THE OLD ADAGE APPLIES

A comparatively short time ago, it was believed that there was a possibility, which some regarded as a probability, that federal taxes would again be reduced. We no longer hear talk of that nature-and for good reason.

In a recent column, Joseph Alsop says that the projected federal deficit may exceed the record of $12.4 billion reached in 1959. He adds: "And no amount of stage managing will prevent a deficit of these dimensions from being hotly, perhaps fatally inflationary.'

So-if what is left of the dollar's purchasing power is to be protected-there are, Mr. Alsop goes on to say, two alternatives. Either taxes will have to be raised-or there must be heavy cutbacks in the cost and scope of domestic programs.

Whatever one may think of those programs, which are largely of the welfare state variety, it is clear that we cannot afford them at a time when unaovidable military expenditures are soaring. And it is an ironical fact that, if enormous deficits are permitted and accelerated inflation inevitably follows, the low-income people those pro- HOW TO GO ABOUT BUYING grams are designed to help will be the hardest hit by far.

"Federal aid is out of place in this contest. Cities of your expected income that need plenty of inducements if they are to put forth their best efforts, and free competition is the best spur."

One of the worst aspects of federal aid of this type, acide from the money costs, is that it encourages local people and local organizations and institutions to sit on their hands and wait for the Great White Father in Washington to do the needed jobs. Initiative, imagination and responsibility are undermined and in many instances destroyed. And so the trend toward a monolithic government, which decides everything and does everything, is accelerated at a tragic cost in human freedom.

No Place for Hunches

In this age of "do-it-yourself," it sometimes is the better part of wisdom to let someone else do it for you.

This is particularly true of the investor contemplating his first excursion into the market place, for the stock market is hardly the place for hunches, ouija boards, or the like.

Investing is a full-time occupation, and obviously is best handled by professionals with the knowledge, time, skills and experience to manage an investment account on age an investment account on a steady basis. It is this fact, perhaps, that has accounted for the rapid growth and wide appeal of mutual funds over the years.

Mutual funds are set up primarily to do for the individual what he may not be able to do for himself. There are relatively few people today who are sufficiently sophisticated in the ways of the stock market, or who have phisticated in the ways of the stock market, or who have the time to supervise their own investments.

To begin with, mutual funds employ professionals who constantly watch the market and analyze all the conditions which affect it, and recommend what stocks a fund should buy, sell, or hold.

In addition to professional management, a mutual fund also provides diversification.

This is a well-tested method of reducing the risk inherent in all investing, for it spreads the risk among the securities of many companies, rather than just a few.

There is a mutual fund to fit the needs and objectives of any investor, whether he is looking ahead to retirement, the education of children, or simply to supplement current income.

your hospital or your local druggist for suggestions. With these names you can investigate further, and make your own decision. The American Medical Directory, published by the American Medical Association, is an excellent source of background information that is available in most libraries.

In making your final selection, it is best to visit the doctor in his office. Does he impress you favorably? No one personality type can be recommended, of course, but if you are "com-fortable" with him and sense a quality of competence, he has already begun to win the confidence necessary for a good doctor-patient relationship.

Ask him about his fees. He will welcome such a discussion as a basis for future understanding. If you wish he can advise you about hospital costs and other medical expenses.

When you have selected your family doctor, be completely frank with him. The more your doctor knows about his patients, the better care he can provide. Consider him your health advisor. Follow his instructions and - when you need them heed his suggestions on selec-

1965 STATE SALES TAX TABLE

If you itemize your deductions, you may use this table to determine the general sales tax to be entered on Form 1040, page 2, Part IV. However, if you can establish that you paid a larger amount, you are entitled to deduct that amount. This table is based on the Texas State sales tax of 2 percent. Sales taxes for automobile purchases are not included in the table and they should be added to the table amount, if applicable.

MOVE in the RIGHT DIRECTION

To attend Church is the first step in finding God. To attend regularly is to continue in the right direction, and gives one an opportunity to understand God's will in his life. Now is the time to make your move. Choose the way that will lead you to God. Attend Church Sunday.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

the dog lest anxious to go can any more, the average fisherman becomes a little difficult to live with. He mays crasy things like "It's the end of the world. Spring will never come again." Then it's time to think about a quick vacation to other climes.

Most people will head south. They take along their regular Mitchell and Ambassadeur fresh water fishing outsits and have a ball with bonefish in the Bahamas, barracuda in Bermuda, pompano in Palm Beach, or mackerel by Miami.

But - the angler looking for something different might con-sider going West or even North! The steelhead fishing is at its peak in the Pacific Northwest and the north border lakes country offers the best in ice fishing, as well as skiing, skating, ice-boating, and other winter sports.

Both the steelheader and ice fisherman will need a line which will not be effected by near-freezing water temperatures.

We've always found Platyl monofilament perfect for these conditions It doesn't stiffen up and turn brittle, like some. Garcia has just come out with a new monofilament called Bonnyl, which is even better, according to early reports.

Cold weather angling calls for special clothing like insulated boots, waders, and underwear. Hand warmers and "hot seats" make a lot of sense too.

Regardless of whether you head north or south, or stay in your own backyard during the cold months, the fisherman can usually enjoy his sport in some degree. Anything to help him endure those inactive months will be appreciated by those who have to live with him. Happy frostbite!
