Shown Above Is Remodeled Bldg. Open House Saturday, June 27th

"With full faith in the future growth and development of our area, we have expanded our facilities to keep abreast of the times." With those words, Alvin Hill, president of the First National Bank, gave reason for the transformation at the corner of 3rd Street and Avenue C. The First National Bank building has been completely remodeled, both inside and out in recent weeks. Visitors who have not been in town for two or three months hardly recognize the corner. First, the second story of the building was removed. Next, the outside was finished in Roman brick and cast stone. The front is all Solex tinted glass, with a new glass front door.

Several new safety deposit boxes have been added in order to offer this service to more patrons of the bank.

The extra space was needed to take care of added facilities to handle a larger volume of banking business. Mr. Hill, and the directors, realize the community is growing at a fast clip, and with the belief that our area will continue to expand and develop, they have made the progressive move of expanding their facilities.

Saturday, June 27th, the bank is holding open house from 2:00 to 5:00 p. m. The public is cordially invited to visit the bank during those hours and make a complete inspection of all facilities.

Bridges Would Honor Red Unions

Harry Bridges took the fifth amendment when asked by the House un-American activities committee if he had ever been a Communist. That in itself would make him a suspect, if he were not already. Why should any loyal American refuse to answer that question?

But it was things he did say to the committee that are frightening. First he said that if foreign transport unions asked his international longshoremen's union not to work shipping in American port, he would honor the request even if it came from a communist country.

Asked specifically if he would work to prevent shipment of United States arms and munitions to Nationalist China in event of war between the Nationalists and Red China, he said he would.

Bridges has made his position abundantly clear. He is ready to sabotage American aid to our allies. If he would order members of his union not to work shipments to Formosa, he would do the same thing in case Red China attacked the Republic of Korea again. The Red Chinese and Soviet transport unions no doubt would ask him not to handle the cargoes, and his attitude toward the state-controlled unions of the communist countries is the same as his attitude toward free trade unions in free countries.

Asked if he would "go along" with a formal declaration of war by Congress, the labor czar said he would. But he had already said enough—including his amazing statement that Russian trade unions are "more democratic" than their American counterparts—to indicate that the enormous power he holds in the hands of a man who is prejudiced for the Soviets and against the free nations fighting for their lives against Red aggression.

How To Speak "American"

At long last, in the 183rd year of our independence, there is an "American" dictionary! Just off the presses of the American Book Company, world's largest text book publishers, is an entirely new Webster dictionary for junior high schools devoted, for the first time, not to "the King's English," but the people's, and specifically the American People's.

This startlingly realistic approach to English as it is spoken breaks for the first time, the traditional idea that a dictionary publisher must prescribe the "right" pronunciation. Instead, this latest authority on the mother tongue presents "optional" or "equivalent" pronunciations in recognition of differing accents in various parts of the country. "Almond" and Pecan' are given four different pronunciations. "February," "Poem," "Soviet" and "Tomato" have three and all are recognized as correct. In general, three broad types of pronunciation, eastern, southern and western, are noted.

As Dr. Grant H. Brown, president of American Book Co. explains it, "We let the people decide how to speak the language, we are getting away from the idea that there is only one correct way to use a word or pronounce it, the so-called 'King's English.' Instead, our basic theme is that the people of a country make the language themselves. We call it 'the People's English.'"

Some indication of the scope of this task, a collaboration between the book company and G and C. Merriam, may be seen in the fact that each of the 44,000 words in the book is the subject of individual research. They are taken from the more than seven million word-cards on file in the Merriam-Webster offices. And each of these lists a word as actually used and pronounced by educated Americans, and taken down as heard by one of the staff of 50 editors and researchers. Thus, the new "Citation" dictionary (which "cites" these authorities) is firmly based on this vast treasury of the recorded speech and accents of millions of people.

Nor should we fail to mention the recognition given to modern technology from the atom and the miracle drug to the space vehicle in order to keep abreast of the science student in this changing world, fall out, cut-down, blast-off, aureomycin, for example. From automation to zipper, the new words are there.

Well may our high schoolers salute Dr. Brown and American Book Company. And for that matter, so might all the rest of us—if we want to be on the beam.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

OVERLAND PARK, KANS., JOHNSON COUNTY HERALD: "Most business firms commonly use bonding companies for employees handling cash, as a protection not only to the firm, but to the employee. Why shouldn't union act in a similar way and for a similar purpose?"

CHESTERTON, MARYLAND, NEWS: "The competitive enterprise economy in the United States, which has brought us the highest standard of living of any country in the world, depends in large part on capital from invested savings. Inflation, especially in its later stages, strikes at capitalism by discouraging savings. If long continued, it results in capital shortages which will reduce productivity."

PALMER, MASS., JOURNAL REGISTER: "An Agriculture Department aide told Congress the other day that 1959 wheat surpluses were expected to boost the Government's price-support outlays for that crop to $3,500,000,000. If this huge sum, for wheat alone, is averaged out among Americans filing income tax returns, it equals almost $50 per breadwinner."

ANTIGO, WISC., DAILY JOURNAL: "The Communists never 'miss a bet'. Wherever there is distress to be exploited, prejudice to be manipulated for their own purposes, and sentiments of helpfulness and benevolence to be misled & exploited, they move in. Various gimmicks will be used to trick the public into donating to red charity. They will include 'Freedom of the Press' committees and the slogans 'Help the Fight for Civil Liberties' and 'Donate for Peace'. If approached by a stranger appealing to your sympathies don't give on impulse. Check on the solicitor."

HARTFORD, WISC., TIMES-PRESS: "Communism, in one century, has gained sway over more people than Christianity in twenty centuries! With socialism, its 'younger brother in short pants,' communism is mopping up the world! Can we stop it? Nobody else can and WE can only if we get our own snowball rolling, pushed by dedicated men who believe in freedom, have the integrity to stand up for it, the intelligence to recognize the enemy in its disguised forms, and the moral faith by which alone freedom can survive."

No rest for this Chevy... round the clock the engine never stops!

At Washington's bustling National Airport, Allied Aviation Fueling counts on its radio-equipped Chevy to get crews and tank trucks to the right planes at just the right time. Aside from occasional time out for the usual service, its Thrift-master 6-cylinder engine has been running 24 hours a day for the past 9 months!

Once you've got that kind of endurance working you don't worry much about lost job time. Breakdowns go out of style the day your Chevy goes into action.

The fact is, Chevrolet trucks are dead set on dropping the word "downtime" right out of the English language. And they just might, if precision engineering and top-quality materials have anything to say about it. Chevy trucks are put together to stay together—incorporating the most advanced chassis developments, the most efficient 6-cylinder and V8 engine designs. They're built to last, built to keep Chevrolet's hard-earned reputation for reliability flying high.

Going into the real heart of Chevrolet advantages is where your dealer comes in. He'll show you, in feature after feature, that you can't buy more truck dependability—in any weight class—at any price.

No job's too tough for a Chevrolet truck!
