, because they mowed the pastures too short and continued mowing after moisture supplies were too low to permit the grass to make regrowth.

Weed control with chemicals is being used more and more. It is often a cheaper method. Most annual broad-leaved weeds can be controlled with a half to three-quarters of a pound an acre of 2, 4-D or MCP, applied in water as a broadcast spray. But chemical control also has disadvantages. Even at the low rates chemicals may damage or kill pasture legumes such as red clover, crimson and white clover, lespedeza, black medic and alfalfa. Too, the material will damage susceptible crops like cotton, tomatoes, and sweet-clover if it drifts onto them.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Chambers will leave Saturday for the Rio Grande Valley where they will attend the Firemen's Convention. Dick plans to do a little fishing along the coast and they will also visit points of interest in Old Mexico.

Mrs. Frances Dunaway and daughter Carol Sue of Harlingen, Texas are visiting her mother, Mrs. Lerah Inman and other relatives here this week.

On A Keg of Bucking Dynamite With Only One Rein to Steady the Rider

There is something about a bucking horse that thrills every rodeo fan. A rodeo without wild horses would be like potatoes or fish without salt. Beutler and Morgan, rodeo producers furnishing the stock this year, have been successful in rounding up some of the worst bucking stock that ever came out of a rodeo chute—bar none.

Coccidiosis Threatens The Poultry Flocks

Coccidiosis is one of the most destructive diseases of poultry, and is a continuous threat to the flock of every poultryman, says B. T. Haws, county agent.

Eight species of coccidia are found, though only four causes real difficulty to chickens. The disease is intestinal with each species of coccidia attacking a particular part of the intestine. The disease organisms go thru their life cycle largely in cells of the intestinal lining causing severe hemorrhages when infection is heavy.

Mature coccidia, called oocysts are spread to other birds thru droppings. Symptoms of the disease develop slowly in a flock. Chickens show evidence of weakness in feathers. They huddle together as if cold and there is a drop in feed consumption. Early diagnosis by a competent laboratory is necessary if corrective medication is to be applied soon enough to head off disastrous losses, says Haws.

Drugs for medication are now available from hatcheries, feed mills and veterinarians. Recommendations for treatment should be followed exactly as outlined on the container, cautions Haws. Chickens' quarters should be kept clean and dry and all wet areas should be removed and replaced with dry litter.

It is possible that only enough coccidia organisms may be picked up to cause a light infection. This does little harm and helps the chickens build up resistance to the particular species of coccidia that caused the infection.

Use of preventative drugs called coccidiostats is widespread, to prevent severe losses and at the same time allow light infection that will develop immunity. This protection is provided by using low preventative levels of certain drugs in feed till birds are eight or nine weeks old. Some poultrymen feel that a preventative level of these drugs should be fed to pullets during the first two or three weeks after they have been moved into floor type laying houses, says Haws.

Soil Conservation District News

Field terraces are constructed by farmers to intercept the flow of water across cultivated land, according to Soil Conservation Service Technicians. After flow of water has been reduced, it is carried to a safe outlet for disposal.

Soil Conservation Service, assisting soil conservation districts, cite the following advantages of terraces: (1) reduces length of slope, (2) reduces soil and water loss, (3) permits more intensive use of the land, (4) properly constructed terraces are an effective supporting conservation practice.

Terraces are not a complete conservation treatment for the land and will need supporting practices such as contour tillage, stubble mulching, and a conservation crop rotation.

Mrs. Wymore Downing of Wichita Falls and Ed Hieserman of Clara are planning construction of terraces in June. Contractors are available, and Wichita County ASC provides 70% of cost of construction. SCS is available for planning and necessary engineering to insure the best terracing job possible.

Bareback Riding

ABOVE THE HARD GROUND the bareback rider is busily to the simple hand hold between his legs as his only way of sticking on the horse. Without a rein, the horse is completely uncontrolled, can do anything possible to rid himself of the rider. Without a hand to help him keep his seat or stirrups to take part in the shock of the bucking and help him keep his balance the rider in this rodeo event is at a definite disadvantage.

Notes from County Agent and HD Agent

A county-wide tractor meeting will be held in the 4-H center on Thursday, June 7th beginning at 7:45 for all 4-H club boys. Frank Morton is president of the Tractor club and Olen Baley is secretary. All 4-H boys are urged to attend, as plans will be made for the tractor Driver's contest.

The Friberg-Cooper, City View and Clara-Fairview winners will receive cash awards on Wednesday, July 11 beginning at 7:30. The place for the meeting will be set at a later date.

Most of the farmers in the county have planted their cotton and are getting good stands. Farmers are urged to follow an insect control program. A 1956 guide for controlling Cotton insects may be secured at the county agent's office.

Merchandising methods for most food products have undergone radical changes within the past few years, but in the case of eggs, B. T. Haws, county agent says not many new approaches have been used to inform consumers about egg values at the retail level. Do you know the food value contained in a pound of eggs or how many eggs are required to weigh one pound?

Proper land use and stocking rates, deferred and rotation grazing, brush control, reseeded, cross-fencing and salt and water distribution are listed by B. T. Haws as tools of range management.

Bluestone may be successfully used to clear water troughs, ponds or reservoirs of green scum. Ask your local county agent for a copy of L-55.

The Texas Farm and Ranch safety council reports that at least one Texan of late has beat the 14 to 1 odds against the tractor driver surviving an accident with an automobile. The next driver may not be so lucky. Do not take chances with unmarked or unlighted tractors on public roads or highways your life depends on it.

You loose time, labor and money when your canned food spoils

If quality is poor, the food may lose appeal and nutritive value. Three causes of food spoilage are: under processing, faulty seals and improper handling, according to Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

Work for top quality in your canned products by following these suggestions from the agent. Use your tender products. Gather and can in the cool of the morning. Can in small amounts. Clean food thoroughly—keep all utensils and containers clean. Use aluminum enamel or glass for holding or pre-cooking food. Aim for speed in preparation. One hour from the garden to can is ideal.

Use proper type of can or jar for food being canned. Have food hot when sealed unless canning vegetables by one-step cold-pack method. Get a good seal. Do not overcook or underprocess.

Cool quickly. Store in a dark, dry place. Store in a cool place, 50-70 degrees F. Get latest information on canning from your county home demonstration agent, 305 Federal Building, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Also ask for the material on how to prevent spoilage and poor quality in home canned food given in Extension Leaflet 276.

Dairy Barns Need Fly Protection

As warm weather begins in earnest, an all-out effort should be made to control the population of house flies in dairy barns. Texas A&M entomologists have been conducting a series of experiments for the purpose of finding more effective controls of the flies. Experimentation with various insecticides began in 1953, states B. T. Haws, county agent. Several different insecticides used with different methods of application in determining most effective control. Treated strings suspended from ceilings, syrup baits and residual sprays were all considered. Results indicated residual sprays to be most satisfactory, while diazinon, malathion and chlordion were the most effective material used. To determine the most effective of these insecticides and most satisfactory concentration, experiments were conducted near College Station in 1955. Results were based on average number of days protection given by each application at various concentrations of each insecticide. The insecticides were used as wettable powders and emulsions at various concentrations, says Haws. Malathion emulsifiable concentrate diluted to two and 1-2 and five percent gave protection for 47 and 87 days, respectively. Diazinon as a 1-2 of one and one percent wettable powder gave protection for 87 and 73 days respectively. As an emulsifiable concentrate diluted to 1-2 of one and one percent diazinon gave 74 and 48 days protection respectively. Diazinon was used at one percent concentrate only in barns where sanitation was extremely poor and where there were numerous nearby fly breeding areas.

Mr. Joe Brown and daughter Dora Ann of Hobbs, N. M. were weekend guests in the home of Mrs. B. H. Preston.

C. A. (Buster) Morgan of Burkburnett One of Boom Town Rodeo Producers

Burkburnett's own Buster Morgan is one of the rodeo producers who will furnish stock for this year's rodeo. The other half of the partnership, Elray Beutler of Elk City, Oklahoma, is not a newcomer to the Burkburnett show. He is one of the Beutler Bros. who have furnished the stock here for the past several years. Rounding up a string of rodeo stock is not an easy task. Beutler and Morgan have about 150 bucking horses for saddle broncs and bareback broncs. A good bucking horse works less than one minute each year and is worth from $500.00 to $1,000.00! A good bucking Brahma bull sells for around $600.00. The dogging steers, good for less than one season because they get too big, cost about $125.00 to $150.00.

The Scouts and committeemen want to thank the merchants and citizens of Burkburnett for making it possible for the Scouts to own their own bus.

(The Burkburnett Scouts recently acquired a school bus for transportation from money contributed by local friends of the Scouts. The bus is in excellent condition mechanically and is being painted and signs being placed on the sides. Incidentally, some who wanted to contribute to the bus fund but were not contacted may see Ray Matherly.)

Mr. G. T. Roberts was returned to his home here this week from a Wichita Falls hospital, where he underwent surgery recently. He is reported to be doing nicely at the present time.

Saddle Bronc Riding

HIGH ON THE HURRICANE DECK of a pitching saddle bronc, a cowboy spurs over the break of the shoulders and hangs onto the rope halter rein. If his free hand touches any part of the horse, the saddle or himself, he's disqualified and he can't wrap the rein around his hand or change hands while riding. He must ride eight seconds to qualify depending on the rules set at the rodeo, and spur the rose from shoulder to flank all through the ride to earn the high score it takes to win.

Room Town Celebration Rodeo Coming to Burk June 13-15

AVING A FALLEN COWBOY FROM POSSIBLE DEATH or serious injury, the present rodeo clown throws a cape in the face of an enraged brahma bull to keep him away from the helpless bull rider who was thrown the instant before. This life-saving task is the most important job of the clown and one of the most dangerous in rodeo. In the background other contestants keep a respectful distance and are ready to scale the fence if the brahma turns their way.

Colleges Need to Be Supported

The private, independent colleges and universities of the nation must be supported so they can carry their share of the load of our educational system. It is a healthy and vigorous system, members of Texas Christian University's graduating class were told Friday night.

There is no magic in any particular ratio between enrollment in private and public institutions. Dr. Theodore A. Distler of Washington, D. C., executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges.

But it would be a sad day for American higher education when private colleges and universities failed to play a significant part. They are our main guarantee of the diversity and flexibility which have always been strength and glory of our educational system and such will insure its healthy and vigorous growth to meet future needs.

Dr. Distler was the main speaker for the exercises held out of doors on campus. Degrees were awarded to 340 graduates and nursing certificates to 11. A crowd of some 3,000 attended.

Pres. M. E. Sadler conferred the degrees on the graduates as the classes were presented by the deans of the various schools and colleges.

An honorary LL.D. degree was conferred on Dr. Distler and an honorary D. D. degree on Rev. William E. Wright of Shreveport who was the baccalaureate speaker last Sunday.

In his address, Dr. Distler, a former president of Franklin and Marshall College, pointed out that every single citizen has a personal responsibility for contributing to the support of higher education as a vital element in the national well-being.

He has a special responsibility for giving both material and moral support to an educational institution which is located in his own community and intimately related with its life, he said.

Alumni should take the lead because they have a unique position as stockholders, so to speak, in this educational enterprise. Their holdings are inalienable. Their responsibilities will be life long, the speaker said.

The men and women who are graduating tonight will carry on the traditions of the pioneers who built Ft. Worth, the State of Texas and this great nation. But they will have no untrodden territory to explore, no geographical frontier to extend. Instead they will face the challenge of a new-age, the atomic age with its manifold dangers and opportunities, an age in which Texas and Turkey and Thailand are all parts of one rapidly contracting world and cannot arrange their affairs independent of each other."

He also warned against educational and intellectual stagnation.

We must not let material prosperity beguile us into spurious conservatism which is simply timorous stagnation, a nervous repetition that all is for the best in the best of all possible societies, an irritable resistance to change because change involves risk. This nation would never have existed if the men who founded it had not been willing to take risks.

Dr. Distler called American an adventure and pointed out that education, always a central element in the American dream, is an adventure too.

Colleges and Universities are not designed to train the new generation of citizens to fit painlessly into the pattern of things as they are. On the contrary their job is to turn out men and women desirous and capable of building an ever better world."

He expressed the opinion that it is both useless and mischievous to try to protect youth from "dangerous thoughts." He said that young people are always attracted by the unorthodox and to place a ban on it merely gives it false glamour.

"Original thought is subversive only in a stagnant society," he continued. For a dynamic society like ours it is the very breath of life. An institution of higher education that restricts the free flow of ideals and the free play of discussion on its campus is betraying its trust toward its own students and the American people.

He quoted from Jefferson that Americans need not be afraid to follow truth wherever it may lead, nor to tolerate error so long as reason is left free to combat it.

Helpful Hints Offered On Hay Making Practices

The quality of the hay crop can be materially affected by practices employed in connection with cutting, curing and storing, says B. T. Haws, county agent.

Quality of the crop is affected by the stage of growth of the hay plants at cutting time. In general, Haws says, the younger the crop at cutting time, the higher the quality but the lower the yield. Therefore, he adds, the crop must be cut at a stage of growth that gives the best compromise between yield and quality.

The best stage for cutting Coastal Bermuda, says the county agent, is when the plants are 16-18 inches high; for Common when the plants are in the early bloom stage; for bluestem, boot to early bloom; Johnson grass and Sudan, boot stage; sorghums, hard dough stage or later.

For legumes, Haws likes to cut alfalfa when the plants are in the tenth to a fourth bloom stage. Cowpeas when the first pods turn yellow and before the lower leaves begin to drop; and sweetclover in the bud stage before blooming and vetch when in full bloom.

As for curing, Haws says the usual practice in making legume hay is to cut, wilt and windrow the plants. Windrowing is necessary to prevent the loss of the leaves. Grasses may be left in the swath after cutting until almost ready to bale. Curing of both legumes and grass should be completed as quickly as possible to preserve quality — sunlight, rain and dew lower the quality. Over curing results in losses of leaves, nutrients, day matter and color. Uncured hay, however, is high in moisture and often heats, molds and spoils. Hay usually can be safely baled and stored when the moisture percent is 18 or lower.

Mechanical drying insures the least loss of nutrients and color, says Haws. Another practice which offers some advantages over baling is chopping and storing loose. The entire crop is cut, then picked up with a forage harvester and chopped into 3 or 4 inch lengths. The chopped hay is blown into a truck or trailer and is stored loose in the barn or stack. It may be elided and thus labor saved.

Miss Shirley Raley Riding Club Entry In Contest to Determine Rodeo Queen

The Burkburnett Riding Club's entry in the Rodeo Queen contest is Miss Shirley Raley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Raley. The Queen, to be presented at the initial rodeo performance Wednesday night, June 13th, will reign during the rodeo, which ends Friday night.

NEW PURINA Bite-Size CHECKER PLAN OF GROWING PULLETS

CUTS GROWING COST by cutting feed waste

Compared to usual mash feeding, the new Bite-Size Checker plan can make a big cut in your growing cost. Chicks start eating the new, smaller Checkers when only 4 to 6 weeks old. It takes less feed because pullets spill less out of the hoppers. And the few Checkers that are spilled are quickly picked up—not lost on the ground like mash.

Save more money with PURINA PULLET DEVELOPER

When pullets are 10 weeks old, change to Pullet Developer Checkers which produce a big laying bird at still lower cost.

Ben Ramsey Seeks Re-Election As Lieut. Governor

Soil and water conservation and greater protection for Texas families through good services and stability in government are the major issues on which Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey will campaign for re-election this summer.

and industry. Water is the key to both.

"People throughout Texas have made great strides in soil and water saving practices in the past 10 years." He added, "The state must give full assistance to equitable plans for conservation at the local level if we are to maintain a sound economy and reach our true potential."

On plans for protection of Texas families, Ramsey said the government must effect rigid rules of conduct and exacting controls over blind forces of influence. Ramsey cited the need for (1) strict curbs on lobbying; (2) stiff narcotic penalties, with life imprisonment or death penalty for the second conviction on charge of selling to minors; (3) eliminating loan sharks; and (4) an unceasing watch to assure families their insurance policies are sound.

Ramsey, who spearheaded the move to rid the insurance industry of "parasites" and eliminate fraudulent investments schemes, said the results have been tremendous.

"Time and experience," Ramsey said, will determine whether the barricades in our new laws are high enough and solid enough to keep ruthless speculators from preying upon the public. The scavengers will be back at the next session of the Legislature in attempt to gain back their lost special privileges.

"My ambition," Ramsey said, "is to wage the fight through to complete assurance of full protection to the public in all phases of government."

Ramsey, a life-long resident of San Augustine, lives at his farm home three miles from town, with his wife, the former Florine Hankla, and their two daughters, Rita Rhea six years of age, and Ann, three years.

YES, THERE WILL BE FLOATS IN THE BIG PARADE WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13th, opening day of the Rodeo. The parade starts at 5:00 o'clock. Above is shown one of the prize winning floats of previous years. Several of the civic clubs are working on entries for this year, but they are so secretive that no advance information has leaked out. NOTE TO FLOAT SPONSORS: Wendel Goins, parade chairman, should be informed about your entry. The first to report gets first choice as to position in the parade. Others will be assigned positions as they make their reports.

Hugh Fewin Gets Gold Medal of Excellence Award

Hugh Fewin may not be an All-American next fall, but the Texas Tech halfback has received an even more exclusive honor.

Eleven men make up an All-American team, but only nine men over the nation besides Fewin this spring won the "Gold Medal of Excellence" given next semester's senior ROTC cadets by the Society of American Military Engineers.

ROTC honors are nothing new for Fewin. For example, he's a cadet lieutenant colonel, commanding the entire Engineer ROTC Battalion at Texas Tech. As a Distinguished Military Student, he's eligible for a regular army commission, as was an earlier Tech halfback, Bobby Vavazos.

Last summer he was outstanding cadet in his training company at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. Fewin is active in more than ROTC and football. He has been re-elected to the Tech Student Council and chosen to "Who's Who on Tech Campus".

Despite all his extra-curricular activity, the former Burkburnett High valedictorian manages a B average in a not-so-easy course of civil engineering.

Yelling at children isn't likely to make home a howling success.

First Meeting Of Recreation Program Will Be June 11th

The summer recreation program for the boys of Burkburnett will start Monday, June 11 at 10:00 a. m. The boys are requested to meet at the Jr. High school gym where jerseys and caps will be issued and the organization of the various teams will be worked out. All boys who will be playing at any time during the summer are encouraged to meet at this time. The collection for the bottom sale will be made at this time.

The coaches have arranged the program so that it will not interfere with the various church vacation bible schools.

Hot Weather Is A Threat to Egg Quality

When daytime temperatures hit 90 degrees, egg quality will hit the skids; unless egg producers make some changes in management practices, says B. T. Haws, county agent.

From now until cool weather in the fall, refrigeration is a must if high egg quality is to be maintained. Haws says that 55 degrees F. is the minimum temperature for maintaining proper egg environment. Too, eggs must be gathered more often during hot weather with three times a day gathering as a minimum.

Low quality is costly to producers selling on grade. "A" quality eggs or similar size normally bring four to six cents, a dozen more than B quality eggs. Eggs can be properly cooled for as little as 10 cents a case.

Adequate cooling, points out the county agent, is no substitute for frequent marketings. Even with good refrigeration, eggs should be delivered to the grading station either twice or three times a week.

Good cooling, says Haws means getting the animal heat out of the egg in the shortest possible time and at the lowest cost. A cooling unit containing a tray holding wire baskets with egg cases is the most desirable cooling equipment. Added egg come from the use of such a will soon retire its cost.

Bringing Old Blue Around the Barrels!

One of the Featured Rodeo Events

One of the features of each rodeo performance will be the girls' barrel race. This event will be staged by members of the G. R. A. (Girls Rodeo Association). Speed, perfect timing and good riding all enter into this event. Barrels are set up in the arena, usually in a cloverleaf pattern. This is a timed event. Time begins when the horse leaves the starting line and quits when each barrel has been circled and the rider crosses the finish line. It takes years to train a good barrel horse. Some of them can circle the barrels at an unbelievably high speed, never losing stride—they just lean as in the above picture, to keep their flying feet under them.
