HOW GOOD - NOT HOW MUCH

Space exploration is an awesome mystery to most of us. While it may sound farfetched, today's pioneering efforts in space may be the salvation of our civilization — salvation wholly apart from the military aspect of space probes.

A few business leaders are only too well aware of the impact of the space program on our daily lives. One of the most discerning of these leaders has been the head of a major company that is both one of the biggest contractors in defense and space activities and a leading manufacturer of diversified products for the commercial market. He is Mr. W. F. Rockwell, Jr., chairman of the board of North American Rockwell Corporation.

As one who speaks from firsthand experience, Mr. Rockwell observes that technological achievement is "in danger of outrunning the nation's moral and spiritual capacity." He believes technology is accelerating change to a degree that "... trying to make sense of change will come to be our basic industry. ... The question about progress will be 'how good?' rather than 'how much.'"

Measured by sheer technical accomplishments, the space effort is bringing benefits far outweighing dollars and cents costs. Again in Mr. Rockwell's words, "The nation's space program has brought about more than 22,000 products and techniques that did not exist just ten years ago. Coupled with military requirements, the space program has paved the way for the fight against such problems as air and water pollution, the population explosion, and the depletion of natural resources." Yes, the big question about space exploration is not whether it is worthwhile, but whether we can grow rapidly enough as civilized human beings to absorb the benefits of the technological changes it is bringing with it.

AN IMPORTANT DAY

A few years ago, a U. S. Supreme Court Justice is credited with remarking that if the Bill of Rights were to be voted on today, he doubted that it would pass. The Bill of Rights, like the rest of the U. S. Constitution and other great documents that came into being during the formation of our country, are the basis of all that has been accomplished in the United States in the past two centuries. We will shortly be commemorating the adoption of one of the greatest of these documents — the Declaration of Independence.

In 1776, the American colonies declared their independence from Great Britain. And so began "the great experiment" in self government. As we approach another July 4, we should not let the tumult of the purposeless dissenters blind us to the everlasting need of preserving the spirit and form of the political system that was bequeathed to us by our forefathers. One of the troubles today is that we have lived within the protection of that system for so long that we have lost an awareness of what it means in terms of personal liberty and opportunity. We have never known royal oppression, nor degrading class stratification by birth. We are not subjects. We are citizens. And as citizens with due regard for the rights of others, we are free to speak and act as our conscience dictates and to advance in life as far as our abilities permit. Our homes are our castles.

These things began with the Declaration of Independence and that is why July 4 is a mighty important day, whether we realize it or not.

Americans consume more than 30 million pounds of beef, veal, pork and lamb annually, twice as much as any other country, according to "The Kansas Restaurant." That's about 170 pounds per person. Since 1937, meat output has doubled to provide a population — which has increased by one-third — with 45 more pounds of meat per person. This larger amount of meat costs each of us an average of less than five per cent of disposable income, leaving 95 per cent for purchase of other goods and services. We get more meat for a smaller part of our paycheck than ever before.

Mr. Walter Bouldin, president of the Alabama Power Company as noted: "You may consider your electric service fairly reliable. If so, you are correct. On an average it is about 99.98 per cent reliable — somewhat better than the famous soap — and tens of thousands of us in our business are making every effort to improve that percentage."

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Health Insurance Institute, 277 Park Ave., N. Y., N. Y., 10017

Q. It seems that I am forever reading that medical care costs keep going up faster than anything else. This perplexes me, and frankly, I wonder why it should. Is there any reason for the continual spiral?

A. There are many reasons. First let us say that the rise in medical care costs is not new. Increases have been registered in that category each year since 1939, although the steepest rises took place in 1966 and 1967. (Incidentally, U. S. government and private studies indicate that these costs will continue to rise, at least through the early 1970's.)

The U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare gives these reasons for the climbing costs: (1) population increase, creating greater utilization of medical facilities and personnel; (2) higher wages for hospital employees whose incomes were depressed in the past and are now "catching up" with other types of employment; (3) increased costs of modern, more sophisticated and complex scientific medical equipment; (4) general inflationary pressures; (5) the widely-held conviction that every American should have access to quality medical care; and (6) broader insurance coverage and usage.

Rising medical costs provide the best reason for checking your health insurance at least once a year to make sure its provisions are in line with local hospital, medical, and surgical costs. Discuss your coverage with your insurance agent or the personnel office at the firm where you work, or with your union representative.

"Oh, please don't," she cried. "It's all I can do to eat what I pay for now."

McCarter Infant's Graveside Rites Held Wednesday

Graveside services for John A. McCarter, infant son of Sgt. and Mrs. Michael M. Carter of Burkburnett, were at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Burkburnett Cemetery. Burial was under direction of Owens & Brumley Funeral Home.

The child died Saturday in a Wichita Falls hospital.

Survivors, in addition to his parents, include a sister, Lorraine, and a brother, Michael R. II, both of the home.

A cynic stopped before a grave in a cemetery which had a tombstone declaring: "Here lies a lawyer and an honest man."

"Who'd ever think," he murmured, "there'd ever be room for two men in that one little grave."

THE STRIPERS ARE RUNNING!

"The stripers are running!" The excited voice on the other end of the phone belonged to Al Ristori, one of the East's most devoted striped bass anglers. Around Pleasant Bay, Cape Cod, it has become something of a tradition that Al captures one of the largest stripers every season. Last year he outdid himself, hauling in a 61-pounder, the third largest striped bass ever landed in the area.

Now Al is inviting me to join him in this year's first outing. The striped bass is unquestionably the most popular gamefish among saltwater anglers on the East coast. It may be found anywhere from the Gulf Coast to Maine and, being anadromous, flourishes in fresh and brackish waters, preferring bays, deltas and rivers. On the West coast, stripers have a substantial following, particularly in the San Francisco Bay area. In several Southeast states, it exists as a landlocked form, and offers interesting freshwater fishing opportunities.

It was a clear, crisp early June morning along the rocky coast of Cape Cod. A brisk ocean breeze blew in with the rising tide, bringing with it a chilly reminder of the long winter past.

Al and I each have our favorite tackle combinations so I was a little surprised to see that we had similar surfcasting rigs: the powerful Mitchell 402 spinning reel with fast retrieve, and Conolon 2554 rod — a 10-foot, medium action beauty. We were using 20-pound test Bonnyl monofilament and two and one-half ounce Egon lures. Egons are designed for long, easy casting and are shiny, provocative attractions for salt-water fighters.

It's difficult to figure the stripers feeding patterns during their migrations. They are most erratic, and seem preoccupied with their travels.

About an hour of working the surf did nothing more than take the kinks out of our casting techniques. The tide was in, the sea reasonably calm, and bait-fish seemed abundant. But no stripped bass.

Squinting into the morning sun, I noticed a flock of graceful, busy terns sweeping the water perhaps a half-mile from shore. These handsome birds have proved to be accurate guides to where the fish are, and I have seldom been disappointed following their lead.

We took to our 12-foot aluminum boat which is usually found on top of Al's car. He considers it as essential to his travels as a spare tire.

As we approached the area being worked by the terns, we could see the water boiling with active stripers of four to 10 pounds. And every so often, a lunker of 20 pounds would roll over on the surface just daring us to come and get him.

Here's where Al and I parted company on tackle. I was ready with a Mitchell 410 spinning reel loaded with 10-pound test Bonnyl, and Conolon 2556 light action rod. I stayed with the Egon, employing the one ounce version. Al went with the popular Ambassador 5000C baitcasting reel, Conolon 2529 rod, 15-pound Bonnyl, and a white lead-head jig.

We knew we had to fish fast. At most we had a half-hour before the fish would sound. Stripers, often choosy about the lures they will strike, went for everything we threw at them. We reeled in fish after fish — no lunkers, but plenty of five and six pounders. Then suddenly, they were gone. The bubbling Atlantic was now still, lapping peacefully against our boat. The terns resumed their watchful perch along the shore.

Build Wall Storage With Garage Panels

Is your car homeless? Left out in the driveway because the garage is so cluttered with tires, tools, garden supplies, out-of-season furniture and sports equipment that there's no space left to park?

There is a way to make cars and storage compatible. It's done by using the garage walls for storage and clearing the floor for the car.

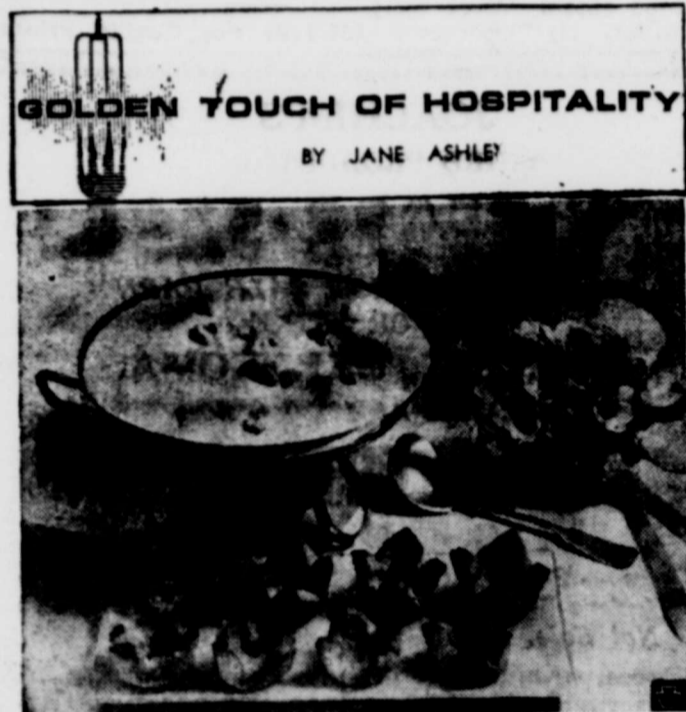

Turning wasted wall space into storage areas is simple. Just install perforated hardboard panels over open studs or on 1-by-2-inch furring strips. One-eighth inch thick sheets, or 1/4 inch heavy-duty panels can be used. Perforations in the panels will hold hooks and heavy-duty fittings from which you can hang a variety of items—garden hoses, ladders, folding chairs, barbecue stands, sleds and skis, even heavy-duty mowers and lawn rollers. Paraphernalia such as paint cans, boxes, jars and papers you're collecting for the scrap drive can be neatly stored on shelves mounted on wall brackets.

Sturdy hardboard panels come in many sizes, including standard 4 by 8 feet. They resist dents, won't crack or splinter, are lightweight, and can be worked with ordinary carpentry tools. For extra-heavy duty, use the tempered variety.

Perforated hardboard panels can be applied to studs or furring strips with nails, screws or special cartridge-type waterproof adhesives. For best results, don't butt the panels too closely together. Leave the space of a matchbook cover between to allow for natural expansion.

In addition to creating organized storage space and making room for the car, perforated panels greatly increase the appearance of a garage. They're available prefinished or ready-to-paint, and in random-grooved and wainscot styles.

For other ideas on using hardboard paneling, send ten cents to SR&A, Dept. HP, Box 3498, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

CROPS PROFIT NOTEBOOK

Non-Cropland Weed Control Is Easy To Achieve

A weed has been defined as a "plant out of place." Certainly there is no place for weeds around farm buildings, obstructing vision along roadsides, absorbing critical moisture along irrigation ditchbanks and making fence lines unsightly.

An easy way to control these "pests" is to apply a spray of Cyrol Liquid Weedkiller or wettable powder Amino Triazole Weedkiller 90, combined with a residual-type herbicide. Cyrol or Amino Triazole is absorbed by the plant for quick kill of the tops of perennial weeds, then works systemically to prevent regrowth. The residual herbicide kills young germinating seedlings to prevent any reinfestation. Thus, one application of this combination provides long-lasting economical weed control.

Top picture shows application of a Cyrol spray to control unsightly weeds along a fence line. Below, a few days later as close to perfect weed control as can be had has been achieved.

This year, farmers "enrolled" in the nation-wide drive to Make America Beautiful will be concerned more than ever with controlling unsightly weeds around their premises.

Relics Of Yesteryear Displayed During Heritage Week In Burk

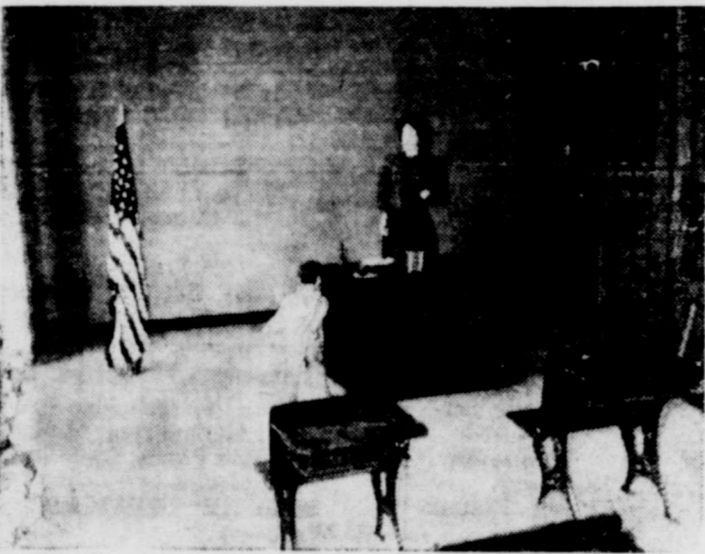

Many local organizations and businesses displayed relics such as dress fashions, hand painted china, old stoves and clocks, in twenty store windows during the observance of Heritage Week, June 8-15. What is heritage? The following poem by Irene Bennett may tell the story.

HERITAGE

ONCE UPON A TIME, THE STORY GOES,
THIS LAND WAS NEW, THE SOIL UNTRIED.
ON THESE ACRES, VAST, UNTAMED
MEN AND WOMEN TOILED ON SIDE BY SIDE.
FARMHOUSES WERE SLOWLY BUILT,
AND BITS OF LAND FENCED IN;
AND WOMEN COOKED AND PASSED THE FOOD
TO THE WEARY TOILING MEN.
LIVESTOCK WAS MADE CAPTIVE,
THE SOD WAS TURNED, THE SOIL MADE FREE
AND WINTERS CAME WITH SNOW AND COLD, AND TOIL WENT ON UNCEASINGLY.
AND FROM THESE YEARS OF ENDLESS TOIL,
THERE BLOSSOMED FORTH IN HISTORY'S PAGE
THE DREAMS OF STURDY PIONEERS — THE STORY OF OUR HERITAGE.

— IRENE BENNETT

This old-time school room was displayed during Heritage Week, June 8-15. It included desks of the period, teacher model and student.

Depicting ladies fashions during the early days of the pioneers, this dress was merely one of the many relics on show during Heritage Week in Burk-burnett.

Stoves, hand painted china and many old pictures were part of the antiques used to help celebrate Heritage Week here. Old lamps and clocks used by pioneers were just a few more of the many items of interest put on display in twenty store windows.

Some of the items of days gone by, the boom days of Burk-burnett, to be seen in store windows during Heritage Week were as follows: The American Business Women's Association constructed a replica of a schoolroom at the turn of the century, complete with teacher and student. The fine display included several antique books. Clippings and pictures of newsworthy events, dating from 1919, were to be seen in the window of Adams Drug Store.

Handmade quilts, one with 128 diamond shaped parts set in large star patterns, and an old-time flower bouquet arrangement were contributed by the Bluebonnet Garden Club. A hot air stove used to heat the second floor of the early home, was shown by the Burk-burnett Study Club. The stove was connected by a pipe from the first floor, allowing the heat to rise to the top floor. The club also put on display other antiques. Women, I am sure, would not wish to return to the 'good old days' when ladies cooked in cast iron pots, such as were exhibited by the Contemporary Study Club.

The organization also brought forth as Heritage reminders, an iron bound trunk, and a canopied bed which had been made in 1868.

Dress fashions of yesteryear are always fun to see and the Current Literature Club provided several, along with pictures of the well known pioneer, J. G. Hardin, and other prominent persons of the times. A fine collection of antique were placed on view by the club, the oldest dating to 1873. Lions Club.

The Junior University Study Club was responsible for displaying the saddle bags of Dr. W. W. Gill, along with other relics.

An old cock book and home remedy book, group pictures of pioneers in the 1910 era, and antique china, were the reminiscent items shown by Pestelwit Cleaners.

Reark Office Supply Store window contained family heirlooms such as family pictures and hand painted china.

The first issue of the 6699 Star, the ancestor of the Burk-burnett Star; early church pictures, scenes depicting the early oil boom, dolls from as far back as 1870, were collected for showing by the Rotary Club.

The Senior Citizens Club contributed a wedding dress worn by a bride over 100 years ago. The club also placed in store windows, a collection of irons, china, glassware, and old musical instruments.

An 83 year old clock, which runs still; a quilt containing hundreds and more, of half-inch squares, and an arithmetic book used in 1885, were the Theta Epsilon Sorority participation in Heritage Week.

A window display on conservation contained mounted game birds and monthly publications of the Texas Park and Wildlife Department. It was arranged by the Unity Garden Club.

Many other items were brought from storage to help recall the days of yore during celebration of Heritage Week, June 8-15; to depict the dreams of pioneers and tell the story of their lives; the story of our heritage.

ORANGE AND GRAPEFRUIT TABLETS?

Orange and grapefruit may one day be served in tablet form. USDA scientists have made the tablets in research conducted to find new uses for citrus.

A farmer bought a horse. After probing it, he gave it some feed. The animal refused to eat. A little later it refused water. The farmer's eye gleamed. "If only this nag's a good worker, what a bargain I've made!"

JUNE DAIRY MONTH

"Nature's most perfect food" takes the spotlight this month as the nation observes for the 32nd consecutive year, June Dairy Month. And, says A. M. Meekma, Extension dairy specialist, milk is better than ever. Take home an extra quart today, suggests Meekma.

A quart of milk per day can supply 100 per cent of your calcium needs; 93 percent of the needed riboflavin; 61 percent of your phosphorus; 49 percent of the protein; 23 percent of the thiamine; 31 percent of vitamin A; 17 percent of ascorbic acid needs in addition to other important nutrients.

"If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea: even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me." Psalms 139:9, 10.

What a wonderful promise. No matter where we go or what we do, God is willing to lead us and is there to help us.

Another comforting scripture recalling God's love toward us is this: "How precious also are thy thoughts unto me, O God! How great is the sum of them! If I should count them, they are more in number than the sand." Psalm 139:17, 18.

It is comforting and pleasant to let our thoughts wing upward to verses like these.

We invite you to read your Bible and attend church this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

County H-D Agent News

Habitual credit-buying, TV guided, hasty 'hopping' American consumer wastes about $920 a year, or 12 per cent of the typical family income.

The largest money waste is in food buying, according to Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent. Potential savings here are estimated at $416 per year for a family of four.

Finance charges, medicines and toiletries, car operation, insurance, home furnishings and clothing all offer possible savings. The waste of family money for a 20-year period is estimated to be enough to pay all college expenses for the family's two children.

Families might do well to investigate ways to save on day-to-day expenses:

Round steak, a popular weekend supermarket special, is a good choice when well trimmed. Meat tenderizers, pounding or pressure cooking can give consumers the best of two worlds—economy and flavor.

Expensive canned fruits like Elberta peaches and Bartlett pears can be bought in cans of chunks and pieces for a fourth less than canned halves; mushroom stems and pieces are much less than buttons. A store's own brand of fruits and vegetables are usually several cents a can less than a "name" brand of the same product, with no difference in quality.

Buy towels and bedsheet irregulars since flaws will not affect either use or wear.

When requesting a new hook-up of electrical power, gas, lights, or water, you usually are charged a deposit. After paying bills for a year, request the deposit back from the utility company which otherwise may hold it indefinitely.

Soft drink bottling plants will sell wholesale by the case to individuals if products are bought in quantity.

Coin-operated dry cleaning machines take much of the load off the dry cleaning budget and are especially useful for blankets, draperies and curtains. Other items should be sent to a regular dry cleaner every fourth time for special care.

Do not shop for food when hungry. Studies show that a consumer might wind up spending a lot more than necessary.

Bank repossession as cars, boats, and camping equipment often are good buys and nearly new. Another advantage is that banks do not change odometers or camouflage a car's defects as a dealer might. Check with banks to see what is available.

Do not rush into a freezer plan. It is ripe confidence field although there are reputable ones. Freezers and carrying charges are often overpriced; food is sometimes of uneven quality.

There's magic in sour cream

Leg of Lamb Good Choice for Several Meals

Sunday's leg of lamb may have considerable meat left on it when the family finishes dinner. Lambs are larger and meatier due to better feeding methods and you, as a home-maker, reap the benefits.

Take that lamb, dice it and use with rice in a well-seasoned mixture for stuffed peppers...excellent for a luncheon dish.

LAMB STUFFED PEPPERS (Makes 6 servings)

- | | |
|--------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 6 large green peppers | 2 tablespoons chopped parsley |
| Boiling water | 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt |
| Salt | Dash pepper |
| 1/4 cup butter | 1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs |
| 1/2 cup sliced onion | 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese |
| 2 cups diced cooked lamb | |
| 1 cup cooked rice | |

Cut thin slice from stem end of peppers, remove seeds and cook covered in small amount of boiling water, 3 to 5 minutes. Drain; sprinkle inside with salt. Cool. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, saute onion until lightly browned. Combine with lamb, rice, parsley, seasoned salt and pepper. Stuff green peppers with mixture. Melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter and combine with bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese; sprinkle over top of each pepper. Bake in 375° (moderate) oven 25 to 40 minutes. Serve with sauce, if desired.

cookery! Dairy-made sour cream has long been a staple in hotel, restaurant and club kitchens presided over by famous chefs.

Use a dairy-made sour cream has increased 42 per cent within the past five years, according to Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent. Its greatest use still is by families and mass-feeding places in the large cities of our nation.

Sour cream is not really sour, it is "cultured".

Lactic acid is the magic ingredient for making sour cream, says the agent. It is added to pasteurized and homogenized light sweet cream resulting in specially controlled sour cream.

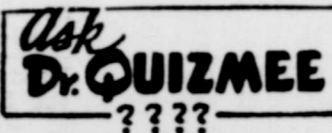

Dairy sour cream may be made smoother and stiffer by whipping slightly but don't overwhip or you'll make butter. Stir dairy sour cream into sauces and gravies at the end of cooking, adding only a tablespoon at a time.

Remember to heat sour cream gently; never boil. Cook sour cream hollandaise type mixture over warm, not boiling water, not over direct heat. These mixtures make sauces for cooked vegetables such as broccoli, cabbage, asparagus and for garnishing vegetables or fruit salads.

Dairy-made cultured sour cream is perishable and should be kept cold until used. Stored in its original, tightly closed container at 35 degrees to 40 degrees F., dairy made cultured sour cream will keep well for two weeks. Do not freeze since it weeps as it thaws.

Dairy-made cream adapts readily to meals the year around. Greatest consumption, however, occurs during warm weather — from April through September. May and June are the months of highest sales when sour cream is used extensively with salads and garden-fresh vegetables.

Dr. Quizmee, our information specialist, is happy to answer his readers' questions in his weekly column. All responses are verified by Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia.

The 25-volume sets of Funk & Wagnalls Standard Encyclopedia go this week: To Grace Carlisle for asking: "Does fog rise from the earth or come down as a cloud?"

Fog is a cloud of condensed water vapor hanging in the atmosphere just over the surface of the earth. It is formed whenever a current of relatively warm, moist air passes over a colder body of land or water. Wind currents can move the fog up, down, or sideways so that it sometimes seems to rise from the earth and sometimes come down as a cloud.

To Thomas Avant for his question: "What is the biggest fish in the oceans or waters of the earth?"

Because the whale itself doesn't count — since it is a mammal, not a fish — the whale shark rates as the largest known fish in existence. It may grow to over 50 feet and weigh more than 26,000 pounds. As large as it is, the whale shark is harmless to man.

To Ruth Hartline who asks: "Do mules ever have offspring?"

A mule is a hybrid offspring of the male donkey and the female horse. Because male mules seem to be constantly sterile there is a mistaken belief that mules cannot have offspring. However, female mules may be successfully mated with a horse or a donkey.

If you are the first to submit a question which appears in this column, you will receive, free, the full 25 volume set of Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia. The writer of this column is the sole judge as to who is first. Mail your question to Dr. Quizmee in care of this newspaper.

New fiction — Pearl Buck's THE NEW YEAR, THE PEPPER GARDEN, DRUMBEAT by Dudley Pope who writes very much like Forester and should appeal to every one who has enjoyed the Hornblower series.

Also RUSSIAN SCIENCE FICTION, an anthology, and many more.

The following have been requested at various times and are now on the shelves AROUND THE WORLD IN 80 DAYS, GREAT EXPECTATIONS, Billy Graham's SECRET OF HAPPINESS; Clifford Beer's MIND THAT FOUND ITSELF. This was first published in 1908 and is the true story of a man who came back after three years in the realm of unreason. Upon his recovery he decided to devote his life to the improvement of institutional care of the insane and started the Mental Hygiene Movement. Also two books on YOGA with exercises and diets suitable to our ways.

For the teen-ager and junior we have over 100 new books to select from including Andre Norton's science fiction and Kjelgaard's animal stories.

"Congratulations, sir—you're cured," said the psychiatrist. "Some cure," said the patient. "Before I was Julius Caesar. Now I'm a nobody."

IT'S COMING AUGUST 2

Direct Distance Dialing For Burkburnett

DIRECT Distance Dialing will be introduced to all telephone users here at 8:00 a.m. on August 2.

With Direct Distance Dialing — "DDD" — you will be able to dial your long distance station-to-station calls direct, as easily as local calls.

Fast — Convenient — Easy

To dial a DDD call, here's all you do: If the area code is the same as yours — 817 — just dial "1," then the telephone number. For example, to call "332-8211" in Fort Worth (area code 817), you would dial:

1 . . . 332-8211
DDD Telephone Code Area Code Number

If the area code is different from 817, dial "1," then the area code, then the telephone number. For example, to call "227-3744" in Houston (area code 713), you would dial:

1 . . . 713 . . . 227-3744
DDD Houston Telephone Code Area Code Number

DDD puts the nation at your fingertips. Just a few quick spins of the telephone dial and you can reach virtually any telephone you want throughout the United States and Canada.

You need not call the long distance operator because you dial out-of-town numbers yourself, direct from your own telephone.

DDD — A Big Job

Bringing DDD to this city is a big, complex job, requiring a lot of work and planning. We will keep you informed as the work progresses.

WE are glad to bring DDD to telephone users here. It is an important step in our continuing effort to provide you with the finest, most efficient and up-to-date telephone service to be found anywhere.

The Unexpected Guest
by Betty Crocker

Now here's a challenge. It's 6:00 o'clock, the chops are cooking—then Dad calls and he's bringing a guest for dinner. Problem: how do you stretch one chop per person into a company-style dinner? Solution: you bake a batch of beautiful biscuits and take the emphasis off the meat shortage. Or serve pretty Parker House Rolls, piping-hot with lots of butter, and let them steal the show. Or when the menu's based on spaghetti, salad or soup, do as the Romans do and serve buttery bread sticks. It's a foolproof strategy. Tempting hot breads make even a budget meal look like a banquet—and you, a homey hostess. Here's your double-quick formula.

ROLLED BISCUITS
2 cups New Bisquick
1/2 cup cold water
Heat oven to 450°. Stir ingredients with fork to a soft dough. Gently smooth dough into a ball on floured cloth-covered board. Knead 5 times. Roll 1/2 inch thick. Cut with 2-inch floured cutter. Bake on ungreased baking sheet 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 10 to 12 biscuits.

Quick Parker House Rolls: Follow recipe for Rolled Biscuits (above) except—roll dough 1/4 inch thick and cut with 2 1/2-inch biscuit cutter. Brush each round lightly with melted butter and fold in half, pressing edges together. Place rolls close together in ungreased 9x1 1/2-inch round layer or 9x9 1/2-inch square pan. Makes 12 to 16.

Butter Sticks: Heat oven to 450°. Melt 1/2 cup butter or margarine in oblong pan, 13x9-x2 inches. Follow recipe for Rolled Biscuits (left) except—roll dough into rectangle, 10x6 inches. Cut lengthwise in half. Cut each half into 12 strips, each about 3/4 inch wide. Dip each stick in melted butter to coat all sides; arrange in pan. Bake 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 24 sticks.

More speedy secrets: Serve a tray of crisp relicts with the before dinner beverages... Convert a peach into a fancy dessert with a dollop of sour cream and sprinkling of brown sugar... Keep a well-stocked emergency shelf and you're always ready for the unexpected.

THE LAND AROUND US... by THOMPSON

WEEDS HAVE BEEN A NUISANCE TO MAN SINCE EARLY HISTORY, WHEN HE CEASED TO BE A NOMAD AND SETTLED DOWN IN ONE SPOT TO RAISE HIS FOOD.

THE MOST PRIMITIVE METHODS OF WEED CONTROL—CRUDE TOOLS AND HAND-PULLING—ARE STILL USED IN SOME PARTS OF THE WORLD, AND ARE SADLY INEFFECTIVE IN PROTECTING FOOD CROPS.

AMONG THE CHEMICAL WEED CONTROLS USED IN THE 19th CENTURY WAS COMMON SALT. COPPER SULFATE AND SULFURIC ACID CAME INTO USE AROUND THE TURN OF THE CENTURY. UNFORTUNATELY, THESE MATERIALS KILL CROPS AS WELL AS THE WEEDS.
