Polk Robison New Business Manager Texas Tech Squad

Texas Tech's Polk Robison, who has done his share of football and basketball coaching in the past, is happy enough to handle the business end of the 1962 grid season.

Robison points to the fact that three of the teams to be played in Jones Stadium led their conferences last year. And the other two don't figure to be easy, either.

Co-champions of the Southwest Conference, University of Texas and University of Arkansas, will be met here Sept. 29 and Nov. 4th, respectively.

Robison foresees a capacity crowd for University of Texas as likely and a near capacity turnout for West Texas State as a possibility.

The telephone company building is located on Fourth Street. Construction on the new annex is to be started in the near future, and completion is slated for spring, 1963.

The addition, 81 feet wide by 26 feet deep, is to be adjoined to the rear of the existing structure.

A reinforced concrete frame, solid masonry walls, face brick exterior with stone and marble trim matching the old building is planned for the annex.

Additional equipment space and a boiler room will be located in the annex's basement area. Plans call for the entire building to be air-conditioned upon completion of the addition.

STOCKTON, KANS., RECORD: "Everything changes even the King's English. You would most likely have considerable difficulty reading a book written in the time of Chaucer. But back to our present day new words. PHILADELPHIA, PA., DISPATCH: "In 1951, to help finance the Korean War, the Federal gas tax was increased, temporarily, to 2 cents. Also temporary was the 1956 increase to 3 cents. And 1959 the levy went temporarily to 4 cents. In the beginning, the gas tax was referred to as the painless penny. Now, with Federal and State tax averaging over 10 cents on every gallon of gasoline, painless is hardly the word for it."

WEST POINT, MISS., LEADER: "Ten years ago, the national average of teacher's salaries was $3,126. It is now $5,389, an increase of 72.4 per cent. All state expenditures for schools rose from $6.5 billion to $16.4 billion in the last ten years. The 1970 forecast of $24 billion is not out of reach of local authorities, whose bonds have found a ready market at rates lower than the Treasury commands."

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

Congressman Tom Johnson of Maryland is just one of the many members of Congress who look askance at proposal for Federal government to control farm production.

Obviously, for years the various farm programs have been failures. In the 27 years between 1933 and the end of fiscal 1960 the price support programs had cost the taxpayers $10 billion. In addition, payments under conservation, other programs, run about two-thirds of a billion per year. Storage costs on surplus farm products are said to currently run about $1 1/2 million per day.

So, averaging everything out, it appears that farm programs are costing slightly under $1 1/2 billion per year. This is a great burden on the taxpayers.

On the other hand, since end of World War II, U.S. taxpayers have put up an average of almost $6 1/2 billion per year for foreign give away.

Now the plan is to keep on with foreign give aways, including billions for communist Tito, but to eliminate farm payments at least in part. U.S. farmer is to be regimented.

Congressman Johnson explains that the program would place severe restrictions on the production of corn, oats, barley, grain sorghums, and farmers would need government permission to grow these crops. Restrictions would be placed on wheat planting, and milk cows would be ordered to slow down. In the meantime half the world goes hungry. And a great part of those people in hunger are the very people it is being sought to influence away from communism.

It would seem that if the million and a half dollars per day being used to store surplus food, were used to give away surplus food to the desperate people, the cause of peace would be much better served than serving away an average of more than $18 million per day in form of foreign give aways to foreign politicians, cartels, and other big interests.

In addition, cutting off imports of food would also aid the American farmer as the U.S. imports more food than it exports. After deducting coffee which is not grown in the U.S. the value of U.S. food imports is $2 1/2 billion. The value of U.S. food exports is $2 1/2 billion. But inasmuch as the export values are based on U.S. prices, and the import values of foreign prices, the tonnage of food imported is greater than that exported.

It is doubtful the farmer wants to surrender his freedom.

But the American farmer is learning that a little bureaucracy is a dangerous thing and that history teaches once bureaucrats establish even a small beachhead it almost takes blood at the barricades to push them out again.

For since the Caesars, bureaucrats have always sought to cover up their own ineptness and errors by getting issued the edicts which regiment; the laws that force compliance. This is the position the farmer now finds himself in.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

SIMSBURY, CONN., HERALD: "Where . . . does the road to salvation lie for the railroad? It lies in the area of free competition, and government's position should be toward the restoration of a competitive position for them. That involves legislating the right of the railroad to eliminate wasteful labor practices, fair prices for equivalent services, and less, not more, governmental control."

Prevent Depredation In Camp

Wild animals are a constant source of depredation in camp. They gnaw equipment because of the sweat salt they find on such items as axe handles, etc. They break open bags and damage cans in search of food. Usually this occurs during the night, or when the camp is deserted. You can prevent this aggravation by spraying your equipment and stores with nicotine sulphate. It is a chemical offensive to man, but repugnant to animals. Pests will give camps, so sprayed, a wide berth.

In visiting home landscapes, Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent finds symptoms of cotton root rot in many sections of Wichita County. Cotton root rot is one of the most common plant diseases in Texas. It is very common in heavy, alkaline soils. The disease first occurs in south Texas during late May, and is observed in north Texas during June and July. About 80 percent of the wild and cultivated plants are susceptible in varying degrees. The fungus may live on some native trees and shrubs without killing them.

Small flowers, shrubs and trees die suddenly after the first wilting occur. Large shrubs and trees may die more slowly. The bark of affected roots is decayed and brownish. Woolly, buff or brownish, fungal strands are present on the surface of the damaged roots. To check for the strands, place parts of suspected roots in water for a few minutes. Then carefully remove any remaining soil with running water. Allow the specimen to dry for several minutes before making a microscopic examination.

The whole root system decays. Bark is rotted off the harder wood of the root, and roots slip out of the soil with comparatively little pulling effort.

Under moist conditions, with or without affected plants, spore mats sometimes appear on the soil surface. These mats are 2 to 12 inches in diameter, at first snow-white and cottony; later they appear tan and powdery.

The disease fungus generally invades new areas by continued slow growth through the soil from plant to plant. It may live in the soil for many years. The disease is often found as deep in the soil as roots penetrate.

Patio plans seem to be high on the wish list for many families. Plans for an easy-to-build patio are available from your county home demonstration agent, 305 Federal Building, Wichita Falls.

Mrs. E. E. Wilson built a brick patio and finds it most useful, as well as attractive. The brick never gets slick nor holds water.

Mrs. L. H. Hull and Mrs. J. L. Graham both have plants for interesting patios. They plan to take advantage of shade trees and natural beauty by building around them. They also plan interesting shapes to make them a bit unusual.

Mrs. George Wyatt gave a most informative demonstration to her home demonstration club on patios. She had the demonstration on her own patio and taught the ladies how to select

Room Air Conditioners Cool Properly Insulated Houses

Electrically heated homes such as this 1,400 square foot house in Augusta, Ga., can be air conditioned completely by two room air conditioners with a total capacity of 26,000 BTU's per hour. Extra mineral wool insulation required for efficient electric heat helps make this air-conditioning efficiency possible, even during Augusta's hot summers.

Room air conditioners are being used increasingly by home owners and new home builders to provide summer comfort for entire houses.

In Augusta, Ga., for example, power company engineers are advising owners of new homes heated with ductless baseboard electric heating that two room air conditioners with a total capacity of 26,000 BTU's per hour will serve their summer comfort needs. The houses range in size from 1,400 to 1,600 square feet.

More and more builders in Augusta and Atlanta who install baseboard electric heating are providing special "sleeves" to accommodate through-the-wall room air conditioners.

An important fact in the efficient use of these room units is insulation installed for electric heating. Mineral wool installed according to the Quality Home Requirements of the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association reduces the heat gain in summer for efficient, economical air conditioning, just as it keeps heat inside in winter for comfortable, low-cost electric heating.

A big advantage of using room air conditioners for summer comfort throughout an entire house is the individual "zone" or room control they offer. This permits air conditioning of rooms or areas of the house only when they are in use.

a spot and how to provide privacy as well as how to build a patio.

Are your garden tomatoes poor producers? If so, the plants may have been damaged by root knot. Many other vegetables may also be affected.

Root knot occurs in all areas of Texas, and is usually more common in sandy soils. The disease is caused by nematodes. Nematodes are small, microscopic worms belonging to a group of animals known as roundworms.

Plants damaged by nematodes show a lack of vigor as indicated by stunting, wilting and yellowing of the leaves. Loss of leaves often occurs. Plants may die. Vegetables are usually small and unfit to eat.

To examine suspected plants, carefully remove roots and soil with a shovel. Diseased roots have abnormal galls or knots.

Nematodes are controlled by a combination of cultural practices and the use of nematocides. Some chemicals commonly used for nematode control are Garden Dofume, D-D Nagon, Fumazone, D-D N-Vapam and VPM. Most of these nematocides are used prior to planting. Apply as the manufacturer directs.

Social Security Information

A recent change in the social security law has made hundreds of farm landlords eligible for benefits although they do not materially participate in the actual operation of their farms.

Under this new provision, a farm landlord may get social security credit for his net income from a farm he owns even if his participation in the operation of the farm is through an agent or an employee.

Formerly, a farm landlord had to take a personal part in the actual operation or management of the farm in order to have his income from the farm count for social security.

Your Wichita Falls social security district office will be glad to answer any questions you might have about the recent change in the law. If you can't come in, write asking for a copy of booklet OASI-33d, which explains "material participation" in detail.

Roger W. Babson Weekly Report

Roger W. Babson
Discusses the Stock Market

Do not know what will happen in the stock market between now and the time when you read this in your local paper, but from December 1961 to the present—
Industrials have gone up a high of 734.91 to 535.76; Utilities have gone from 103.33 to 116.05.
Means that the Dow Industrials, which is what we are talking about here, have gone off more than 27% from their all-time high in 1957.
During this roughly, a 27% drop is nothing for investors to worry about provided they are buying on margin, or on credit and provided they have stocks of good quality. The difficulty comes with those who are buying stocks on margin and who have been nearly wiped out or have suffered severe losses. I feel very sorry for them. On the other hand, those who have their stocks paid for and in their safe-deposit box probably have nothing to fear and will see them come back again some day to much higher prices.

What About Bonds?
Very few people buy bonds on margin. But, while some industrial "blue chips" still yield only around 3½%, good corporation bonds—which precede in security all stocks of the company—can be bought to yield around 4½%. Therefore, the wise investors have gradually been changing from gilt-edge stocks to bonds.
Usually corporation bonds are, and the mutual funds may temporarily suffer, even though they will ultimately rebound. Mutual funds in the long run must go up and down as the general market goes up and down. If you are now in a bear market, mutual funds will decline in price also. It therefore is important when buying new mutual funds in a bear market to be sure that the price is adjusted to the Dow-Jones Average.

Importance of Careful Selection
In a bear market it is very difficult to select stocks for both profit and income—and especially for profit. On the other hand, any sound, long-established investment advisory service should be able to select good stocks which will pay 5%-6%. Stocks which would fit this category are the equities of the big transcontinental railroads such as the Union Pacific, the Northern Pacific, the Canadian Pacific, the Southern Pacific, and the Atchison.

If an investor wants to be ultra-conservative, he might divide his money amongst these five railroads. He would then be able to secure safety with a good yield. Some readers will say to themselves that they want no railroad securities. But, these railroads own valuable oil and mineral assets which go a long way toward paying their dividends irrespective of the railroad's traffic. Certainly, they can all give up their passenger business and be an attractive investment.

Connecticut was the first state to have a written constitution, the Fundamental Orders, in 1669.

Wood Windows Help Cut Costs Of Cooling Home

Wood is a natural insulating material. That's one reason leading home builders such as Levitt & Sons, Inc., David L. Atkinson, of Charleston, W. Va., and Fox & Jacobs, of Dallas install wood doors and windows in the air conditioned homes they build.
"It's important to keep as much heat as possible out of the houses so both the original cost of air conditioning units and their operating costs will be low," says William Levitt, head of the giant home-building organization. "Since doors and windows take up a lot of wall space, it helps if they're made of wood."
Davidson notes that wood units also do a good job of keeping heat in the houses in cold weather, especially if double glazing is used.

These builders agree that by using stock windows and panel doors of ponderosa pine, which come from the factory treated to withstand weather and ready to install, they save on air conditioning equipment. The wide variety of styles available makes it possible to use these wood windows and doors in homes of any architectural design.

DECEPTIVE

Since strength and ruggedness are primarily essentials in framing lumber, some people will be surprised to learn that framing comes almost exclusively from the "softwood" species. Actually, the term "softwood" is deceptive, having nothing to do with surface consistency. "Softwoods" are so identified by their needle-like leaves, "hardwoods" by broad leaves. While Southern Pine is classified as a "softwood," it's harder than many hard wood species, and the strongest of all the building woods.
