Are Blood Element Furnished Burkburnett Boy by Red Cross To Help Ward Off Disease Germs

Something new has been added to Red Cross services. Recently a 15 year old boy, Jimmie Park, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Park, in Burkburnett, was diagnosed as having a rare blood deficiency disease called hypogammaglobulinemia.

His blood lacked factors to fight infection and disease. The deficiency may be inherited or acquired. He was like a country without an army and surrounded by enemies.

Could the Red Cross help? Yes it could. Through the services of Dr. J. A. Davey of Burkburnett, I. L. Humphrey and E. W. Irvine, director of the Wichita County blood center, the Red Cross said they would extract the missing link from outdated blood and provide it for the patient without charge.

Regular injections of the missing substances from an antibodies or gamma globulin are being administered to the patient by his physician. This enables the patient's blood to fight back when disease attacks and permits him to live a more normal life.

Many families in Wichita County receive some type of Red Cross service each year without being aware that Red Cross had any part in it.

It may have been counsel and help to a man or woman in the military service to their families. It could have been blood for a very sick patient or relief for disaster victims. But whether it was training in first aid, water safety, home care of the sick or other services, it was mostly provided by volunteers. Red Cross is basically a volunteer organization.

There are eight types of services provided by the Wichita County chapter. Service to armed forces and veterans and their families; blood service, disaster service, nursing service, first aid service, water safety service, community service and Junior Red Cross service.

The Red Cross Wichita County blood bank, founded in 1947, following on the heels of World War II and the Korean conflict, in which 19,000,000 pints of blood were collected by the Red Cross for the U. S. Armed forces all over the world. In 1957, the Red Cross collected and processed 3,420 pints of blood for patients in Wichita County. 117 pints of blood were used by Burkburnett people of which 77 pints have been replaced. The blood is donated by friends and relatives of patients who use it. However, the average cost to the Red Cross for processing the blood before delivering it to the hospital is about seven dollars a pint which is paid out of money raised by the Red Cross drives.

Since October 1947 when the blood bank was organized, it has provided over 30,000 pints of blood at no cost to the patient for the blood itself. Hospitals make a standard charge for crossmatching the blood with the patients blood and for administering it to the patient. Figures alone cannot tell the story of blood, but rather through the

Watch for This Weekly Feature Burk Star Begins Cartoon Series on Local Business

The STAR is beginning a series of editorial and institutional cartoons that pertain and deflect to the various types of businesses that are in Burkburnett. They show in a humorous way the advantages and the importance of buying in Burkburnett with local merchants.

Your money means more to you when you spend it here in Burkburnett. Let's reflect on this for a moment or two.

Local merchants and their employees are usually your fellow citizens, your neighbors, your friends. They stand behind their counters, on their display room floors, always ready to serve you in a courteous manner though the hours are long. They are always ready and anxious to stand behind the merchandise that is sold.

Prices are usually the same if not lower here in Burkburnett, especially in these days of "Fair Trade" times. The service is certainly better, the delivery is much quicker and it is far less trouble all around. A good thing to remember is — the more you buy from Burkburnett merchants, the better they can serve you.

Another reason, probably the most important reason why you should buy in Burkburnett is — money spent with local merchants helps meet local payrolls, helps pay local taxes, helps local schools, churches, fire department, police services, helps local charities, improves sanitary services and what have you.

Your money works its way directly into the life blood of the community and it works directly or indirectly for the good of the community.

A unique program provided by the Wichita County chapter is the Red Cross Community Council, in which Burkburnett is active. It brings together the resources of 56 other organizations who combine to serve the patients at SAFB hospital. The council supplies cookies, cakes, refreshments, games, flower arrangements, prizes, phonograph records, cigarettes, musical instruments and other items for American boys who are sick away from home in a military hospital.

Plan to Permit Direct Calling To Wichita Falls Without Toll Presented Council by Tele. Co.

A plan to permit calling between Burkburnett and Wichita Falls without payment of a long distance charge for each telephone call was outlined to the City Commission here Monday night by representatives of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

"A substantial number of Burkburnett citizens have asked if such service could be provided and if so what the cost would be," Dub Deuschle, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said.

"We presented this plan to the city commission as a result of these requests," he added.

At present, the person to person long distance rate for a three minute call between the two cities is 40 cents and the station to station charge is 20 cents.

Under the plan outlined to the city commission—called Extended Area Service by the telephone company — Burkburnett telephone customers could dial any Wichita Falls telephone without paying a long distance charge.

"Calling Wichita Falls would be like making a local call in Burkburnett," the manager explained.

The study of what would be required to provide Extended Area Service shows that considerable additional equipment would be necessary both at Wichita Falls and Burkburnett. Also, it would be necessary to provide additional lines to handle increased calling between the two cities, Deuschle said.

In addition to this increased investment, the company would lose all revenues from long distance calling between the two cities.

The additional investment and loss of long distance revenue would require, at this time, the following rates for Extended Area Service: $4.75 monthly for residence two-party service, $6.25 for one-party residence service, and $14.50 monthly for business telephone service. The company's guarantee for semi-public telephone service, used by a number of smaller businesses, would be 30 cents daily.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

McCLURE, PA., PLAIN DEALER: "An eminent college professor once declared that the American people are more than 50 percent illiterate in their effective ability to understand adult reading matter. He asserted that half the population is unable to read any printed material above the 7th grade level. Obviously the educator was telling us that we read carelessly, without comprehending the import of the words we see. We scan the language without appropriating the thoughts and without consciously attempting to absorb the reasonable implications of the words."

MARYVILLE, TENN., ENTERPRISE: "A foremost authority has suggested that we in the United States spend less time denouncing Communism and more time selling capitalism. It is a good suggestion, particularly by educators—while the Communists have been propagandizing the results and achievements of Communism (and there have been some), we have been falling short in this field—as far as capitalism is concerned."

BUFFALO, S. D., TIMES HERALD: "Although our 5,000 mile Atlas missile program was born 11 years ago, the contract was killed by executive order in 1949. It was rejuvenated by the present administration. The Thor and Jupiter 1500 mile missiles were born two years ago and are already being put into production. Polaris, a submarine-based 1500 mile missile which promises to be one of the most significant weapons in our arsenal was born a year ago. This is the more practical phase of missile development and shows the great strides made in only the past two years, since our missile program has been put into high gear."

CLATON, ALA., CHILTON COUNTY NEWS: "Even if the world owed every man a living, some folks wouldn't have sense enough to show up on pay day."

Passenger - Freight Tax Should Go

As a wartime measure to increase government income Congress enacted a law placing a 10 percent transportation tax on train, plane and bus fares. At the same time, a 3 per cent tax was levied on freight charges. World War II and the Korean War are now in the past, yet we still pay these taxes. However, for the first time in years, there now seems a likelihood that Congress is in a mood to repeal the measure. A bill calling for repeal is now in the Senate interstate and foreign commerce committee and it is reported that 13 of the committee's 15 members will vote to have the bill reported favorably.

The traveler is more aware of the passenger fare levy, yet a greater evil exists in the tax on freight movements because it affects everyone, businessman and private citizen alike. Like all taxes, this freight impost is paid in the end by the consumer. Furthermore, the freight tax is often levied many times over, as for example, when raw materials go into transit, again when the manufactured product is shipped from the mill, then down the line through wholesale and distributor and retailer to consumer. The long haul shipper is hurt most because the tax is a flat percentage of the total charge. And because shipments from foreign countries are not taxed, the measure gives Canadian and Mexican shippers a 3 percent edge on domestic industry.

Both these taxes are an unnecessary and an unjust drag on the economy and combined they bring in a comparatively small proportion of total tax revenue to the government. They should be repealed.

Not All Crops Are "Political"

A good many people who have no personal connection with farming may think that the government supports and subsidizes all agricultural production. But that is not the case. Supports apply only to six so-called basic crops, which are frequently and accurately called the "political crops." And these six crops, as Karl D. Butler, a leading agricultural economist points out, make up only 24 percent of the value of all crops.

He adds: "What most people forget is that some of the most important commodities are not price-supported by the government. For example, livestock and their products represent more than half of the gross income of farmers, yet the only commodity in this group that is price supported is butter."

Meat, in other words, moves in a free market, all the way from animals on the hoofs to the favorite cuts you buy from your butcher. And the producers of meat, as spokesmen for livestock associations and others have said time and time again, want and mean to keep it that way. They have had their troubles. They've known bust as well as boom. They've been plagued with drought. They have seen prices tumble to levels that brought them heavy losses. But they prefer to take their own chances and work out their own destinies without bureaucrats giving the orders and making the rules. And over the years they have done well.

So have consumers. The free market sees to it that we get the kinds and cuts of meat we want when we want them. And price is established by the natural law of supply and demand—not by fallible political judgment.

THEY WOULD READ YOUR AD TOO, IF IT APPEARED HERE

SPUR TO PROGRESS

In the view of former President Herbert Hoover, we can recover from the current business recession, and do so without bringing on more inflation. And here, to quote him, is how we can accomplish that fact:

"We must have no wave of wage and fringe rises. There should be no lifting of prices by industry. We should cut Government expenditures, not only to provide for additional weapons and balance the budget, but also to the point where we can have a tax reduction. This would be the greatest possible stimulant to recovery."

The great danger now is that panic will result in measures which will make uncontrollable inflation all but inevitable. Mr. Hoover's formula stems from hard experience, and it is the soundest yet proposed.

It's The Law In Texas

Thinking of buy or building a new home this year? Whether you buy a completed house or simply a lot to build on, how will you know whether you are receiving a good title to the property your purchase? The safest method is to have a title examination made, that is, a careful study of the abstract and other title evidence.

Here are a few of the common sources of trouble in real estate to show why the minor expense of a title examination is justified.

Many persons sign "earnest contracts" believing that they are mere receipts with no serious implications. In reality they may specify, among other things, the kind of title you must accept.

A warranty deed from a responsible seller is comforting to have but it is a poor substitute for a careful title examination. A warranty deed does not guarantee a marketable title.

Moreover, serious title defects may not come to light until long after the seller on a warranty deed is dead, has moved to an unknown address, or is bankrupt. Even if he is available a good title is much better than a law suit.

The fact that the seller has possession of an abstract does not mean that he owns the property. An abstract is only a history of a title. Possession of an abstract no more indicates ownership of land than possession of the history of Texas means that you own the state.

Some purchasers of land feel safe because the title is being examined at the time of purchase by an attorney for the mortgage lenders. This seems logical but is a dangerous theory. Mortgage lenders are sometimes willing to accept less than good record title as security. This is sound business for them because, among other reasons, the chances are that the mortgage will be paid off so that no expense in perfecting the title would ever need be incurred. It is risky business for you when you are putting your life savings into the purchase.

These are a few of the reasons why a title examination is an important safeguard to you. When it is completed, the attorney gives you a written opinion stating his conclusion as to who owns the land, the defects in or charges against such ownership, and the requirements to be met if any, to make good record title.

Off-hand this may seem like a simple operation. In fact it is not. It requires the interpretation of numerous deeds, mortgages, wills, court decrees and other instruments; the consideration of the order in which transactions and events affecting the title occurred; and the application of statutes and court decisions to the various situations disclosed in the abstract.

When the homestead affidavit is not filed by April 30, the taxpayer loses his right to the $3,000 or 200 acre exemption and consequently becomes liable for more taxes than he would otherwise be required to pay.

Property taxes are assessed against the person who is the record owner of each piece of real and personal property on the first day of January of each year. Individuals purchasing property during the year should make sure that the taxes for all previous years have been paid. Otherwise, the purchaser may be forced to pay hundreds of dollars in delinquent taxes to protect his property. Unpaid taxes create a lien against the property which can be enforced regardless of change of ownership.

One should also keep in mind to make some arrangements for the previous owner to pay a pro-rata share of taxes for the current year. Otherwise, the buyer may find it necessary to pay the entire taxes for that year.

When taxes are not paid by the deadline prescribed for the particular taxing unit (city, County, State or District), monetary penalties and interest are added from month to month. In addition, the property becomes subject to seizure and sale to satisfy the tax lien. This lien applies to all property, whether homestead or not.

Lone Star Gas Co. Lists Executives Following Expansion and Promotions

Lone Star Gas Company today announced changes in its executive organization calling for two new executive vice presidents, three new vice presidents and a new comptroller.

In making the announcement President L. T. Potter said "It has become clear that the operations of Lone Star Gas Company have grown to such an extent with an accompanying increase in the scope and complexity of work requirements, that substantial changes in executive organization are required."

Louis G. James, vice president and comptroller, was elected to the new position of executive vice president (finance and accounting). He will be the chief financial officer of the company and will provide general direction to the comptroller, the corporate secretary, the director of purchases and materials and the treasurer.

E. A. Brown has been elected to the new post of executive vice president (operations). Brown, formerly vice president in charge of exploration and gas supply, will be in overall executive charge of operations and will provide general direction to the vice presidents in charge of distribution, transmission and exploration and gas supply.

Willard G. Wiegel, treasurer and director of personnel, was elected to the new position of vice president (personnel). He will continue also as treasurer. The new post of vice president (research and development) was given to Thomas S. Bacon. Prior to the election, Bacon was director of research and development.

Carl M. Hill was elected vice president (exploration and gas supply), the post formerly filled by Brown. Hill has been serving as superintendent of operations in the Exploration and gas supply Division.

Howard J. Yonkers, assistant comptroller, was elected comptroller to succeed James in that capacity.

The six men were elected to similar positions with Lone Star Producing Company, wholly-owned subsidiary.

Mental Health Week Deserves Your Support

Now that National Mental Health Week is upon us, we should again take stock of the needs of the mentally ill in Texas. Over 16,000 of our mentally ill citizens from every walk of life are occupying the majority of the beds of Texas hospitals.

Thus far, nothing very substantial has been done by the State or Texas to give them a decent chance to get well. True the Texas State Hospital Board together with our entire state hospital staff are doing what they can with the funds at hand, but this is nevertheless completely inadequate. It is so completely inadequate that we the people of Texas along with our Texas Legislators especially, bow our heads in shame.

According to the National Mental Health Association, Texas now ranks 36th down the line of the 48 states in its interest and degree of care of these helpless forgotten folk. The records show that Texas is spending the meager sum of $2.53 per patient day for their entire cost of treatment, including food and lodging, medication and other treatment essentials. It is the opinion of this writer that this amount would scarcely get a work horse well, much less a human being.

The substance of these remarks was confined last year by Dr. William C. Menninger of Topeka, Kans., when he addressed a joint session of the Texas legislature. Dr. Menninger is a national authority on mental health, and in his address to the lawmakers he drove home some revealing facts. He pointed out that the minimum funds necessary to take care of basic treatment needs for our mentally ill would be $5 per patient day instead of the $2.53 per patient day which the State of Texas is now spending. "This is simply not enough to do the job," stated Dr. Menninger.

I ask you, why should I, a civil engineer by profession, bother to urge the readers of your good paper to use their influence with our legislators to help these 16,000 mentally ill? Simply because it is their God-given right to have a fair chance to get well and again live a normal life among their friends and loved ones.

But I have an even greater urge to come to their aid. I too, suffered a "nervous breakdown about five years ago, and spent three months to no avail languishing in one of our state hospitals' "bull pens" under the guise of domiciliary care. Seeing that this was not helping me, I voluntarily returned home and shortly thereafter, being a veteran, secured admission to the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital in Ft. Worth. From here after twelve months of wonderful effective treatment and loving care, I was restored and returned home again a well man.

If it is good economy for our Federal Government mental hospitals to expend from $9 to $15 per patient day, then certainly an increase of from $2.53 to $5 per patient day for our State hospitals is in order. I myself, am living proof that there is economy in increased appropriations for the treatment of our mentally ill.

Let's give these 16,000 sick folks in Texas hospitals an even break with those who are fortunate enough to receive Federal Government hospital aid. I ask you, is it fair to do less?

Social Security Information

The balance on hand in the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund from which social security benefits are paid still stands close to the 1957 record level of 23 billion dollars according to Erton F. Tate, district manager of the Wichita Falls, social security office.

Mr. Tate declared: "The social security system is self-supporting, financed by the social security tax contributions made by workers, employers and self-employed persons. He added that the payments into the social security trust fund combined with the interest earned by the trust fund assure the financial soundness of the system, leaving no doubt as to its solvency and full capability of making benefit payments to the present 11 million beneficiaries and the millions more to be added in the future. Mr. Tate said that actual studies show that the Trust Fund will continue to grow well beyond the year 2000.

Obeying this sign may cost you a few minutes. Failing to heed it may cost a life. Don't be a killer... or a corpse! When traffic laws are obeyed, deaths go DOWN!

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

you drive a car, 1958 will be a good year to pay closer attention to how you drive it.

Gov. Daniel's "Texas plan" to reduce highway tragedy is the spotlight will be on driving practices as before.

Readers and drunken drivers are prime targets.

Gov. Daniel is heading a drive to reduce highway tragedy to combat "the threat of life, health and property accidents," he said, "greater than the loss sustained in all our natural disasters combined."

The "Texas plan" includes (1) cooperation between state and enforcement officials, (2) formation of local traffic safety councils, (3) public information to the problem, (4) improvements at hazardous spots and (5) more rigid enforcement and certainty of punishment for violations, especially drunken driving and speeding.

Last year 2,539 persons were killed in traffic and 122,000 injured. Even so, 1957 rate of fatalities to miles traveled dropped from 6.5 deaths per million miles in 1956 to 6.3 per 100 million miles in 1957.

Department of Public Safety Director Homer Garrison, Jr., notes the reduced rate to average speed. Texans lost 111 lives, he said, by slowing down average speed by 1.6 per hour.

Goal for 1958 is more ambitious to save 254 lives or one each Texas county.

Up to every Texan, said governor, to accept traffic as a do-it-yourself project.

ROAD SAFER ROADS — An important arm of the anti-traffic campaign is a $43,000,000 program to rebuild some of the most hazardous spots in the highway system.

Gov. Daniel and State Highway Engineer DeWitt Greer formally launched this work by placing a drive carefully sign by a narrow bridge on a farm road near Austin. Scene of previous accidents, the bridge is to be widened.

State Highway Department allocated $25,000,000 to the emergency safety construction fund, and $18,000,000 will come from federal funds.

MONEY HUNT — Gloomy predictions about government and industry leaders look toward the state's 1959 financing problems.

A "conservative estimate" by Sen. William S. Fly, chairman of the Texas State Tax Study Commission, is that $45,000,000 per year in new revenue will be needed just to maintain present state services.

Latest report by the Tax commission calls the situation "a fiscal crisis of major proportions and not a temporary condition. State and local taxes have tripled since World War II, says the report, but not fast enough to keep pace with spending needs. This is attributed to a sharp upsurge in population, especially in the under 18 and over 65 brackets. These ages require expensive services (schooling, pensions) but net little in taxes.

Oil industry spokesmen served notice that oil, even if it pulls out of its present slump, cannot produce nearly enough revenue to save the day.

Charles W. Alcorn, president of Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, predicted a need for as much as $65,000,000 a year in extra revenue. Even if all imported crude oil were cut off from the U. S., he said, we would stand to gain only about $20,000,000 a year.

MORE NEEDED — Further complicating the fiscal picture are statements, such as that of the State Board of Corrections, that it will need more money from the Legislature next year.

Chairman H. H. (Pete) Coffield said the Board will ask for $8,000,000 in building funds and a $1,500,000 increase in its operating budget.

State prisons are overflowing says Mgr. O. B. Ellis, with more to come. Prison population (10,400) has doubled in the past seven years while population as a whole increased 24 percent.

ANCHORS AWEIGH — After 115 years, Texas again has a navy.

Gov. Daniel has reactivated the Texas Navy and called on the some 286,000 owners of powered craft to join up. Nucleus of the fleet will be the Texas Game and Fish Commission's 180 boats.

Their purpose will be to defend, if necessary, the 10 1/2 miles of tidelands claimed by Texas and assist with civil defense in time of disaster.

A large early response by boat owners and previously commissioned admirals "convinces me we're going to have the largest Navy in the world," said the governor.

Texas had a vigorous, if small navy in the days of the revolution and Republic. It thwarted Mexican efforts to blockade the Texas coast and boldly raided Mexican ports. It ended its last expedition in 1843 and after annexation was incorporated into the U. S. Navy.

20,000 NEW JOBS — State Highway Commission will start taking bids next month on $36,000,000 in extra road building projects made possible by the new federal aid bill.

Texas gets $24,000,000 in federal funds, put up $12,000,000 in state money.

These extra projects will mean 20,000 new jobs in the state, says Commission Chairman Marshall Formby. Each million dollar project brings an estimated $1,000 a day for six months into the affected community, he said.

Times have been so good since World War II, commented Formby, that most people have forgotten the impact of a highway dollar.

SHORT SNORTS — Major crimes committed in Texas increased from 104,451 in 1956 to 116,899 in '57, reports the FBI. It was an increase of approximately 11 per cent for Texas compared to 9 per cent nationwide. Unemployment figures moved up again in Texas Employment Commissions latest report. Total number of persons filing claims was 91,328 compared to 91,214 for the previous week. Total payments were $1,875,520 compared to $1,830,794.

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has the task of deciding whether Promoter Ben Jack Cage got a fair shake in the trial that brought him a 10 year sentence on charges of embezzling $100,000. Defense attorneys contend the money, withdrawn from ICT Corp. and channeled through a maze of Cage enterprises, never went to Cage personally. Prosecutors retort the route was purposely devious.

Building construction awards for March increased 29 percent almost three times the expected 10 percent seasonal increase. Dollar-wise, construction for the first quarter of '58 was within one percent of the same period in '57 says the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. But, allowing for higher costs, the volume was 4 percent below '57.

Burkburnett Garden club met in the home of Mrs. Marshall Young in Oklahoma April 23rd.

Mrs. O. E. Melton was the leader for the day. It being National Garden club week, she paid quite a tribute to the memory of J. Sterling Morton, a national leader.

Mrs. D. H. Smith lectured extensively on the History and Appeal of the AA Florabunda roses. In colored prints, she told the story of each.

Mrs. B. N. Cauthorn unfolded step by step the highlights on Local Rose Culture, a subject very close to the hearts of all.

Mrs. J. C. Adams, alternate to the State Garden Club Convention at Fort Worth, April 21-25, gave a report on the four days and presented the award the club received on their yearbooks.

A delicious salad was served to fifteen members and the hostess.

After the club adjourned, they toured the spacious grounds of the Youngs home. In a few short years, the shade trees and fruit trees have advanced greatly in growth. The shrubs and flowering shrubs were perfectly beautiful, and the grass has made a perfect carpet. We hope to tour the yard again next year.

News From The Congress

By Congressman Frank 'kard

The Armed Services Committee here in the House this week begins consideration of the President's plan to reorganize the Pentagon. This plan promises to bring about some of the sharpest debate of this session of Congress. Congressional objection to the Presidential proposal of reorganization is being spearheaded by Georgia's Carl Vinson chairman of the Armed Services Committee. While there is recognition of the fact that there is real need for reorganization of the Chiefs of Staffs and the whole defense set-up, the point of controversy is over the authority to be given to the Secretary of Defense. The opponents to the president's plan charge that in effect Congress has been asked to surrender its Constitutional responsibilities for the basic roles and missions of the Armed Forces and that the Congress also would lose most of its authority and control of the Defense Budget and expenditures. There is no question but what there is a real need for reorganization of our defense efforts. This is particularly true in the purchasing and procurement of supplies. In 1952 Congress passed Defense Procurement Act which was meant to bring about better control and standardization procedure. This law, however, has not accomplished the desired result. For instance, Congressional investigations in the past have turned up many wasteful practices such as the Navy paying $2.66 more for tan shoes than does the Army and Air Force. The Marines pay $7.50 for the same weight canvas cot that the Navy gets for $3.20. The Navy buys ocean exposure suits for $25.91 while the Air Force pays $47.13 for the same identical suit. For one kind of typist chairs, the service prices range from $18 to $48. It is this sort of waste that makes it imperative that there may be some immediate and effective reorganization of the operations in the Pentagon.

Also being debated in Congress this week is the so-called Community Facilities Bill which would increase the Federal program to cities and towns financing local water and sewer systems as well as hospital school buildings.

 Visitors from home this week were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gann of Electra; Mr. George Anderson, Mr. Ralph Jr., Mr. J. F. Gray and Mr. don W. Daves of Wichita Falls.

True Life Story of Two Defeated Buddies

861 -- Ernest Goetze and Fredrick Peonish -- 1958

HOW MANY MARRIED COUPLES 35 OR 40 YEARS OLD ARE WILLING TO GO THROUGH WITH WHAT ERNEST GOETZE and FREDRICH POENISH WENT THROUGH FOR THEIR WIVES AND CHILDREN?

Ernest Goetze
THE MOTHER

Life Story of Two Buddies
Ernest Goetze-Fredrick Peonish
1861-1958 — 97 Years

1861 both of these brave men were called to the war between the states; Prussia, Germany, Saxony, Austria, Saxony, Saxony and Austria. Germany was more powerful in men and money. As always is the case in wars, the most powerful won. As the poet said, "The victor makes Right." Our poor fathers felt as the German and Northern soldiers in the United States of America. They shed for a cause will never be forgotten by a defeated soldier. Now they were united with their bitter enemy, Germany. In 1871 against their will they were drafted to fight the French in the neighbor state. In the German army was the Emperor. The two buddies were home all shot-up and sick, lying their brothers on the field. Both of these soldiers gave up their fiancées for they came back they were married to find that their fiancées of five years had married other men who had not a fit to serve their country. It was indeed a hard blow to the brave soldiers. Losing their sweethearts was as hard as losing their country in '61. As time passed the wounded soldiers healed. They found other sweethearts. God blessed them with two sweethearts. E. Goetze's sweetheart became my mother. Fred Peonish also was blessed with a wonderful sweetheart. Both men were very well educated. Now each got busy starting a home. As it always is after a war, whether you win or lose, the defeated loses all, the conqueror uses up all to win the war. As the poet and our great general says, "War is Hell on Earth." In a matter of years they were blessed with children. Each now had a son 11 years old. The German government made a law that no boy could leave Germany until he was 11 years old. They had to take military training for three years. The two young fathers sat under a large chestnut tree. They decided something must be done for their sons were 11 and soon would be 12. These young soldiers still hated the German government. "We will not give our names to Chancellor Bismark and the German government," they said. "We shed our blood and the lives of our brothers. In a matter of years some country will destroy Germany as they did Napoleon." Under that chestnut tree for hours they planned, prayed and cried. "What do we do to save our sons from the German government?" The fathers decided to go to the Americas. They had heard so much and read so much about the Americas. North America was their choice, as America's so much land to get lost for nothing. If North America was not what they expected, they would go to South America. The two fathers decided to take a long stick and a short stick and put them in a hat. The man who got the long stick would go to America and the man who got the short stick would stay in Germany and take care of both families while the other looked for a home. They reached in the hat. Fred got the long stick and Goetze the short one. Fred said he was happy to go. Goetze said, "You better let me go. You take care of the families. I trust you as you trusted me. I was a sharpshooter. I got medals for it. They sent me to 'Hells No Man's land. As you know, I have got plenty of nerve. A fine French soldier came. I prayed to God something would happen so I would not have to take him in to be killed. When a scout takes a life to the came he was killed as all soldiers knew. The fine French scout waived the white handkerchief and directly upon the middle of my head, imbedded the sword exactly between the layers of my brain, not harming the walls of the brain. A miracle as you know. As you remember, when you found me, I lay on the top of his body showing you I also got him, shot through the heart. Yes, I've got a lot of nerve left, let me go."

Fred said, yes, God was with you. The wise creator guided his hand so the point of his sword did not harm your brain. Dear buddy, you perform a miracle. I have done nothing yet. Now let me go. Let me find a home for our wives and children." So they let it go at that.

We must not forget that Mr. Goetze was one of the first to carry the German flag into French territory, and that for that service he received a medal. Also for killing the would be assassin in No Man's Land, he received a gold medal. We children, not realizing the value of these medals, lost them in childhood.

Now they had to get money for Fred. This was not hard. Yet when the wives heard about it business picked up. The wives cried day and night. Friends came by the dozen. You men are crazy, going to America. Indians will kill you. Fat you alive. Forget it.

Say, buddy, we have got the two wars. We got rattled with all kinds of bullets. We came back. Going to America is not as bad. Fred listen. Let's go OK buddy.

It was in the 80's. At that time ships traveled two and three months from Germany to New York. They did not have steamships yet. Fred came to the Statue of Liberty.

He told the official, I come to buy a farm for me and my friend. Have you got any left? We both have wives and families. We are tired of fighting for Bismark and his war lords. In '61 he stole my home, Saxony. In '71 he made us go and get the hell knocked out of us by the brave French people. We fought like demons. There was hardly a man left in Saxony. We heard about you free people in America, so I come to see if we could buy a farm. "Well, said a fine officer, you are a fine young whipped soldier. You have a fine idea. Yet you are so green. "Green? Is that a good farm? I will buy it." "No, no, this is a word we use for people when they do not understand us good. I will take you to a place where you can get satisfaction." Satisfaction? Is that a good farm? No, no dear man, come with me. I show you a fine fellow. He will tell you all about America. I will take you to an American Consul. This man speaks fine German. You and he will understand each other." So I got acquainted with the fine fellow. He told me everything. He told me to go to Texas, a new state in the union. Only I had to promise him not to stop at any other city. I will take you to the ship you must take to Texas, he said. "You pass by Florida. Don't get off at that city. It is too sandy. Please do not get off at New Orleans. It is too wet. It rains too much. Go to Galveston, Texas. I will get you the ticket. Don't take the train. The land sharks will sell you a rock hill or a lake of water." Yes, I promise. I will do as you wish me to do. You are a good man. "I came to New Orleans. It sure was a beautiful city. I could hardly stay on the ship. Yet I promised the good American Consul I would go to Texas. After staying in the ship three days on account of a storm, I asked the captain what kind of a country it is. "It's the darndest country in the U. S. A. Sometimes it rains 30 days and if it doesn't quit, it rains another 30 days. Dern such a place, he said. That satisfied my soul. The man in New York had told me correct. So I didn't show the land papers to anyone until I got to Galveston. I only dreamed about the 640 acres I could buy for $15.00 down and 40 years to pay Uncle Sam the rest. The New York man also told me not to take anyone in at Galveston unless I make sure it was a government employee. Sharks would also catch me. I see now that what we read again and again in Germany, that the Americans really are honest people.

"I showed the papers to that government employee. He told me not to go to the end of the road to Sherman, Texas, until he found a good government man to take me, even if it took days. The sharks would stick me. I waited a day or so before they found me a good government man. He found me one of the finest 640 acres. It was four miles east of Sherman, Texas. I now discovered that what we read was true about the American people. They were wonderful.

"I felt I had come to heaven. There was so much land for me and my friend. I could hardly wait to get a letter to my friend and wife. I knew he would go wild about it.

For three years I chopped wood, raised corn and cotton, but not many acres. Yet, cotton made two bales per acre and corn 50 to 60 bushels. It kept me and the Negroes I hired in good shape. Every year I cleared a few more acres. That good government man sent me two of the best Negroes God ever let live.

"The second year all was going fine. I was happy over the wonderful farm in Texas."

These two buddies had another friend in Germany who had gone through the wars with them. This fellow traded heavy in wool and livestock. Every so often he would ask father to go on notes with him. When America was mentioned he would always say that he was going with father. All of a sudden the bankers told father to be careful. He had not paid anything for months. In a day or so officers came for him to pay up. Father lost everything. The banker lost heavy. No one ever could find him. People went to other countries and could not find him. Another heavy blow to these two buddies.

In these days it took weeks to hear from each other. When the sad news got to Fred in Texas he sold half of his farm for $10.00 per acre and sent the money to father so he could start again. It was a wonderful surprise to Goetze and the wives. Father was so thrilled he often said he could not sleep for two nights. All of a sudden he told Mother, "I got it, our friend needs his wife and children worse than we need this money. I will send his money, wife and children tomorrow. Our friends told us they would not let us starve." So he did send the money. Mother, as soon as we have saved enough to pay back what our friends have loaned us, we will go to America. O. K.

Now it really was a calamity to keep up two families. Father had good friends to help him start again. Nine months later Father and mother caught the American fever so bad they asked their friends what can be done. You pack up your family and go to your friend. Sell what you can and go and when you get to your friend, be happy. If you do not go soon, the Bismark government will hold your sons."

Now, we came to America in 1883, a land of prosperity. It was a happy reunion. They loved each other dearly.

After the happy meeting sad talk began. "Fred, how come you look so sick. The Mrs. look very sick also." Well, buddy, I am sorry. I became sick after I came here. About six months. She also became sick after a short time. It's a very sickly country. I am sorry." "Why did not you tell me?" "I am sorry. If I told you, you never would come over. I love you so much, and I love my beautiful land so much, I thought you came we would get used to this beautiful place and to the chills and fever. I loved you so much, you just had to come. I am sorry."

It was most sad and discouraging matter. Such a sick place, and after such a long move to such a good looking country. In a short time our younger brother died. George was buried under a large elm tree in the yard. There was no cemetery yet. The people buried the dead any place they saw fit.

Father and Fred started farming. When spring came they all got sick. What would we do now I had two of the best Negroes," said father. "They farmed for us while we chilled all over the place. They worked my crops every year while I chilled around Dern such a place. I was really sick of it."

At that time, as you all have heard many times, the people and the churches would not let the Negroes in. Many preachers in our U. S. A. swore that the Negroes were bad, and that they had no souls. Fred told the Negroes that they had souls. "If we have a heaven, you also have a heaven," he said. He let them in his house, let them eat in his house on his table. He explained again and again: "I am a stranger here as you were. I came in this great country and they treated me like a king. I am proud of America. You also came here as a savage and a slave. They caught your fathers and mothers and treated you shamefully. You are good people and I love you. While I am sick, I will pay you a little more than the others. I joyfully do so. "I prayed to God that this great country would someday wake up and bring you on equal with the white people."

The crops were worked by the Negroes he loved. Beautiful crops were raised. Father was sick of all times. He faded out. All the neighbors thought he must never recovery. His chills turned into typhoid fever. All of Fred's family and all of Goetze's family were sick as mules. The doctor came almost every day for someone. The doctor said: "You men and your families must get out of here. You have already lost one and if you stay, you will lose half of your children and wives and yourselves. You came from a high place. You will die here. Get out!!! The two buddies now took orders from an old federal army doctor.

"Say Fred, this sounds like General Hinderburg when we had to take Verdun in France." "Yes," said Fred, "Hinderburg said 'Get out! If you want Verdun, get out!!! Yes buddy, it was the hardest thing we ever did. Yes, we got out of our foxholes. It was the greatest thing we ever did. We got Verdun. Yes we got the greatest fort then in the world. This time the doctor seems to know what he is talking about."

Both fathers walked under the elm tree where they had buried brother George. They were sick enough to be buried. Father said: "I have an idea." "What is it?" "Well, we both have read a lot while in with the chills. I read that at the end of Texas, Corpus Christi, Uncle Sam is opening up millions of acres of land just as he has done here at $1.00 per acre. Also, in the west, up toward Wichita County, he is opening up millions of acres the same way." well, what about it? I am too sick to go." Yes, so am I. Yet, we must go. "I am getting another chill. I have had one for the last 30 minutes."

"Fred, do you see this grave of George's in front of us?" "Yes, I do." "If we stay here we will lay beside Georgie and maybe half of our children and our wives. Yes, you dear buddy, you should have told your buddy about this hellish, sickly country. Dern this sick, muddy hell of a place. Not even a mosquito can live here long. I am ashamed of you. Maybe my family and I could have lived a little longer in Germany." "Yes, buddy, I lied to you," Fred replied. "I got sick when I did been here six months. So did my wife when you sent her to me. I knew I should have told you about this sickly mud hole. Yet, I loved my land so much, I felt sure I could get used to it and if I told you, you would never come to this lousy place. Yes, when wife came, she told me to never let you come. You would be disappointed." "Dern you! You have got a good wife. I am proud of her. I am as disappointed as she is that she married a liar. Fred, I loved you just as you loved her."

After a hard cry he said: "Let's forget it. You mean OK. I still love you Fred." Both cried hard for a long time as both were sick physically and mentally. "Let's forget all and go on. How about what I said! I promise I will do what you wish me to go through with. You are commander now."

"I still have 300 acres of land I will sell it tomorrow. This is not a place for us to live. We will divide what I get. You go west with your family with one half and I will go East."

"Let's take two sticks, a long one and a short one. The one who gets the long stick will go South, the one who gets the short stick will go west." Fred got the long stick. Goetze got the short. All was OK. "How will we go?" "The crops were laid by your oldest son. He is not very sick." "You take your best two horses. I will take my best two. I will take my oldest son. We will sleep when the boys drive. At night we will sleep while the horses rest. OK? "What will we do for money? "We will sell our crop in the field. Tell your nice Negroes to get a fellow." In a few days the crops were sold for a nice price. The crops were beautiful.

When Peonish had been in Corpus Christi for two days, the fever left him and when he was there a few more days, he was a well man. Goetze came to Wichita a sick man. After three days in Wichita Falls, he was getting well.

The good mothers cried all of the time. Most of the time they cried for their husbands. However, what time they were not crying they prayed that nothing would happen. They also cried from home sickness.

Fred took up 640 acres for himself and his sons. On the east side of his land he had the Gulf for a border line. At that time Corpus Christi was a very small city. They started raising cotton and corn. The clouds would form over them, then scurry off to the Northeast Texas near Sherman. For the first three years they almost starved. We did likewise. There was no rain for three years. We planted corn and cotton. Yet there would be no rain for 11 months at a time. When summer came the grasshoppers as big as cottontails would eat all that looked green. They even ate the fence posts and the bars off the wire. It was rough to stay alive.

Fred Peonish found farming just the same. There was some difference in the living. When they got meat hungry they would go to the east side of the farm where the Gulf was and catch all the fish they could eat. Us poor fellows, when we got meat hungry, we ate grasshoppers, rattlesnakes and prairie dogs. It was rough. After three hard years Pappa got the idea to manage a 4,000 sheep ranch. He worked it or 4 years and he learned to raise wheat and oats. After the sheep played out, he raised cattle on the same ranch. Fred learned to raise a garden and do truck farming.

Fred often told the exciting story of when his Negroes thought he would never understand our wild game. He walked out to hunt after he had brought the Negroes their dinner. He saw a beautiful cat with long hair, a large bushy tail and five little baby cats. He decided to catch it with his hands as he was sure it was a fine breeding cat. He swept at the quiet cat. He caught it by the tail. That took all the joy out of his hunting cats and catching them. His good Negroes too khim home. He said he could not see. "I am out for good. Send me back to Germany." "No Boss. We will fix you up when we get home. "Don't take me home. I will stink you to death. Go ahead and kill me. I am done." "No, no Good boss." When they came home they took him to the table and set him on a box. "Why don't you take me to the house? I wish to die in my little house." The good darkies got all the corn meal. They made a fire around him and roasted the corn meal. In a half hour he was a new man. "No more cat catching for me," he said.

Spring came. "Let's go fishing." "OK Boss." He had been trained to catch fish with his hands. Again they forgot to tell him that our fish have stickers. He rolled up his pants and walked into the water. He caught a fish. He held him as a German catch. He discovered it stuck to his hands. "Ouch. What in hell is that fish?" "Why dear boss, I am sorry. They have three big stickers." Then he raised his foot and one was stuck to his foot. The stickers ran up high in the foot. He got very sick. The negroes carried him home. They doctored the foot and hands for three days. No more fishing. No more cat catching.

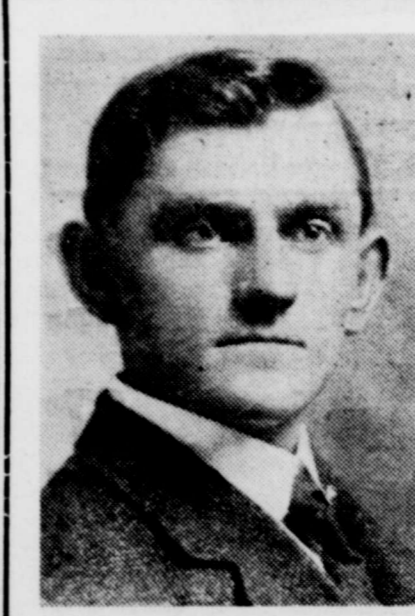

About a month later they were in the woods. They shook down beautiful apples called persimmons. He sure liked them. Seeing a lot up in a tree he started to climb since he was a good climber. He reached for that apple a dozen or two bumble bees saw him. They came for the nose and the rest of his face. It reminded him of when the bullets came like that. He skidded down the tree. On the way up he had disturbed a nest of scorpions. They did not like him breaking the bark of the tree where they took care of their babies. They waited for him to come down. Fifteen or 20 made a good hit with their tails. Also, they did not miss his hands, and went through his pants. When he hit mother earth he was out. The bumble bees again closed his eyes. The scorpions finished the poor fellow. The good negroes carried him to the house. "Boys, I am out again." They waited on the good boss three or four days. Things that look golden and silver are not always what they look like," he muttered.

After things looked so discouraging Father had a good friend in Jennings, La., who was raising rice. He often insisted that he come and raise rice. As we got fooled so often Father borrowed $800 from a loan company to send my brothers to try rice raising. Father sent the finest horses and farming machinery with the $800. There was

A Little Truth About the People

There's a vast concourse of people of whom you never hear a word; We pass them by unnoticed, They're just the common herd.

In the world's decisive battles The higher ups get stars and bars But it's the common doughboys That bear the battle scars.

There's our giant oil producers Whose millions give us thrills Yet a lot of common roughnecks That are running their drills.

They laud the coaches and backfield And it all sounds mighty fine Yet they seldom ever mention The boys that hold the line.

The only thing that is curious That upon the Scroll of Fame Is that the real worker Can seldom find his name.

FIRE REPORT

By VIRGINIA MOORE
Section 8-4, Junior High School

Chief causes of barn fires are careless smoking, spontaneous combustion of hay and improper use of electricity. In some parts of the country, particularly in the Middle West and Atlantic States, lightning is a leading cause.

Don't permit smoking in barns or sheds. Post "No Smoking" signs in your barn. Do not permit your employees or anyone else to smoke in the barn. Barns are usually wood frame structures or huge areas and filled with tons of extremely combustible hay. They are perhaps the most combustible type of structure used by man.

Many barn fires are caused or attributed to spontaneous combustion of hay. Hay that is not well dried tends to heat up by itself. Hay that has become wet in the field or in the barn from a leaking roof will heat up and ignite. Alfalfa, clover and soybean hays with heavy stems that hold moisture after the leaves appear to have dried are most likely to heat up and cause a fire.

If hay is stored, an electric motor driven fan should be used to cure it in the barn. Even a small quantity of damp hay should be dried before putting in the barn.

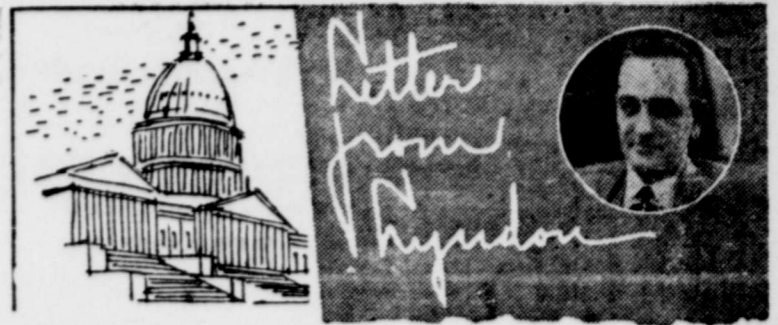

The hay stored in the barn should be inspected daily for several weeks after storage. Look for signs of steaming, irritating odors and wet areas. Suspected combustion can be discovered by lowering a thermometer into a pipe driven deep into the hay. Leave it in the pipe for fifteen minutes. If the mercury climbs to a hundred and fifty eight degrees keep a careful watch. If it climbs above a hundred and eighty-five stop all ventilation and start moving all hot hay outdoors. If the thermometer rises above 212 call the fire department. The heating areas should be wet down with water and provisions should be made for fighting a possible fire, as the hay may burst into flames when uncovered or exposed to air.

Spontaneous ignition can occur elsewhere on the farm. Large piles of manure heat up and should never be left in stables or piled against buildings. Old rags soaked in paints or vegetable oils, also tend to heat up. Such fire hazards should not be allowed to accumulate.

Grade School News

We are having several out of school due to Chickn Pox, Three Day Measles and Mumps. We are hoping that the nice warm weather will help in driving these unwelcome visitors back into winter quarters for the rest of the school year.

Mrs. McCullough's section reported that they had a very welcome visitor this past week. Mr. Mullins, the former teacher of the class for the first half of the school year came by on an army furlough and spent some time with the room. The boys and girls were very excited about seeing Mr. Mullins and hearing his report on being in the same camp with a certain guy named Presley. The class has been doing very nice work for Mrs. McCullough and are very thankful that they have a fine teacher for the rest of the school year.

For the first time in history the high winds speeds within the cone of an actual tornado have been measured by a new type of radar. This development in tornado detection occurred on April 2nd when a severe tornado struck through Wichita Falls. Only six weeks before, the Weather Bureau tornado research experts had located their experimental radar equipment at the Wichita Falls airport acting on the belief that tornados likely would occur somewhere within a seventy mile range of the special storm detection instruments. This equipment is "one of a kind" experimental radar and operates on the same principal as that which is commonly used for speed monitoring work by the highway patrol. By the use of this new equipment the Weather Bureau detected the tornado in time to warn the entire Wichita Falls area, and even though the storm moved rapidly through a large metropolitan area and caused extensive damage to hundreds of buildings, there can be little doubt but what the relatively low number of casualties in this damaging tornado can be credited to the early warning and quick cooperative action by the police, broadcasters, and many others in relaying the storm warning to the public.

From a purely scientific standpoint, it is interesting to know that the Wichita Falls tornado is the first one in which a direct recording of the wind speed within the tornado has been measured. The radar record shows that the wind speeds within this tornado were in the vicinity of 250 miles an hour. Previous to this time, there is no direct measurements of tornado wind speeds much higher than 100 miles an hour which had ever been recorded. However indirect measurements based on damage and other factors estimates of winds speeds have run as high in other storms as 600 miles an hour. Indications are that this first test of the new equipment such as is located in the Wichita Falls Weather Station will mean that we will be able to have much more effective tornado warnings, and as the type of the equipment is improved, it may be possible within the not too distant future to accurately detect tornados embedded in the clouds which cannot be discovered by observers on the ground. This of course will mean savings of many lives and much property damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Duke left Sunday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Noel Duke and family in New York City. They also plan to visit points of interest along the East coast and will return home via way of Georgia and Alabama.

State Retail Merchants Suggests Big Cut In State Expenditures

A study of ways to reduce State expenditures to meet a State government deficit rather than seek additional revenue by imposing new taxes has been recommended by the Retail Merchants Association of Texas as the best solution to the State's money ills, James T. Brady, Jr., Manager of the Retail Merchants Association of Burkburnett, said today.

He said that RMA members at its recent convention in Brownsville voted to request the Texas State Tax Study Commission and the Texas Research League to study ways of achieving economy in the State government.

The RMA is recommending to the two groups and the governor that such a study include possible consolidations of departments and agencies, the elimination of useless and unnecessary services and a closer scrutiny of all state expenses.

The RMA has noted that the two groups studying the money problems have been devoting most of their attention on hearing arguments pro and con on various types of new taxes that might be imposed, including sales tax, income tax and gross receipts taxes.

The tax study is being made because the State faces a possible deficit of $50 to $100 million. It is the opinion of the RMA members that the tax load on consumers and businessmen alike are already excessive, and what is needed now more than anything else is a reduction in taxes that will increase the purchasing power of families and thereby stimulate our economy.

The RMA also has voted to support corrective legislation that would reduce the cost and expeditious the collection of small claims and debt.

Small claims courts can take action only on cases involving $50 or less, except wage and salary claims where the amount is $100. The RMA will ask that the amount be made $100 for all actions.

The RMA is also interested in having the jurisdiction of justice courts raised to cases involving $500. The present maximum is $200. These changes are needed because the value of the dollar has greatly decreased since the limitations were set and because litigation in higher courts is too expensive and requires an excessive amount of time due to crowded dockets in higher courts.

Corrective legislation involving mechanic lien laws and bonding of public construction work also has the endorsement of the RMA. The present lien laws and bonding laws on public works are ineffective to enable material furnishers to recover just debts. The RMA is joining with the Texas Statewide group of the National Association of Credit men in seeking to make the laws in these two fields effective and adequate.

KITOWA CAMPFIRE GROUP
A regular meeting was called to order Thursday by president, Lynn Halsey. The girls discussed their ceremony and rehearsed for it. We each made a symbol of one of the seven beads we will get. These are the Home Craft beads which are yellowish orange; outdoor craft beads, brown; creative arts craft, green; frontiers crafts, blue; business craft, yellow; sports and games craft, red; and citizenship craft, red, white and blue our national colors.

On Friday night we held our ceremony. Nearly all the parents were present. Kay Stubblefield was sick and unable to participate.

We received our beads and trail seekers trinket. Each girl had a candle to light and extinguish. The girls then went into the next room slowly singing Oh, We Cheer. The meeting was then dismissed.
