July 25-31 Farm Safety Week In Wichita County

County Judge Calvin Ashley has officially proclaimed July 25-31, 1965, as FARM SAFETY WEEK in Wichita County, according to Carl Moeller, president of the local county Farm Bureau. The local farm organization is coordinating activities for the special farm safety campaign.

President Johnson and Governor Connally have previously designated that week on National and state levels as a period to call attention to worthwhile safety practices that can reduce disabling injuries and death.

The county farm leader said that the accidental death rate for farm residents has increased since 1961. Your efforts are vital if this trend is to be reversed, and needless suffering and loss substantially reduced," Moeller continued. He emphasized that farming remains one of the most hazardous occupations in America today.

In his official proclamation, County Judge Ashley said: "All the citizens of Wichita County are deeply concerned about the safety and well-being of farm families from whom we receive our abundance of food and other essential agricultural commodities."

"Farm and ranch accidents reap a grim harvest of lives each year in Texas.

Thousands more suffer painful disabling injuries and property damage adds great economic loss to the terrible toll of farm and ranch accidents.

During this special week, a statewide farm accident prevention education program will be undertaken by the Texas Farm Bureau, the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, 4-H Clubs, the Texas Safety Association, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers of America, Young Farmers and Young Homemakers of Texas and the Wichita County Farm Bureau, with the theme "Safe and Alive in '65."

County Farm Bureau President Carl Moeller said that a different phase of safety would be emphasized each day during the week: Sunday—Reverence for life; Monday—Safety begins at home; Tuesday—agricultural chemicals; Wednesday—prevent falls; Thursday—rural highway safety; Friday—farm machinery; Saturday—recreation safety.

BY JLH

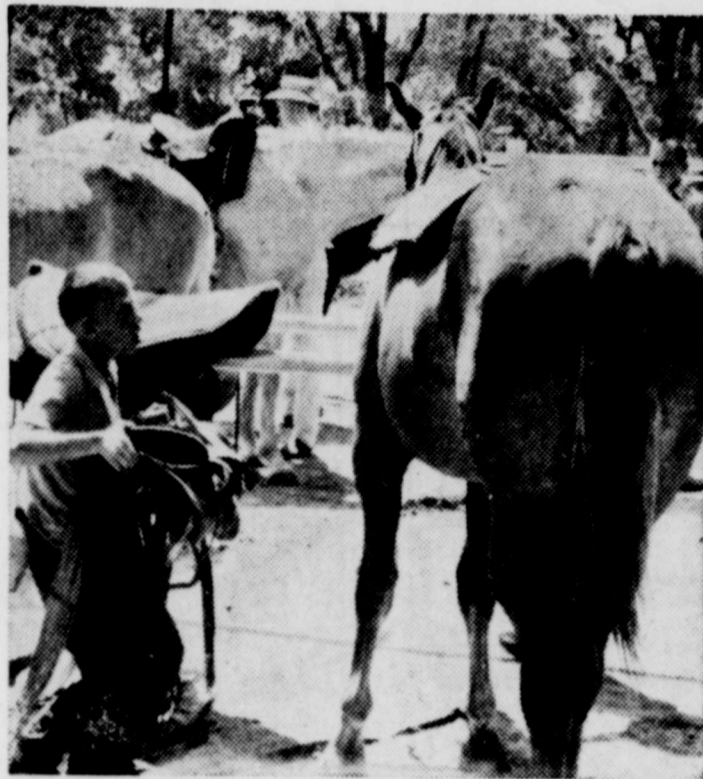

While putting his OK on his ad this week, C. J. Lippard confessed — he played marbles "for keeps", when he was a lad! Seems little brother told on him and C. J. — Well, C. J.'s mama confiscated the marbles.

If you don't think the above paragraph was difficult to write without once implying C. J. Lippard had lost his marbles, you should try it.

Mystery: Why is it that some days are too hot to work in the yard, but just right for a golf game? Have they air conditioned golf courses as well as ball parks now?

It is our sincere wish that during National Farm Safety Week, July 25-31st, every farmer and rancher will give serious thought to conditions and practices on his property, with the goal in mind of finding and correcting anything that might cause costly, heartbreaking accidents.

The cost of living and diets have been big subjects around Burk lately. We have one rule that covers both subjects. "If you can't eat it, don't buy it." We hope this will regulate both our diet and our budget.

SHORT COWBOY, HIGH HORSE — At Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, a point of tourist interest at Old Tascosa, 36 miles northwest of Amarillo, each youngster must learn to saddle his own horse.

See The Old And New West At Cal Farley's Boys Ranch

There's a touch of the Old West and a lot of the new for visitors to see up in the Panhandle country of Texas. The place to see it is at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch near Amarillo.

The ranch, the first of its kind in America, is open to visitors and there are parking facilities at the entrance for those who wish to picnic.

Situated along the bank of the Canadian River, the Boys Ranch is about 36 miles northwest of Amarillo and may be reached by taking Highway 1061 from Amarillo or U. S. 385 from Vega. It occupies the site of what was once Old Tascosa, Cowboy Capital of the Plains. Old Tascosa for a time was the center of the open range world, stamping ground for some of the West's most notorious bad men and focal point for cattle thieves and ranchers.

Located at an easy river crossing, the site started as a meeting place for Indians and Mexican traders who exchanged contraband goods, including women and children. The first permanent settlement was made by sheep herders in 1876, the same year Charles Goodnight and Thomas S. Bugbee brought the first cattle to the free grass empire.

Small ranchers and nesters followed and the boom was on. Hundreds of miles from civilization, Old Tascosa lured the lawless and the law men. Names like Billy the Kid and Pat Garrett live in its history. Gun fights made a "Boot Hill" cemetery necessary. The heaviest toll in a single shoot-out occurred March 21, 1886, when three cowboys and a restaurant owner died in a five minute period. All went to Boot Hill.

The coming of barbed wire pinched off the cattle trails, Tascosa's life blood, and sealed the fate of the settlement. Today, only the town's stone court house and Boot Hill remain. Twenty-five years ago, the court house and 120 acres surrounding it were donated to a dream of a home in the country for boys who needed a helping hand.

The man who had that dream is Cal Farley, a champion athlete and successful businessman who founded the Boys Ranch with a handful of unfortunate kids. Since that time, boys from 4 to 17 from virtually every state in the Union have come to the ranch for help at the request of relatives, social workers, ministers and juvenile court judges and Cal and Mrs. Farley have served as foster parents to more than 1500 youngsters who have become useful, productive citizens.

Financed by donations and operating on a nonsectarian basis, the ranch has thrived without fraternal, religious or governmental affiliations.

Today, Boys Ranch covers 1,400 acres, has 30 buildings and boasts its own bank, post office and independent school district. Some 350 boys are living there in a normal, family

She is survived by 1 son; 3 daughters; 2 sisters; Mrs. Walter Schreiber, Grandview, and Mrs. John Rigby, Burkburnett; 1 brother, Rual Williams of Kingsville, Texas; 3 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

Congressman Graham Purcell (D-Texas) announced today that he will address a meeting of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., on Friday afternoon in Stamford, Texas.

Mr. Terry Julian, Executive Director, of the organization, said the meeting would be held at 2:00 p. m. in the Stamford High School auditorium. Julian said, "We sincerely urge all our members to attend, and we will welcome any others who are farmers or involved in agriculture related industries to hear this late report on farm legislation in Washington."

Purcell, who is chairman of the wheat subcommittee of the House Committee on Agriculture, said he would discuss the omnibus farm bill which was approved by the House Committee on Agriculture last week. The bill contains program extensions for cotton, wheat, feed grains, dairy products, and wool in addition to a new proposed Cropland Adjustment Program.

The Congressman said he believes the proposed legislation is vital to Texas, and that he believes Texas farmers and rural residents need to be aware of the content of the legislation, and aware of the possible consequences if it fails to pass the Congress this year.

"The cotton program proposed in this bill," said Purcell, "involves some new concepts for this important commodity and cotton producers should learn all they can about it in order to express themselves properly. The programs proposed are four year programs, and they will be with us for some time to come. I hope those Texans interested in agriculture will take advantage of every opportunity to become more familiar with the legislation."

Officials From Surgeon's Office Visit Sheppard

Officials from the Surgeon's Office, Fourth Air Force Reserve Region, made a staff visit to Sheppard Air Force Base Friday with the 478th Medical Service Flight which is on a 15 day period of active duty with the United States Air Force.

Col. John Shields, chief of Staff of the Fourth Air Force Reserve Region at Randolph AFB, Texas, headed the group visiting Sheppard. Others with him were Col. Evan F. Bourne, Jr., deputy chief of staff for personnel; Lt. Col. T. F. Criswell, Capt. D. S. Fiarless, T-Sgt. David Guers, all of the Surgeon's office of the Reserve Region; S-Sgt. David E. Daniel from Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations office of the Reserve Region; and SM Sgt. G. W. Schaefer of Air Training Command Surgeon's office.

Maj. Lester C. Turner of Dallas is acting commander of the Reserve Group on active duty at Sheppard. The contingent in the reserve group includes three officers, Major Turner, Lt. Robert C. Holmes, administration officer; Capt. Betty Pigg, a nurse; and seven enlisted personnel. The enlisted men are assigned to x-ray, medical supplies, registrar's office, Air Force clinics and in administration.

The Fourth Air Force Reserve Region with headquarters at Randolph AFB covers Louisiana, Arkansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas.

This medical reserve unit is a "hometown" one and gives members of the unit an opportunity to fulfill their military obligation in the Wichita Falls area. Openings are still available for physicians, dentists, registered nurses, medical service corps officers, veterinarians and all categories of air men with or without prior military service.

The Reserve unit will conclude the active duty period July 24th.

END THIS DOUBLE TAX SQUEEZE!

ELIMINATE DOUBLE TAXATION

How long must an injustice continue before it is righted?

Millions of Americans who are victims of double federal taxation of divided income would like to know the answer to that question.

For more than 50 years the federal government has imposed this double taxation, because a corporation pays tax on its earnings and then the individual stockholder is also taxed on the dividends he receives from the same corporation.

Some 20 million stockholders in American corporations are forced to submit to the double tax.

The government recognized the injustice 10 years ago when it allowed stockholders to deduct 4 per cent from taxes due on dividends received but even this modest relief was withdrawn in 1964.

To right the injustice the National Association of Manufacturers is campaigning to abolish double taxation. It holds that this can easily be accomplished by allowing the corporation to deduct from its tax base earnings which are paid out in dividends. This would:

- Provide relief proportionate to the burden of double taxation at different income levels.
 - Make American industry more competitive, tax-wise with European producers.
 - Largely eliminate the threat of penalty taxation to family-owned or other small corporations.
 - Remove the bias against equity capital in new corporate financing arising from the fact that interest on borrowed money is deductible but dividends are not.
- The drive to have Congress eliminate double taxation deserves the support of every American.

POOR BARGAIN

Dr. Clare E. Griffin, who is Professor Emeritus of the School of Business Administration at the University of Michigan has published a book called "The Free Society." In a searching discussion of governmental regulation he says this: "The regulated first tolerate and then embrace the limitations of their own freedom. Who then is left to resist the trend? Not the consumers for the only protection they know is the regulating commission. Not the companies, for regulation does for them what the Sherman Act would prohibit if attempted by ourselves."

In other words, people representing all the facets of our complex society accept regulation because it seems to serve a material self-interest. That this alleged benefit may be fleeting or illusory is not recognized. And, in the lust for material gain, freedom is sacrificed. This is how regulation can become an accepted way of life in a nation. And this is the way liberty can be destroyed.

Texas Physician Sees Poverty In Port-de-Paix

In that part of the West Indies renowned in tales of the Spanish Main, Port-de-Paix, Haiti, population 8,000, is accessible via a harrowing eight hour jeep ride from the capital of Port-au-Prince. The place claims none of the comforts of East Texas, yet a Corsicana physician and his family report spending one of the most rewarding months of their lives there.

"Port-de-Paix is anything but a prosperous pirate hangout these days," says Dr. David P. Hansford; instead, "it is populated by some of the kindest, gentlest and most appreciative people we have ever known."

The political climate in Haiti has forced out foreign capital from the country leaving the people in desperate need. Dr. Hansford explains in an article in the July issue of Texas Medicine published for Texas physicians by the Texas Medical Association.

"It was not unusual for people to tell us that they had not eaten in two or three days," he says. Dr. Hansford paid his and his family's way to Haiti and worked without compensation as a part of a project sponsored by the Navarro County Medical Society, in connection with a not for profit organization, AMDOC, which was formed last year.

Day to day effort to exist occupies so much of the peoples thinking that they do not have time to be psychoneurotic, he writes. He saw no peptic ulcers or nervous women at Port de-Paix.

Medical working conditions there are without comparison in the United States.

"The operating room was 13 by 15 feet, completely closed to the outside with no ventilation. By 8:30 a. m. the room was unbearably hot, and we had to change our clothes between each case," he writes.

There was no anesthetic machine and no kind of gas, not even oxygen, in the whole area. Local and spinal anesthesia were all that was available.

Sterilization of instruments was done in an aluminum kettle over a charcoal fire.

The dentist was the local Catholic priest, untrained except for what he had learned in the French Army during his obligatory service.

Mrs. Hansford worked with her husband in the clinic and as a circulating nurse in the hospital. Their two children, 11 and 7, were cared for by a Haitian baby sitter who took them on all day walks.

As soon as news got out that there was an American physician in town long lines formed at the clinic. The doctor saw 40 to 50 people daily. Despite the difficulty of doing much for the sick because of the poor facilities, Dr. Hansford was showered with appreciation from the people.

Americans living and working with the people in a foreign country, asking nothing in return, pays off in goodwill for the United States, believes this East Texas surgeon.

Last year three Navarro County physicians made trips outside the U. S. to work in needy areas of the world. This year four will go, again among them Dr. Hansford who with his family is off to the West Coast of Africa for a prolonged stay.

The forests of Texas, in addition to furnishing fibre and wood for human needs, provide for recreation opportunities. They also provide food, cover and habitat for wildlife, and protection against soil erosion due to excessive run-off of rainfall.

Barley is the world's fourth most important cereal.

in fields where its members and committees have a wealth of information and knowledge. It has been estimated that, if the Administration's plan to cut funds from soil conservation projects had been implemented it would have amounted to a decrease of at least 50 percent in the level of conservation work on our farm and ranchlands.

The cutback would have been very costly to our state. Each of our 183 soil conservation districts — which virtually blanket the state — would have lost valuable technical assistance and cost sharing funds. The average district loss in Texas would have been $7,000 in technical aid for Texans trying to conserve their land and water for future generations.

Of course that may not sound like a lot of money to the bureaucratic planners, who are accustomed to sending overseas foreign aid in the billions of dollars. But, it is a lot of money to the farmer and rancher who wants to protect his land and water resources.

Presently, our private landowners put about $5 into soil and water conservation programs for every $1 spent in the field by the federal government. I did not want to see these conservation efforts curtailed either on the private or the governmental level.

Soil and water conservation efforts are of much more crucial importance for the United States than are many of the Administration's spending programs. Certainly, conservation is more important than our present gifts of wheat to dictator Nasser of the United Arab Republic — a man more given to insult than cooperation.

It is gratifying that the Congress as a whole has reaffirmed its concern for conservation and has restored the $20 million for preservation of our soil and water.

The Congress took another action this week which reversed a cutback proposed by the Administration. Once again, this cutback was proposed in an area vitally affecting our state and the irrigation efforts of many of our farmers.

In this instance, the Congress restored a $30 million cut that had been made in the amount of loan funds allowed for rural electrification projects. This was another case of mistaken economy.

The demand for electricity on the farms of our state has increased tremendously within recent years. Much of this demand is caused by the increasing use of electrical power for irrigation.

In many areas of rural Texas, particularly in the High Plains area which overlies the Ogallala geological formation, receding water tables make it necessary that water be pumped from deeper and deeper depths. This is a matter closely bound up with our water conservation plans and problems.

In order to get the water up from deeper underground, our farmers require more and more electricity as larger and larger irrigation pumps are installed. And, in other rural areas of Texas new homes are going up with electrical appliances that cannot be operated on old single phase lines. New, three phase lines must be installed.

If the rural electrification program is to continue on the farm, we must insure that the loan funds are there to finance it. I am pleased that the Congress saw the need for continuation of these loan funds and that it reversed the plan to curtail them.

Several other congressional actions this week were special importance to Texans. Badly needed funds were provided for construction of a cotton disease laboratory and a pesticides research facility at College Station. The laboratory will serve the entire state.

And, planning funds were provided toward construction of modern facilities for soil and water conservation research at the Southwest Great Plains Research Center at Bushland.

It was, in short, a most satisfying week of congressional action for those of us concerned about soil and water conservation. The Congress recognized the vital need for increased agricultural research, for adequate conservation funds, for needed rural electrification loan funds and for continued congressional oversight of U. S. farm and conservation policy.

Which Way Do You Wash Dishes?

It's a SNAP when you use an Electric Dishwasher!

Dishwashing's done at the snap of a switch when you do it the modern electric way. Instead of soaking, washing, rinsing, and drying dishes by hand, you just load and start your Electric Dishwasher and you're free to tend to other things.

An Electric Dishwasher not only eliminates a tiresome daily task, it washes your dishes hygienically clean, using water hotter than hands can stand. It helps keep your kitchen tidier and your hands lovelier. And entertaining is much more fun when you're free from dirty dish drudgery.

Janlee Youth To Hold Car Wash At Church July 24th and July 31st

Pictured above are some of the youth of Janlee Baptist church, who will be washing cars on Janlee Parking lot July 24th and 31st for the purpose of raising funds to go on a summer retreat following Teen Time Aug. 2-7th. If you would like to help in this project you may call the Janlee Baptist Church, 569-1211 anytime Saturday and someone will come pickup your car and deliver it back

From Congressman Graham Purcell

Dear Friends,

A decision appears near in the Congress on legislation to provide some measure of control over the purchase of firearms. A sincere constitutional question is involved in legislation in this field. The Second Amendment to the Constitution states: "A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

Opponents of any legislation in this field maintain that any regulation on the "right of the people to keep and bear arms" is unconstitutional. Proponents of strong legislation such as Senator Dodd of Connecticut maintain, on the other hand, that the amendment must be read in its entirety. They point to the Supreme Court decision in 1939 upholding the National Firearms Act. The court ruled that a shotgun with a barrel less than 18 inches long has nothing to do with maintaining a well regulated militia, and therefore the Constitution does not guarantee the right to possess such a weapon.

Either of these positions can easily be stretched out of all proportion, from the right of private citizens to own nuclear bombs, to the restriction of all weapons except those in the arsenal of the state militia. What is needed is a sound and reasonable approach to the problem of effectively limiting the acquisition of weapons by criminals while, at the same time, allowing the ownership and possession of reasonable weapons by private citizens for sport and personal protection.

I agree with the basic position of the National Rifle Association which is, if I interpret it correctly, to provide reasonable limitations on interstate shipment of firearms including these basic provisions: (1) properly drawn legislation to outlaw dangerous devices such as bazookas, bombs and anti-tank guns (anyone with the money can now buy these in quantity on the open market with no restrictions); (2) properly drawn legislation to curb the flood of cheap foreign firearms that are being dumped in America; (3) strict enforcement of existing laws at all levels of government; and (4) the most discussed provision in the proposals now being made, Federal controls over the transportation of concealable firearms in interstate commerce.

The bill endorsed by the NRA is H. R. 7472. Concerning the shipment of firearms in interstate commerce, it provides as follows:

a. No carrier in interstate or foreign commerce may deliver any handgun to any person under 18 years of age.

b. No manufacturer or dealer may ship any handgun in interstate or foreign commerce to any person, except a licensed manufacturer or dealer, unless that person submits to the shipper a sworn statement that the prospective recipient (1) is at least 18 years of age;

(2) is not a person prohibited by federal, state or local law from receiving or possessing the firearm.

In addition, the statement must contain the true name and address of the principal law enforcement officer of the locality to which the handgun will be shipped.

c. Prior to the shipment, the manufacturer or dealer must forward the sworn statement by registered mail to the local law enforcement officer named in the statement containing a full description, except for the serial number, of the firearm to be shipped, and must receive a return receipt evidencing delivery of the registered letter, or evidence that delivery of the letter has been refused by the local law enforcement.

d. No manufacturer or dealer may deliver any package containing a firearm to any carrier for transportation or shipment in commerce without prior written notice to the carrier.

These provisions would, in my opinion, greatly assist local law enforcement officials in enforcing local firearms regulations. At the same time, it would not prevent any citizen from obtaining firearms, and would not place limits on rifles and shotguns.

There are those who will attack even this limited effort to make it harder for criminals to obtain weapons as a "communist plot" to disarm America in the face of criminals and our international enemies. I cannot agree with these any more than I can agree with those who would require Federal registration of all firearms.

I am working on the specific language of legislation which I hope to introduce to accomplish the essential objectives set out above. It appears to me that there is going to be legislation passed in this field. I feel a responsibility to do all I can to see that it is responsible and reasonable legislation. The honest and upright sportsman has a right to pursue his hobby without unreasonable restriction. Every honest American citizen has a right to the means of self protection.

At the same time, the government has a responsibility, within Constitutional limitations

What's your LOBBY?

School students who are serious stamp collectors usually make good grades in history and geography. That's because they read all about the countries whose stamps they collect in order to understand the origin of the pictorial design.

Classic automobile enthusiasts consider the 1931 Rolls-Royce Phantom II Henley Convertible one of the most beautiful creations of a company determined to produce the best cars in the world. Monogram Models, Inc. has reproduced it in a 1/24th size model kit copied directly from an actual car. The unique side door of the rumble seat opens and closes, as do the rumble seat cover and the two front doors. The hood is removable to show the highly detailed six-cylinder engine.

Did you notice that sports-type cars like the Lola and Lotus have taken over the Indianapolis 500? The Offenhausen that used to rule the brickyard are too heavy to beat out the lighter machines. Sports cars are favorites on slot racing tracks, too, with all the real race front-runners copied in either 1/24th or 1/32 scale.

Monogram has put two of its real custom cars on a tour of the United States and Canada. The Predicta and the Lil' Coffin are part of the California Custom Car Caravan that will be appearing at local fairs this summer and fall. These are the cars from which Monogram's kits were derived. Both won many custom car awards before they were retired from competition.

to protect these honest citizens by making it as hard as possible for those who would use firearms to rob, maim and kill to obtain them.

Let us hope that this kind of attitude will prevail in the Congress and the nation as we move toward action on this problem.

Fish Fry Enjoyed By George Lemon

Members of the new opportunity workshop at Wichita Falls were treated to an excellent outing and luncheon Thursday of last week, through the courtesy of the Field and Stream Association of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood of Kay Bub Lake.

About 50 pounds of catfish and other varieties were caught. An enjoyable luncheon was provided by Underwood's Barbecue Service of Wichita Falls. If you like fish you are invited to come Friday.

About 50 persons including the men of the workshop enjoyed the results of the catch at Kay Bub Lake. Members of the Field and Stream Association prepared the fish. People who will give of their time and effort to bring joy into the lives of others is a fine thing. Our communities need more of this thing.

Remember the old fashioned get-togethers, church, lodge, reunions and picnics. A base ball and other sports was enjoyed. Dancing in the evening hours to the music of the local string whackers.

Fresh fish was enjoyed by all.

The new daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Herbert Lawson of Toole, Utah, Lea Anne, born June 26th, is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Annie Lawson of 436 West 3rd St., Burkburnett.

Cancer Films Showed To Clara-Fairview HD Club July 20th

Mrs. Margaret Jarrett, RN, Director of Health Service of Midwestern University showed films about Cancer at the meeting of the Clara-Fairview Home Demonstration Club July 20th at the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

After showing the films, Mrs. Jarrett answered all questions asked by members concerning Cancer. Mrs. Jarrett was representing the American Cancer Society.

Refreshments were served to guests from the Daisy Home Demonstration Club, Randlett, Okla. Mrs. Jarrett and members of the Clara-Fairview HD Club.

Francis Beaver recently went to California by train where he met his son, Francis L. Beaver (Jackie), who was just discharged from the Army and helped him drive his car home. They enjoyed sightseeing and visiting in California, Nevada and Utah before returning home. Jackie plans to attend Midwestern University this fall.

Fresh fish was enjoyed by all.

CARD OF THANKS

I know not how to express my grateful thanks for your acts of kindness to me while in the hospital. The gifts, flowers and cards left little to be desired. I find real comfort in saying to myself that one cannot be thankful enough for good friends. Edgar A. Guest once said, "And the joy of this world, when you've summed it all up, is found in the making of friends. Please accept my warmest thanks for your kind thoughts of me."

HUSTLE AND BUSTLE

The big city throbs with business life, heavy traffic, and the comings and goings and doings of many people. Whether you live in the city or you just come to town occasionally from the small town or farm, you have experienced this hustle and bustle. It reminds you that all life sometimes gets too hurried, too frantic with all we must do. We need a time to stop and somewhere to go to find peace and respite from all this. Have you thought of trying God? Job 22:21 says, "Acquaint now thyself with God and be at peace."

How sweet it is to be in God's house, to feel close to Him, to listen to His word. Tension leaves. Peace of soul arrives. Won't you attend God's house this week and see what he can do for you?

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

"IT WORKS THIS WAY" AIR CONDITIONING

The air conditioner is actually a heat transfer device. It takes heat from indoors and transfers it outdoors. A single physical principle makes air conditioning possible—cold objects absorb heat from the air.

For example, ice in an old time ice box absorbed heat from inside the box while melt-water carried the heat away. An air conditioner carries heat away mechanically.

Diagram above illustrates this process: Refrigerant fluid (A) flowing in tubes at 45° chills evaporator coils (B). Cold coils absorb heat from room-air being circulated over coils by blower (C). Cool air is then discharged back to room.

Heat from room makes refrigerant boil. Made still hotter by pressure action of compressor (D) refrigerant flows into condenser coils (E) facing outdoors. Since outdoor air passing over by action of fan (F) is cooler than refrigerant in coils, heat from refrigerant passes through coils and into outdoor air. Refrigerant, cold once more, flows back to evaporator, repeating cycle.

Sattelite Skate Club
Met Thurs., July 15
The Satellite Skate Club met Thursday, July 15, 1965. The meeting was called to order and minutes of the last meeting were read by Toni Savage. It was decided that only paid up members would be eligible for the Six Flags trip. The trip will be August 8, 1965 and we will go on a chartered bus. You may pick up your permission slips at the skating rink and return them by July 29th, so reservation can be made. Meeting Adjourned. Sara Patrick, Reporter
