GRASS ROOTS OPINION

DALLAS, PA., POST: "A remembrance of this one of the Ten Commandments — Thou Shalt Not Kill", may bestir you, if you should tend to become negligent, thoughtless or take chances when you drive."

ONIDA, S. D., WATCHMAN: "We think the example of some members of the Hungarian Olympic team in refusing to go home, and willing to give up their homes, their country, their friendships and kinships, is the most dramatic proof possible of the emptiness of Communism."

AZTEC, N. M. REVIEW: "We can't see any reason for wanting to get acquainted with the moon. If there are people on it they will undoubtedly want us to help them out of a hole."

BELLINGHAM, WASH., HERALD: "Americans can never be accused of lacking in charity. The American Association of Fund Raising Counsel estimates that their giving in 1956 totaled at least $6,100,000,000 an increase of 10 percent over 1955. That's the kind of people we have in this 'capitalistic', 'imperialistic', 'money-grubbing' nation."

PETALUMA, CALIF., ARGUS-COURIER: "There are problems that cut through the lines of nation, state and local district: public vs. private power, highways, school. They are all involved in the conflict between a superstate and local autonomy. They are a challenge to our self reliance, independence and personal integrity."

CAMPBELL, CALIF., PRESS: "Being a businessman these days is sometimes a pretty rough job. In order to keep track of taxable earnings, more careful bookkeeping practices must be instituted. If you make an error, the government is on your neck."

GREENFIELD, IND., DAILY REPORTER: "When what is now TVA started back around World War I, it had to do with chemical manufacturing and water control. The generation of electric power was merely an incidental. Since, it has become the main thing and a gigantic thing. Privately operated utilities have been forced out of business. There have been some public benefits and compensations, to be sure. But it makes taxes high, too, and government big, and stifles private initiative."

PINE BLUFF, ARK., COMMERCIAL: "Excessive pampering too much spending money, the chance to raise hob with the family car, too many late dates and filthy comic books, have not sufficed to dim the light of youth. Here is a sample of idealistic youth at its best. A 17 year old high school student wrote the following: "Think of all the great men this country has known, and what they've done to advance modernism of today. Edison, Lincoln, Washington, reminds us too often of how little some of us have done to help the great nation they so devoutly served."

ALMA, MICH., RECORD - JOURNAL: "One of the first events of the Queen Mother's visit to Canada and the United States, was a visit to the headquarters of the American Bible Society. In a simple ceremony, a red leather-bound Bible was presented to her by the Society and in her gracious acceptance of the gift, she stated that, 'I can truly say that the King and I found great comfort and strength from our reading of the Bible.'"

Quite An Assignment

We must always have too much oil. That point was recently made by the head of one of our oil companies. And the reason is that there is no substitute for a particular oil product—a supplier for instance, can't say to a customer, "Sorry, we're out of gasoline, but we have some fine asphalt which will serve you just as well."

At the same time, this executive went on, "... very much too much oil quickly results in an impossible situation. Two percent in our industry amounts to 175,000 barrels per day." It wouldn't take long, at that rate, for storage facilities to be totally exhausted.

This illustrates a problem oil men must deal with every day. The oil companies must have adequate supplies on hand to meet changes which may be both sudden and substantial. An unexpected cold snap can send the demand for furnace oil soaring and a brilliant weekend keeps the gasoline pumps running at peak capacity. On top of this, the industry must always be prepared for any national emergency.

To quote the executive again, "So the various business organizations which make up this complex industry of ours are each confronted with the seemingly impossible task of providing an adequate supply to meet this mercurial demand and yet avoid surpluses that will tax storage facilities. They've got quite an assignment!"

It's one of the measures of the oil companies' administrative efficiency that they execute that assignment, under constantly changing conditions, as a matter of course.

Competition And Natural Gas

General Ernest O. Thompson, a member of the Texas Railroad Commission and an internationally known authority on petroleum conservation, recently had something important to say about what continued federal regulation of independent natural gas producers, a situation brought about as a result of a Supreme Court decision—will lead to.

Under this regulation, he said, the consumer of natural gas will get a less dependable supply both in quantity and in length of years. He continued: "This is not in the interest of the consumer or the producer, and will stifle progress and make gas scarce. Natural gas producing should be a free field where competition is allowed to reign. It is the free competitive effort among producers that makes the gas available to the consumer; and the consumer, after all, is the man we're trying to serve."

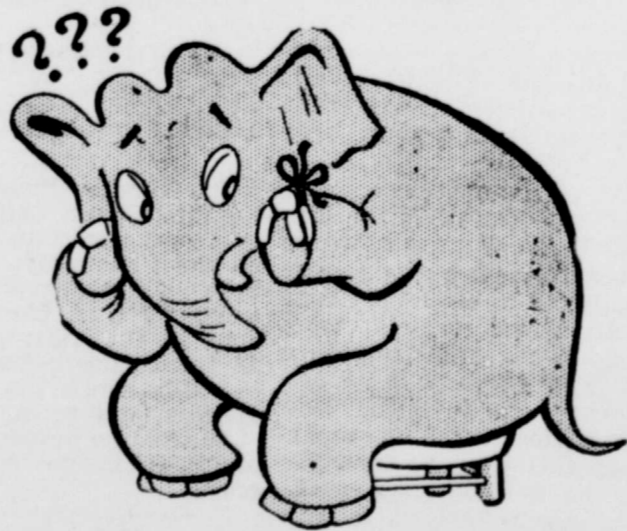

General Thompson then pointed out that we are producing natural gas at record rates, and that 47 states now have pipelines. Yet the demand increases faster than the pipeline capacity. He added: "I cannot see how the natural gas producing business can continue to expand to meet the ever-growing needs of the American people with the threat of federal control hovering over the horizon."

The Harris bill, to free independent gas producers from federal regulation, has passed the House. Under the name of the Fulbright bill, it will come before the Senate. It has strong bipartisan support. Here is a measure the nation urgently needs.

Local Businessmen Attended Dallas Fall Market Show

Mr. Morris Bookbinder and D. C. Dodson attended the Fall and Back to School Market of the American Fashion Association in Dallas, May 2-30. More than 100 lines of women's and children's apparel are being exhibited during this important market, held in the Adolphus and Baker Hotels.

Among the events planned for the visiting buyers and merchants is a Fashion clinic and show, held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Baker Hotel on the evenings of May 26 and 27th.

Buyers report that the loose silhouette in dresses and suits is still very much in evidence for fall. There are many variations to the new look, nearly all of them eased at the waistline, and widespread acceptance and approval of the fall fashions is now evident, following a season of controversy on the subject of the chemise.

News From The County Agent

Alden Smith from the Clara-Fairview community will enter the State 4-H Soil Conservation contest at A and M College on June 11th. He will represent District 3 in that contest.
Mike May, Max Summer, Larry Don Richardson and Danny Preston from Wichita Falls will enter the State 4-H poultry judging contest at A and M on June 11. They will represent District 3 in that contest.

The Wichita Valley DHIA Association ranked first in the state this month in average lbs. of milk which was 990 lbs. and first in the state in average lbs. of butter which was 36 lbs. The total number of herds of cattle in the Wichita Valley DHIA Association is 20 and the total number of cows is 745. The number of associations in Texas is 25 with a total number of cows in milk 13,745.

June is dairy month. Milk continues to be a good buy. Studies show that the average American spends about 10% of his food dollar for milk and receives 15% of his protein from that source. Buy, promote and sell dairy products every month in the year.

More and more farm people are supplementing their incomes with off-farm employment, notes B. T. Haws, county agent. In recent years the ratio from non-farm sources, compared to farm sources, has been about one to two. This means that farm residents are making $1 from non-farm jobs for each $2 they make on the farm.

Soil nutrients removed by some crops is the title of a new leaflet recently released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. A yield of 70 bushels of corn an acre requires 63 pounds of nitrogen, 25 pounds of phosphorus, 25 lbs. of potassium and 1 lb of calcium. The leaflet, L-165 is available from local county agents.

Farm flocks in the U. S. laid three percent less eggs in April 1958 compared with April 1957 and was the lowest April egg production since 1941. Total egg production January thru April 1958 was 4 percent below the same period last year. However, production in the South Central States, Texas included, decreased 7 percent.

Prices received by producers for eggs in mid April 1958 averaged 37.4 cents per dozen compared with 40.8 cents a month earlier and 30.4 cents in April 1957. Because of relatively high egg prices in March, 1958, egg breaking operations were slow and did not become very active until April, 1958.

The number of layers on farms in Texas during April 1958 was 2 percent less than in March, 1958 and 4 percent less than a year ago. This is favorable for prices in the short run. However, production of eggs will increase during the later 4 months of 1958 and this will have an effect upon prices. Production during the first four months of 1959 will probably be larger than in the first four months of 1958 and prices will probably be lower.

Wichita County agricultural agent, B. T. Haws, today released a report from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station on the livestock disease "leptospirosis." Once thought to be unimportant to the livestock industry, this disease is now known to be causing extensive losses.

The first symptoms are a high temperature, coffee colored or blood tinged urine, and a sudden decrease in milk production. The milk may be viscid and yellow as in mastitis, but the udder will be limp and cool. Abortion may occur if the animal is in late pregnancy.

The membranes of the animal's eye and mouth become pale and take on a decidedly yellow color due to the extreme destruction of red blood cells.

Leptospirosis is relatively mild in swine except for its effect on the pregnant sow. She will often abort, especially if in the last third of gestation. If not, part or all of the pigs may be born dead or die soon after birth, may pass through a herd of other pigs without symptoms observed.

County agent B. T. Haws, emphasized the importance of seeing your veterinarian immediately if leptospirosis is suspected in your herd. If treated early most cases respond well to one of the newer drugs. He stated that observations by the Texas Experiment Station indicate considerable benefit from vaccination against this disease. Bacteria now available provide immunity in cattle and swine a period of six months or more.

Burk Boy Rides Miles on Bicycle On Week Ends to Be With Pets

By KEITH SHELTON

Cheney is one 11 year old boy who loves animals. Of course, most boys 11 years old do. But Doug, who goes to sixth grade at Burkburnett Elementary School, rides his bicycle 18 miles from his home in 117 Oak in Burkburnett to the Humane Society's animal shelter in Wichita Falls every week end to be with animals. Mr. Peacock, who helps his grandparents, Mrs. Roy Peacock, who manages the shelter. Doug rides over on Friday afternoons and back Sunday afternoon and he begins Sunday, he and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Peacock, will operate the shelter while the Peacocks attend a course in shelter management in Phoenix, Ariz. Doug puts in a full weekend cleaning the animals, cleaning pens and meeting the public that deposits and withdraws animals from the shelter on the Iowa Park Road.

Doug owns two dogs, "Scooter" and "Myrtle," which occupy his time during the week. He's always had pets and at one time he had two dogs, several cats, a squirrel, a turtle and some fish. Once his bird dog had eight puppies and every time one was given away, Doug cried.

But Doug had to make a pact with his mother when he took the $1.50 a week job at the animal shelter, he had to promise not to bring home any animals. He'd bring them all home if he would let him she says.

The animal shelter population includes many species. Dogs and cats of course, dominate. But Doug says he has taken care of rabbits, possums and birds, and found homes for all of them.

The care a boy and his grandparents give animals at the shelter is often the best the dumb creatures ever get. One dog at the shelter was given a home 4 different times. Each time he ran away and went back to the shelter. Finally he was put on a ranch in Archer County where he stayed.

Doug has been working at the shelter about five months. And he's a top worker," his grandfather says. He gives shots to the animals when they need it and administers medicine. He's a good doctor, Peacock says. Doug says he's partial to squirrels, but he loves the dogs and cats. He and his grandfather wear heavy leather gloves while working with the animals, but he's never been bit.

Doug wants to work in the oil fields like his father when he grows up and he's started a savings account with his money. He would like to apply it to a motor scooter, but Mrs. Cheney isn't so sure about that.

Up to 150 animals have been housed at the animal shelter at a time, Peacock says. But none stay around more than three or four days. Often they are in the pens only an hour or so before someone gives them a home.

Animals are given to people all over the United States. Travelers on the highway often stop and take a pet home with them. Peacock says as many as 500 cars have stopped at the shelter on a busy Sunday. They never turn down an animal in need of a temporary home at the animal shelter.

Doug is a member of the Junior Humane Society. Mrs. Constance Plemmons is president of the Humane Society.

The committee on Agriculture is at the present time working on a general agriculture bill. It is too early yet to tell just what form this measure will take, but everyone certainly can agree that there is a desperate need for new basic agriculture legislation. As soon as the bill is reported by the committee, we will give the details here.
