Town Hall Gets Face Lifting For Public Use

One of Burkburnett's most used and most appreciated assets — Town Hall — has undergone a complete facelift and redecorating improvements.

Many civic clubs cooperated with the City in bringing about this beautiful job.

Everything has been repainted. The stage has been decorated with trellises of appropriate flowers and foliage. The kitchen also came in for extensive rearranging to make it more convenient and usable.

Those who have not visited the hall lately will be amazed at the pleasing atmosphere created by good planning and work.

The City management is asking everyone to cooperate in keeping the hall neat in appearance and ready for use for all public gatherings.

Next week a policy of operation, and charges for use of the hall and facilities will be listed.

False Advertising

Remember that other name for Social Security — "Old Age, Survivors' and Disability Insurance"?

Anyone who thinks this is insurance has been gravely deceived. And since the institution of insurance is highly regarded by the American people, it seems obvious that the intent was to deceive.

Our contributions to Social Security are not insurance premiums. They are simply taxes. The money an individual (and his employer) pays in during his working years is not set aside for him, but goes to pay those now on OASDI benefit rolls. And, obviously, this system of "robbing Peter to pay Paul" has not worked as planned, since the tax has crept up from the original one percent of the first $3,000 earned to three and 5-8 percent of the first $4,800. This is already more than the 3 percent ceiling originally planned and the tax will keep on going up, with further increases of nearly 50 percent now scheduled during the next five years.

Early beneficiaries, who had paid in very little, had a good thing in Social Security. But, today, the chances of many workers getting back even what they have paid in are growing pretty slim. Thus, the fear is well-founded that in time, it must be a losing venture for all.

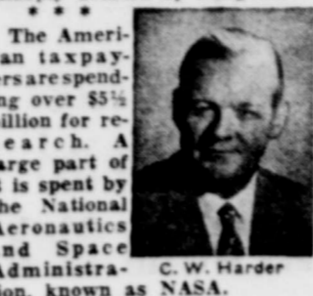

But now, this system which has been misrepresented to the people as insurance, which is not self-liquidating and never will be, is to be extended, if the Administration has its way, to include hospitalization and medical care for the aged. This, of course, will mean further tax boosts.

In 1935, when FDR was urging the "Old Age, Survivors' and Disability Insurance" (Social Security) program on Congress, he warned at the same time against "extravagant action" and said that "too ambitious" a program would be disastrous. That their action has been extravagant and far too ambitious is now painfully clear. Social security obligations to present beneficiaries and those now paying for it are estimated at over $600 billion, together with the funds on hand, are estimated at just over $300 billion.

Whatever the Government may feel must be done to provide hospitalization and medical care to those over 65, it should not be hung on the shaky structure of Social

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" BY C. WILSON HARDER

One of the most interesting hassles along the Potomac is raging. In addition to the principle involved, there is almost thrown in sharp relief the directions that will be taken by bureaucracy, unless the actions of bureaucracy are sharply defined by Congress.

The American taxpayer-arspending over $5 billion for research. A large part of it is spent by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, known as NASA.

When Congress set up NASA in 1958, it provided the agency would have to insist that all inventions developed with government grants become property of the government, and thus open to all.

Now the Defense Department has an optional course. It can either require that the patents on the inventions be vested in the government, or the agency can accept a royalty-free license to use the invention, but the corporation making the invention with public funds is given the full patent rights.

The NASA has gone to Congress asking for the same privilege, on the basis that the big contractors prefer to accept money from the Defense Dept. for research rather than from them, as contractors can retain patent rights, and presumably establish a monopoly.

This has caused the feathers to hit the fan. Senator Estes Kefauver, for one, stated very clearly that this is not the way to do it.

flatly "taxpayers' money spent on NASA research should not be used to strengthen concentration and monopoly."

The Justice Dept. has taken a stand against the change.

The nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business are against relaxing the rules set out for NASA by a 65% majority.

Actually, as the Senate Small Business Committee reports, independent business gets a very small share of the billions of dollars in research grants handed out by government.

Through determined effort, the Senate Small Business Committee has been able to raise that share from around $160 to almost $200 million, but this is small compared to total grants of over $5 billion.

Thus, there is quite a fundamental issue being debated in Washington.

It has always been the policy of the American government to protect the inventor in the enjoyment of the fruits of his inventions.

But the question here is entirely different.

When a few big corporations are given research grants, which they operate on a cost plus basis, making a profit as they go along with the research work. Then, when something has been developed at the expense of the taxpayers, these corporations expect to enjoy the same patent rights as if they had been spending their own money to make the inventions. It is difficult to justify this position.

Family FINANCIAL PROTECTION

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance

Q. When I took out a loan at the bank to buy a new car, I was issued life insurance on the loan. Why does this insurance cost so much less than my regular life insurance?

A. The "credit life insurance" on your loan is really a form of "term" or temporary insurance, and the premium rates are comparable to ordinary term policies purchased through a life insurance agent. Premium rates are low for this type of insurance because it provides protection only for relatively short periods of time. Your auto loan, for example, probably runs no longer than three years, and the outstanding balance gets smaller with each payment you make. The chances of your dying before you repay the loan are fairly small.

But when a person buys a permanent life insurance policy, he gets protection that he can keep the rest of his life. Since the premiums never change as he grows older, they must be large enough to build up sufficient "reserves" to offset the increasing risk and eventual certainty of his death. These reserves are reflected in the cash value of the policy.

Whenever you borrow money, it is a good idea to protect your family against the possibility of having to repay your debt if you should die. In cases of consumer loans (such as your auto loan) to be repaid within a very few years, credit life insurance is a good way to provide this protection.

Q. My doctor says I have a heart murmur, although it has never bothered me. Would it keep me from getting life insurance?

A. A murmur is an abnormal sound from your heart. Some are called "functional" murmurs. They are harmless and do not keep you from buying life insurance at standard rates. Others, called "organic" murmurs, result from damage to the heart and may be very serious. A person with an "organic" murmur may have to pay a higher premium rate if he can get life insurance at all.

ance at standard rates. Others, called "organic" murmurs, result from damage to the heart and may be very serious. A person with an "organic" murmur may have to pay a higher premium rate if he can get life insurance at all.

Security. We would hope, since most of our oldsters are ready, willing and able to provide for themselves, that "Medicare" legislation will be designed solely for those in need of it, and not masquerade as compulsory insurance for all.

ence once again demonstrated its shifting characteristic. A number of pharmaceutical issues have rebounded, but, by and large, the group remains well below its lofty peak reached in late 1961. I, however, have great respect for and faith in the drug industry. It has accomplished unbelievable strides in my lifetime, and I forecast that the next ten or twenty years may see similar progress.

What the Birth and Mortality Rates Show

The public has only in recent years shown any great interest in population statistics and trends and their implications for the future. Nevertheless, the trends have been evident for several decades. For example, the death rate per 1,000 population was 17.2 in 1900. By 1960 this had been cut nearly in half, to 9.5 per 1,000 population. This is a most remarkable achievement, in which the drug industry has played a prominent part.

The birth rate, on the other hand, has not decreased much during this period. In the early years of this century, the birth rate was around 27 per thousand population. Currently, it is around 23.5 per thousand. Of course, the birth rate shrank markedly during the depression but since World War II the baby boom has more than made up for that drought. The important point is that advances in the pharmaceutical and medical fields have so drastically reduced infant and child mortality that the crop of youngsters has been indeed bountiful.

Effect of Rising Life Expectancy

When I was a boy, a person in the "forties" was considered "old". Today, those of you readers who are in this age group constitutes the bulk of the middle age population, and one generally doesn't become an "old fogey" until well after retirement age. This is, of course, the effect of the lengthening life expectancy. Just think, in 1900 the life expectancy was 47.3 years. But thanks to the wonder drugs, vaccines of one kind or another, vitamin pills, etc., which the drug companies have produced, the average lifespan today is around 70 years. In short, nearly half a generation has been added to life expectancy since 1900.

This means that the so-called "senior citizens" segment of the population is increasing significantly. My friends in the drug industry tell me that their research efforts are being trained more toward this group. They want to give the "old duffers" a longer and more comfortable life. Perhaps partly in jest, they talk of a lifespan of a hundred years for many more people than live that long today; but I suspect these research staffs may be more serious than we think. My reading of the Bible reminds me that the patriarch lived for hundreds of years. I unhesitatingly forecast increased interest in the geriatrics field, including advances not only in drugs, surgery transplants, and medicines, but also in food, eye glasses,

COOKING THE CATCH

Fresh, fresh fish — just out of the water, cleaned, and ready for a beach picnic during National Barbecue Month. Here's a grill designed for such activity: it's supported on a single notched spike to stick deep into the sand; folds pancake-flat for easy storage. Browning glaze can be made up at home and brought along to add superb flavor to the fish. Brush all surfaces of the cleaned fish lightly with the herb spiced glaze; grease grill to keep fish from sticking. Cook 10 to 15 minutes, depending on thickness of fish, turning once. Brush often with glaze during last 5 minutes, to insure a tempting toasted color.

BARBECUE BROWNING GLAZE:

Blend 1/4 cup softened vegetable shortening and 1 tablespoon Kitchen Bouquet. If desired, blend in favorite herbs or seasonings, such as dill for fish. This glaze may be made in larger quantities and stored, covered, in the refrigerator.

REASON ENOUGH
 Wife: "You don't love me anymore. When you see me crying now you don't ask why."
 Husband: "I'm awful sorry, my dear, but these questions have already cost me an awful lot of money."

Relax, Gentlemen. There's been talk about having a man for President. But there's no danger — a President has to be at least 35 years old. —News-Advertiser, Harlan, Iowa.

ELECTRIC DISHWASHER

Each year, the average homemaker spends about 400 hours at the sink — scraping, soaking, washing, rinsing and drying dishes by hand. It's a tiresome, messy never-ending job... and so unnecessary when an Electric Dishwasher will do the job at the flip of a switch. With electric dishwashing, you save time and work... your kitchen stays tidier... your hands stay lovelier. And your dishes are washed and dried hygienically clean because an Electric Dishwasher uses water hotter than hands can stand. See your electric appliance dealer now for an Electric Dishwasher.

hearing aids, and even clothing.

Patience and Diversification

In looking back over what has been accomplished in the pharmaceutical field, my friends in that industry agree with me that no one could have forecast ahead of time exactly which company would first "strike pay dirt," or when! This still holds true for the future. The industry is pouring about $270 million a year into research and there is no telling when there will be a big payoff. I wish investors would learn to be as patient as those engaged in the research work! Hence, while I am optimistic over the long run for the drug companies, one must be prepared to "sit a while" with the drug stocks, ultimately, however, I believe such patience can be rewarded handsomely. Because of the tightened regulations on specifications for the release of new drugs, due to the thalidomide fiasco, research has to be even more exacting, and involves time consuming tests and "proofs."

Since it is impossible to tell in advance which company will come up with a prize discovery investors would be wise to buy a few shares of a number of drug issues rather than to "bet on one horse." Those that come through could more than offset the disappointing situations.

He approaches the study of mankind with great advantages who is accustomed to the study of nature. —Henry David Thoreau.

MAKES CENTS!

Hoping to develop his son's character, a father once gave him a penny and a quarter as he was leaving for Sunday school. "Now, Peter, you put whichever one you want in the collection plate."

When the boy returned, his father asked him which coin he had given. Peter answered, "Well, just before they sent around the plate the preacher said, 'The Lord loveth a cheerful giver,' and I knew I could give the penny a lot more cheerfully than I could give the quarter, so I gave it."

GREEN THUMB

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

©Coleman Adv. Ser., P. O. Box 20067, Dallas 20, Texas

GREEN THUMB... is the way of describing those that have a way with plant life. The ones, who are so gifted, will tell you that to be successful with plants, you must see that they have plenty of water. God knows too, that a soul must be watered in order for it to mature and grow.

"...and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not." Isaiah 58:11

Jehovah's Witnesses Hold Three-Day Training Program

The three-day training program of Jehovah's Witnesses in Mineral Wells was highlighted Sunday when Harry a Fetzik, district supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses, spoke on the subject, "Who Will Win the Struggle for World Supremacy?"

In speaking to the 513 persons from the 15-congregation circuit, Fetzik said, "God's kingdom is the final means for resolving the struggle for rulership of the earth."

Fetzik cited the rapid growth of communism since World War II as a major cause of present-day fear and he said, "Security under the shadow of God's kingdom is the only real and lasting security."

C. W. Sarakin, circuit supervisor of the area meet, in speaking on the subject, "How to Keep Delinquency Out of Your Home," admonished the parents: "Study with your children, watch their association, render discipline when necessary and then, you will keep delinquency out of your home."

Harold P. Bruce, presiding minister of the Wichita Falls Congregation, Central Unit, said, "Jehovah's Witnesses are constantly endeavoring to reach higher standards of ministering the 'good news of the kingdom' to the people. Therefore, the theme and goal for the assembly, 'Right Kind of Ministers,' was brought to our attention by talks, demonstrations, discussions and illustrations." He said, "We hope to be of greater benefit now in fulfillment of our commission of bringing comfort and hope to the people."

The dull period in the life of an event is when it ceases to be news and has not begun to be history.—Thomas Hardy.

WATERPROOF CANVAS

Here's a quick and easy way to waterproof a canvas tent, tent, boat cloth, or even a foul-weather jacket that has sprung a leak. Rub the leaky area with a regular wax candle. Work wax into the cloth with vigor. Then apply heat in the form of a warm, not hot, iron. The wax will melt and give water repellence for a surprisingly long time.

ing the burdensome aspects of routine floor maintenance, many housewives have neglected to keep pace with the times. Despite their efforts, the gray cloudy floors in their kitchens, bathrooms and family rooms indicate incorrect floor procedure.

All floors require a regular program of washing, polishing and waxing. Reasons for floor care dissatisfaction normally involve one or more of these activities and they often point to neglect of a few basic floor care steps.

Chief among these, according to Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent, is washing floor too frequently with strong soaps and cleaners. With some types of flooring, these strong solutions can fade and discolor the materials more readily than constant wear.

Thorough washing can be limited to three or four times a year, or when exceptional soiling has occurred, if spills are wiped up before they become sticky or dry. In all cases, strong cleaners should be avoided unless diluted as their high alkali content can ultimately cause chemical changes in color pigments or compositions.

When floors are exceptionally soiled and need a thorough cleaning, a good all-purpose solution is a half-cup of household detergent and half-cup of ammonia diluted with a gallon of warm water. This solution will also remove excessive wax accumulations which cause graying or yellowing.

Application of a protective wax or polish should always follow thorough cleaning, but should be started only after the washed floor has dried completely.

The inconvenience of scrubbing a floor, waiting for it to dry and then applying wax may be removed by new products that clean and polish in one step. The development of combination cleaners and polishers and other liquid, self-polishing products over the past few years have cut the time required for floor care.

In choosing cleaners, waxes and polishes, a good rule-of-thumb is to use products recommended by the manufacturers of the flooring. Because of their natural interest in effective floor care, some manufacturers produce maintenance products especially designed to be safe and efficient for their type of flooring. Labels should be read carefully to insure that the correct care item is used for the flooring.

Solvent type waxes are not recommended for asphalt or rubber tile or some types of flooring such as linoleum installed in six-foot widths.

One common mistake is the application of wax too thickly. A thin film hardens more quickly and gives better protection because the moisture content of the wax can fully evaporate. Thick coating leaves sub-surface wax soft, increasing the floor's vulnerability to denting and surface scratches. Because of the nature of their formulations, the cleaner-polish combination products provide a safeguard against thick applications.

Equally important, liquid polishes and waxes should be applied in a single direction to avoid the spotty and "checkered" appearances of floors when they have dried.

In addition to immediately wiping up spills, a thorough sweeping is all the care normally required for daily maintenance. A soft hair broom used only for floors will help reduce scratching and will prevent dust from becoming ground in.

Furniture rests will help prevent denting caused by heavy furniture and modern pieces with pointed legs. These rests spread the weight of the furniture over a larger area and remain flat even when the chairs are tilted. Roller casters are more likely to dent floors because weight is concentrated in a small area.

Deep gouges are often caused by moving furniture across the flooring without dollies. Where furniture is too heavy for lifting, small scraps of carpeting or heavy cloth should be placed beneath legs to give protection

Sparky says:

Get everyone out at the first sign of Smoke or Fire!

Don't give fire a place to start!

Most people describe extravagance as the way other people spend their money.

Those of you who yearn for the good old times: one thing that isn't like it used to be is the older generation.
