To Do So At A Profit

Oil is the greatest single source of energy in the world at the present time. It will remain so for the foreseeable future. In a complex industrial society, it ranks close to air and water and it is taken almost as much for granted. But it doesn't just fall out of the sky. It is buried deep in the earth and is only brought to the surface and made available for the use of mankind by an unbelievably intricate industrial process.

The oil industry is as essential to the user of petroleum products as the oil itself. Lawrence A. Kimpton, a former Chancellor of the University of Chicago, and also formerly Chief Administrative Officer of the atomic bomb project in Chicago, and currently vice president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, presents an unusually clear picture of the outlook for petroleum in a recent issue of the Financial Analysts Journal.

In the fifteen year period, according to Mr. Kimpton, 1960-75, free world oil consumption is expected to increase over 100 percent, from 18 million barrels a day to nearly 40 million barrels a day. The United States will continue to be by far the largest single consumer of petroleum. Our consumption of oil at the rate of over 14 million barrels a day by 1975 will exceed that of the combined countries of Western Europe.

Between now and 1975, the free world can be expected to consume approximately 140 billion barrels of oil. This demand compares with present proved reserves conservatively estimated at roughly 280 billion barrels, indicating the continuing importance of further exploration and development. Mr. Kimpton concludes that "the question to which ultimately the petroleum industry must return is not to dispose of surpluses but how to develop the reserves and the capacity required to satisfy the world's soaring energy needs—and to do so at a profit."

That is the catch "to do so at a profit." The widely held misconception that profits are something evil must be replaced by the knowledge that they are the foundation upon which rests all productive activity in a free country.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

In final debates on the recently passed income tax law, there again cropped up a manifestation of what for want of a better name can be termed "the bureaucratic race track doctrine."

In many states it is a far greater crime for a man to admit he is a bookmaker than to shout on the streets he's a communist.

C. W. Harder

That's because the bookmaker collects do not go through the track betting windows where the bureaucrats can get a "piece of the handle," as the phrase goes, via a tax before the money is returned to the winning bettors. In other words, when bureaucracy can grab some of the money, gambling is legal. When bureaucracy is shut out of the money, gambling is immoral.

For some time in certain government circles there has been agitation to set up a program to help higher education.

Now Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, Conn., Rep. Clement Zablocki, Wis., and Rep. John Ashbrook, Ohio, and others, sought to have included in the tax reduction bill a tax credit to parents sending children to college.

While the various bills differ somewhat the Senate finally voted on the Ribicoff bill which would have permitted a maximum tax credit of $325 in a year, and disallowed any credit being taken by parents with exceptionally high incomes. On the final vote it was defeated by only three votes.

Now what these legislators were trying to do is help parents educate their children. There were several things wrong with this insofar as bureaucracy is concerned.

First of all, the bureaucrats would not be able to get their hands on this money, and then return it after they had taken a "piece" out of it. Secondly, it would not levy a tax on everybody which would build up the "handle" and thus give the bureaucrats bigger sums to play with. Instead, this would only help parents struggling to put children through school.

It also set a dangerous precedent, because by this method people would not only be permitted to spend their own money for their children's education, but they could also determine without governmental interference what schools they wished their children to attend.

From the bureaucratic standpoint this would be most undemocratic. For why should people determine these questions when thousands of bureaucrats need bigger jobs.

In addition, such a measure would keep bureaucracy from having a hand in higher education. As evidenced by proposed clauses in the current so-called civil rights bill permitting bureaucrats to withhold federal funds from states, how could bureaucrats control education unless they could say what shall be taught and by whom unless they control the funds.

The whole idea is a dastardly threat to bureaucracy.

At either extremity, the method provides pleasing simplicity. Wood decking does double duty in both instances, forming walking surface and ceiling as well as the respective floor and roof structures.

Family FINANCIAL PROTECTION

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance 488 Madison Ave., N. Y. 22, N. Y.

Q. Isn't life insurance bought mostly by people with high incomes, who have plenty of money to spare?

A. Not at all. In fact, the need for life insurance protection is often greatest among families with limited financial resources but relatively heavy financial responsibilities.

FOUR OUT OF FIVE

Of the $57 billion of ordinary life insurance issued in the United States last year, well over half was bought by people earning $7,500 or less per year. They bought four out of every five policies during the year.

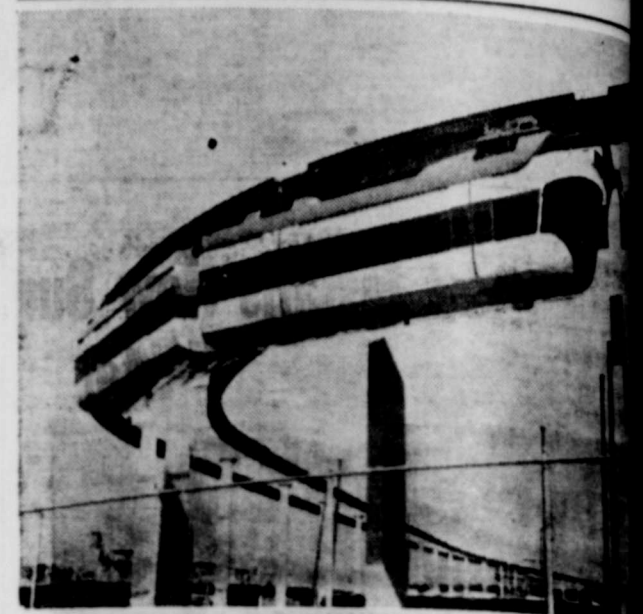

A further break-down of life insurance buying shows that 32% of all ordinary insurance was purchased last year by Americans earning between $5,000 and $7,500 a year, compared with 26% reported in a 1956 study. During the same period, the share of insurance bought by Americans earning less than $5,000 dropped from 33% to 25%. The proportion bought by people with incomes over $7,500 rose slightly from 41% to 43%. No change was indicated among people with incomes of $10,000 or more.

Q. What's the best way to use my life insurance dividends?

A. There is no single "best way" to use them. The best way for you depends on your financial situation and your family's needs. If your budget is tight, of course, your dividends can help make ends meet by giving you some extra cash or helping to pay your life insurance premiums. But if you can get along without this money right now, your dividends can help build a better future for you and your family if you leave them with your life insurance company to draw interest or to provide you with additional paid-up insurance protection. The latter is particularly advantageous to younger adults, who can get two or three dollars of additional paid-up insurance for every dollar of dividends.

All weights in indoor clothing and shoes. Women's heights with 2-in. heels; men's with 1-in. heels.

Fifty-two per cent of the adult population is over desirable weight, according to an extensive study done for the makers of Metrecal. If that sounds like a lot of people, check this chart — compiled from a study of 5 million life insurance policy holders — and see if your own desirable weight isn't somewhat less than you expected. The desirable weight, incidentally, is the weight at which insurance companies expect you to live longest—you'll look and feel better, too.

Wichita County Had 8 Rural Accidents In April

The Highway Patrol investigated eight rural accidents in Wichita County during the month of April according to Sergeant E. L. Stroud, Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for five persons injured and an estimated property damage of $3,933.00.

The rural accident summary for Wichita County from January through April of 1964 shows a total of 64 crashes resulting in three persons killed, 41 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $52,601.00.

Schools will soon be out and children will be popping out in all directions. They will be running from behind parked cars, trees, or shrubs. Watch for children coasting down sloping driverways and streets. Another dangerous spot is around bridges along highways where children may have been playing, swimming, or fishing underneath the bridge.

This means that motorists must be constantly on the alert at all times during the summer months for children popping out from unexpected places. Remember, children are unpredictable. The Sergeant stated, "Let every child be a living warning sign."

From The County Agent

growers who have plastic mulch can prevent rot on their tomatoes by placing newspaper under vines to prevent with the soil, reports County Agent, B. T.

tomato plants some- produces larger, better fruit. It also keeps cleaner and makes plants spray. However, stakes are likely to have cracking, blossom-end sunscald, Haws said.

whole sections of under tomato vines way to prevent fruit suggests putting paper after the vines are enough to keep them away. Plastic dry bags can be used the way, he said.

staking tomatoes, place five-foot stakes about four inches from and avoid cutting tomatoes when setting them. soft cord or strips of which will lessen injury to when tying them, Haws method of tying plants is to loop the material around the main stem; then between the stem and to form a figure eight.

Tie it back of the stake.

If pruning is necessary, Haws says to break off shoots that grow from the crotch formed by a leaf branch at the main stem. Break the shoots, rather than cutting them, because a knife may spread disease. When pruning, shoots should be removed before they are three inches long.

Community and county leaders in boll weevil infested sections are enthusiastic because they feel weevils can now be effectively controlled at little cost. They point out overwintered boll weevils will not be out of hibernation before squares reach the one-third grown stage. This means they can be easily killed with insecticides, properly applied, before they cause damage or lay eggs. Cotton leaders are planning an all-out effort to prevent damage, buildup and spread in many communities this year.

Community cooperation is needed to "kill-off" overwintered boll weevils before they cause damage. To be more effective, every grower in the community should put on two effective applications of recommended insecticides. Two applications are needed to give maximum protection to early squares from fleahoppers, lygus, and boll weevils. The first application should be made at the 8 leaf stage, or when the first squares appear. The second 7 days later or before the earliest squares reach the one-third grown stage for best control.

The Southwest could experience a serious explosion of screwworm cases this year. That is, unless farmers and ranchers diligently inspect their livestock and report infestations so that emergency eradication action can be taken, the board of trustees of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation recently

Happy is The Bride — Who is Gifted with Sterling

A novel idea for a bridal shower gift is to "package" a place setting of sterling flatware as an old-fashioned nosegay. The bouquet may be of real or artificial flowers, trimmed with a lace paper dolly. Wrap stems in foil, or green florists' tape, and tuck the sterling pieces in among the blossoms. As a bonus, dangle tiny individual salt and pepper shakers from satin ribbons. If it's a group gift, attach name tags to ribbons, too. There's no bridal gift more desired—or desirable—than sterling. If the bride has received the traditional gift of sterling flatware from her parents, she'll welcome each additional setting that contributes to rounding out her service. If she has not already received her sterling, here's a fine way to help her get started.

Debut Nears For New $75.00 Savings Bond

A reminder that the new $75 Series E United States savings bond, bearing the portrait of the late President Kennedy will go on sale May 1 came today from Mr. Jerry Thomas, local savings bond chairman.

Mr. Jerry Thomas said that due to the heavy demand for the new bond which is anticipated, many banks and other issuing agents throughout the nation will accept orders before May 1 from those purchasers who may desire an early date of issue to appear in the validating stamp.

Decision to issue the $75 bond which fills a gap in the lower denomination range of savings bonds, was announced by the White House late in January. The issue date of May 1 was fixed to coincide with the launching of "Operation Security," a nation wide savings bonds campaign which runs until July 4th. May 1 is also the 23rd anniversary of the issuance of the first series E bond.

Purchase price of the new bond, which will reach full redemption value in seven years and nine months, is $56.25.

Mr. Jerry Thomas said that the new bond is not a "memorial" to the late president, in that it is no different from other denominations of savings bonds, all of which bear portraits of deceased chief executives. However, beneath the portrait of Mr. Kennedy are carried the words from his inaugural address: "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country."

"The reproduction of this memorable statement on the face of the bond," said Mr. Jerry Thoms, "is a fresh reminder that our citizens help strengthen their own security and, consequently, the security of their community and their country when they invest a portion of their savings in savings bonds."

REMOVING BROKEN BULB

What do you do when a light bulb is broken and you want to remove it from the socket? Better be careful, or you'll get a nasty cut. You can remove a broken light bulb safely by pressing a large cork into the base of the bulb. Once you've done that, the bulb can be unscrewed easily without touching the jagged edges.

"YOU TOOK MY PICTURE... AND I WASN'T READY!"

How concerned we are with the image we present to others! And it is right that we should be. How mightily we influence others. It is so important that the self we present is one that will influence others for good.

With guidance from God we will be ready to present ourselves to the world in such a manner as to sway others toward God and all that is worthwhile and good.

"That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God," come to His Church this Sunday.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Clara-Fairview HD Club Met May 14th

The Clara-Fairview Home Demonstration Club met Thursday, May 14 at 2:00 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Elmer Klinkerman. The meeting was opened with the repeating of the Lord's Prayer. We sang the song, "Mockin' Bird Hill." The thought for today was, "If what you did yesterday seems pretty big to you, you haven't accomplished much today."

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved. Each committee chairman gave a report on her committee. A motion was made, seconded and approved to serve refreshments at the Burkburnett 4-H Dress Revue to be held July 16. Mrs. Newt Crane, Council delegate, gave a report on the council meeting and told us about a delegate's trip to Russia.

Mrs. Crane brought our program on Savings. Acquiring a savings account is no easy task. Savings accounts are helpful in accumulating goods, meeting emergencies, facing uncertainty, buying a home or business creating an estate and earning money. In using your savings you must decide how much you can spend, what to use your savings for and when. Six elements of a good savings plan are: A retirement plan, provide a surplus, maintain a cash reserve, establish an insurance program, buy a home or business, and invest surplus. A savings plan depends on your finances, how well you plan and how well you manage.

A match game was played. Mrs. J. D. Dillbeck won a prize and Mrs. E. J. Simons won the door prize. Refreshments were served to Mesdames Blonar, Bentley, Dillbeck, Crane, Lovelless, Simons, Smith, Vogel and Slama.

Next meeting will be June 2 with Mrs. Dude Smith as hostess.

BUG EYES

Spring is walleye season. But to mention the "walleye" is likely to stir up a storm of controversy. Some fishermen we know won't grant him the stature of a true game fish; others hotly contest this attitude. And few call him by the same name.

Though opinions about this particular fish are varied, the fishing experts at Mercury outboards are quick to note that there is very little disagreement over the walleye's virtues in a frying pan. And he's even better when broiled over an open fire in the northwoods, if you're that lucky.

The walleye, depending upon the section of the country, goes under a wide assortment of monikers: walleyed pike, pickerel, jackfish, yellow or blue pike, and jack salmon, to name a few. Among men who say he's no fighter, the walleye is accorded several more—quite unprintable.

But the facts remain—the walleye is a great delicacy sought by literally thousands of anglers, and spring is a fine time to catch him—though you can get an argument on this score, too, from those who say autumn is best.

The walleye is a night feeder primarily. And the guy who works the shallows with small plugs and fyrod lures after sundown will do okay. To take them in the daytime requires a different approach, and a switch to the offshore depths.

Troll at the slowest speed possible, letting the lure bounce on the bottom. The instant you get a strike, cut the motor and mark the location. For where you catch the first walleye, chances are good for catching more of this schooling breed.

Watch your fingers, advise the Mercury folks. The walleye may be bashful about some things, but not about manipulating his dentures. Use a net to haul him aboard. Then a sharp blow with a small club will pacify him enough to permit handling.

Whatever they lack in fighting ability, walleyes make up in table qualities. And now's the time to prove it for yourself. Good eating!

"There are two ways to acquire old furniture — buy it or raise a family."

Wayne Smith comes up to bat while Frank Mooney prepares to catch, getting the Midget baseball league off to a good start for this season. Of course, this was only practice, but wait until you see them compete with another team.

Forecast Boy Power To Swamp Voter Lethargy with Tidal Wave of Votes

During the six hundred years since a legendary Peter saved Holland by inserting an over-sized finger in an under-sized dike, no one has seriously doubted the ability of small boys to perform big tasks.

Additional evidence of this "boy power" is presently being offered by members of some 635 Boys' Clubs of America throughout the country, who are working to get out the vote in the up-coming national elections.

Too young to vote themselves, these pint-sized stump-jumpers are working long and hard, in a variety of novel ways, to persuade eligible citizens to exercise their vote. Many of their methods stem from long-time political practices. Most are their own—and ingenious.

Recently in Indiana for example, "Boys' Club Ballot Brigades" organized a debate on the party platforms and invited the public and party officials to attend. In Massachusetts a Boys' Club organized a parade, complete with covered wagon, horses and bands, in which 1,000 members carried "Vote" banners.

Members of a California Boys' Club appeared on television and radio urging viewers and listeners to vote; an Iowa Club tagged more than 10,000 milk bottles with "Vote" reminders; members of a New York Boys' Club put up 15,000 "Vote" posters at shopping centers and parking lots; many other Clubs conducted a door-to-door campaign securing adult pledges to inform themselves of the issues and to vote.

Being conducted as part of the Community Service and Citizenship Training programs of the national youth-guidance organization, the project has attracted much national attention and commendation. As one political professional commented, "it sure is great to read some good news about youngsters . . . just for a change."

He also forecast that the Boys' Club program would play a major role in bringing out a record number of voters and "swamp voter indifference with a tidal wave of votes."

Sounds like he's been reading about Peter . . . and that business over in Holland.

The nicest thing about being dull is that you are unaware of the fact, and hence are pleasantly blissful.

What has been described as a brittle woman is a type of female I don't like.

Though Americans tend to think of all South American countries as closer neighbors than the Soviet Union, Washington is nearer to Moscow than Buenos Aires.

Plans Completed For Seven Day Camps For Girl Scouts

Nor-Cen-Tex Girl Scout Council Camp Committee, headed by James Ardrey, has completed final plans for the seven day camps which will be offered to Girl Scouts throughout the council area. Day Camps are scheduled for the last week in May and during the month of June. Mrs. Ruth Smethie is Day Camp Co-ordinator and Mrs. Fern Bloodworth is Day Camp Representative for the Camp Committee.

Brownie, Junior, Cadette, and Senior Girl Scouts are eligible to attend Day Camp of their neighborhoods. Girls are assured of having a happy camping experience while they "Camp by Day." Day Camp is an opportunity for girls of many troops to meet together in small groups with trained volunteer counselors to spend the day in the out-of-doors.

Girls gain experience in group government, campcraft, singing, hiking, cooking and other adventures appropriate for each age level.

Junior and Cadette Girl Scouts may work on badges while in Day Camp. Each girl is urged to bring her handbook daily for the numerous activities. All activities are carefully planned and worked out together by girls and adults.

A qualified First Aider will be on duty at all times at each site. Parents will be responsible for providing transportation to and from the site. Each day, except Cook-out-Day on Thursday, the girls will bring a sack lunch and a canteen. Milk will be provided each day for lunch.

Each neighborhood will handle its own registration. All registrations must be into the troop leaders by June first.

The Burkburnett Girl Scout Day Camp will be June 15-19 at the District Eleven Baptist Encampment with Mrs. Fern Bloodworth as Camp Director.

Thoughtful planning can make meal preparation more cheerful—and less tearful for beginning homemakers.

Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent, points out that meals need not be elaborate or expensive in order to be attractive, tasty and nutritious. Nor does the cook need a lot of elaborate equipment to prepare an adequate meal. Knowing the basic pattern for planning daily meals will help a great deal.

What is a nutritionally adequate meal? And what equipment is needed in preparing it? Using the Food for Fitness guide for nutritional adequacy the agent has prepared the following list of equipment needed for the preparation of each basic food group.

Meats, including poultry, fish and eggs; potatoes; green and yellow vegetables; and other vegetables. Utensils needed for these four food groups include: A 6-quart dutch oven and cover; three sauce pans with covers, 1-quart and 3-quart sizes; two skillets with covers, 8" and 10" sizes; and a 2-quart casserole with cover. Breads and desserts. A cook-

Fresh fruit tastes mighty good anytime. Now is the time to make them while this year's crop is at peak quality. You can make and freeze pies now, then bake them whenever they fit in your family's menu.

Studies by U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists show that unbaked fruit pies hold quality in frozen storage just as well as other frozen foods.

Tests conducted with apple, blueberry, boysenberry, cherry, and peach pies obtained uncooked from commercial pie makers. Although the tests were made with commercial products, researchers say the findings also hold true for home-prepared fruit pies.

Freshly baked samples of pies that had been stored at 0, 10, 20, and 30 degrees F. were compared with "fresh" pies held at 20 degrees below zero.

The most important changes in the frozen pies were in fruit flavor and crust color. Trained taste testers could detect weakened flavor and changes in color and general appearance after 1 to 2 weeks of storage at 30 degrees F. and after 3 to 6 weeks at 20 degrees. At these temperatures the fruit fillings were also slightly soft.

These results indicate that frozen fruit pies are not seriously harmed by a few days storage at temperatures as high as 30 degrees. But to maintain their quality, Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent, says "they must be stored at zero or lower."

Many cases of food poisoning in hot weather could be avoided by careful refrigeration, according to Thelma Wirges.

Soft protein foods may spoil in a warm place. Custards, cream-filled pastries or cakes, cooked salad dressing, stuffed eggs, potato salad, creamed meat, poultry and fish are especially susceptible to spoilage in summer weather. Never leave these foods standing for long periods in picnic baskets or in a warm kitchen. Best precautions against spoilage of these foods are speedy refrigeration and short-time storage.

Foods that cause poisoning often show no sign of spoilage, so it's not safe to rely on taste, odor or appearance.

YOUNGSTERS ONLY

This is an old tip. We repeat every spring. You'll see why in a minute. Make a note to explain to your youngsters . . . or to the guy's next door . . . the woodman's tip of following water if lost in the wood. Even small minds can understand that a stream always leads somewhere. Running thru the woods aimlessly doesn't.

It is worth a thousand pounds a year to have the habit of looking on the bright side of things.—Samuel Johnson.

THIS N' THAT

Continued from Page 1 Last Saturday evening, at the underpass where construction is going on, there was an accident, which was not very serious, but could have been.

Everyone should proceed with caution, when driving around the curves, for they are very dangerous. It is very fortunate there have been no serious incidents at that spot and there won't be if each driver will slow down and not try to speed around the S curves.

You may be in a hurry to get somewhere, but slow down and live to reach your destination.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Morris of 624 W. 3rd, attended the funeral services of Mr. Morris' uncle, Henry Russell, in Nona, on Saturday, May 9th.

My sincere apologies to Clarence Bisset, reporter for the Record News in Wichita, for omitting his name under a picture in a recent paper.

He attended the May 5th meeting at the Lions Club as a guest speaker, at which time he spoke about how a newspaper is prepared for publication, the news gathered and the way in which just one person can be news all his life. His talk was very informative and interesting.

On this occasion, I took a picture of him and another guest.

DIABETES In the GOOD OLD DAYS

Earlier in this century, anyone who contracted severe diabetes faced semi-starvation. He had lost his ability to handle starches, and fats. As a result, diabetic dragged out a miserable half-starved existence. Death was an ever present hazard. Diabetes remains one of the widespread diseases. Yet today, thanks to prescription drugs, diabetic can enjoy a normal life. An injectable compound has restored his body's ability to burn its fuel. Very recently, pharmaceutical research has developed other anti-diabetic drugs that certain patients can take by mouth. There are many other examples of formerly dread diseases that are now being controlled by prescription drugs. Yet America today spend no greater sum for their disposable income on drugs than in 1939 (only about one cent from each dollar). No wonder, we say, "Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history."
