DON'T CLUTIVATE WEEDS

Writing in The Trumpeter, Paul J. Cupp, president, American Stores Company says:

"The story is told of the great Roman Emperor Hadrian finding an aged man planting olive trees, and since they grow so very slowly, saying to him: 'Old man, these trees will not bear fruit for many years. Do you expect to be alive to eat of the fruit of your labor?'
"The old man replied: 'If God wills, I shall eat—and if not, my son will eat. My father, and his father before him planted trees that I might have fruit. It is my duty, then, to provide for those who shall come after me.'"

"Here is illustrated a basic principle of human progress. Our forefathers did not plant many olive trees, but they did better in planting ideas and cultivating knowledge, practicing thrift and industry, so that we have become a part of the most prosperous society the world has ever seen. We should know clearly how this all came about, and realize that the old-fashioned virtues have lost none of their validity and value."

Too many people in the United States are failing to cultivate the ideas planted by our forefathers, that gave us freedom, individual opportunity and responsibilities.

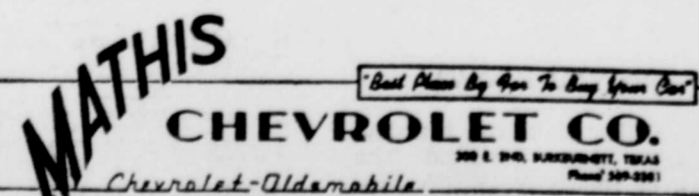

If we don't start cultivating the olive trees of ideas we inherited, we will find ourselves buried in a tangle of socialistic weeds, the seeds of which are now being planted.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

The cartel producing objective of the drive to put the U.S. economy into an alliance with the European Common Market is perhaps best seen in the plan the U.S. aluminum industry would like to put across.

The U.S. industry would like to be free to enter into negotiations with the 13 aluminum-exporting nations, of which communist Yugoslavia is one, to regulate the world trade in the metal.

C. W. Harder

Under the proposal, the U.S. would guarantee these exporting nations the same share of the U.S. aluminum market as they now hold, plus a share of any increases in the use of the metal in this country.

In return, the other countries would give the U.S. aluminum industry guarantees to a share of the world market.

This would result, an industry spokesman said in a method to "organize the world aluminum trade on an orderly basis."

This plan, of course, would eliminate free competition in the world aluminum market and substitute for it a monopoly. In addition, it would be a monopoly composed of a partnership between private investor ownership, socialistic government ownership and in the case of Yugoslavia, communist ownership.

In addition, it would negate thoroughly and completely the American principle of free competition and would result in global price rigging. Back in 1776 the founders of the nation shed blood to escape from this sort of thing, and by and large in the years that followed the nation has done quite well.

Many Congressmen are astounded that any open move would ever be made to get the nation to forsake these principles to enter into such a thing as the European Common Market.

Of course, there is a facet of this European Common Market agreement that has not been brought too much to light in the U.S. That is the fact that the existing agreements provide for a free movement of labor between the signatory nations. There are no immigration quotas on workers between the nations.

If the U.S. accepted this part of the agreement it is not hard to imagine that every 50 and 60 cent per hour worker in Europe would be swarming into America.

It is, of course, a part of the current proposal to recognize that many U.S. industries would be forced to shut down as they would be unable to compete with the flood of cheap foreign imports. The plan then is to assess the taxpayers for funds to retrain all the displaced American workers for jobs in other fields.

But nobody has yet come up with an estimate on how many billions of dollars it will take to send all these millions of displaced workers through Harvard to enable them to qualify for jobs as government economists, which appears to be the only substantially growing area of employment left in the nation.

Riding A Free Horse to Death

Loyal M. Graham of Oregon had a unique national title—"The Father of the Gasoline Tax." But, before his death not long ago at the ripe age of 100, he expressed reservations.

In 1919 he introduced a bill in the Oregon legislature imposing a state tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline—the first such tax in the nation. "No one seemed to object to the idea," he said, "because it didn't affect that many people."

But times and circumstances changed with a vengeance, proved by Loyal Graham's reactions to his legislative "first," as reported in the current issue of Petroleum Today.

By 1930, every state in the union had a gas tax, and the first federal tax came into being in 1932. And Oregon kept raising its tax.

"When it went to three cents, I got scared," recalled Graham. "When it reached five cents I knew the damn thing couldn't be stopped. I went down to Salem (Oregon's state capitol) and fought it hard, but it was no use."

"It accomplished its purpose at the time, but it began to grow and grow. It's the tendency of the Yankee to ride a free horse to death."

The present gas tax in Oregon—6 cents state and 4-cent federal—represents about 40 per cent of gasoline's retail price. In some states the figure is much higher. In fact, for the country as a whole, the state-federal tax comes to just about 50 per cent of the pre-tax cost of regular gas. No luxury, much less an absolute necessity, carries so heavy an excise sales tax as this.

To quote Loyal Graham again, "I've never been sorry I wrote that gasoline tax bill. It helped put the country on wheels, probably more than any one law. But they pushed it too far for my taste."

It can be added that they've pushed it too far and the taste of just about all the rest of us—and there are discernible signs of a motorists' revolt. More and more drivers are using less and less gallons—which is a perfect example of the law of diminishing return.

MEMBERS OF THE STARR BOYS BAND

Everett Geis, steel guitar; Billy Fuller, electric guitar; Freddie Hayes, electric bass; Huey Long, vocalist; Dennis Smith, drums; Leon Davis, violin.

Huey Long, 522 Park St., may become well known as a recording star from "The Ballad of John Glenn," which he wrote and arranged, and which has already been released by Fidelity Records. The record is already in supply in the record shops of Wichita Falls and across the country, and is receiving good ratings from various radio stations.

Recording is not new, however, to Long. He has considerable experience and background in music. He had his own band while in High School in Grandfield, and later made appearances on KWFT-TV with the Big-Six Jamboree. He also made appearances with George Jones at the Magnolia Gardens in Houston, with Jim Reeves, and with the Blue Boys of Wichita Falls. In 1957 he was singing with the Melody Pines Night Club in Los Angeles and appeared on Town Hall Party.

During the past year he has been vocalist for the Jones Boys Band. Presently he has his own band, known throughout this section as "The Starr Boys."

Long and the Starr Boys are recording under the Fidelity Label. Other releases of his are "Waiting for a Letter," and "How to Tell My Heart." The latest release, "The Ballad of John Glenn," has "Elvis Stole My Girl," on the reverse side. Long writes and arranges his own songs.

Other members of the "Starr Boys" band are Freddie Hayes, Electric Bass; Leon Davis, Violin; Dennis Smith, Drums; all of Burkburnett, and Everett Geis, Steel Guitar; and Billy Fuller, Electric Guitar; of Wichita Falls.

Long as lived in Burkburnett since 1958 and is employed as Credit Manager for Pacific Finance Company in Wichita Falls. He is the son of Charlie Long of Grandfield.

He is married to a local girl, the former Miss Margaret McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McDonald, 605 S. Harwell Street.

HOME GROWN BOMB

By Rosalie M. Gordon
(Editor's Note: Rosalie M. Gordon is editor of ALL-AMERICAN BOOKS, ALL-AMERICAN BOOK DIGEST and AMERICA'S FUTURE.)

With Congress back in Washington, one of the big subjects may turn out to be your money—how much of it the politicians will take and spend. There is talk of a government spending budget for fiscal 1963 in the fantastic sum of 100 billion dollars—which is 10 billion dollars more, just to run the government, then we spent last years on clothing, recreation and building construction.

The big excuse for all this spending, of course, is national defense. Everyone, including the heavily burdened American taxpayer, wants the United States to have the strongest possible defense. But is this tremendous increase in government spending really due to national defense? A comparison of the spending for 1962 with 10 years ago tells a very different story. In round figures, the government spent 45 billion dollars on national defense in 1952. This year it will spend about 54 billion dollars. That's an increase of nine billion. But the overall spending by the government this year is greater by 22 billion dollars than it was 10 years ago. In other words, entirely aside from national defense, the government is spending this year 13 billion dollars more than it spent 10 years ago.

Heavy as is the tax-take, the government still spends more than it collects. It borrows the difference. This makes the deficits—the red ink in the federal budget. These deficits must be added to the government debt which is pushing close to the 300-billion mark, and this means an ever-increasing interest charge on the debt—an interest charge which must be met every year out of your taxes.

The raid on the American taxpayer for spending that has nothing whatsoever to do with national defense is bad enough. But it has an even more serious aspect. This kind of wild and irresponsible spending can wreck our free system much more effectively than can Khrushchev's bombs. A recent careful study for the National Bureau of Economic Research says Americans are not saving enough. The report points out that in order to keep our free enterprise system in good health and producing more of the abundance it has produced in the past, savings by the people are absolutely essential.

To put this another way, savings are the lifeblood of the free, capitalist system. It cannot live without them because it is from the savings of the people that come the funds for investment in new industries and for the expansion of old ones. The savings of individual Americans, invested in new and old industries, is also a prime factor in keeping our system free. Individual savers (investors) provide a free capital market. Otherwise, the government steps in—and then we have the austerity, the scarcity, the one-notch-above-poverty for everyone of socialist and communist systems.

This is where our home-grown bomb appears, in the form of incredible and increasing government spending. It is this vast spending by the government which keeps people from saving enough. You can get all kinds of reasons from New Frontier economists for people not saving, but they never get around to the real reason because it would reveal immediately the fallacy in their philosophy of "let the government do it."

First, there is the whole idea of the socialists welfare state, of which we have adopted already a goodly portion. If you can sell people the idea that the government will take care of them in their old age, they won't bother to save for these contingencies.

Second, when the government takes anywhere from 40 to 60 per cent of everybodys income, it is impossible to save as one should. Third, when the government consistently spends of money and borrows parts of it—as it has done for 25 out of the last 30 years—it causes inflation. Inflation means that how many dollars you earn, each dollar buys less and less, and you are losing some of the things you want because they have become much more expensive than they can be before they lose value.

Government spending is a time bomb that can blow our faces unless we get it deactivated.

This book is the result of the return of a native—after almost thirty years absence. When Mrs. Lasswell returned and realized how little she knew about her homeland she embarked on a Texas size odyssey. She started out in 1953; visited the four corners, and everything in between, until 1958 when her book was published.

The author concludes with this, as she sees it, fact—You can take it (Texas) or leave it—but if you can take it chances are you will never leave—

GARDENING

FOR BEAUTY AND PLEASURE

MRS. ROY MAGERS

A series of articles on "Gardening for Beauty and Pleasure" by Mrs. Roy Magers, will be a weekly feature in the Burkburnett Star. Mrs. Magers, whose home address is on Shannon Road, is chairman for the Wichita Falls Garden Club.

Mrs. Magers is one of three accredited flower show judges in Burkburnett. She has been very active in Burkburnett and Wichita Falls in various club activities for several years. Among her many club activities she has devoted a considerable amount of time and effort to the Garden clubs. Her articles on "Gardening for Beauty and Pleasure" are of an informative nature, backed by experience and knowledge of the work.

You can multiply your gardening pleasure many times by propagating plants yourself.

It's an easy skill to learn and rewards you with duplicates of your favorite flowers and shrubs.

Hundreds of different plants can be propagated readily. The two easiest methods are by rooting cuttings and air-layering established plants. Both ways will produce new plants within a few weeks.

Softwood plants and flowers are easier to reproduce. However, even during winter and early spring you can root cuttings taken from evergreens, flowering shrubs and bushes. The equipment can be simple. An old aquarium or a large bulb pan are perfect for cuttings. Sharp sand, some clear plastic and a bit of patience completes your basic propagating kit.

Clean sand is one of the best materials for rooting new plants. It handles well and assures good drainage. Mixing equal parts of sand and peat moss will hold moisture longer. Vermiculite or ground sphagnum moss also work well.

For only a few cuttings, use six or eight inch bulb pan. Plug the hole and fill the pan with sand or other material. Also cork a three-inch clay pot and place it in the center of the pan to serve as a reservoir. Water from the small pot will seep slowly through the porous side and keep your rooting medium moist.

For large groups of cuttings three to four inches long from young growth of your healthiest plants. Cut below a node or leaf. Even during winter you can get good cuttings from yew, boxwood or other evergreens.

Remove leaves or side branches from the lower inch or two that will go into the sand. Dipping the cutting into a hormone—like Root, one will stimulate faster root growth. Then, thrust the stems into a propagating medium.

Keep cuttings moist. A polyethylene sheet or bag will retain the high humidity essential for successful propagation.

The best rooting temperatures range from 65 to 70 degrees. If sand can be kept about

Mr. Thomas Moore, Head of the Burkburnett High School Science department, discusses with Bill Byars a project study of male hormones in an experiment with chickens, a project of Bill's.

Mr. Moore came to Burkburnett from Nocona, where he had taught for five years. He is a Registered Medical Technician, and a graduate of the University of Oklahoma.

A Chief Hospital Corpsman in the Naval Reserve, Mr. Moore has been active in Civil Defense, and is qualified in Radiological work, and heads the Radiological Monitoring division of Burkburnett's Civil Defense.

His wife, Mrs. Letha Moore, is the school nurse. Their son, Morgan, is in the First grade. They are members of the Baptist Church.

10 degrees warmer, by placing on a heated surface, this will often stimulate root growth, too.

Locate your propagation unit where it gets sunlight. However, with plastic covers, avoid direct hot sun which may dry the tender cuttings. A weak fertilizer solution provides nourishment as roots develop. When the roots are about an inch long transplant to soil and water.

Air-layering is another excellent and reliable way to create new plants. Make a shallow slit in the stem. Insert a small wooden peg or pebble. Another way is to remove a one-inch ring of bark in a sturdy branch.

Neat, pack moist sphagnum moss around the wound. Dust the area with hormone if you wish, to speed rooting. Then wrap the area with clear plastic to hold high humidity, as roots are forming. The parent plant supplies the food.

When roots are plainly visible inside the plastic, within three to six weeks, cut the new plant off. Keep it moist for a few weeks in a shady location until the new roots take hold well in the soil. Add to your garden's beauty this year. Multiply your favorite plants through propagation.

THOR RESEARCH CENTER FOR BETTER FARM LIVING

A reader who wants to enclose an area around his home for recreation and gardening asks for plans for a distinctive fence, which also serves as a windbreak. Our plans suggested four fence designs that are both handsome and practical.

A "woven" fence was one of those suggested. Twelve-foot lengths of 3/4-inch exterior tempered hardboard are bowed among strategically placed 4x4 posts to effect the woven appearance. Height is determined by the number of hardboard panels used, but the most desirable suggested is 5 feet 6 inches.

Free plans are available for four handsome, yet practical fences.

This size is achieved by horizontally weaving five 12-inch panels among the posts, placing bottom panels two inches above the ground and adding others at 1/2-inch intervals. The 4x4 posts protrude 2 inches above the top.

Planting these 4x4s 2 feet into the earth presents the only labor problem, because trimming required by hardboard and posts can be accomplished quickly with a portable electric saw. The hardboard is fastened to the 4x4s with 5-penny galvanized siding or galvanized box nails.

Another of the fence plans—which appeals to "green-thumbed" persons—is called the "hanging garden fence." Exterior perforated tempered hardboard are used in the construction.

Hardware available for perforated material allows arranging live floral displays right on the fence—or on shelves fastened to the fence—and its over-all appearance makes the fence a conversation piece too!

The two other fences included in the plans feature a contrast achieved by alternating exterior hardboard panels on opposite sides of 4x4 studding.

(To get free plans for these fences, write Thor Research Center, Aurora, Ill. Ask for Plan AT-309.)

CITY GARBAGE REGULATIONS The city-wide garbage pickup service and the elimination of wholesale trash burning has cut down our fire runs by 95%. This undoubtedly will eventually reflect itself in our key rate and effect a substantial savings in the insurance rates. In considering the garbage pickup service, your city council is certainly interested in your getting good service. We have discovered, however, that in many cases the ordinance is not being followed. As you know, the garbage service is contracted on the basis of the ordinance requirements. When there are those who don't comply with the ordinance, such as improper containers, or keeping the garbage where it is almost inaccessible to the garbage crews; such things make it difficult for the crews to stay on schedule and give the service that they could otherwise give.

TELEPHONE TALK by C. A. Deuschle, Manager

ABOUT YOUR TELEPHONE BILL We know how important it is to you that the bill you receive from us for your telephone service each month is correct. And we try very hard to see that it is always right. Most calls are billed with the help of marvelous new electronic machines. These machines help us to hold down our cost of billing—which means holding down the price you pay for telephone service. It would be almost impossible to do the whole billing job by hand. Though our electronic machines are almost miraculous in their speed and accuracy, it is still possible, once in a while, for something to go wrong. For that reason we have dependable telephone people checking and double-checking the bills at every key point in the process.

In the telephone business, we combine machines and people for the utmost accuracy in your telephone bill. Like any other part of your telephone service we are always looking for new ways to improve it while holding down the price you pay.

TELEPHONE MONTH March is a most significant month for telephone people. It marks the anniversary of two important dates in telephone history. On March 3, 1847, Alexander Graham Bell was born in Edinburgh, Scotland. Twenty-nine years later, on March 10, 1876, in Boston, he made the first telephone work. After its invention, it took just a few years for the telephone to travel as far as Texas. Our first telephone exchange was opened in Galveston in August, 1879. Since that time, telephone service has grown, until today there are more than 75 million telephones in the United States. They carry more than 290 million telephone calls each day. On this 86th anniversary of the invention of the telephone, our goal is the same as it was on March 10, 1876... to make your telephone service more valuable, more dependable and more useful to you every day. Call by number. It's twice as fast. SOUTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

Brownie Troop 50 Observes Girl Scout Anniversary

The Brownie Troop 3, under the leadership of Mrs. Wayne Landrum and Mrs. Rudolph Kormas, observed the Girl Scout's 50th Anniversary with a banquet at the First Baptist Church, February 27.

Lia Hodges was Mistress of Ceremonies for the event. The flag ceremony was conducted by Linda Fore, Brenda Briggs, Debra Lewis, Debbie McMinn, Theresa Parks, Debbie Landrum. The Pianist was Lori Sue Landrum.

Other participants in the program, besides Mrs. Wayne Landrum who gave the Welcome, were Lia Hodge, and Claudia Von Voigt. A Play, "The Brownies," was presented with the following cast: Pat Zimmerman, Janet DiMarzio, Becky Kennedy, Lori Sue Landrum, Claudia Von Voigt and Patti Kormas. The following were in charge of scenes, props and costumes: Rhonda Roe, Linda Fore, Theresa Parks, Debra Lewis, Brenda Biggs and Debbie McMinn.

The Troop History was presented by the following poem:

A HAPPY BROWNIE YEAR
I am a Brownie from Burk-burnett, Troop 3.

In this troop I'm glad to be.
We get so many things done,
And always have a lot of fun.

In the month of hearts our troop began
So a Valentine party we did plan.
Our mothers came and smiled so bright
'Cause everything went just right.

We thought a lot on thinking day
Of our Brownie friends who live far away.
We sang their songs and played their games
And learned to say their Brownie names.

Then came a task we couldn't fail
Our Girl Scout cookies we had to sell.
So off we went from door to door
Selling cookies 'till we had no more.

Girl Scout Week came during March.
We did something every day.
Served our teachers, went on a hike
There was a time for work and a time for play.

These are our aprons, I hope you can tell.
Our leaders think me did quite well.
At first she just shook her head,
'Cause we couldn't keep together, the needle and the thread.
But, finally, one day all the aprons were done.
We hoped that cooking would be more fun.

We put on our aprons one fine day
And made a cake the modern way.
We Brownies think it's fun to fix
A chocolate cake from a box of mix.

To the public library we did go.
They have lots of books there, you know.
We saw books about all sorts of things
And heard a story 'bout a rabbit who had red wings.

We went to see the instruments
At the school band hall
Some sounded high, some very low
We REALLY had a ball.

We hiked to the post office to learn
What happens to a letter

Current Lit. Study Club Met Thursday, March 8th

The Current Literature Study Club met Thursday, March 8, 1962, at 2:30 in the home of Mrs. Marjorie Kauer, with Mrs. C. E. Lundberg as co-hostess, for a Texas Day Program.

Mrs. Roy T. Magers, leader, introduced the program. Roll call was answered with a "Texas Author."

Mrs. W. W. Chambers spoke on "What A Visitor in Texas Should See."

"There are fifty-two State Parks in Texas," she said. "And the Big Bend National Park, besides the 1,600 Roadside Parks."

"The Big Bend Country is beyond description—it's wonders as old at Time itself—Its flora and fauna are found in no other park."

The speaker told about the Longhorn Caverns at Burnet, the long shore line of beaches, Galveston and other seaside towns, Padre Island, Possom Kingdom, and many other things to see in Texas.

"Present Day Texas Poets" was brought by Mrs. F. G. Jeffers. She said, "For over one hundred years Texas has had poets and writers in various fields. Texas became one of the first to have her own poet laureate."

Mrs. Jeffers told of four of the 17 poets laureate of Texas, David Russell, Arthur M. Samply, Dee Walker, and Marvin Davis Winsett, poet laureate for 1962, and read examples of their poetry.

"These poets are true Texans in their concept of beauty," Mrs. Jeffers said, regardless of the style—such as Mr. Russell writes, "The man who was born in Texas—Has Texas in his bones," or as Dr. Samply— "From this sheer wall the Indians watched the plains—And saw as I, the Rio Grande bend," or as Dee Walker—"Blue smoke, Whirling above the chimney line," or as Mr. Winsett—"While age has dimmed the Memory of toil, My hands still long to feel remembered soil."

The Counselors Report was given by Mrs. Charles Boyd. Mrs. Magers led the Pledge to the Texas Flag, and the Club Collect.

Mrs. John Brookman, president, presided over the business session and welcomed members and one guest, Mrs. Marion Barrett, the former Rose Mary Roark.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this means of expressing my thanks to each and everyone for the visits, cards, flowers, phone calls, and prayers during my stay in the hospital and since my return home. Your thoughtfulness was sincerely appreciated.

GOD LOOKS ON THE HEART

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Man's first reactions to another is based on outward appearances, and only time will help him to know the heart of another. God knows, immediately, every attitude of the heart, whether it is good or bad.

"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God."

There are many rewards for those that follow the Lord. "Let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord." Attend church Sunday and share in the joy of worshipping the Lord.

Week after week carefully tabulated figures published in "Automotive Market Reports" show that Chevrolet trucks are worth more in resale value.

why?

If you were a professional used truck buyer, why would you pay more for one make than another?

There may be several reasons, but among them would be:

1. A greater demand for the product

2. A more desirable product for resale

So if used Chevrolet trucks consistently bring higher prices at auctions all over the country, it means that their quality features pay off for you not only as long as you own them but also when you are ready to trade them—double-wall cabs, doors and side panels, roof insulation, select wood floors, reliable and economical engines, real rugged tailgates, a suspension system that helps prolong truck life.

See your Chevrolet dealer for a quality '62 Chevrolet Jobmaster truck.

"Automotive Market Reports" is a weekly authoritative wholesale publication which reports the average prices paid for used trucks and cars by professional buyers at auctions all over the U.S.

See your Chevrolet dealer for trucks that keep working and working and working and working!

Family FINANCIAL PROTECTION
Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance
Q. As a result of an eye injury I suffered in an automobile accident, I have been totally blind since I was 18 years old. I am now 28, am married and have two children. I have been entirely self-supporting for the past six years as an assembler in an electronics equipment factory. Is it possible for me to take out life insurance to protect my family?
A. If you are otherwise in good health, you can probably obtain a permanent life insurance policy at standard rates and on much the same terms as a person with normal eyesight. More than five years have elapsed since you became blind, and your employment record shows that you are well-adjusted to your handicap. You have a definite need for life insurance. These would be important factors in a life insurance company's decision on issuing you a policy.
For many years, a blind person often had to pay a substantially higher premium for life insurance if he could obtain it at all. But a large majority of life insurance companies are now issuing permanent policies to healthy, well-adjusted blind people at standard premium rates. In cases where an extra premium is necessary, the additional charge usually runs no more than about $2.50 a year for $1,000 of protection.
Q. Should I carry life insurance on my young children?
A. A high percentage of families do carry some life insurance protection on every family member. The most important need, of course, is for insurance on the breadwinner. Mothers also need adequate life insurance because, whether or not they bring in any income, they are an important economic asset. Where the death of a child could present a serious financial problem, that suggests a need for some life insurance on children. You can meet these insurance needs with a family plan policy which, at relatively small cost, provides some protection for every family member. Or you might consider a "jumping juvenile" policy which provides a small amount of protection on a youngster and automatically becomes a larger policy when he reaches maturity. This gives him a big start toward building his own estate and protecting his own family in later years.

THE loss of gold from a country is a symptom of a serious malady. We began to lose gold we had already lost something infinitely more precious—character, integrity, self-reliance and honor! If every American were paid well for what he produced, but no more, and if he paid his own bills without reliance upon help from others (excepting health and accident), he might be more thrifty for his own work not done, and forms of government independent upon himself and neighbors rather than a dollar would remain invulnerable. Under such conditions, the dollar would be lost purchasing power would be no problem of drain. Unemployment and loss of the more serious losses to a nation which we have. The only permanent way to solve these problems is to be a Christian faith and character.

The Negro will never be a first class citizen until he has pride in his ancestry and no shamefacedly trying to hide Stone called the action of New York health authorities "sulting and in effect saying it is disgraceful to be a Negro. He called such action "insulting and totalitarianism that must be fought with ounces of energy at our command."
