THE PROBLEM-MAKERS

One of the most commonly heard questions these days is, "How in the world did the United States ever get into its present mess?"

Many attempts have been made to answer this question but it is obvious that the answers — and the lessons that should be drawn — don't sink in. We keep making the same mistakes, or more precisely we keep putting into office the same types who made the present mess for us.

Since it seems to do little good to try to explain WHY things are in such a muddle, at home and abroad, maybe we ought to ask ourselves WHO got us into our present precarious position. With this information we may be able to cast more intelligent votes in the weeks and months ahead.

The list of those who put this nation behind the 8-ball is a long one. Going back to the Red Decade, the 1930's, it would include those who promoted recognition of Soviet Russia, when that country was on the verge of collapse, and it would include those who plugged the Communist cause up to and throughout World War II, at the expense of the United States of America.

It would, of course, include such worthies as Alger Hiss, Harry Dexter White, the Rosenbergs and others who did so much to change the map of the world and upset the balance of power, to the detriment of the U. S. And the "honor roll" would include a horde of highly influential people in and out of government who, for various reasons, supported these characters even after they were exposed for their actions. And don't let anyone say to you that this seems like ancient history. Actually it was only two decades ago that our messer-uppers connived in allowing Eastern Europe and much of Asia, including China, to fall to Communism. The Korean "police action" followed.

One might think that we learned something from that lesson, particularly about the kind of people who consistently back Communism causes to the detriment of the U. S. But apparently we have learned nothing. The same mentality responsible for those earlier disasters became evident in more recent debacles and fiascos — the Bay of Pigs, the Berlin Wall, the forming of a coalition government in Laos, our disastrous disarmament policy, and so on ad nauseam. And where are the people who made such calamitous blunders? Are they in jail, in hiding, or shamed into silence?

No. Some of the worst offenders are sounding off stridently even today — and being listened to respectfully. Which probably proves that P. T. Barnum was right.

A REMARKABLE RECORD

Manufacturers of everything from toys to automobiles have been subjected to criticism for turning out products allegedly hazardous to users. During the last session of Congress, much was heard about new safety regulations for the gas utility industry. The industry has cooperated in formulating such additional regulation as Congress deems needed.

On top of this, the American Gas Association employed a leading research firm to conduct an exhaustive study of the safety record of the natural gas industry. The study showed that natural gas distribution operations in the United States are remarkably safe. Such operations are in some way responsible for an average of 44 fatalities annually throughout the country. This is equal to approximately one fatality per three million persons served by utility gas. It was also found that an average of a thousand injuries occur annually in gas distribution operations.

When these figures are compared to the number of gas users they become impressive indeed. The industry serves more than 140 million persons in the United States and maintains a network of more than 500,000 miles of gas distribution mains.

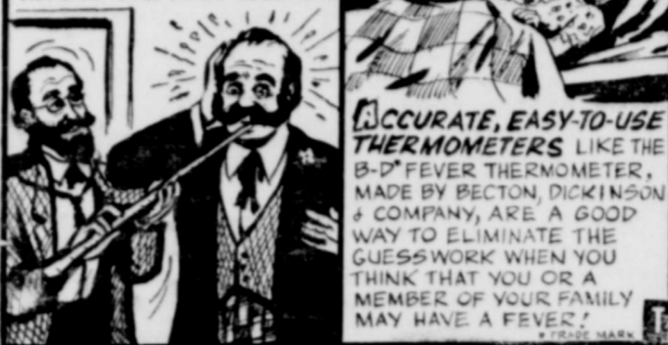

In releasing the results of the gas safety study the Association also announced that it had made a substantial grant to the National Safety Council for a study to determine the feasibility of establishing a uniform nationwide procedure for collecting and reporting public safety statistics. The establishment of such a uniform procedure would go far toward assuring that facts rather than appeals to emotion would be a deciding influence on the course of future safety regulation.

PROMOTING INDULGENCE

What stands out most strongly from the Report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders is the attitude of indulgence. All the censure voiced by the presidential commission is directed at citizens who never had a part in the riots or at the police who had the difficult and dangerous job of restoring the peace. The rioters themselves, and those who incited the riot, escaped serious blame or condemnation.

As one might have expected in view of the membership of the commission, the blame was directed at society, or rather at the truly blameless members of American society. Indeed this is the routine "social science" approach in America these days. Under this theory, crime isn't the fault of criminals but of society in general. Law-breaking and other misbehavior isn't attributed to individual guilt or wrongdoing, but to the failure of the taxpayers to spend more money on housing, welfare, education and similar items.

The federal government, over a period of 30 years or more, has been creating a climate of indulgence of law-breakers and other irresponsible citizens. The shiftless have had a field day; the self-reliant have been blamed for everything that goes wrong.

The most outrageous forms of behavior are excused, providing the offenders are so-called "disadvantaged" citizens. Thus, in recent years, there has been a "civil rights" sit-in in the halls of the White House; protesters have been allowed to set up a tent camp opposite the White House in Lafayette Park, and an army of demonstrators was allowed to disrupt the nation's capital and surround the Pentagon.

These are not the only instances of governmental indulgence. Several years ago a city manager in Newburgh, N.Y., insisted that welfare recipients work on clean-up details or they wouldn't get their relief government, through its welfare programs, has made it easier for a father to desert his family than to support it. In its Job Corps program, the Johnson administration has given its trainees a higher wage than the men who enter the U.S. armed services. It has pumped money into slum programs, including a "black power" theater in New York that specializes in white-bate plays.

Law breakers have been comfortably treated for years. The friends of Fidel Castro long ago were exempt from critical scrutiny. The Kennedy administration did nothing about updating the Justice Department's list of subversive groups. It declined to take action against the Fair Play For Cuba Committee, a front organization with Communist support. Americans who broke the law in going to Red Cuba were given token reprimands or let off the hook.

The United States wouldn't have any riots if the law were enforced in firm, positive fashion. Few civilized countries experience riots. None of them have had riots on a scale with last summer's disorders. The reason is simple: in other countries the police are told to crack down as hard as necessary to protect the law-abiding. Respectable citizens in those countries aren't told that they are the cause of the riots. That kind of social science fiction isn't bought by intelligent Europeans, for example.

But the Crime Commission urges more indulgence. Some of its toughest language is reserved for police forces that are equipping their men for next summer's troubles. Instead of condemning rioters and looters, the Commission lambasts the police. This is the real shame and scandal of our time

News From The County Agent

Pasture weeds are expensive. They not only take moisture and plant nutrients away from the grasses, points out county agent B. T. Haws, but are especially troublesome to the dairyman. He loses milk production and may have milk rejected when it is contaminated with weed flavors.

Now is a good time to start killing weeds before they get going. One pound of 2, 4-D in 15 to 20 gallons of water per acre applied as a spray will kill a lot of weeds that are now germinating, reminds the county agent.

After spraying for weed control, he recommends fertilizing the pasture to get fast growth.

Well fertilized, fast growing sods will push weeds out. Weeds cannot stand the competition from fast growing pasture sods, says Haws.

When spraying with 2, 4-D temperatures should be above 60 degree F. or above. Another caution is not to spray with 2, 4-D where clovers, vetch or winter peas are growing since the herbicide will kill these plants. Lespedeza just coming up is also killed by 2,4-D. This chemical will not kill any of the sod grasses, cereals or ryegrass.

After spraying with 2, 4-D, dairy cattle must be kept off the pasture for seven days, reminds the county agent. He also emphasizes the importance of following label instructions when chemicals are used.

There will be a meeting on Beef Performance Testing and Commercial Beef Production on Thursday, April 4 in the Agricultural Room in Iowa Park. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. L. A. Maddox, Animal Husbandman for A&M University, will be the principal speaker. This should be a meeting of interest to all beef producers. The general public is invited to attend.

If you are interested in greenhouse tomato production, you will want to attend a meeting in Iowa Park on Tuesday, April 9 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the Agriculture Room of the ASCS office. Dr. John Larsen, Horticulturist from A&M University, will be the main speaker. If you also have problems with tomato production in greenhouses, Dr. Larsen will be able to answer your questions. The general public is invited to attend.

Rural communities participating in the Texas Community Improvement Program, sponsored by the Electric Companies of Texas, are to have their record books into the county agent's office by April 5. The district judging will be on the week of April 22.

Feelin' Groovy

The swingers and singers of The Harpers Bizarre play it cool on the "Romp!!" show—the 1968 edition of PepsiCo's salute to youth on ABC-TV.

The Harpers Bizarre aren't the only ones who are feelin' groovy. It's the mood of the moment—the hot new "Romp!!" show, PepsiCo's salute to youth scheduled for April 21 colorcast by ABC-TV.

Stars making the scene include Ryan O'Neal, Michele Lee, Jimmy Durante, Liberace, Glamour Magazine cover girl Lisa Palmer—everyone who's anyone on the teen scene, plus late starters like the show's turned on 74-year-young starlet Pearl Dienes, making her theatrical debut in the wild water Romp segment of the Pepsi-Cola, Frito-Lay special.

What's special about the show itself starts with action that matches the Age of McLuhan to the age called "teen". Romping around the wild new world of fun, the cast cools it in Tokyo, heats up the fashion world with a computer-turned-designer, splashes through Rome's Fountain of Trevi, goes wild aboard the S.S. Oceanic, converts a Pan Am liner into a flying discotheque and generally turns a trend-setting trip into a fun explosion.

While The Harpers Bizarre keeps the music cooking, the young crowd keeps the heat on high—on a go-go-go Kook's Tour of the flip side of the world. The Romping action even boasts a television first: a "soft stage" designed to bounce the cast into orbit.

When it comes to turning on to the new generation, there's nothing like tuning in "Romp!!". It's bound to close the generation gap!

SENATOR RALPH YARBOROUGH'S NEWSLETTER

Next weekend in San Antonio, a Texas dream comes true. This Saturday is HemisFair Day—an important day not just in Texas, but throughout the Americas and all corners of the world.

The opening of HemisFair in San Antonio marks the 250th anniversary of that city, one of the most culturally unique areas of America. It also ends five years of hard work by many San Antonio residents, by our state government at Austin and by us Texans here in Congress.

The idea of a world's fair in San Antonio is not new. It was first advanced in 1916 by then-U.S. Senator Morris Sheppard, but unfortunately World War I intervened and the fair never took place.

But the idea did not die, and along about five years ago it cropped up again. Two years later, my staff and I wrote the first HemisFair bill. We gave it to Congressman Henry B. Gonzalez to introduce in the House of Representatives, and I introduced the bill in the Senate.

In the five years since the idea began circulating, many millions of dollars have been drawn together from city, local, state and federal tax sources. We had some close shaves here in Congress getting the money we needed for HemisFair in the fall of 1965. The House of Representatives approved the bill and it came to the Senate. Action had to be taken at once if the fair was to receive official sanctioning by the Bureau of International Expositions (BIE) and become a truly international fair. Senator Tower and I worked closely together—and we succeeded.

But 1966 was still tough. We needed funds for a U.S. Pavilion, but it was difficult to get money because of these times. I went before the Senate Appropriations Committee and the Foreign Relations Committee and was able to win friends for HemisFair. The Senate approved $7½ million, but unfortunately the House cut it to $6.75 million. Congressman Gonzalez tried hard to hold the line, but the House cut the money back anyway. We had to take the smaller appropriation.

Nevertheless, the $6.75 million has proven ample for a very fine U.S. pavilion. This pavilion promises to be the highlight of the 92-acre fairgrounds. And last week President Johnson appointed Ambassador Edward Clark of Austin as U.S. Commissioner to the fair, the highest office relating to the fair.

HemisFair will have tremendous impact on Texas, and give our state a new image around the world. Others will find out that there's a culture and a feeling in Texas that the whole world can enjoy.

CITY CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN SET MARCH 15 TO APRIL 30

The city-wide campaign to be held from March 15 to April 30 this year, will be of the same magnitude of the campaign held three years ago. Sponsored by the Jaycees in cooperation with the Community Service Council as coordinators, the assistance of all the local clubs—Ladies Clubs and Civic Clubs—will do much to help insure the success of the clean-up.

The Jaycees will have planned routes in each section of the city and each section will be cleaned up by one of the clubs.

If you have large items to get rid of, save them until the last week of the campaign. That is the week in which the trucks will be used to haul away such excess collections.

Everyone is urged to assist in beautifying Burkburnett, by doing their bit during the clean-up. If each citizen tends his own little bit of area, then the program cannot help but become a vast success.

If you require further information contact any Jaycee. If you know no member of that organization, then call Billy Mize, president, 569-3412 or

Stop Swallowing Communist Bait

WHAT has made it possible for the Communists to make such great inroads in American Society?

1. "McCarthyism" is a term first used by the Communist paper Worker. It was adopted by well-meaning patriotic Americans and applied as a smear word to anyone who attempted to reveal the way, manner and extent to which Communists were worming their way into government, education, universities, churches, mass media and other phases of American life.

2. Judges have leaned over backwards to make sure that no injustice was done to Communists. Many who had been convicted were released from prison, and such lenience was shown that it became very difficult to convict others.

3. The slogan "Police Brutality," coined by the Communists, has been taken up and repeated by good people, making it very difficult to suppress Communist-inspired rioting, looting and lawlessness.

4. Sentimentalism has been overdone to the point where a large section of the public seems to have more sympathy for the criminal than for his victim.

5. A false sympathy for the wrongdoer has led the judicial department of our government to throw so many safeguards around those suspected of crime, that it has become almost impossible for our police officers to obtain convictions.

6. This false sentimentality has led to so much criticism of our police officers as to amount to intimidation.

7. Deceived by those who would exploit the universities and the churches to exaggerate the race problem, many good people have been led to join in racial protests, demonstrations and rioting that were very largely inspired by and carried on to the benefit of Communism.

For these and many other reasons we are now facing a full-scale effort on the part of the Communists to mount a revolution in our country, designed to seize power. We may laugh at it as the Germans did at Hitler, but it is deadly serious, and a calm appraisal of the situation leads one to conclude that they have made far more progress in the last ten years than even the most fearful person could have foreseen. It's time to stop swallowing the Communist bait and to expose, punish and overthrow criminal action, treasonable utterances, Marxist teachings in the schools and universities, and the whole Communist line wherever it appears.

HURRICANE SAFETY

The Southern Pine Association, which has investigated the after-effects of every major hurricane to strike the U. S. mainland during the last 40 years, offers these safety suggestions:

1) The floor structure—vital link between house and foundation—should be solidly bolted to foundation walls.

2) Adequate nailing and proper nail-holding power in structural materials are all-important. The structural framework that holds the home together should be formed with properly seasoned, preshrunk lumber. Nails will not loosen in preshrunk lumber as they do when unseasoned framing dries in service.

Think you are pretty good with a shotgun? Only seven perfect scores of 100 have been posted in the Grand American Handicap at Vandalia, Ohio, since trap was started 67 years ago.

RESTAURANTS UP AND DOWN—Visitors to HemisFair can dine with both feet on the ground or at the top of the 622-foot Tower of the Americas. The canopy food cluster above is one of several food sections on the 92.6-acre grounds, offering appetizing items from every land.

LIBRARY CORNER

Teenagers first this week. The prolific and versatile Isaac Asimov, known to science students and science fiction readers, is writing history books for the younger set. Hot off the press is The Roman Empire, history not only painless but fascinating. A different and interesting book in the junior section is Museum. The Story of America's Treasure Houses. It includes chapters on specific types of museums and even one about museum careers. For teenage girls we have A Time of Growing, a collection of stories by 18 well-known authors. And if there is still a member of the "Mother Goose" set in your home, you will enjoy The Annotated Mother Goose with history and explanations of nursery rhymes. Maybe the kids won't care, but have you ever wondered why Jack jumped over the candlestick?

We have two new books on model making. One is a junior book, A Beginner's Guide to Building and Flying Airplanes. The other, Model Making, a more comprehensive and complicated manual, covers cars, trucks, boats and planes.

Outdoors USA, the Yearbook of Agriculture, 1967, is divided into 4 sections—The Big Woods, Water, Beautification and The Countryside. If you are planning a trip, you will enjoy the information in this book. It is also a good "idea" book for homeowners, garden clubs, farmers and youth workers.

DEVOL DOERS HOLD MEETING

Meeting was called to order by Linda Adams. During the business session Linda Adams resigned her post as President of the club. Joann Adams assumed the duties as President. Wanda Adams was elected Vice-President and Barbara McCasland was elected reporter to serve the club the remainder of the year.

Miss Barbara Miles gave the lesson on clothing, which included the different lines of clothing.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Wanda Jean Adams to the following members: Linda Adams, Linda Head, Wanda Adams, Joann Adams, Barbara McCasland and guest, Miss Miles.

The next meeting will be April 9.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

The best time to file your income tax return is NOW. (If you filed on the first day of January, congratulations!) The good tax people feel that the 1/3 of the taxpayers who wait until midnight hour on April 15 to file tax returns make many more errors than the early filers. Since these taxpayers cost themselves money by forgetting valuable deductions, you may find the advice of the friendly tax collector worth listening to.

Boomtown Cafe Scene Of Fire

Fire recently gutted this ceiling in the Boomtown Cafe, during the early morning hours. The damage was estimated at $6,000. The building is owned by Mr. Joe Crowley of Wichita Falls and was leased by Orville Rozzell, operator of the Ranchouse Cafe on Avenue D. Rozzell estimated damage to his equipment at approximately $2,000.

Smoldering fire, hidden from view of firemen, kept the volunteers busy long after the main blaze had been stilled. Here, firemen watch a suspect portion of the ceiling of the Boomtown Cafe, for further sparks. Cause of the blaze is unknown.

NEW RECORD

New York — The United States set a new oil-producing record of 3.2 billion barrels in 1967, retaining its title as the world's leading oil producer. The publication Oil Facts says daily oil output in the U. S. averaged nearly 8.8 million barrels during 1967. The nation's nearest rivals are the Soviet Union with an estimated 5.7 million barrels a day and Venezuela with 3.5 million barrels daily.

VIETNAM: TAKING STOCK

Enough time has now passed since the enemy's Tet Offensive for us to take stock again of how things stand in Vietnam. And, because there is increasing political activity here at home—replete with elaborate references to Vietnam—I think it's important for Texans to keep as up to date as possible.

I believe it should be clear now that the Tet Offensive did not spell our doom as some claimed then and continue to claim. Faced with losses of more than 40,000 personnel during that offensive the enemy has not been able to follow up the temporary advantage which surprise gave him. The situation seems to me similar to that at the time of World War II's Battle of the Bulge—we had some grave worries then, too, and we took severe losses—but in the end the strategic defeat was the enemy's.

I believe that after the Tet Offensive the enemy's immediate plan was to crush and capture our base at Khe Sanh, turning our flank and sweeping in behind U.S. and South Vietnamese forces at the DMZ. By this strategy the North Vietnamese hoped to win control of the whole northern sector of South Vietnam. The enemy figured that if he could do that American public opinion at home would force us to give up.

But the enemy did not drive us out of Khe Sanh, and the evidence is increasingly clear that he cannot do so. In fact, the valor of our Marines and of the South Vietnamese Rangers there — and the pinpoint effectiveness of our B-52 bombings—may well have forced the enemy to abandon his original Khe Sanh plan altogether.

At the very least the enemy has been forced to regroup and reassess—perhaps to consider shifting his pressure southward into more difficult, mountainous areas.

I find evidence that we have regained the military initiative. The Allies are on the offensive again.

Nevertheless, enemy infiltration of troops continues high from his privileged sanctuaries and further decisive battles lie between this time and any time of constructive peace negotiations.

I continue to feel, as you know I have for many months, that there are better steps we could be taking to provide us a reasonable hope of success in a reasonable time. I have been, for instance, pleased with the successful introduction into combat of the first F-111 attack bombers built at Fort Worth.

I've talked to the pilots and carefully followed development of the F-111. And, I know it can tremendously increase the effectiveness of our air power in Southeast Asia.

I hope introduction of this advanced aircraft is an indication that we are going to take other steps to bring the military side of the conflict to a successful conclusion.

I, also, think the President has acted in both a wise and a timely manner in appointing General Westmoreland as Chief of Staff of the Army.

I know General Westmoreland has operated under some Washington-generated restrictions as Vietnam commander, and I expect he is in a better position than any other man to help in reassessment of those restrictions when he, himself, comes to the Washington end of the command channel.

I just want to add my hope that Texans will listen carefully to public comment on Vietnam and will sort the facts out from the rhetoric.

For instance, I have heard it inferred that the South Vietnamese army did not fight at Dak To or at Khe Sanh. I was at Dak To on the day Hill 875 was captured, and I know how well South Vietnamese fought in that battle. I know, too, that the South Vietnamese Rangers in the Khe Sanh base camp have acquitted themselves with distinction.

I also have heard it inferred recently that while America drafts 18 and 19-year-olds, South Vietnam does not.

Let's get those facts straight, too.

South Vietnam not only is drafting physically fit 19-year-olds, but will by May 1 have all of them in the armed services. Then, South Vietnam will begin drafting 18-year-olds.

It must also be understood that under the Oriental method of computing age a South Vietnamese is one year older on New Year's Day regardless of what day of the year he was born. Because of this, many South Vietnamese men subject to the draft are physically younger — by up to a year — than their chronological age as listed by Western standards.

Thus the drafting of 18 or 19-year-old South Vietnamese often is the equivalent of drafting 17 and 18-year-old Americans.

The facts of the draft are, not that South Vietnam is doing less than the United States, but that she is doing more.

It is such complex situations as this which demand that Texans keep their wits about them as they listen to the continuing Vietnam debate.

LET'S TALK ABOUT FATS — PART 2

Last week we talked about fats in the diet — but there's much more to say. So here's a second chapter on that subject:

From advertising, and discussions of possible relationships between diet and heart disease, fats have gained a certain notoriety. Particularly, the public now hears a great deal about saturated fats and unsaturated fats. Actually, it isn't enough, nutritionally, to distinguish between saturated and unsaturated fats because there are varying degrees of saturation in all fats.

Fats which are solid at room temperature are mostly saturated fatty acids but still they contain some unsaturated fatty acids as well. The reverse is true of liquid oils although they are known and advertised mainly for their content of unsaturated fatty acids. Generally speaking, saturated fats come from foods of animal origin; unsaturated fats are vegetable fats and oils, though coconut oil, notably, is an exception and is highly saturated.

More Hydrogen Atoms

However, the real difference between saturated and unsaturated fatty acids is that saturated fats contain more hydrogen atoms than unsaturated. When liquid oils are used to make a spread which is solid at room temperature, they have to be "hardened" through hydrogenation. This is a process whereby the saturation of the fatty acids is increased. This makes relatively unsaturated fats more like saturated fats.

Chemists have not yet found out all that happens to a fat or oil during such processing. How the body utilizes some of the fatty products formed during hydrogenation is not known.

The general public and particularly weight watchers have sometimes assumed, because of hearsay and inaccurate advertising claims, that salad oils may be better for them than, say, butter. This is an odd conclusion since liquid oils are 100 percent fat but butter is only 82 percent fat, plus salt and water. Salad or cooking oils supply roughly nine calories per gram, 42 per teaspoon. Butter is seven calories per gram, or only about 33 per teaspoon.

Authorities Disagree

With respect to the idea that fats may have something to do with heart disease, eminent nutrition authorities still disagree vehemently on whether there is a relationship or not. To find out, a vast Federally-sponsored $50 million project has been proposed to study perhaps 100,000 men. If it will take that many subjects and about five years' time to determine whether controlling blood cholesterol will in fact reduce heart disease, we are, in my opinion, a long way from conclusive answers.

One point, however, on which all authorities agree is the belief that all Americans probably eat too many calories from all sources. Thus, they advise cutting down your fat consumption somewhat. Authorities also agree that heart disease is not a single cause ailment — that many factors, even if diet is one of them, help to cause heart disease. These include smoking, lack of exercise, heredity, high blood pressure, and stress.

Not Enough Known Yet

While answers are awaited, two of the most eminent judges of nutrition matters, the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council and the American Medical Association Council on Foods and Nutrition, agree that not enough is yet known to warrant drastic changes in the American diet for the general public.

Cub Pack 155 Holds Pack Meet In Town Hall

The March Pack meeting for Pack 155 was held in the Town Hall, Monday, March 25th.

Cub Master Larry Dimarizo opened the program by leading the pledge to the flag.

Mr. Clendenon gave the opening prayer which was followed by a song, "Row, Row, Row Your Boat," from Mrs. West's, Den 2. Mrs. Ladd and Mrs. Lupori did a fine job directing the boys and the harmony was just great.

Mrs. Shipman, Den 4 gave a skit pertaining to the theme, "Rivers of the World. Each boy picked a river and gave a brief description of it. Nice job, fellows.

Awards were presented to the following boys: Kevin Shipman, Wolf Patch; Eddie Turner, Wolf Patch and Gold Arrow Point; Randy Allen, Wolf Patch; Recruiters Patch went to James Lupori, Steven Pabst, and Steven Hamilton, for bringing new members into the pack. Steven Hamilton received his Denner's Bar and Steven Pabst his Assistant Denner's Bar.

A graduation ceremony was given for Webelo Mike Willard who joins Boy Scout Troop 154. Webelo Leader Roy Mahaffey awarded Mike his Arrow of Light and Mike presented his mother with the Mother's Pin. Cubmaster Larry Dimarizo presented Mike with his graduation certificate. On hand to welcome him into Troop 154 were Scoutmaster, Markowitz and Scout John Allen.

A Special Award was given to Mrs. Hamilton and Den 1 for selling the most combs during a recent money making project. Den 1 sold 100 combs and are still selling them. An "Honor Den" Plaque was presented to Mrs. Hamilton by the Cubmaster and the Den Leader Coach, Mrs. Scruggs, then gave each boy a Neckerchief Slide to carve. Mrs. Hamilton received a Cub Scout mechanical pencil to record her future sales. Pack 155 is real proud of Den 1. They have lived up to the Cub Scout Motto, "Do Your Best." Congratulations, Boys.

Following the awards was a skit by Mrs. Scruggs, depicting a typical phone conversation between two mothers; one good and one not so good in the promotion of scouting. Sorry some of you missed this. In fact, we missed quite a few of the boys and their parents this time. Come on parents, let's support our boys and help their Den win the attendance award. Mrs. Shipman's Den 4 won the attendance award pennant for the second time in a row. One more time and they will get to keep it.

If you have trouble remembering the Pack meeting date, please circle the 4th MONDAY OF EVERY MONTH. Next meeting will be April 22nd at 7:30 P. M. AT TOWN HALL. Refreshments were provided by Den 1 and coffee, Kool-Aid and cookies were served.

Pack 155 wishes everyone a very HAPPY EASTER and will be looking forward to seeing you April 22nd at Town Hall.

If there is a difference between the figures and the words for the amount of the check, the written amount is generally followed.

OUR USE OF LEISURE

None of us can make our best contribution to life unless we take care of our physical selves. The right kind of recreation renews the body, mind, and spirit.

There should be a proper balance and rhythm between work and rest. Our Lord meant for us to enjoy life and intended no man to punish his body with unrelieved work.

Of course our recreation should be of a kind that would actually re-create our spirits and bodies and make us better able to perform our work.

Part of our leisure time should be spent renewing our spirit by worshiping God in His Church. We invite you to attend services this week.

"But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." Isaiah 40:31.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

NEW WATER SYSTEMS HELP RURAL AREAS

The benefits of modern water service has been brought to more than 4,000 people in Wichita, Archer and Clay counties the past four years through projects financed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration, FHA County Supervisor Charles M. McGilvray said today.

McGilvray reported on contributions made to this tri-county development by the Ruray Community Facilities program since it was expanded two years ago with President Johnson's support. Loans and grants totaling over one and one-half million dollars since July, 1965 have financed new water systems in eleven area communities. These communities include Windthorst, Wichita Valley Farms, Valley View, Kamay, Kadane Corner, Dean, Friberg, Thornberry, Jolly, Cameron Gardens and Charlie.

A constant, clean supply of water at the turn of a tap has been achieved for approximately 1,000 family homes, businesses and institutions served by the new water lines, McGilvray reported. Community improvement and growth is reflected by the fact that a number of new homes have been built, new businesses established and increased enrollment in schools since the new water service has come to these communities.

Two new recreational centers are planned for the area in the immediate future. The Archer City Country Club and the Clay County Recreational Association are both working on plans which will serve approximately 250 families.

Texas Parks More Popular
Texas has more camping and cookout facilities in state parks this year than ever before.

A magic show, featuring a combination of live and filmed techniques, will be housed in the Pavilion's theatre. The building will also include an exhibit area of about 3,500 square feet.

All Signs Lead to Safety

Distaff members of The Spurlows demonstrate their mission of safety, an important part of the "Muscle for Modern Americans" revue under Chrysler Corporation sponsorship. The musical-safety attraction will have spanned more than 65,000 miles by the end of June, playing to high school students in 36 states and 21 capitals. 2 1/2 million teenagers in over 2,000 high schools have been the recipients of the Spurlows' show during the past three years. According to Ralph Harris, Chrysler's Director of Driver Education Programs, the production (band, glee club, choreography, sketches) has motivated a 40% greater awareness of driver education and highway safety.

County H-D Agent News

New developments in the clothing and textiles field make an experimental approach not only more sensible but in many cases necessary in home sewing.

The home seamstress has available a constantly widening variety of fabrics, some so new no one has handled them enough to answer questions. Manufacturers usually offer reliable suggestions for working with the new fabrics, but not enough to answer all questions. Her answer is to experiment. Miss Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

Recent years have brought many new techniques in construction. Variety in clothing design or changes in fashion bring a need for different techniques to achieve a certain look. There are no ready-made answers, so experiment, suggests Miss Wirges.

The varieties of fabrics and their characteristics available offer innumerable problems. How to handle ease in the stable fabrics and retain the give in others is best answered by experimenting. Some fabrics may call for modification of the pattern or an entirely different choice of pattern.

Experiment in sewing shows that the answer to a problem depends upon a number of variables and often a combination of two methods is best. Often there is no best way of doing such techniques as making bound button-holes, zipper applications or applying facings. The sewer would use the method that most readily gives the desired result in view of the many variables.

Experimentation can convince the sewer there is no rigid simple answer but she must choose in light of the desired result, fabric characteristics, time available and her own skill.

Twenty-five homemakers have just completed a workshop on sewing skills. The workshop was planned by the Wichita County Clothing Committee. Mrs. John Loftin is the committee chairman. Another workshop will be held in the Fall. To get your name on a list for complete information contact Miss Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent or Mrs. Lofton.

Vinyl wall coverings have gained wide acceptance in both residential and commercial installations. They are durable and versatile in design and require minimum care.

But consumers ask: are vinyl wall coverings worth the added cost?

The answer depends on wear-quality needed for the wall, says Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

Because of the high initial cost and long lasting qualities, higher priced fabric-backed vinyl would probably not be a sound investment for a room that is redecorated every few years, or in an apartment or house you may move out of after a short time. You would pay for much more durability than you would ever use.

It would cost from $65 to $100 to cover 500 square feet of wall with fabric-backed vinyl wall covering. The estimate allows for matching and for error, but does not include the cost of labor. To cover the same area with a vinyl-coated wallpaper would cost between $10 and $45, and ordinary wallpaper would cost between $10 and $45, and ordinary wallpaper could run as low as $7.50.

In further comparison, enough paint to cover the same walls would cost between $3 and $8, depending on type of paint used.

Vinyl wall coverings backed with fabric are to ordinary wallpaper what vinyl floor coverings are to linoleum. They are more durable, more resistant to soiling and mildew and easier to clean. While they are relatively expensive, they ordinarily will take years of wear and washing without losing their original appearance.

Fabric-backed vinyl covering can be used wherever wallpaper is appropriate, and in many places where wallpaper is not suitable. But, wallpaper could prove just as effective on walls that do not receive as much abuse or dirt.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Hamlin have done an excellent job with paper in their home. Mrs. Hamlin is serving as a demonstrator for her home demonstration club.

Of all the minutes of the day, we think we most enjoy those between the morning alarm and the time we get out of bed.

C'mon In, The Water's Fine!

The water's cool and the music's hot as the swinging teen scene "Romps" into high. Ryan O'Neal and colorful cast get into the swim on April 21, on ABC-TV salute to youth.

Think young is think fun as the swinging teens who made last year's "Go!!!" show the hit of the hip generation get back into the swim on a musical "Romps!!!" where the action is... scheduled for ABC-TV on April 21.

The color tribute to the new generation—sponsored by Pepsi-Cola, Inc., for its Pepsi-Cola and Frito-Lay Divisions—takes a mod look at tomorrow's version of fun. That's fun spelled with a capital "R"—as hosts Ryan O'Neal and Michele Lee take a galaxy of guests on a Romp around the brave young world of fashion, fads and fantasy.

In a wild water Romp, guest star James Darren gets into the swim aboard the S.S. Oceanic—the luxury cruise ship that was turned over to today's lively youngsters for a televised tour to Nassau and the Bahamas. While The Harpers Bizarre sets the bikini beat, the Romping crew sets everything spinning—even the compass—in a topsyturvy trip of tourist-land.

Water sports are just one of the fun features on the new "Romps!!!" show. Swinging with the top pop stars, viewers take a look at the new game rage "Sakitumi" (pronounced sock-it-to-me), and a roaring musical ride around California's dating grounds on a Girl Wagon "manned" by seven shapely mechanics named Happy, Sleepy, Sneezy, Doc, Dopey... and Sharon.

It's all in the spirit of wild, way-out fun... when ABC goes on the "Romps!!!"
