BULLDOGS TO PLACE 11-4 RECORD ON LINE AGAINST LEOPARDS HERE THURSDAY

By DEE UNDERWOOD

The Bulldog cagers stake their 11-4 record here Thursday night at Bulldog Gym, as they host the Booker T. Washington Leopards in the first big showdown in 4-AAA, being a slight favorite although losing by one point to them in the Burk Tournament.

The week-end is also fully scheduled, as the locals enter the Wichita Falls Invitational Basketball Tournament Friday and Saturday, hoping to get a chance at derailing the fast-moving Rider Raider Express.

The game Thursday night promises to be the best in the area. In the first meeting, the Bulldogs jumped to an eight-point halftime lead over the Leopards, but ran into foul trouble in the last two quarters. Losing much of their rebounding strength via that route, the Bulldogs saw their lead cut to naught. They trailed by a point when Jimmy Flegar stuffed the rebound of his own field goal attempt back in the hoop. With 16 seconds showing and a point lead, they went down court to try and stave off the Leopards. It was Frank Donaldson who proved hero as he got a rebound of a Roosevelt Manning shot and hooped it for the winning points.

Roosevelt Manning is the Leopards' big gun at 6'7", the top rebounder and scorer on the team. The two Donaldson brothers, Frank and Felley, are real fine performers also. They are both short, but especially fast. Another thriller is anticipated when these two get together. The night's action begins with a 6:00 p.m. B-team match, followed by the varsity encounter.

The Bulldogs find themselves in the toughest bracket of the Wichita Falls Invitational, but that is no surprise. In the first round, they meet Lawton Eisenhower, a talented quintet from Oklahoma. The Eagles are led by 6'4" Mike Dixon, a real fine shooter.

Should they win this one, the Bulldogs would then meet the winner of the Rider-Booker T. game in the second round. The Raiders are led by Steve Services, Jack Griffin, and Jeff Jackson.

Meanwhile, in the other bracket, the hosting Coyotes meet Vernon and Hirschi and Quannah tangle in the other opening match.

The Bulldogs have won their last six games in compiling their 11-4 season mark, including three conference victories.

Burk 92, Iowa Park 49

In a prelude to District 4-AAA play, the Bulldogs hosted spirited, but outmanned, Iowa Park, bombing the Hawks, 92-49, with four players in double figures.

John Edwards, with 23, Steve Cozby, with 20, Monty Ridgeway, with 12, and Jimmy Flegar, with 10, led the barrage. One player, sophomore Jan Clapp, hit in doubles for the Hawks, with 16 points.

Burk 23 26 24 25—92
Iowa Park 15 15 7 12—49

Burk 75, Breckenridge 42

In their conference opener, the Bulldogs proved unwelcome visitors, as they worked over the Breckenridge Buckaroos, 75-42, coming up with a tremendous 26 point fourth quarter.

John Edwards hit 27 points to lead the way, while Steve Cozby dropped in 19 counters. Jim Everett netted 15 in a losing cause.

Burk 15 20 14 26—75
Breck 15 10 11 6—42

Burk 72, Vernon 57

Last Friday night, the Bulldogs dropped the Vernon Lions in an exciting 4-AAA battle at Bulldog Gym, riding the crest of a first quarter wave.

Jumping out to a 27-7 lead in the first stanza, the Bulldogs saw the speedy Lions fire back to cut the margin to 13 points at intermission. With the visitors nipping at their heels, the Bulldogs managed to salvage a 15-point victory, 72-57.

Jimmy Flegar, who hit 12 points in the first period, garnered game high honors with 24 points. Teammate John Edwards was right behind with 23.

Vernon's dandy Willard Wilson canned 20 points for the Lions, while Jim Riggins contributed 14 to the cause.

Burk 27 16 13 16—72
Vernon 7 23 11 16—57

Burk 62, Eisenhower 54

In a make-up game Saturday night, the Bulldogs handed the visiting Lawton Eisenhower Eagles a 62-54 defeat at Bulldog Gym, despite a fine performance by the Eagles' Mike Dixon.

Dixon, a 6'4" lad who makes the team, took game high honors with 25 points. His Bulldog counterpart, John Edwards, hit 19 to pace the victors. The big difference in the battle between the two was a fine rebounding performance by Edwards. The big center for the locals garnered 17 rebounds.

As mentioned earlier in the article, these same teams meet in the Wichita Falls Invitational on Friday. Game time is 2:30 p.m.

Burk 17 19 12 14—62
Eisenhower 9 12 11 22—54

Burk 70, Childress 57

Tuesday night, the Bulldogs ran their 4-AAA record to 3-0, blitzing the Childress Bobcats, 70-57, on the latter's home court.

Taking an early lead and adding to it, the Bulldogs never cooled until the final period. Leading 57-37 starting the fourth, they saw the Bobcats outpoint them, 20-13, cutting the final margin to 70-57.

John Edwards led Burk with 20 counters, while Eruce Morey paced the losers with 16.

Burk 19 20 18 13—70
Childress 12 10 15 20—57

A DECISIVE FACTOR

It was never the intent of Congress to apply the income tax against capital because that would wipe out the source of income that are taxes. As tax rates have climbed through the years, this distinction has become ever more important. To avoid this inequity, the mineral depletion provision has long been a part of the tax law. Today it applies to over a hundred minerals ranging from antimony and oil to soapstone, peat and mollusk shells.

Over forty years ago, Congress established the mineral depletion allowance for oil. This allows oil and gas producers to deduct 27.5 per cent of their gross income to offset capital depletion of wells before reporting it for tax purposes. In similar fashion, the farmer does not pay an income tax on the "seed corn" that he sets aside from his harvest to grow another crop in the succeeding year. Percentage depletion is in a sense, a way of letting the mineral producer retain—free of tax—funds that represent his seed corn.

Representative Sydney A. Herlong, a long time member of the House Ways and Means Committee the primary architect of the nation's tax laws, has stated, "... our mineral depletion policy will be a decisive factor in determining whether the United States continues as the foremost power in the world with the highest standard of living, or whether it falls back into the ranks of the 'have not' nations—the countries that must depend on other lands for their energy and fuels and other basic resources."

Secretary of Interior Udall has predicted that for the next 14 years more oil and gas will be used in the U.S. than in the past 107 years of the petroleum industry's existence. This being the case, it would be grossly inappropriate to consider revising the tax laws in such a way as to reduce the probable oil and gas supply, increase the price, and leave us at the mercy of foreign oil producers.

THE THREADBARE SOCK

The greatest business in the world is the U. S. government. The voters of the United States hire managers for this business — the President and members of Congress. They and officials appointed by them in the cabinet, bureaus, boards and commissions regulate and control virtually all industry and activity financed and operated by the private citizen and taxpayer, and yet they have no financial stake in what they regulate.

Many of the official managers are conscientious and competent, but the variety of complex matters they are charged with overseeing is often beyond their comprehension. Worse yet, some of the official regulators and managers directing the affairs of an industry have little or no practical experience or knowledge of that industry. Over the years, the managers of the peoples government have mortgaged the people's property with the greatest debt in the world's history and are forcing their employers (the taxpayers) to carry ever more burdensome and destructive tax obligations. Adding insult to injury, they do not hesitate to tell their employers (the taxpayers) how to run their properties.

Why shouldn't our public employees have their efficiency and spending checked by independent agencies? There will be no relief for the taxpayer if the tax spenders are left to check on themselves. This is something to consider before we face a $300 billion annual budget. The alternative is to awake one day and find that our hired managers have not only made off with our savings but also the threadbare sock in which we had them hidden.

Four out of every five over 65 Americans who carried voluntary health insurance before medicare, have retained this protection — but on a supplementary basis — according to the Health Insurance Institute. The Institute estimated that among the 18.5 million over 65 population, more than 9 million have private health insurance. Since medicare's inception in July, 1966, only two million aged Americans discontinued their private insurance plans, the Institute reported.

Businessmen are finding it important, in their own interests as well as for the public good, to make every effort to solve community problems. Mr. Allan Shivers, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, said,

Purchasing Power Loss

Just as our forests and other natural resources are protected against the eroding effects of time, so must one's money be protected against another eroding force— inflation.

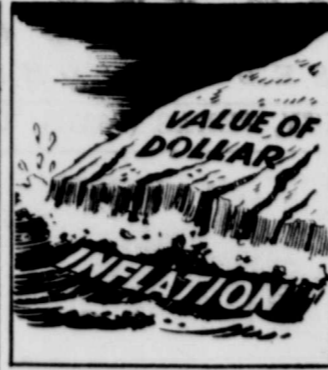

Inflation has been a basic economic trend in this country for many decades, and as such has cut drastically into the purchasing power of the dollar.

Take, for instance, the value of the 1957 dollar. Today it is worth only about 70 cents in terms of what it can buy. In other words, $1,000 placed under a mattress 10 years ago, will buy only about $700 worth of goods and services today.

There are ways, of course, to counteract this steady loss of purchasing power and mutual funds are one of them. An investment in mutual funds has been found to be especially effective in protecting one's dollar against such loss, for money so invested provides the opportunity to share in the income, growth and profits of American business and industry.

Historically speaking, the long term trend of the stock market has been up, intermittent business declines and periods of market stress notwithstanding. In fact, while the cost of living has more than doubled since 1940, stock values have managed to increase by some 600 per cent.

According to the Investment Company Institute, more than four million Americans have $43 billion invested in mutual fund shares. Basically, all mutual funds provide the means through which people with similar investment goals can join together and pool their money in an effort to achieve these goals.

For each investor in mutual funds, the common denominator is generally the same: an investment that provides broad diversification and professional management by professionals at a cost which is divided among all the shareholders.

BABSON'S

POINT OF VIEW

Babson's Point of View On: SET-INCOME RETIREES AND INFLATION

Babson Park, Mass. — Housewives in all income brackets are acutely aware of the climbing prices in food, clothing, shoes, services, just about whatever they buy. But the ones who really are at the mercy of price inflation are the retirees, those with no extra family income, no raises, no stretch in their budgets. How are they going to make out? How can they keep their expenses down to a reasonable level?

Planning Ahead Is a Must

With such people—most of them 60 years old and more—there is a real need for meticulous health care, including the consumption of foods that are nourishing but within monetary reach. Most people think of meats as the prime source of proteins, and the cost of meats may be just a bit prohibitive for many fixed-income older people. But there are ways of having plenty of proteins without laying out $1.0 a pound or better for fine steaks. The cheaper cuts of many different types of meat are fully as tasty and nutritious even though they usually have to be cooked longer.

Then, too it should be emphasized that there are many other common sources of protein, such as beans, cheese, milk and eggs. For those who need help in planning nourishing but thrifty meals, the government has many booklets obtainable. Your local library will help you find helpful sources of such information. Also on the shelves there will be books on sound nutrition which may open entirely new doors to those who have never given enough thought to the importance of careful food selection and cooking in terms of health.

Illness Prevention Easier Than Cure

While balanced meals are an essential for those in the higher age groups, there are many other considerations that are worth attention in preventing costly and distressing medical outlay. An annual checkup with your regular doctor will make you feel safer from diseases that early detection may make easily curable. Weight-control programs are extremely valuable, although frequently ignored or postponed. Safety features — such as night lights in treacherous parts of the house, hand-bars on bathtubs, and non-slip rugs—may avoid broken bones and hospitalization.

Exercise, especially outdoors, should be included wherever possible. Dr. Paul Dudley White's insistence upon walking and bicycling to prevent heart disease has gained nationwide attention. Even the milder sports such as ping-pong, swimming, croquet, and golf are fine conditionals, and good for the morale as well as the physical condition. Particularly rewarding for those with no regular occupation are the simple hobbies that cost little or nothing: Birding, painting or sketching, collecting wild flowers, mushrooms, mosses, sea shells, tree leaves or minerals.

Many Paying Jobs Handy For Retirees

Many who have long looked forward to their retirement find that they would like to work at least part-time, either through restlessness or from a need for additional income. In practically every part of the country there are openings for such folk, if they will look around a bit. Men can usually find opportunities in fields formerly their forte, and often only when they feel like helping out. Women are often needed as part-timers in selling, typing, receptionist work, baby-sitting, and cooking or cleaning in private homes. Wages are generally high, and even an occasional job can boost income nicely.

Social workers usually find that those retirees maintaining their own homes are in better spirits than those who try to cut back too drastically. Advance planning on the part of those looking toward retirement should take this into consideration. When a couple is parted by death, there may be a way for the widow or widower to pool resources with a relative or close friend. In this fashion the pain of loneliness and personal loss can be reduced, as well as the expenses of living during price-inflationary times. Here, again, social workers often see better results in contemporaries making a home together than in the elders moving in with young couples or in-laws.

DELBERT DOWNING TO BE SPEAKER AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BANQUET HERE

DELBERT DOWNING

Delbert Downing, Midland author and lecturer, will be the featured speaker for the annual banquet of the Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce, 7 p.m., Friday, Jan. 12, at the High School Cafeteria.

Downing is an alumnus of Rice Institute, served as field director of the European sector of the Red Cross, and was manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce until he resigned to devote all of his time to writing and lecturing. He is author of "On the Dark Side of Midnight."

Jack Mathis, program chairman, says the banquet audience will find Downing a speaker with humor, a curbstoep, philosophy and great confidence and faith in people and America.

Downing is an honorary Lion, an active Rotarian and a life member of the Jaycees. He was recently elected president of the Christian Men's Fellowship of the State of Texas.

Scheduled for presentation at the banquet will be the five annual Chamber citizenship awards for the man, woman, club, employee and senior citizen selected as outstanding during 1967.

New officers for the Chamber for 1968 will be presented during the banquet, headed by Jack Aaron, president, Bill Vincent, vice-president, Tom Nicklas, treasurer and Jerry McClure, assistant treasurer.

Decorations for the banquet are traditionally arranged by a Burkburnett Club, the Modern Study Club having been chosen to arrange them this year.

Banquet tickets are now on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office, Texas Electric Service Company, and both banks, according to Joe Salter, ticket chairman. The price is $3.50.

By Mary Whitman

"Angel robes" are handy for a child practicing art.

Robes can be made of many fabrics, to protect a child's clothes. An old bedsheet will do, cut to size and pinned loosely around neck and waist. A frayed or faded beach towel is fine. Dad's old shirt is also comfortable.

The child of grammar-school age likes big movements when he paints and plays. He wants to sprawl and put himself into his work. A basement spread with newspapers is fine. Working in the back yard is by far the best method for a summer's day, and only a bucket of water needed to wash his hands afterward. In a playroom or bedroom, newspapers or oilcloth can be put on the floor.

Sometimes, in bad weather or cramped space, a child is less free.

"In these cases," point out activity experts at Whitman Publishing Company of Racine, Wis., leading producers of juvenile art supplies, "the new fingerpaints in squeeze-out tubes are especially handy. The child needn't dip his fingers in the paint but can make designs direct from the tube, and spread the thick color with a cut potato or spatula if he likes." The tubes of fingerpaint — along with new poster paint, colored chalk, crayons, drawing pads and dozens of other art items — are now to be found at variety stores.

A plastic play table for the children is also practical for creative work. The new washable paints can be sponged off after a child has called it a day. A few supplies help the children play and stay angelic.

Letter Arrives From 'Catfish' In Saudi Arabia

The following is a letter received from "Catfish" Pepper, a former employee of The Burkburnett Star, now in Saudi Arabia with an oil company.

Hello Burk Star:

Am sure you are aware of the fact that "Wandering Me" is back in the desert again. Yep, the Texas cold was getting too rough for my tropical blood. Took off from Wichita at 11:20 a.m. Sun., Dec. 10. Left Dallas at 12:30 p.m. via American Airlines for New York City. Due to rough weather along the eastern seaboard, we flew up the middle. Was a smooth flight to Indianapolis, but from there to NYC was rather rough. Landed at John F. Kennedy Airport at 3:00 p.m. your time. Took a cab into NYC and checked with East Side Terminal on a flight out. Was able to catch one at 7:45 p.m. (your time), so due to the rain and 35 degree temperature in NYC, I decided to go elsewhere.

Took a KLM (Royal Dutch Airlines) flight out of J.F.K. at 7:45 p.m. and landed in Amsterdam, Holland at 2:50 a.m. Monday (your time). By this you can see, my movements weren't exactly in slow motion. Am really glad that I decided to fly on into Amsterdam as this gave me two days in that city. As I'd never had the pleasure of visiting this city, it was quite a thrill to me, despite the fact that it rained or snowed practically all of the time I was there. Will say this. "The people of Holland are a happy, smiling, and industrious race of people." They were very courteous and tried in every way to please. Here I met people from all over the world including Alaska and a lady lawyer from Houston. Hope to get back here again in the summer time.

Flew out of Amsterdam Wed. at 11:45 a.m. bound for Athens, Greece. On the flight down, the cloud cover broke enough that we had a splendid view of the Austrian Alps. If one likes snow that'd be the place to go. Right Now!!! We were about one minute of touchdown at Athens (flaps and gear down) when ground radio advised us not to land. Maybe I should say, they demanded that we didn't. Uh huh, they had another two or three hour war. Guess if we'd got out of Amsterdam on time, I'd have got to see some of it. Oh well, you can't expect to see it all on one trip, better luck next time maybe.

Being as the Greeks were angry, we pulled up and flew on into Beirut, Lebanon. Here we were down long enough to visit around the airport (with machine gun-carrying guards all around). Anyway the refreshment counter was open to us and that kinda washed away our troubles. Didn't tarry long here, before blasting off for Baghdad, Iraq. Here all passengers except Yours Truly, left the flight. Believe it or not, I had me a whole DC8 jetliner by my lonesome. That is except the crew and that included two very nice Dutch stewardesses. Now if that isn't living, I'd like to know what is???

Dhahran was uneventful, just a matter of checking in and receiving my new assignment. I'm assigned to a crew known as Seismo No. 6. To reach my new assignment, I flew out of Dhahran on an Aramco Fokker F-27 (twin turbo prop) plane to crew Seisco No. 3. This was a 2 hour or 500 mile flight. Due to the rough terrain here at Seismo No. 6 a large plane is unable to land, this forced me to spend the night at S.3, where I got to visit with some of the people I know. 7:00 a.m. Tuesday found me in the air again. This time aboard a DeHavilland Beaver that lands and takes off in a front yard. This flight took 1 1/2 hours and put me to my final destination. Now you can understand what I mean when I say, "You're all up in the air when you go Doodle Bugging." Ha Ha.

As of now, this crew consists of 11 white men and 78 locals. Of the 11 ex-patriots (as we are called) 6 of us are Texans, 1 from Nebraska, 1 Canadian, 1 British, and 2 Australians. A much better situation than my last crew which was about 75% British and Australian. Anyway the Texans are in the majority.

At the present time, we are located about 100 kilometers (60 miles) from the Aden border. We will be moving within a week or 10 days to within 12 miles of the boarder. My failure to have any excitement in Athens, could very easily be supplemented by some real thrills soon. Ha Ha. I understand those people are real proud of their rights to shoot a gun. Well aren't we all???

Guess that about sums it up as of now, so in canning the chatter for this time, will say "A Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All."

Just the Same, Cat fish P.S.—Think Harry stashed a quarter away. See if you can't buy stamps with it and post me to Box 1179.

Dhahran, Saudi Arabia (no zip code needed)

Lt. Frields Causes Red Ruin In Viet Battle

The following article is reprinted from the San Antonio Express-News. Lt. Frields is the son of Mrs. Hallie Frields and the late Rupert J. Frields and the grandson of Mrs. Audrey Frields and the late Paul E. Frields.

SAIGON (AP) — Teamwork between Air Force fighter-bombers and infantry troops of the 1st Cavalry Division Friday resulted in 34 Communist troops killed in a battle 20 miles southeast of Bong Son.

Lt. Forrest Frields of San Antonio, piloting a light scout airplane, spotted four armed Communist soldiers attempting to hide beneath an overhanging rock near a well-worn trail.

Frields noted that the trail led to a rocky stream bed which made its way to a cave and tunnel complex.

The Army said Frields took the four soldiers under fire and killed them.

Frields then messaged Sgt. James Horime of St. Joseph, Mo., at the Cavalry operations center and told him of the contact. Horime called for Air Force jet strikes on the cave and tunnels.

A flight of Air Force F100 Supersabres streaked in, and their first bombs uncovered still more tunnels and caves.

DARK COLORS ON LIGHT WOODS

Versatility of color is one of the chief virtues of Southern Pine paneling. Because of its light color, this wood is adaptable to any of the darker hues, even ebony. Such effects may be obtained with stain-type finishes. Since these finishes are transparent, the grain is exposed and the applied color seems just as natural as the wood's actual hue.

SEN. RALPH YARBOROUGH'S NEWSLETTER

Dear Fellow Texan:

The first session of the 90th Congress was one of the longest sessions in my 10 2/3 years in the Senate. We accomplished much despite the increase in membership from the minority party, and despite the high cost of the war in Vietnam which has forced cuts in many programs needed here at home.

Some say the 90th Congress did little, but the record shows we did a lot. We passed a very important Elementary and Secondary Education Bill; we extended the war on poverty; we passed landmark legislation for consumers like the meat inspection bill, and we passed some health laws. The 90th Congress was a "do-something" Congress.

Three of my major bills were passed and signed into law — the Bilingual Education Bill, my bill to outlaw discrimination in jobs because of age, and my Revised Cold War G. I. Bill. I introduced the Bilingual Bill last January to help in the education of 750,000 school-aged children of Spanish descent in Texas, and nearly two million other children in our nation. It provides Federal funds to local school districts for special programs to help educate children from non-English-speaking families. It is behind bilingual education to make these youngsters fully literate in both their mother tongue—Spanish—and in English, our national language.

My age discrimination bill became law on President Johnson's signature last week, prohibiting employers and labor unions from firing or refusing to hire a person because he is past the age of 40, and under the age of 65. It doesn't guarantee work, but it guarantees the basic right of these 40 million Americans, including two million Texans, to be considered for a job on a fair basis.

My Revised Cold War G. I. Bill which passed in September brings better education opportunities to some 5 million men who entered the armed forces since January 31, 1955. Now these veterans can choose on-the-job training, farm training, flight school, business school or trade school in addition to high school or college. Veterans, don't miss this opportunity!

In the final week before we adjourned Congress passed a badly needed increase in Social Security benefits. Unfortunately as I had hoped. The present minimum Social Security payment is $44 a month, pitifully low, and the Senate proposed to raise it to $70 a month. The House passed a lower raise, however, and a conference committee compromised on $55 a month.

I thought this compromise was too low, and I voted to send the bill back to conference to get a bigger Social Security benefit increase for our retired and disabled Americans. The bill which passed is not what I wanted, but it is a step in the right direction. The minimum monthly payment is now $55, and all Social Security recipients, more than a million in Texas, will receive an average 13 per cent raise.

LIBRARY CORNER

STOP & SWAP — If you are one of the people who prefers to read paper backs because of convenience, and you have stacks of them that you hate to throw out but don't intend to read again maybe you'll help us out. For some time we have been considering having a section of paper backs on a "swap" basis. You bring in a paper back and swap it for another paper back. No checking in and signing out as with the regular library books. We have had several people ask why we don't have one—but we haven't had a sufficient supply to get the section started. One of our eager patrons is bringing in a bundle and with a few more we'll be in business.

Jig Saw Puzzles — On the same basis as the paper backs—if we have enough friends in town we can swap those too. If you are interested let us know.

We have some new instruction books in a decoupage, paper mache, and mosaics. New Novels: Prisoners of Quai Dong, Banana Men, Chameleon File, February Plan. Not so new, but maybe you missed them. I, the King by Keyes; Iron Orchard by Pendleton (novel of the oil fields); Wild Horizon by F. Van Wyck Mason; Giles Goat Boy by Earth and many others.

For those who find reading an eye-strain we have added to our collection of large type editions. Ask to see them when you come in. LS

CREATION...

ISN'T IT AMAZING
... Scientists say that there are no two snowflakes alike! How many snowflakes do you suppose there have been since the beginning of time? Billions? It staggers the imagination when one thinks of all the things that God has created from nothing.

Genesis, the first book in the bible means beginning. It tells of many of God's more major creations, and how He created all these things for the benefit of man. Attend church, study God's word and learn more of God's plan for man.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

50th Anniversary Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Podreger of Nowata, Oklahoma, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. They lived in the Thrift Community from 1920-1935, and in Burkburnett at the La Salle lease from 1935-1942.

The anniversary was observed with an open house at the home of their daughter, Mrs. L. W. Dooley, in Bartlesville, Oklahoma. Mrs. Lewis Dooley, and Mrs. Gene Harris of Dewey, Oklahoma, served punch, and Mrs. R. R. Kolter of Wichita Falls, Texas, presided at the guest book.

The couple have two daughters, Mrs. Dooley and Mrs. Jack Castro, Tripoli, Libya, and four grandchildren.

Podreger was an independent oil producer in the Wann vicinity before his retirement in 1952.

MAKING ARTIFICIALS "REAL"

How do you fool those finicky bottom-dwelling fish that frequently reach lunker proportions because of selective feeding habits?

Sinking a hook home in the jaw of an eight-pound bass carries about the same odds for the average angler as hitting a daily double at the track, yet there are those who score with uncanny success.

For the guy who wants to better his chances in the lunker department, there are a couple tricks on this season's scene that may be of interest, say the fishing experts at Mercury outboards.

The first, they claim, is the "chewable" lure. While this soft offering has been standard fare for bait users and devotees of pork rinds and plastic worms, the "pliable approach" is also available to plug casters. With the tendency of big fish to mouth and chew a while before swallowing, it certainly has merits.

Recently marketed soft lures that emulate many old, proven favorites have the deceptive characteristics of natural bait. This quality becomes highly important when dealing with lunkers that seize a bait and gingerly move off for some distance while contemplating the authenticity of the morsel and turning it around before swallowing.

Weight is necessary to get the lure down on bottom. But it also presents an unnatural resistance that may warn of danger when engulfed by a fish. The big boys have a way of releasing a suspect dinner without ever brushing a barb.

To overcome this warning signal, use a hollowed-out sinker through which the line has been threaded. It provides the needed weight yet permits the lure to be grabbed and carried with the line running free through the sinker.

Try a free-running chewable plug for choosy bottom feeders, urge the Mercury lads. It's about the nearest thing to a natural bait you'll find.

LIFE LINES

From Balboa to Gaugin, men have always left home to see things for themselves. Yet those of us who have to battle the daily hazards of the traffic jam find it hard to believe there are still some undiscovered areas left.

But, just a plane ride away in Brazil, the Dawn people live. This last of the truly primitive Indian tribes carries out its ancient rituals deep in the jungle, untouched by more sophisticated neighbors.

Even in our own West Virginia, there's the raging Cheat river—wild and remote enough to be in some far corner of the earth. To find out more about the violent and untamed places that have escaped civilization, read the December 18th year-end double issue of Life Magazine devoted to "The Wild World."

Army Resevists Training School Is Scheduled

A new U.S. Army Reserve training school is being started in Wichita Falls to help reservists learn a new MOS (military occupational specialty).

The new school will offer courses to personnel of the headquarters of the 980th Engineer Battalion here.

Subjects taught in the school will train Army reservists for new military jobs they can perform on active duty, if required.

form on active duty, if required.

The first two subjects offered will be personnel administration and communications. A course in wheeled vehicle mechanics is scheduled to start shortly. Other courses are planned as needed.

Chaplain (Maj.) Jerry Walker, formerly of Nocona and now of Fort Worth, is commander of the new school. Instructors are Cpt. Dave Allred and 1st Lt. Noros Martin, both of Wichita Falls.

The new MOS School is part of the 4159-3 USAR School, which is headquartered in Fort Worth.

THRIFTY UTILIZATION

Thrifty utilization of the saw-timber harvest is second in importance only to good forest management in responsibility for the South's outstanding record of recent years in building up its timber resources.
Twenty per cent of the region's total material for pulpwood production comes from the left overs of Southern Pine lumbering. Debarking of sawlogs permits conversion of slabs, edging and other leavings of the saws to pulp chips for paper mills.
