Miss Burkburnett Pageant to Uncover Much Talent

An excellent opportunity for Burkburnett girls to display their varied talents is being offered in the Miss Burkburnett Pageant, a preliminary to the Miss Texas and Miss America Pageant. It will be staged in the Palace Theatre on Aug. 17.

Too often young ladies who have exceptional talents never have an opportunity to display them. The Modern Study Club, in sponsoring the pageant, will present to the citizens of Burkburnett a group of our own home town girls, which the club feels cannot be surpassed by any community of our size in America.

Their talents may include popular and classical singing, dancing, musical instruments, art display, dress designing, dramatics, or a three minute talk on the career they choose to pursue.

A modern oil refinery may convert petroleum into as many as 2,000 different products.

With the opening of the new swimming pool set for the very near future, members of the finance committee are going all out in an effort to raise the necessary funds to pay off the contractor.

The fund took on new life this week when the First National Bank boosted it with a check for $1,000. Another business concern in town also gave $1,000, taking ten memberships for its employees.

Opening of the pool, previously set for next week, had to be moved up because of the rains which prevented workers from completing the fence around the pool.

The swimming pool committee has decided to open the pool just as soon as possible, even though the bath house part is not built. It would take several more weeks, and several more thousand dollars to complete the offices and bath house. The committee feels that it would be better to open without the bath house so that the pool can be enjoyed the balance of the summer.

Heartaches and disappointments have plagued the pool project since the very first. Inclement weather and many other obstacles have slowed the project at every turn. Lack of finances delayed the contract letting at the start last fall. Finally the contractor began the excavation and hit an enormous amount of seepage water. Several large pumps could not keep the water low enough to permit pouring the concrete bottom and sides. Once the concrete was poured and set up, the pool had to be filled with water to keep the seepage water from literally floating the pool away.

With the opening of the pool in sight, those who have made pledges are begged and urged to make good their pledges. Several dollars are needed right now to meet obligations made to the contractor.

Those who have not made a contribution or a pledge to the pool are urged to come to the aid of the beleaguered fund group and finish paying off the debt contracted for many months ago. Any amount will be gratefully accepted. Some felt that they were not able to take out a $100 membership. But now they can have a big part in the project by giving $50, $25, $10, or even $5.00. All amounts are needed and wanted. Please help with this, the biggest and one of the most worthy projects ever undertaken by a group of Burkburnett citizens.

Any one who will make a contribution, large or small, may give their money to James Brady, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Earl Askins returned home Saturday after several days visit with his father, S. E. Askins, at the Veterans Hospital in McKinney, Texas.

Frittering Away Your Money

The House of Representatives voted the National Science Foundation the sum of $10 million for this fiscal year. Shortly thereafter, the Foundation made a grant of $50,000 to a university for a study of bird sounds.

That brought an acid and apt comment from Representative Gross of Iowa: "Is it too much to hope the day will come when some foundation, richly endowed by Congress, will make a study and record for posterity the anguished sounds of taxpayers when they read how their money is being frittered away?"

Right-to-Work In Kansas

From National Review: "When Kansas adopted a Right-to-Work amendment in late 1958, the union bosses prophesied doom. 'When Right-to-Work comes to town, wages go down' was one favorite slogan. 'Industrial development in Kansas will halt,' they warned. What happened? The average weekly paycheck in Kansas jumped from $85.74 to $99.29, and a record was set in the number of new industries settling in the state."

Any employer who attempted to use Right-to-Work as an instrument for reducing wages, lengthening the work week, worsening working conditions, or any other anti-labor objective, would be doomed to failure for a number of reasons. For one thing, he'd run into a wave of public indignation—there are, needless to say, a great many more employes than employers. For another, workers would flock into the unions in droves to protect themselves, and all the enormous power of organized labor, with its vast treasuries, its expert administrators and organizers, and its ability to influence legislation and opinion would come into play.

On the other hand, there is every reason why the worker should fare better under Right-to-Work. For, when that law in on the books, unions must sell their services on the basis of value. They can no longer tell a man to join up or go jobless. The natural result is more effective and more responsive unionism, with greater dedication to the problems and wants of the membership.

The Consumer Suffers

Federal regulation of natural gas is supposedly in the public interest. But the fact is that both consumers and producers are being penalized to the tune of many millions of dollars as a result of this regulation—and the consumer is "really the one who has suffered the most grievous injuries, although he hasn't yet realized it." That's the informed view of an officer of a leading oil and gas company. And he amplified his case in detail.

Gas shortages will develop if gas exploration is not encouraged. Under Federal Power Commission regulation, natural gas could become so expensive that the average homemaker could not afford it. And this is no small matter. Natural gas furnishes over one-quarter of this country's energy requirements, and makes extremely important contributions to our living standards, our economy, and the national defense.

Yet, when an operator discovers gas today, he may have to wait from two to six years before getting permission to start deliveries. That's because the log jam of cases before the FPC has grown at an alarming rate. At the end of last February, the pending cases on the docket stood at 3,187. FPC simply can't handle them with anything resembling expeditiousness. The out-of-pocket costs imposed on gas producers during the last six years, because of delays and disruptions, total at least $75 million.

The executive summed up the situation in these words: "Natural gas is now the only basic commodity which enjoys no exclusive franchise or other monopoly privileges, and the price of which is directly controlled during peacetime by government edict. If that kind of federal regulation is 'in the public interest' so far as natural gas is concerned, what is to keep the same controls from being imposed on oil, coal, lumber, steel, meat and other essential commodities?"

Texas Timber Topics

The application of paint or other protective coatings to wood serves several important functions. Paint increases the service life of wood, just as the paint finish does on a car. A house represents a large investment. Regular paint maintenance will protect this investment. Painting also improves the appearance of a house by giving it a new "life."

Although paint is seldom thought of for its insulating properties, light colored paints contribute much to the comfort of home owners in hot weather. They reflect the sun's heat rays away from the wood making the house cooler.

Proper application and adherence to paint manufacturers' instructions are necessary for satisfactory paint performance. Recommended coverage, and priming and thinning instructions are generally stated on the paint can. Paint applied in too thick a film has a tendency to crack. If applied too thin, it will not provide sufficient protection. The optimum thickness in applying an oil base house paint is about .005 inches, preferably applied in three coats, consisting of one prime coat and two finish coats.

WOOD FLOOR FINISHES

Several kinds of finishes may be applied to floors and interior woodwork so as to preserve their natural appearance. These are wood sealers, shellac, varnish or lacquer. Each type of finish has properties peculiar to itself.

Shellac is made from a resin secreted by a tropical insect. The resin is refined and dissolved in alcohol. Shellac dries very rapidly and forms a hard, glossy surface. Shellac will water-stain and turn whitish when exposed to too much moisture.

Varnish is a finish composed of natural or synthetic resins in some type of drying oil. After drying, the film is reasonably hard and tough, and impervious to moisture. Varnish coatings take longer to dry and tend to darken with age.

Lacquer coatings consist of cellulose nitrate or derivatives dissolved in a rapidly evaporating solvent. Resin is frequently added to the mixture. Lacquer dries quickly and is resistant to moisture. However, it is difficult to apply and is generally more expensive than other finishes.

Wood sealers usually consist of waxes, resins and drying oils together with a water repellent. Especially, they do not coat the wood but shallowly penetrate into the material. When applied, the excess sealer is removed & the wood buffed to provide a pleasing appearance.

Although floors may be beautified and protected with any of these finishes, care must be exercised to select products made specifically for wooden floors and applied as directed.

Mr. S. E. Askins is reported doing nicely following surgery last Thursday at the Veterans Hospital in McKinney, Texas. He expects to return home some time next week.

Hot Weather, Fatigue and Your Heart

By J. M. Cook, D. C.

During these hot days we all try to beat the heat, and get rid of that tired feeling.

Some of us engage in more strenuous activities than usual which, perhaps, may not be harmful if you are not past thirty. If you are in your forties, however, don't do it. Just keep cool, calm and collected. That fatigued feeling could be the mid-summer heat and nothing more, if walking or working does not take your breath.

If walking does cause you to get short of breath, you might do well to investigate as this mother did who had been under severe emotional strain and stress waiting on her sick father night and day until he passed away. Upon walking up a slight incline, her breathing became labored and a pressure feeling developed in the center of her chest. Stomach distress such as bloating, nausea, indigestion, along with swelling of legs and feet and passing large lumps of mucus in her stools sent her to her family physician. Her condition was diagnosed as acute cardiac weakness, acute colitis and phlebitis of the legs.

After several weeks in a hospital undergoing several kinds of therapy and a long period of convalescent treatment, she became discouraged when all efforts failed to bring relief. She was brought to Cook Chiropractic office where was found a profound spinal curvature and our spinal X-ray disclosed severe nerve pressure in the area of the heart, gall bladder and kidneys which were removed in due time by corrective spinal adjustments. She says she never felt better. No heart palpitation, no indigestion, no swelling in her legs and does her work with no shortness of breath. Her heart now is normal, beating 72 times per minute once more.

Results speak for themselves. If your present or past treatments have not made you well, why not investigate. What can you lose except sickness and ill health. Phone for an appointment.

This Summer You May Save A Life!

Richard W. Hughes, Chief of the world's largest professional beach patrol at Atlantic City, New Jersey, has worked out a variation of the Neilsen method of artificial respiration for drowning victims... a technique he feels everyone should know and be able to practice.

First—victim in prone position on stomach—elbows folded—hands under the cheek. Make sure his tongue doesn't block his air passage. Operator kneels at head of victim—places hands slightly above small of victim's back—just below shoulder blades.

Next—operator rocks forward—maintaining steady pressure upon his hands. Release pressure gradually—place hands on the subject's arms below the elbows and draw arms upward.

This cycle should be repeated 12 times per minute at a steady rate until breathing is resumed. The first or compression phase forces air out of the lungs. The second or expansion phase expands the chest by pulling on chest muscles and arching back.

TAKE YOUR PROBLEMS TO CHURCH -- MILLIONS LEAVE THEM THERE

Although the years left to her are very few, she looks forward unafraid. She knows that soon death will envelop her with its final mystery and seeming oblivion, but for her, death is only the last visible page of life, just as birth is its first visible page. She is at peace with the universe and can be because she trusts in her Maker. She has believed these many years that God is good and this conviction continues even now when the shadow of death is also seen to be His gift.

This kind of assurance about life is meant for you too! Go to Church and hear again and again the words about God's trustworthiness and His love for you. Trust in Him and be delivered from fear of life and death!

© 1958, Coleman Adv. Serv., P. O. Box 4887, Dallas, Texas

Is something wrong with your life — an inner restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure. Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church should be in everyone!

Comment from the Capital —

BARNUM SAID IT BETTER

by Vant Neff

P. T. Barnum built his circus around the simple slogan, "There's a sucker born every minute." It's surprising how many of our prominent politicians apply the same philosophy to their election-time show. They repeal the basic laws of economics (for the duration of the campaign), drag the old "something for nothing" gimmick out of mothballs, and offer a good time to all. You scarcely feel the hand in your pocket. But you'll know it's there, all right, when the time comes to count the cost.

Just now, for instance, there are bills before both houses of Congress which would increase the federal minimum wage from $1 to $1.25, and extend its coverage to workers in "retailing and service industries." A good "liberal" cause according to its sponsors, and worth all the campaign mileage they can get out of it. But is it really? Let's look at it objectively and try to determine just who really benefits, and who pays the tab.

The first, and most far reaching result would be direct inflation. Any retailer forced to pay higher wages would have no choice but to add the cost directly to his prices. You won't even have to wait for tax time to pay for this one. You'll pay right out of your pocket each time you shop. And, of course, the increased prices of goods make your own dollar worth just that much less. There aren't any one-way streets in economics. Any accountant can tell you that. Money on one side of the ledger must be balanced by money on the other side.

Another obvious effect of such a law would be the inevitable elimination of sales jobs for students and older people. Why? Because a retailer who must pay this increased wage will be forced by simple economics to hire full-time "professionals" while his operating costs skyrocket. This could mean immediate, widespread unemployment, particularly among older people who need these jobs!

There is no need to point out the increased federal intervention in local business and community affairs this law would entail. And you know through sad experience, you would have to cough up the tax money to finance the federal bureaucracy to administer the new law. So you'd actually end up paying the tab two ways, in higher prices and higher cost of federal government.

The bill's advocates will tell you it only covers firms with annual sales of $1-million and over, and exempts small businesses. This is meaningless when you examine it closely. The local store that is a branch of a national business is still a local business employing local people. But it would be forced to pay higher wages than its next-door competitor just because of the national connection, or the small retailer would have to meet the larger store's sales, so he would be caught anyway. Doesn't make much sense, does it? Particularly since such unequal competition could force many stores to close, throwing local people out of work.

Then what is the answer? Shouldn't the unskilled worker be subject to minimum wage laws? He should be and is, under laws already on the books in 29 states. But it's a matter for your state legislature, where everyone is familiar with local conditions and problems. Not somebody way off in Washington. And it doesn't make sense to set up one rule, regardless of the admittedly varying economic conditions that exist from one area to another.

As for the bills before Congress — S-1046 (Senate) and HR-4488 (House) — write to your representatives in Washington now, before it's too late. Let them know what you think of these shenanigans. They'll listen to you all right; after all, it's approaching election time!

CANTON, GA. TRIBUNE: "American tourists who go abroad and sneer at local customs or deride conditions that do not compare favorably with those in the United States may lose this country much of the goodwill that it is winning through its programs of assistance. While the average American is a well-behaved individual, there are some self deluded big shots who think themselves superior to everybody else and therefore entitled to preferential treatment everywhere. These objectionable individuals make difficulties for well-mannered and courteous travelers and reflect upon the community of their origin."

PATCHWORK PRETTY—Now it's fashionable to wear patches! This novel patchwork skirt was made from plain and printed cotton feed and flour sacks. The patches are accented by rows of Wright's rick rack. Directions for making the skirt may be obtained from the National Cotton Council, Box 9905, Department M, Memphis 12, Tennessee.

Home oil heat "came of age" in 1928, when an oilburner was installed in the White House. Today, more than 16 million homes use convenient oil heat.

A Service Of The
Thor Research Center
For Better Farm Living

A sparetime project that will please the lady of your household is the modernization of your laundry or utility room.

We're thinking in terms of making the room handier as well as more attractive—by making a tubinette to use with the washtubs, an ironing board cabinet with storage shelf, and a cabinet to hide the water heater. A nice thing about this project is that it can be completed in stages over a period of several nights or weekends.

Laundry or utility room can be made attractive with modernization project.

A tubinette can serve as a cover for your washtubs when they are not in use. Equipped with casters, it is rolled away easily to become a sorting table on washday or to hold freshly-ironed items. A small cabinet in front of the tubinette provides a convenient, out-of-the-way place for soaps, bluing, and other laundry supplies.

The ironing board cabinet can be made with its own foldout board or to hold an average size ironing board, with a shelf above to hold iron, cord, and other small articles. And we don't need to point out what hiding the water heater inside a ventilated cabinet will mean in terms of attractiveness!

We have free plans available for this laundry or utility room modernization project. The cabinets are made with a combination of 3/16-inch tempered hardboard or 1/8-inch perforated hardboard with wood framing. With the woodworking speed made possible by today's portable electric saws, drills, and sanders, you'll be able to do a workmanlike job in your sparetime with a minimum of expense for materials.

Figures on 4-H enrollment for 1959 again show an upward trend. If the increase is reflected in all 50 states and Puerto Rico, this year's final score could well be within touching distance of the two-and-one half million mark, predicts the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

While the number of 4-H's is steadily increasing, the annual crop of winners remains about the same, the National Committee points out, because the number of award programs is limited. Thus individual qualifications become higher and competition keener. At the present time the ratio for state and national winners is one member out of 2,000.

The national award programs in which 4-H's participate include clothing, frozen foods, entomology, safety, public speaking, and tractor. There are nearly 50 others, according to the National Committee.

All 4-H projects and activities endeavor to show how to improve the individual, the family, the home, farm and community.

Every 4-H member pledges "... my head to clearer thinking ... my heart to greater ... my hands to larger service ... my better living, for my club, my community, my country."

Besides the personal satisfaction of "by doing," 4-H'ers take great pride in the accomplishments, and outstanding records awarded, the National Committee reports.

Awards are provided annually by local and business firms among which are Charles R. Walgreen, Standard Brands, Clark, Carnation Co., Simplicity Paper Mills, Whirlpool Corp., Montgomery Ward, Hercules Powder Co., Betty Crocker Co., General Motors, Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

Also John Deere, Singer Sewing Machine, Colgate-Palmolive, Homelite, Armour & Burlington, Milwaukee, and Illinois Canteens, Wilson & Co., and Humble Oil & Co.

All 4-H programs are directed by the Cooperative Extension Service, USDA. Arrangements for the national award programs are made by the National Committee.

The Boomtown Bowhunters Archery Club is having the grand opening of its new four-acre target range, on Saturday afternoon, July 16th, 1960. Registration will start at 4 p. m. and shooting will commence as soon as possible. Everyone will shoot first a Chicago Round. From the score of their Chicago Round, everyone will be classified into six divisions. The men will be divided into four divisions; Expert A, Expert B, Bowmen, and Archer. The women will all be in one division and the juniors (anyone sixteen years or younger) will be another division. The prizes in all divisions will be: 1st prize, a trophy belt buckle with the division emblem inlaid; 2nd prize, a bolo-tie with the division emblem inlaid; and 3rd prize a money clip with the division emblem inlaid. After everyone has shot the Chicago round, they will shoot a Fine round for the above prizes. There will also be some special prizes given. Southmoor Sporting Goods Center of Wichita Falls presented us with two dozen arrows, one dozen is splined a 30-35 pound bow and has target points, the second dozen is splined for 45-50 pound bow and has broad head points. Also there will be a special prize trophy presented by the Holt's Sporting Goods Store of Wichita Falls. There will be a special added shoot for a $50.00 Jaguar "Wildcat" bow, with a fifty lb. pull.

Many other archery clubs have been invited to the grand opening tournament. We hope to have members of clubs from the Oklahoma towns of Duncan, Rush Springs, Marlow, Lawton, and Apache, and also from Wichita Falls, Texas. Anyone else interested in archery who wish to shoot are also invited to try their skill.

We will have a well lighted range and if needed we will shoot until midnight. We hope to show everyone who enters our tournament a very good time with what we hope is the best lighted archery range of this area. This new lighted range is located at the extreme west end of College Street. Everyone is welcome to come out and watch the bowmen in action. Spectators are always welcome. Our next meeting will be on July 14th, 1960. All members are asked to attend, and be ready to hold a good meeting to clear up last minute details also if possible come a little early to practice and work a little to finish up for Grand Opening.

We wish to thank Mr. Brack Preston for the use of his trailer which we built for Boomtown Rodeo parade float on, that won us third place. Also we wish to thank an anonymous donor to our bank balance.

We are still looking for some acreage for a field range. Anyone knowing of any, please contact our club president, Jim Lindsay.

Also if any farmer in the area is being troubled by rabbits, coyotes or any other predatory animal, please contact Jim Lindsay or any other member of the boomtown archers and we will try to rid your land of these animals.

A Service Of The Thor Research Center For Better Farm Living

QUESTION: What makes the black stuff ooze up between the tiles of our kitchen floor? We put the tiles down ourselves and I'm wondering if we did something wrong. How can we eliminate the oozing?

ANSWER: There are two probable causes of the oozing between kitchen floor tiles—applying too much paste to the floor and not giving the paste sufficient time to set up. The only way to remedy the situation is to pull up the tile and start over again. Cleaning the tile doesn't get to the base of the problem and prevent continued oozing.

Sandpaper the bottom edge of a door without removing door from hinges.

In relaying the tile, try these suggestions: If a notched trowel leaves too much paste, try using a trowel without notches to spread a thinner layer of paste. Allow the paste to set up and, before laying the tile, test the paste by notching it with your finger. If the paste doesn't stick to your finger, it has set up properly for application of the tile.

QUESTION: The door to our kitchen rubs against the floor when it is fully opened and I'm afraid it will mark the floor if not corrected. Is there any solution without removing the door and planing its edge?

ANSWER: Place a sheet of coarse sandpaper on the floor at the place where the door rubs. Hold the sandpaper with one foot and swing the door back and forth across the sandpaper until there no longer is contact. That way, you'll remove just the right amount of the sticking door—and you won't have to remove the door from its hinges. If the door begins to rub again, the chances are the hinges aren't holding it in position properly, in which case you then will have to remove the door and reset the hinges.

How would you like to have a nice pet cricket singing on your hearth?

There's nothing cheerier, and a cricket in the house will bring you good luck. So says a Hollywood man who raises and sells them by the score.

They are the little gray European crickets, not the big black fellows we know which live outside and only occasionally venture indoors, to be met by irate housewives with fly-swatters and brooms.

English households, influenced perhaps by Dickens' tender tale of "The Cricket on the Hearth," let them chirp peacefully between the fireplace bricks, even encourage them and their progeny to be permanent guests.

The Californian will sell you a single cricket in a cunning little cage, to let you determine if you'd like such unique pets — or potential mates which might raise a family for you.

Seems that they're inexpensive to buy and to feed — a bit of lettuce and cracker crumbs. So, who wants crickets? Who indeed?

Humble Oil and Refining Company's polyolefin unit in Baytown, the largest installation of its type in the world, occupies an area equal to three city blocks and represents an investment of more than $30,000,000 including research and development.

You Can Help Reduce Accidents On the Farm; Here Are 15 Ways

You, Mr. Farmer and Rancher, can help reduce accidents on the farm.

Mental alertness, safety consciousness, the ability to recognize hazards and a determination to eliminate them, and efficiency in all farm operations are more essential to safety in agriculture than many rules or regulations, says Sam Whitlow, president of the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

However, for the sake of brevity, here are 15 good rules, which if followed, will help reduce the terrific toll of farm accidents, Whitlow points out.

1. Keep walkways and steps in good repair, unobstructed and well lighted.
2. Keep ladders in good repair and easily accessible in case of emergency.
3. Always stop a machine before unlogging, oiling or adjusting it. Keep all machine guards and safety devices in place.
4. Don't wear loose and floppy clothes around machinery.
5. Start tractors smoothly and turn corners slowly—avoid ditch banks and soft ground—always hitch to the draw-bar.
6. Speak to animals when approaching them. Keep THEM calm by acting with calm self-assurance YOURSELF.
7. Always keep bulls in safe bull pens. Never handle bulls unless they are properly restrained.
8. Know and obey all traffic laws. Stop driving if you get sleepy. Never ride with a driver who has had a "drink".
9. Keep your back straight and lift heavy loads with your leg muscles. Don't try to lift anything that is too heavy for you.
10. Use the right tools for the job—make sure they are in good condition—keep them in a safe place.
11. Give prompt attention to even minor injuries.

12. Keep guns unloaded except when actually using them. Treat every gun as though it WERE loaded. And NEVER aim at anything you don't want to shoot.

13. Don't use kerosene to start fires. Pour kerosene or gasoline outdoors to prevent the accumulation of treacherous vapors. Dry clean outdoors.

14. Don't smoke around the barn.

15. Never swim alone. Never dive into water without first determining the depth. And be careful with boats of any kind—never stand up in small boats.

Effect of Sawing on the Appearance of Wood

The grain appearance of a piece of wood is largely determined by the way in which the log was cut. Cross cutting exposes the end grain. This is the surface seen on meat blocks used by butchers.

Lumber is never manufactured by sawing across the grain. It is always sawn parallel to the grain or lengthwise of the log. However, sawing in this manner can produce two distinctly different types of wood grain. When sawing the outer portion of the log, the cut parallels the annual growth rings of the tree. Lumber of this origin is called plain-sawn or flat grained. As the sawing approaches the center of the log, the cut crosses the annual growth rings. That type of lumber is called quarter sawn, edge grained, or vertical grained.

Only a small amount of lumber is purposely quarter sawn. For most purposes, lumber with either type of grain is satisfactory. But, for uses requiring heavy wearing qualities, such as for flooring, quarter sawn lumber is best. Such lumber also shrinks less in width, and splits and twist less than plain sawn lumber. The advantages of using quarter sawn lumber for flooring and similar specialized uses more than offsets the additional cost required.
