ROCKPORT SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 7

PILOTING

Within the next two weeks the Pilot is offering its readers and those desiring to become readers an opportunity to start or keep the Pilot coming and at the same time help one of this community's most valuable organizations.

The Rockport Parent-Teacher Association is carrying out an important work here in connection with the schools. There is no need to go into the many details of the work being accomplished by the PTA. The point is the program will be larger this year, there are likely to be many necessary projects to be carried out in connection with the war emergency. The PTA is going to need more funds. For a two week period beginning August 17 and ending August 31 the Pilot will give 25 percent of all subscription money turned into this office to the PTA. This applies to both new and renewal subscriptions. We suggest you turn to the full page advertisement in this issue, which explains the offer.

The ill-fated Alamo was no "military mistake" but an act of mighty human effort and one of undying glory that has fired Texas men of arms since 1836 and will continue to spur them on to fearless achievement on the battlefields of World War II. Thus predicts Charlie Jeffries of Winkler, writing in the June issue of the Southwestern Historical Quarterly, published at the University of Texas.

Jeffries pointed out that the battle of the Alamo delayed Santa Anna's invasion for three weeks, thus giving the Texas forces time to rally; that it gave the Mexican commander an incautious over-confidence; that it cost him 1,000 men whose strength might have been a different story at San Jacinto.

But its greatest effect has been on Texas men under arms, Jeffries believes, citing the decisive Battle of San Jacinto, fought with the battle cry "Remember the Alamo" on the lips of the Texian soldiers; Terry's Rangers and Hood's Brigade in the War Between the States; Roosevelt's Rough Riders, trained under the shadow of the Alamo for the war with Spain; the famous 36th and 90th divisions in World War I who "were always ready to go forward when the order was given; they never lost one inch of ground they had taken."

"And now we are in it again," he concluded. Already Texas men have been called upon to shoulder arms and fall in ranks. When the baptism of fire comes can they stand it? The chances are they can. They will be properly imbued for the ordeal. As they have shown on men of the Lone Star land for a hundred years the lights of the Alamo will shine on them too."

PTA Postpones Vaccination Clinic Until Friday

The free vaccination clinic arranged by the Parent-Teachers-Association for Wednesday morning will be held Friday morning instead, at the school building, according to Mrs. Somer Smith, chairman of child hygiene.

The smallpox vaccine ordered for the clinic failed to arrive in time, Mrs. Smith said. It is here now, however, and the clinic will be held as planned, and the dozens of children turned away Wednesday are asked to come Friday for their vaccination.

Mrs. Smith reminded the children that they must have the written permission from a parent or parent may accompany the child. This regulation is made by the state and will be observed, she said.

Mrs. John Fries with her son, Jack, and his guest, Frank Kirby, of San Antonio returned this week to spend the remainder of the summer in "Casa de Juan" on Fulton beach.

Volunteers For Aircraft Warning Service Are Sought

Observers To Meet Monday At Court House

Meeting Will Be Devoted To Re-Organization Of Observer Group

An appeal for more aircraft observers is made this week by Ted R. Little, chief observer, who announces a meeting of the observers to be held at the court house Monday night, August 17 at 8 o'clock. Personnel attached to Post Lane 14 is expected to be present, he said.

"We must have more observers who are in a position and willing to assume this responsibility," Little said, "and who can be depended upon to answer a call to duty regardless of personal inconveniences. Therefore I request those men, or women, who have a desire to serve as observers, and the time to devote to this essential activity to meet with us Monday.

The purpose of this meeting is to fill vacancies that have been created and to recruit new observers to assist in this rapidly expanding service.

The Army is placing constantly increasing stress upon this vital phase of Civilian Defense. Leased wires keep the Observation Post in constant contact with the Army.

NYA Seeks Youth To Train For Work In Defense Plants

Counselor Will Interview Applicants Each Thursday

Training for defense jobs can be had through the NYA according to Gordon Peavy, counselor, in conference here Thursday with Judge B. S. Fox regarding the enlistment of Aransas county youth in the training centers.

The National Youth Administration has converted its whole program to the defense effort, Mr. Peavy said. Boys between the ages of 17 and 19 1/2 years, and young women between 17 and 24 1/2 years of age, with a high school education required in most cases, are eligible for this further education in special lines which will enable them to enter war industries. Many of the graduates of the course are absorbed by civilian employment at the Corpus Christi Naval Base.

Peavy announces that he will be available for interviews Thursday morning each week between the hours of ten and eleven a. m. in Judge Fox's office. The training period is usually six months. An applicant must pass a physical examination before being accepted. The NYA center at Corpus Christi is at present training 300 boys and 100 girls. The students are provided with a place to live in the NYA residences, are issued their work clothes, given dental and medical care, and receive approximately $10 per month. The living conditions and food are good, Peavy said, and a well equipped recreation hall has recently been completed.

Shop experience is a major feature of the work; training in aircraft mechanics, welding, radio, machine shop and sheet metal work as well as other lines. An effort is made to place a student in a line of industry which he chooses. In any case, Peavy said, the training is the kind in which advancement is always possible, according to one's abilities.

NYA centers are maintained at Corpus Christi, Cuero, South Houston, Waco, and Inks Dam. Applicants are placed as quickly as vacancies occur in the centers.

Students finishing courses are placed in paying positions rapidly, the Counselor advised. In the past two weeks 80 graduates were employed, many of them going on as helpers at the Naval Base at $120 per month.

Victoria Man Rescues Child From Basin

Cute 7-Year Old Swings On To Fish Until Rescued

Near Tragedy Occurs When Little Girl 'Goes After' Her Fish

Winnie Davis, cute and determined 7 year old fisherman, was rescued from the basin here Monday morning after she splashed into the deep water while trying to retrieve her string of small fish that was slipping away.

J. B. Shoemaker of Victoria, driving away from the basin in his car, saw the child tumble into the water. He rushed to her aid. G. C. Mullinax on the opposite side of the basin saw the accident and hurried to the scene. Shoemaker lifted the child up to Mullinax. Winnie still clutched the stringer holding her morning's catch of perch and nondescript fish.

Winnie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Davis, was fishing with her sister, Betty LaVerne, 10, and two other children. No adults were near the scene although the family lives nearby. Davis is employed at the shipyard. La Verne had taught her little sister to swim earlier this summer.

Shoemaker is engaged on some special work on the Barnsdall oil well at Lamar. With Mrs. Shoemaker he is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mills.

Rockport Men To Attend Bomb School Monday

Five Rockport men will attend a bomb study course in Corpus Christi next Monday and Tuesday, according to County Judge B. S. Fox. The men were named by Judge Fox after a letter was received from Gov. Coke Stevenson urging that representatives of Civilian Defense be sent there for instruction.

Those to attend include: Ted Little, Chief Aircraft Warning Observer; Emory M. Spencer, Chief Air Raid Warden; Ed Barnard, fire chief; Henry Camehl, traffic warden, and C. C. Hayden, safety engineer at Rice Bros. & Co.

Charles Grant Promoted To Chief Boatswain's Mate

Charles L. Grant, Coast Guard Captain of the Port of Rockport, was promoted last week to the rank of Chief Boatswain's Mate.

Grant, whose home is Portsmouth, Va., has seen nine years in Coast Guard service. Upon his first enlistment he took training at Hampton Roads Naval Training Station. His duties have taken him in the waters of the Atlantic, Gulf Coast and the Grand Banks of Newfoundland; part of this time was spent aboard a Coast Guard destroyer during the rum-running days.

Re-enlisting in January, Grant has been in charge of the Rockport office since June 10.

Mrs. J. F. Stanley and her daughter, Eugenia, returned Monday from a visit in Dallas.

Fishermen and Guide Win Battle Over Tarpon That Jumps Into Boat

It was a battle royal while it lasted, but the daring, fighting tarpon didn't really have a chance.

Emmett Albright of Goliad, and James Mason of Atlanta, Ga., guided by Uncle Billy Sontag, were fishing out from Mill's Wharf in Copano Bay. They were relaxing a moment. Mason raised a bottle of beer for a refreshing swig. Then it happened.

Into the boat jumped a fighting silver king. First round was almost

Protection for the Ferry Command

Sergt. Jack Early of New Orleans, assistant radio operator and tail gunner, is shown in the rear turret of his U. S. ferry command "Liberator" plane in England. The ferry command has been delivering planes to England since the start of the war and has, in many ways, been responsible for the bombing of large German cities.

Rockport Mercantile Dry Goods Dept Began Business In Horse And Buggy Day

The sale last week of the dry goods department of the Rockport Mercantile store closed a chapter in the history of the oldest retail mercantile establishment and the oldest dry goods store in Rockport. The story would tell of tremendous changes in ways of living as seen through the changes in the stock of goods on the shelves. Counters that once displayed coffee grinders, buggy whips, and bustles, came to feature one piece bathing suits and slacks for women.

Scrap Is Not Coming In; -- WHY?

"Scrap" is not the word for the present Salvage drive according to Ted Little, chairman for this county. "Scrap is defined as 'a friendly brawl', and there is really nothing friendly about this war. He does not like the word. And, he, and the other members of the Salvage Committee do not like the way the salvage is coming in. Because it is not coming in.

Success with other war drives, the Navy Relief, the USO, the Red Cross the rubber, salvage drive, has without exception exceeded expectations. The response to this call is apathetic. The small pile of salvage accumulated in the designated spot north of the courthouse indicates an unusual lack of interest for the citizens of this county. There is no lack of scrap materials, the committee believes.

No personal calls have been made in this campaign, Little said, because the committee believed the appeal through the paper should be sufficient. Waste materials needed are steel, iron, rubber, copper, brass, manila rope and rags.

Persons with salvage who are unable to get it to the scrap heap may call a member of the committee or Judge B. S. Fox, and the county truck will collect it. Little said. Other members of the committee are Stanley Daggett, Lawrence McLeister, Tom DeForrest, and J. H. Mills.

Where once a bolt of dress goods was bought at one time, a ready made house dress may now be available for one dollar.

Founded in 1877 under the name of Bracht Bros. by the late L. M. Bracht and R. P. Bracht, it became the Rockport Mercantile in 1907 with L. M. Bracht owner and manager. He remained active in the business until his death July 2.

The business was first located on the site of the present Rockport Recreation Club, and in 1890 was moved into a tin building on the west side of the street. An old photograph of the establishment shows a horse and buggy tied in the front of the building, men on horseback and some wearing derby hats, at the front, and on the upper gallery a rocking chair indicating that furniture was sold there.

In addition to furniture, groceries, dry goods, harness, hardware, feed and all items of household use characteristic of that day were stocked. Ranching was a main source of revenue in the early days and customers accounts usually ran for a year or more, until the time when the cattle were sold off. Stock raisers and their families drove in from Fulton, Black Jack, Rincon and Bayside, spent a day in "town" buying and loading into their wagons supplies for a month or longer.

Mrs. Stephen Bettley, who has been visiting in San Antonio returned Thursday, brings with her to spend the remainder of the summer her granddaughters, Miss Helen Virginia Deutz and Miss Florence Alice Deutz of San Antonio.

L. F. Clark Takes Humble Agency

L. F. Clark this week took over the agency for the Humble Oil Co., here and will operate the Humble station on the corner of Main Street and the highway. The agency formerly belonged to Walter Paugh.

Clark has lived in Rockport eight years, and was employed by the State Highway department before taking this position.

District Court Settles Suit In Special Session

District Court, Aransas County, met in special session Aug. 7, 1942, at 10 A. M., Judge W. G. Gayle, presiding. Cause No. 2034, Mrs. Lee H. Hay, et al, plaintiffs and Danrey Oil Company, defendant, pending since September, 1939, was closed and receiver, Conn Brown, and his sureties were dismissed and discharged.

In a special session held July 31st private sale of Danrey Oil Co. equipment was ordered.

Game Warden Warns Violators Of Regulations

Suggests Marking Of Rod With Proper Measurements

Warning that some illegal fish have been taken from these waters recently, Marshall V. Clark, captain of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission here, this week advises laws will be enforced, he said.

Since a measuring rule may be an inconvenience to carry, Clark suggests that fishermen mark their rods with the proper lengths for the various fish, as follows:

- Flounder—Not less than 12 inches.
- Speckled Trout—not less than 12 nor over 32 inches.
- Redfish—not less than 12 nor over 20 inches.
- Drum—not less than 8 inches nor over 20 inches.
- Pompano—not less than 9 inches.
- Sheephead—not less than 8 inches.

Maackeral—not less than 14 inches

Gafftopsail Cat—not less than 11 inches.

Even though illegal size fish may be dead, it must not be in fisherman's possession.

It is unlawful to sever the head, except on redfish and catfish; such headless bodies of redfish shall not measure more than 27 inches and catfish not less than 8 inches. "Game and fish regulations are not designed to deprive people of their right to hunt and fish," the Commission bulletin states. "They are merely rules necessary to the management of our game and fish supply for the benefit of the sportsman and commercial fisherman. The game and fish belong to you, and every violation of these regulations is an infringement on your personal rights."

E. B. McHaley Buried Monday At Fulton

Local Fisherman Believed Accident Victim; Boat Comes In Without Him

Funeral services were held late Monday afternoon for E. B. McHaley local fisherman whose body was taken from Aransas Bay earlier the same day. McHaley was believed to have been the victim of an accident while he was out on his boat dragging a net for shrimp on Saturday afternoon.

McHaley's boat, with no one aboard, wound its way through shallow water and reefs and finally put in alongside of Mill's Wharf late Saturday afternoon. The boat's motor was running and a net was dragging behind.

An immediate search was started in an effort to find the body of the missing man. Bob Tanner, flying state game warden, sighted the body floating near Goose Island about a mile from Mills Wharf Monday afternoon. Captain Marshall V. Clark of the State Game Fish and Oyster Commission, Deputy Sheriff Otis Yeats, and others went out in a boat and picked up the remains.

Justice W. B. Priddy entered an inquest verdict of death by accidental drowning. The man was believed to have slipped and fallen overboard while shrimping.

Funeral services for McHaley were conducted at Fulton Cemetery late Monday afternoon by the Rev. Almus D. Jamison. Cage Funeral Home was in charge of burial. He was a native of Illinois, and is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Clyde Weber and a grandson, all of Fulton.

Enrollment Increase Is Expected

Football And Band Practices Will Begin One Week Earlier

School opens in Rockport Monday, Sept. 7, according to Raymond E. Black, superintendent. The Fulton school will open at the same time, and it is presumed that the Sacred Heart school will also, though no official statement could be made since the Rev. J. H. Kelly is out of town this week.

Football practice will begin Sept. 1. Coach Jim T. Mobley, who has been employed at the shipyard this summer, will leave the end of this week for a stay in Stephenville before the opening of the practice season.

The team will play a full schedule, Black said, but due to the cancellations of some schools, two games may be played with Aransas Pass and with Ingleside.

Band rehearsals will begin Sept. 1 also. The summer band school closed August 1. H. B. Butler is attending a Band Institute in Seguin.

The final count on scholastics is 630, 29 being transfers from county schools. This number is a decrease of 20 from last year's roll, although at least 100 increase in enrollment is expected when school starts, Black said.

Blanco Baptists Hold Meeting Here Tuesday

Sunday School Work Emphasized In Talks; 100 Attend

Emphasis on the work of the Sunday School was the theme of the Worker's Conference of the Blanco Baptist Association held here Tuesday in the First Baptist church. The meeting was attended by 100 members representing churches from five counties.

In an Executive Board meeting preceding the general session, the Rev. W. R. Underwood of George West presided. The morning sermon was preached by the Rev. L. M. Huff of Ingleside. The title of his sermon was "Preach the Word."

Speakers for the afternoon session further emphasized the Sunday School and discussed teaching methods. The Rev. A. G. Johnson of Woodsboro spoke on the Bible as the Text Book of the Sunday School; Rev. Underwood took "The Bible and Its Emphasis on Teaching," as his topic; and the Rev. T. C. Mahan of Odem discussed the subject—Christ Teaches. Speakers were introduced by the Rev. W. B. Billingsley of Beeville, who closed the program with an inspirational address.

Representatives of each church were heard on the floor to report on their churches and Sunday Schools. A short meeting of members of the W. M. U. took place in the morning before the Association program opened.

Visitors to the conference included Mrs. A. Adamcik of Smithville; special representative of B. T. U. work; and the Rev. A. D. Jameson of the First Methodist church here.

Delegates provided their lunches as is the custom, the meal was served buffet style in the Sunday school rooms, by the ladies of the local church. Bowls of brilliant summer flowers decorated the tables and the church altar.

Here's Why U. S. Navy Is Proud of Its Chow

Pictured at the left, officers of the U. S. Navy make sure that the rigid standards set for navy food are not lowered. Here they sample corned beef to determine content of fat, gristle and lean meat. This year's navy order for fresh beef amounted to approximately 60,000,000 pounds. Right: this navy cook is ladling fresh peas, an important part of navy chow. During the year ended July 1, the navy consumed about 192,874,500 pounds of fresh vegetables.

Red Communiques Admit Grave Peril As New Flank Attacks Harass Nazis; CIO President Proposes Peace Plan; Cargo Planes Get Qualified Approval

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

One of Uncle Sam's newest weapons for the armored force, the M4 tank, is shown on special demonstration at Fort Knox, Ky. Here the 28-ton tank plows through a barn to demonstrate its ability to negotiate obstacles. It has a 75-mm. cannon in a revolving turret and a completely welded hull.

RUSSIA: Flank Tactics

While Moscow's official radio was telling the Germans in their own language that the United States and Russia had come to their agreement on the creation of the second front in 1942, Soviet troops were busy with flank attacks on the Nazi forces all along the 300-mile Don river front. German drives had pushed far beyond Rostov, toward the Caucasus, but the Russians were claiming that their new flank attacks were netting a terrific toll of Nazi tanks and men. At Voronezh, northern anchor of the Don front, the Russians had been holding out doggedly while their columns were being pushed back in the other sectors.

If Germans in the homeland had been listening to the Russian radio tell of the coming of the second front, they heard too that their country would be confronted with 15,000,000 men, 85,000 tanks, 100,000 guns, and 50,000 airplanes. But this was brave talk for even the official Russian communiques admitted the gravity of their nation's peril. Most feared was a Nazi breakthrough in the center of the Caucasus front. This would far more likely mean that the so-far orderly Russian retreat would stand a chance of being turned into a rout—a result that would be disastrous for the cause of the United Nations.

Soviet officials had other troubles, too. There were reports out of the Don valley that large rings of fifth columnists had been uncovered. Many of the spies in these groups were quickly executed as they were caught trying to co-operate with Nazi parachute troops who were dropping behind the Soviet main lines. Meanwhile, through England and the United States the cry was getting louder for military officials to establish the much-discussed second front. From widely diversified groups and sections came the urging. There was considerable agitation for this move for many people feared the United Nations would suffer a most severe blow should Russia fail to last the year on the European side of the Ural mountains.

ALEUTIANS: 10,000 Japs

Breaking an official silence, a navy spokesman officially estimated that the Japanese have succeeded in putting "not more than 10,000" troops into the Aleutian island area and at the same time announced there was no evidence that the Pribilof island to the north had been occupied by the Nipponese.

The statement came in answer to a report made by the Alaskan delegate to congress, Anthony J. Dimond, that between 20,000 and 25,000 Jap troops were on the Aleutians and that the Pribilofs had been occupied. Questioned about Dimond's reports, the spokesman said that "we believe that not more than 10,000 Japanese are in the Aleutians, probably one-half ashore and one-half afloat."

The Japs gained a foothold in the Aleutians on June 3. So far, the navy has confirmed the presence of Japs only on three of the islands: Attu, Agattu and Kiska, at the western end of the chain. The Pribilofs are in the Bering sea, and consist of four islands: St. Paul, St. George, Otter and Waldrus. The latter two are small and uninhabited.

PETRILLO SAYS 'NO': To Davis Plea

"I cannot grant your request to cancel the notice that the AFM members will not play for transcriptions or records."

With those words, James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, refused a request by Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, to rescind his ban against the making of new phonograph records or radio transcriptions for commercial purposes by union members.

PEACE PLAN: For CIO-AFL

A proposal that the Congress for Industrial Organization and the American Federation of Labor "initiate discussions regarding possible establishment of organic unity" was made by Philip Murray, CIO president, in a letter to William Green, AFL chief.

Peace proposals between the two organizations have been discussed for several months as a step toward speeding war production. In his letter, Murray proposed the establishment of a committee composed of representatives of both organizations, with an impartial arbitrator, to settle all jurisdictional disputes between the two groups.

Murray named a committee of three to discuss the problem of "organic unity." He named himself, R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, and Julius Emspak, secretary of the United Radio and Machine Workers union.

BEEF: Two Varieties

In butchershops from the Bronx to Boise there was considerable beefing about beef. Beef was high. Beef was hard to get. What was the trouble?

President Roosevelt told his press conference there were three main reasons for the current meat shortage: (1) this is the off-season for beef; (2) people have more purchasing power now, with which to buy better cuts of meat; and (3) around 4,000,000 men under arms are now eating much more meat than they ever ate on their own dinner tables at home.

Meanwhile Agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard reported that there may be some relief in the temporary beef shortage this fall when more cattle are brought in off the range. But other sources looked with disfavor on what effect this would have on the normal spring beef market.

GIANT PLANES: From Shipyards

There was a new answer to the shipping problems of the United Nations looming on the horizon. It was an unofficial agreement from the War Production board to give the "green light" to plans of Henry K. Kaiser, West Coast shipbuilder, to build giant cargo and troop transport planes in nine of the nation's shipyards.

First hitch to be overcome in the suggested set-up was the granting of authority by military officials to release engines and other parts needed in the building of aircraft for the army and navy.

Donald Nelson, WPB head, appeared to be willing to proceed with the plan if these materials could be obtained without hampering the war effort. This came as a surprise as WPB first voiced skepticism on the plan.

Kaiser's idea calls for the conversion of three shipyards on each coast to produce 5,000 flying boats a year. The ships would be of 100-ton design fashioned after the 70-ton flying boat Mars, now in active use. Support of Glenn Martin, Baltimore bomber builder, Tom Girdler, steel magnate and all others with knowledge of production problems of plane building would be sought, according to Kaiser.

After Kaiser had discussed the idea with Nelson he appeared before a senate military subcommittee to testify and Nelson later issued a statement stating that the WPB was willing to "co-operate to the limit in any practical way for increasing the effectiveness of our transportation systems."

At the same time, James H. R. Cromwell, former U. S. minister to Canada, was proposing that Kaiser be made "czar of air transportation." He said: "If we can't get supplies to the fronts by air transport we are going to lose this war."

AIR MONSTERS:

Things to Come

Reading like a tale from the pen of Jules Verne, the story of two super-gigantic cargo planes was unfolded in Washington by aviation engineers. Senate committees heard the stories.

Details of a huge plywood plane were disclosed by Dr. W. W. Christmas, technical aviation engineer. The plywood carrier, weighing 1,120,000 pounds, would be both a cargo and battle plane. It would be a 60,000 horsepower, two hull plane with 400 foot wingspread and with wings 16 feet thick, with a speed of about 350 miles an hour. It would carry 3,000 men. It would carry a rack of torpedoes weighing 20,000 pounds. Dr. Christmas pointed out that the torpedoes would have a striking force of 19,000,000 pounds when dropped. "A battleship deck would be like wet paper when one of these bombs hit it," he said.

The second plane was a revolutionary type of amphibian flying cargo plane, which would be lifted and propelled by a combination of engines, helium gas and air tunnels. The engineers are Horace Chapman Young and Eric Langlands of the Aerodynamics Research corporation.

A single wing combination cargo-fighter-carrier, the plane would have a flying deck of approximately 200 feet, from which 12 fighter planes could take off. It would carry enough helium gas to lift 36 tons and with its engines could lift 70 tons. Four tunnels would run through the wing. Engineers in these tunnels would create a semi-vacuum, whose suction would supply pulling power while the propellers gave it thrusting power. Its speed would be about 200 miles an hour.

LADIES:

Of the Navy

"Waves" is not a new word to U. S. navy men but in the future sailors will have to think twice before using it. For this is the name being given to the Navy's woman's auxiliary, counter-part of the army's WAAC.

Now officially organized, the Waves plan to enlist 10,000. First call was for 1,000 women, preferably bachelor girls, to volunteer as officer candidates.

Miss Mildred McAfee, 42, president of Wellesley college, Wellesley, Mass., is being chosen head of the feminine navy unit and will hold the rank of lieutenant commander.

While there appeared to be a preference for single girls, married women are not prohibited from volunteering. Unmarried women will have to agree not to marry while in training—a one-month period.

Waves will be assigned to desk or administrative jobs to release men for active sea duty.

Rationing Student

John Leigh, gas station attendant in Washington, is pictured studying rationing rules. When Price Administrator Leon Henderson ran out of gas, Leigh refused to fill a can for him. Henderson later proved that such an act would not be a violation of the regulations, but his proof came too late. He already had been forced to take a taxi.

MISCELLANY:

COUSINS: Conklin Mann, New York genealogist who discovered last month that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill are eighth cousins once removed, announced that he had found the President to be a sixth cousin once removed of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

MARKETING: U. S. farmers in the first half of 1942 marketed products totaling $5,773,000,000, according to a department of agriculture estimate. This compares with $4,012,000,000 for the same period in 1941.

FATS: The Office of Price Administration has set a ceiling of four cents a pound on waste kitchen fats now being sold by housewives to retail meat markets in the national salvage campaign.

GASLESS: Pleasure driving is practically a thing of the past in Britain. As of August 1, gasoline is sold only to business and professional automobiles.

DEATH: Maj. Gen. Julius von Bernauth, German tank expert, was killed in action on the Russian front. It was announced on a Nazi broadcast.

Musical Instruments Wanted

Wanted: Musical instruments of all kinds, regardless of condition. Highest cash prices paid. Cash waiting. Write today. Zifferblatt, 65 Cooper St., New York, N. Y.

From an old French word "mes" derived from the Latin word "missus" meaning a course at a meal, comes the Army's name "mess" for its breakfast, dinner, and supper. Favorite meal with the soldier is chicken dinner—his favorite cigarette, Camel. (Based on actual sales records from Post Exchanges.) A carton of Camels, by the way, is the gift he prefers first of all from the folks back home. He's said so. ### Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidney get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

THE STORY SO FAR: Forced to run from the law to save his life when he is suspected of being the notorious "Comanche Linn," Con Cameron is trying to prove his honesty. With his pal, Caramba Vear, he is working for Topeka Tenison, owner of the Broken Wheel ranch. Nevil Lowe, marshal of the neighboring town of Tivan, is after him but doesn't yet know that the "Twenty Johnson" of the Broken Wheel is the man he suspects of being Comanche Linn. Lowe's sister, Janet, is staying with the Tenisons. They are deeply attached to her, having lost their only child, a boy, when he was kidnaped many years before. Among the enemies of the Broken Wheel are Dud Paramore, Megath and his friend Monk Irby, and the very tough Lainers. Con has already encountered all of them and has so far gotten the best of them. Megath and Dud Paramore also hate Nevil Lowe and are trying to kidnap Janet. Con makes friends with old "Step" Gaylord, a cow hand, by giving him a pint of whiskey. Step teaches him more tricks of "drawing" and shooting.

Con stepped back, listening to Palafox pant.

CHAPTER XVIII

Con had a chance to look at the rest of the casa principal when, after supper, Mrs. Tenison led them into the great front room with its fireplace across an end, and vivid Navajo rugs everywhere. When Mrs. Tenison went to look at her patients, he said, almost without thinking:

"This just suits me, somehow. I—I feel like—well, it's like home."
"Then, why not make it home?" Janet asked contemptuously, looking straight at him now. "A little thought and you ought to be able to vaguely recall this, and that, and remember little things in your childhood that all fit in."

"I do!" Con told her promptly. "And he told me that he'd been in this part of the country."
He shook his head and looked with ugly twist of the mouth at the cigarette he was rolling.

"You know me for what I am and you can warn the Tenisons not to believe a word I say. Or—you can warn 'em again. Oh! Sent word to Nevil that I'm here!"

"I haven't said a word to them! And I haven't sent any message to Nevil. No matter what you are, you—"

Outside, going slowly toward the bunkhouse, he kicked viciously, blindly, at pebbles.
"I'll keep out of her way," he promised himself. "She will have to be leaving, sometime. I'll dodge her until she does go."

He thought of the rustler whom the Martinezes had buried, for a while, after the bunkhouse was dark and quiet. But it was as Mrs. Tenison had said, he decided: in a fighting country you hardened yourself to fight for your own.

Perch was snoring evenly. So was the cook. Con took his pistol from under the mattress and went noiselessly to the door. There was a pale moon, now, and in the faint light he saw the horseman going to the corral.

When he was sure that only one man was there, Con crossed the space in bare feet, pistol up. The corral gate squeaked. He waited until sure that the man was unsaddling, then went forward for a closer look. A slouching figure came toward him, dragging rather than carrying a saddle.

"Who's it?" Con challenged him softly. "Take it easy!"

"Twenty?" the man answered. "This is Lanny. Topeka sent me back. I got to send him Johnny Dutch tomorrow, in my place. I got my ankle sprained and skinned up enough that it'd take a pair of chaps to piece out my hide. But that ain't what's got me down, boy. Hell's to pay, or going to be. Them damn' fools aim to work Helligo Canyon this roundup. First thing!"

Con whistled softly.
"Yes, sir! The Big Augers been scheming it. Y Bar and LA and Walking X and 56 and 4U and Pigen and the rest never headed for Antelope Springs, no more'n we done. Skull Spring was the place!"

"Well," Con said cheerfully, "I think it's about time! Come on inside. Let's wawa this out some more. Your notion is, the outfits will slam point-on into the Canyon and Gloomly and his gang will stay covered and frazzle our side?"

He carried the horse wrangler's saddle for him into the bunkhouse and called to Perch and the cook. Lanny lit the wall lamp and went over to sprawl on a bunk. Con made himself comfortable on a bench with a cigarette. He told Perch and the cook what Lanny had said. Perch swore softly, staring. The wrangler nodded.

Con watched him. For the first time in hours, he thought of the English penny given him by Judge Wiley, as he had seemed to feel its weight when looking at little Step. But Lanny seemed sincerely troubled and Con could not think that the wrangler would have showed so much concern over possible damage to the thieves. Lanny lit a cigarette and sprawled flat, easing his sprained ankle.

"I think I'll go tell old Step about this," Con grunted.
He went over to put down his pistol and draw on boots. Perch laughed grimly.

"Likely, the old hellion'll kill you for rousting him out. You won't need the light to come in by. Blow it out and we'll catch up forty winks."

Con nodded. At the door, he blew out the lamp flame, then moved toward the line of quiet adobes.

Con had passed the corner of the corral when a soft scuff of feet turned him mechanically. His hand went toward his belt before he remembered that his Colt was on the bunk. A man came out of shadows, the faint light showing him only as a distorted shape. Then he saw the outline of the man's hand, slightly lifted. He stiffened. For what looked to be an enormously lengthened forefinger was a pistol barrel, he knew.

"Hel-lo, Con!" the man said drawlingly. "How you been?"
Con tried to place the voice, vaguely familiar as it was, while he watched the pistol and wondered tautly what this meant.

"Long time since we wawed us an evening away. Yes, sir! You kind of raised up hell and shoved a chunk under it, since then! You—"

"Martino Palafox, the deputy!" Con breathed, staring.

"Yeh. And I'm here to see you. Reach up your paws, boy, and see if your both ears still hang right. You ought to thank el buen Dios, boy, that I ain't like some Territory star poles! I would have shot you right out from under your cow-lick! The reward is five hundred dead or alive! And it's easier to pack beef than a kicking steer."

"Milgracias! A thousand thanks! But you're barking up the wrong tree, amigo. Comanche Linn was killed outside Salado. Lee Welsh told me so, after I met the bunch in Fronteras. You'll make no five hundred on Con Cameron, going by Twenty Johnson on the Wheel. Another thing! I'm in hell's own hurry, tonight. Listen, now: the wagons went to Skull Spring and they are going to ram hellbent into Helligo Canyon, first crack out of the box. You know they're going to get frazzled—"

"Yeh? So you aim to hightail and get frazzled with 'em! Or do you figure, maybe, to step it? Stand still! Nothing we can do about it, boy. They'll run into a lead hailstorm and about half the boys won't never smile again. Then they'll pull off and Gloomly and Quirk and Dud and the rest'll have a hurrah on every outfit this side the Bravo."

He went around Con and searched him deftly. The back waistband hideout was obviously no mystery to him!

"All I'm packing is some money," Con told him abruptly. "Ever see an English penny, Martino? I've got one. Sort of scratched up. Somebody put W.W. on it. Might catch your-eye."

"Might," Palafox agreed blandly. "if it was in somebody else's pocket."

But he stood frowningly before Con, pistol at his waist, the hammer down. Then he shook his head and shrugged.

"Sorry! There's lots of things I like about your style—and your record in the Territory. But it's yes, and no, on the scale. The no is a l'il bit bigger. Sorry!"

Con's hands, pinching his ears, moved flashingly downward in short chopping blows to the deputy's neck. Palafox staggered, but his gunhand jerked. Con struck hard at that arm with his left while he pivoted to drive a terrific swinging right to the unprotected jaw. Palafox dropped his gun and one leg buckled. Con smashed him over the heart and sent him sprawling backward. Then he stooped to snatch up the Colt and move in.

Two derringers and a sheath knife formed the rest of the deputy's armament. Sure of this, Con stepped back, listening to Palafox pant. Like voice to his own questions came Step's drawl:

"Now that you got him, what you aim to do with him?"

Palafox sat up as the little man came shadow-quiet up to Con. He shook his head as to clear it. Con shrugged grimly, looking from Step to the prisoner.

"So this boy is Comanche Linn, huh?" Step drawled. "Well, that does kind of rip the cover off some things . . ."

"Listen! Con drawled in his turn, wearily. "I'm tired of saying that I'm not Comanche Linn, who was a dirty little murdering maniac over in Texas. He used to ride with Welsh and the Raniers. He got killed riding with 'em. I met the

TIRE SITUATION NOT WORRYING BUFFOON SCHACHT

Clown Prince to Tour Regardless; Appears in Houston Monday Night

Al Schacht, baseball's great national comedian, will appear at Buffalo Stadium in Houston on the night of Monday, August 17, before and during the game between Rogers Hornsby's Fort Worth Cats and the Houston Buffs. The ladies will get a real break as this will be a ladies' night game with special reduced prices prevailing.

"Keep 'em Laughing," That's the slogan Al Schacht, the "Clown Prince of Baseball," has selected for his sixth annual tour of the nation's ball parks.

"And how can I do that," inquires the inquiring Mr. Schacht, "if I worry about tires?"

Buffoon Schacht, who was a fair country pitcher in his day, although there are few witnesses to the fact who are willing to endanger their good standing by admitting it, started his tour in Jersey City's Roosevelt Stadium on April 16. He won't stop again until after the World Series in October, the gods of war permitting.

All who before going into clowning for a living was third-base coach for the Washington Senators and until 1937 with the Boston Red Sox, has solved his problems without too much straining on the leash of his brain—sometimes called a "Smattering of Ignorance."

"I'll start in my car," he says, "and if my tires run out, I'll go by train. And if they stop running, I'll go by bus, and if that's no good I'll sprout wings and fly. But I'll get there."

While he jokes about his travels, those who know the diamond mad hatter well realize that he is most sincere in his efforts to add a bit of humor to America's war effort. He has gone so far as to offer his services gratis and at his own expense to any Army camp within reasonable traveling distance on his off days this season.

Philosophically—and despite his comic antics on the field—Mr. Schacht is quite the philosopher on life. He adds:

"Maybe I'm kidding myself, but I've been traveling thousands of miles and everywhere I go, people look at me and laugh. I'm either funny or ridiculous, and what's the difference—as long as they laugh."

Lad Wakes, Nabs Pistol

Pointed in Fun and Dies
CHICAGO.—Elmer Swanson, 18, awoke with a start when his Sunday afternoon nap was interrupted by the pressure of an object against his head.

The object was a pistol. Not fully awake, he seized the gun without noticing it was in the hand of his best friend, Ned Benigno, 16. It discharged and wounded Swanson fatally.

Ned sobbed as he told the story. He first said the gun had discharged lying on the bed. Then he admitted he had lied because he "couldn't confess that I had killed my chum."

"Elmer and I had a date with two girls, but I had no money," Ned said. "I took a pistol that my brother, Vito, had left when he went to California. I intended to pawn it."

"I went to Elmer's home and he was asleep. I went up and lay beside him. He didn't wake up. Then I playfully put the pistol against his head. He suddenly woke up and grabbed it. I yelled at him, but the gun went off."

OWOSSO, MICH.—Lightning struck in different places, all right, but hit the same man twice.

Later he was knocked down by another bolt while working on hospital construction. He suffered a minor eye injury.

$50 'Touch' Good News

For Father of Airman
PUEBLO, COLO.—Anticipating bad news when he was called from a theater to receive a cablegram from his son, a flier in the Royal Canadian air force on duty in England, a Pueblo man gave a sigh of relief when he read:

"Dear Pop: Wire me fifty bucks, care of my hotel, London. Enjoying my leave."

Kathleen Norris Says:

Women Fool Themselves Most In Love Affairs

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

Best of all were the evenings when Carlton would come to discuss books or politics with my invalid father, and afterward we would go into the kitchen for coffee and toast.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THE world is full of persons who fool themselves; mostly women. They think they are deceiving others, but their families and friends see through them as though they were panes of glass.

We all scold the small girl who says glibly, "I didn't tell you I'd broken your vase because I hate to tell people bad news, Mother!" Or, "I took the candy away from Betty-Lou because I thought it might make her sick."

But there are lots of older self-foolers to whom we can't address reproof. For example, the pretty young wife who says that her husband really doesn't want to go with those men on a fishing trip, he'd much rather stay at home and take her to visit her mother. Or the woman who tells you that she would love to do her own work and help poor George with the house-keeping bills, but that he really wants her to take it easy and rest a lot. Nobody but herself, of course, is fooled.

Perhaps the field in which women deceive themselves most often is that of love affairs. When she loses her charm for the man she adores, the beloved woman won't admit it easily. She fights along for months, perhaps for years, trying to persuade herself he still cares, that he will come back, that the old glow and thrill and glamour of the beginning of their love will certainly return.

Loved a Man Six Years.

Frances is such a woman. She is 29; she has loved one man for nearly six years. Their affair seems to be no nearer to marriage, as the years go by, and her heart is sick with waiting.

"Carlton came to our small town six years ago," she writes. "He is everything the heart of a woman could desire, tall, good-looking, amusing, handsome and successful. There was not a girl in my circle who didn't perk up and take an immediate interest when he came along, but it was only a matter of weeks before he and I were aware of the deep sympathy and congeniality between us. It was 'Franc and Carly' from the first—when anything was planned. We were in theatricals together; we were always paired off on picnics and parties. Best of all were the many evenings when he would come to talk books or politics with my invalid father; and afterward he and I would go into the kitchen for coffee and toast."

"My mother died suddenly and my father did not long survive her; I thought then that Carlton would surely say that we must be married. But he did not, although he was all sympathy and wonderfully dear and helpful. Two other school teachers came to share my home with me. I bore it as long as I could, and then faced the music, told him how I felt, reminded him that for three years we had been going together."

"He said he felt that my parents' death had rather pushed our affair into the background and asked for one week to think it all over. Before that week was up he came to me and asked that we be engaged, but it must be a profound secret. He gave me a ring of his mother's, but asked me not to wear it publicly."

Wants to End Delay.

"That was three years ago, and nothing has changed since. Carlton said last year that 'until we could be married' he felt that we ought not to see each other more than twice a week. He comes Wednesday night, and we always have a plan for Sunday; we either take a picnic lunch somewhere or go to an afternoon movie and dinner downtown. Of late he has been asking a married couple we like very much to go with us. The man is his assistant; the woman I've known for years. They usually bring two small children.

WISHFUL DOERS

You've heard of "wishful thinking," but did you know that there is such a thing as wishful doing? That may not be the name by which you know the dangerous way some people have of acting as though what they wish for were actually true. But you know what happens to the father who insists upon trying to make a scientist of a son who is interested only in music; the mother who makes a plain-looking, but brilliant, daughter miserable because she doesn't happen to be a beauty. These "wishful doers," unlike mere "wishful thinkers," harm others as well as themselves by their refusal to accept reality.

"I want to be married," this letter ends. "I want a home and children. In these disturbed times I want to feel anchored; to do my bit for America as a wife and mother. I am getting restless and nervous; once again, only last night, I faced Carlton, asked him to end this delay. He says now that to get married now would look like an attempt to evade the draft; he is 33. Will you advise me as to the best way of handling this situation? I have never had another sweetheart, and I am as deeply in love as ever."

Here is another case of a girl fooling herself. Frances knows in her heart that any feeling Carlton ever had for her is dead. If he comes to see her still, only on those appointed days, it is partly habit, partly consideration for her, and partly because he doesn't know how to get out of it. He would be a more honest man if he had cut the knot brutally and quickly once and for all, about five years ago. And she would be a happier woman if she had seen all this coming, and had stopped it before the twenties had run their course, and time had landed her perilously near to the shore of spinsterhood.

She might have saved herself these years of waiting and watching and hoping for a day that now seems as far away as ever. And she would surely have gained dignity and strength.

My advice to her is to drop Carlton. Tell him that his attentions don't make her happy, as they once did; which is true enough. Tell him that she wants to be absolutely free, for her teaching, reading, walking, gardening, women friends, that although she really loves him, she would be happier in her soul not to continue to dangle in this state of continual expectancy and disappointment.

Will Suffer Heartache.

If she has the courage to do this she will experience, first heartache, a forlorn feeling of being adrift from the moorings to which she has clung with such pathetic faith and hope for so long. And secondly, she will feel a courage and a self-respect, a strength and freedom that will be manna to her soul. That is, unless the complacent dawdling Carlton suddenly wakes up, as he indeed may, and rushes her instantly into marriage. Either way she wins.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

War Ration Books Not Surrendered As Board Orders

J. F. Bullard, chairman of the Arkansas War Price and Rationing Board, called attention to the fact that many persons, either from lack of information or through negligence, are failing to surrender their War Ration Books to the local board when they are inducted into the armed services.

Heirs and next of kin also are failing to surrender to the board the books of the persons who have died, Bullard said.

"There have been only 14 ration books surrendered for these causes to this board," he pointed out, "while conservative estimates are that 51 persons have entered the armed services from this county since Registration Day."

"Birth registrations and surrenders of books as a result of deaths are also considerably below our estimates of the reasonable expectation."

Mr. Bullard added that the war rationing regulations are very strict in this regard and he expressed hope that the local board would not have to call on the Office of Price Administration to invoke penalty provisions against persons who fail to observe this regulation.

Birth of a Glider

Glider pilots must first gain their experience through "training gliders," which are now coming off the production line. One of the factories engaged exclusively in manufacturing them is the Laister-Kauffman plant at St. Louis, where these pictures were taken.

The TC-4A is a two-place glider which weighs less than 500 pounds. Jack Laister, the designer, and president of the plant, is famous in amateur glider and soaring circles.

A large part of the construction work at this plant is being handled by women. Picture at top shows a group of them busy in the rib and wing assembly section.

Right: Dressing down a piece of wood for the glider's wing.

The men employees of the big glider plant spraying wing dope and stenciling the army insignia on wings for the first production line model.

The glider is re-assembled at the airport, and is given a final check before taking initial flight. Inset: Insignia for glider pilots.

Spotlight

TURNING back the pages of many, many calendars, your correspondent still recalls the thrill that came when the first breath of early fall came along, and the dog days were over. That meant football. We began practicing around September 15, and the season came to an abrupt finish on Thanksgiving day.

It's all different now. Football is already at full swing in many colleges and many camps.

Yale, for example, one of the most conservative of all the universities, has gone all out—not so much to develop a single outstanding team, but to have hundreds trained in the matter of condition and discipline that football demands. Certainly no university is doing a finer job. I also could mention Maryland and many others.

The Change

These teams want and will work for winners. But beyond that more attention will be paid to mass than to class.

Students who never thought of football before now will be shown the feeling of hard body contact, of increased speed, of improved stamina, of quicker reactions in competition. In the universities, the colleges and the prep schools there will be at least five, or possibly ten, football players in training against one for other seasons.

"Why," someone has asked, "shouldn't these men be in active war service?"

The main answer is that the war department wants it this way. First, because most of these men also are taking war training. Second, because the war department wants its coming replacements and reserves to be the best soldiers in the world, trained and conditioned for what is to come later on.

Every university and college of any standing in the country is doing its best to comply with the demands or requests that come from the top.

Football is already under full swing at the Naval Cadet camps located at the universities of Georgia, North Carolina, Iowa and St. Mary's.

"War," as the late General Sherman said, "is hell." But football in Georgia and North Carolina through August is no part of a picnic.

No one yet knows just how such coaches as Bernie Bierman and Jimmy Crowley will be able to get winning teams with squads that come and go, with almost no stars from the pros or from the colleges. The odds are all against them. But football is a big part of their training, and this happens to be the main idea.

These four Naval Cadet camps have over 40 games scheduled with the stronger university teams, facing one of the toughest schedules of the year.

Other Games

In the meanwhile the pros and the army squad are both on their way to camp, to many camps, for the eight games scheduled this month and through early September.

This army division, under Bob Neyland and Wallace Wade, will set at least one football record. They will finish up their schedule by September 20, just about the spot when most of the others are swinging into action.

Coaches Neyland and Wade have the "rush act" to handle. They have the material—many of the great football players of recent years—but the job of whipping these men into a football machine in a short while is no simple job.

You can gamble that the Washington Redskins, the New York Giants, the Green Bay Packers, the Brooklyn Dodgers and others will be something to shove around, despite the fact they have lost close to a hundred star men to the services. Messrs. Steve Owen, Curly Lambeau, George Halas and others still have enough good material left to keep any team busy, no matter how many stars may be working against them. They, also, are out to win.

And these games will play a big part for Army Relief. They are a big part of the bigger game. And they will be something to see.

Stout Combination

The Big Nine, plus Notre Dame, may easily be football's stronghold for the new campaign. And this isn't overlooking Iowa, which would be a serious mistake.

There are linemen on hand to match the backs, especially at Minnesota, where Norse forwards usually have the call. Minnesota's big line will be led by Dick Wildung, one of the greatest forwards in 1941—a sure bulwark in the season that is not too far away, and which the fans are looking forward to.

My Week

by Eleanor Roosevelt

WOMEN AND WAR BONDS
I have been told of an effort which is being made by the treasury department to integrate the interests and the work of women to boost the sale of war bonds and stamps. It is quite evident that men alone cannot make the maximum contribution. They may allot part of their pay, but if the woman in the home does not learn to budget, does not see to it that she feeds her family well in spite of the economizing she must do, that family will not be making the greatest possible contribution from their income.

In some cases, it is going to mean doing without things, but these items must not be essential to the family health.

AMUSING BOOK

An entertaining and very instructive little book was sent to me the other day. It is called, "Babies Are Fun," written by Jean Littlejohn Asberg. If you are about to have a newcomer in your family, I think you will find it both amusing and helpful, for it is written with charm and common sense.

WARTIME THOUGHTS

As we drove away from Campobello, Maine, I had a chance to enjoy the sunset, and the calm, beautiful water, surrounded by the rocks among which the dark green trees grow. Somehow I had a feeling of remoteness, which I rarely experience anywhere else, and it was good to have that feeling even for a few hours, when the world is in such a turmoil.

I had gone up on the train with a mother and father on their way to see their boy, who was training somewhere on the coast of Maine, and when I flew back to New York city, I found myself sitting across the aisle from a father who told me his son was leaving college to go into a branch of the army air service. He was going home to spend a few days with his family, after being absent on war work.

I can well appreciate what it means to every father and mother, wife or sweetheart, to get a glimpse of the boy they know is soon going away, or who comes back from the service even for a few hours. Every time I see a casualty list, or hear from someone who has had to give up hope of ever again seeing some loved one, I cannot help wishing that there were a way in which one could express sympathy.

Perhaps this is why I always feel that I want to talk to or smile to, or help in some way if I can, the boys in uniform whom I see on the street or meet in my travels. It seems as though even a kindly word spoken to one of these young men is something done for one's own boy, and perhaps someone else will be on hand to speak or smile when the need is there.

SHORT VACATION

It was fun being back on the island of Campobello, Maine, even for a day and a half. There is something bracing about the climate which gives me a lift. It was very pleasant to find Mrs. May Craig, one of the Washington correspondents of the Maine newspapers, on the train, and have her company during the trip.

We visited the National Youth administration Passamaquoddy project. I wanted to see what changes had come about there, and found, to my joy, many improvements. The project really provides some of the best machine-shop training in the East, and therefore, the pick of the young men in the eastern states often come here for the last stages of their training. There is a farm here, too, and highly important is the self-government program, which prepares the boys for citizenship in any United States community.

I think I told you last year that on their own time, a group of boys constructed a glider, and were begging the navy and the army to come and look at it, because they were convinced that it might be of service in the war effort. Today the use of gliders is no longer a novelty, and it is interesting to note that the idea came so early to the young men on this NYA project.

These boys are now going to aircraft factories all over the country, and into active service as well. Jobs are waiting for those who finish their training, and employers seem extremely glad not to have to break in these new workers, which is necessary in the case of inexperienced newcomers. I think we can feel that the National Youth administration is hastening the training of manpower for work which needs to be done.

"THIS IS THE ARMY"

One evening, I took some navy boys to see Irving Berlin's show, "This Is the Army." It certainly was a wonderful show. There was so much spirit and life to it. From the first notes played by the orchestra, to the very last bar, we enjoyed the music. The songs and lines were delightful, and I have never seen such acrobatics, or better dancing. Perhaps because I can remember the last war, the thing which really stirred me most was the singing by Irving Berlin.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

Washington, D. C.
WAGE STABILIZATION
You can write it down that the President will use his executive powers to keep wages in check rather than ask congress for any new legislation dealing with wage stabilization.

There are two reasons for this: (1) Wage control legislation would be sure to stir up another bitter congressional controversy, as bad or worse than the brawl over farm parity prices. It might even require months to get both houses to agree on a bill satisfactory to the administration.

(2) The President believes that the policy proposed by the War Labor board's recent steel wage decision—limiting wage increases to 15 per cent over scales prevailing on January 1, 1941—plus additional rationing of consumer goods, will be sufficient for the time being to brake inflation threats to the working man's pocketbook.

Inside fact is that the War Labor board is contemplating only one further step in its wage stabilization program, and this is not so much an anti-inflation move as a concession to certain labor groups and a contribution to the prosecution of the war.

Wages in certain industries, including shipyards and tool-and-die plants, are above the 15 per cent increase ceiling set by the board. This raises the question—shall wages in these industries be brought down to conform with scales in other war plants which pay below the ceiling?

The answer is—there will be no reduction in wages. The President has decided definitely against this. Instead, to prevent piracy and migration of workers away from vital war plants paying below the 15 per cent ceiling, the War Labor board is planning to amend its wage policy to permit the payment of "premium wages" (above the ceiling) in such plants.

Note: One industry sure to be allowed "premium wages" is aircraft, which has lost many workmen, by piracy and migration, to higher-paying shipyards.

NEW ARMY FOOD

To save shipping space, the army is sending food overseas in dehydrated form. Experiments in taste-preserving dehydration have been carried out and tested on a group of army cooks.

At the Chicago depot of the quartermaster corps, the cooks sat down to a meal of dehydrated foods, principal item on the menu being scrambled eggs made by adding water to a yellow powder.

It has been discovered that one pound of dehydrated turnips will serve 28 persons, after water is added.

BEHIND THE AIR CORPS

This war will be won or lost in the air. But despite that fact the air forces will win or lose the war on the ground. In other words, the success of operations in the air depends on ground crews, who outnumber air crews ten to one.

Featured in the headlines and the newscasts every day are the pilots and machine gunners. But the unsung heroes of this war are the ground crews.

Real fact is that it takes only one man to pilot a fighter plane, but it takes eight or ten maintenance men to keep it in shape to fight. A four-engine bomber requires a flying crew of nine, and a maintenance crew of 25. Often a ground crew will be assigned exclusively to one plane, and will become attached to it with the affection a stable boy has for a race horse.

Chief of Staff General Marshall has revealed that the overall strength of the air force is expected to reach 1,000,000 men by the end of 1942, and 2,000,000 by the end of next year. If the war is won in 1943, it will be won by these 2,000,000 men. But 1,800,000 of them will be "fighting" on the ground.

They are the overall-boys, the grease monkeys, the men who spend all day overhauling an engine which has been flying all night, the men who know what heat is like in the deserts of Africa, because they don't get up in the air for relief, as do the pilots.

OVERSEAS CANDY

The quartermaster corps is in the market to buy 2,500,000 pounds of hard candy: peppermint, orange, lemon, lime, anise, and cherry.

The hard candy is being bought for overseas troops, as part of the regular field ration. Official explanation is that candy is an excellent source of energy.

AFRICAN CAMEL CREWS

They are the mechanics, the armorers, the metal workers, the welders—yes, and they are the pick and shovel men who build the landing fields in foreign posts, and repair them after enemy bombers have passed over. They are also the cooks and the mess boys, the pay masters, the doctors, and the truck drivers. In short, they are the men who perform every duty that keeps a plane in the air.

They do everything except replace the African camels.

This Is the Army!
When one of the boys gave his regimental pin to a girl she demanded to know what the motto "Volens et Potens" meant. He explained: "Willing and able" . . . She returned it pronto . . . The 33rd Armored Regiment at Camp Polk call their tanks "Hitler Hearses" . . . The Yank of 1942 isn't called a doughboy . . . He's "Red Legs" . . . There's a 50-Year-Old Club at Camp Roberts. The men in it are over 50—all volunteers since Pearl Harbor—going in as buck privates, although many were former officers and non-coms.

Soldiers purchase lots of fingernail polish—but not for their nails . . . It keeps their buttons shiny and is the perfect remedy for chigger bites . . . At the India Desert training center the lads are often rationed only one gallon of water daily for all purposes, including drinking, washing, bathing. To condition them for the real thing.

Contrary to popular legend, it is against Army regulations to give a soldier K. P. duty as punishment . . . At Camp Barkeley the chap who instructs in the art of Jiu-jitsu is Harry Morimoto, an American-Japanese . . . In the Army nurses are known as Snow-whites . . . Soldiers insist that uniforms come in only two sizes—too large and too small.

Personal checks cannot be cashed in the Army without the company commander's okay . . . When Paul, the son of the late financier, Andrew Mellon, went to the c. o. at Fort Riley to get approval for a $100 check, the c. o. said: "This is a pretty big check for a private to write. How do I know it is good?" . . . "It oughta be," said Paul, "I own the controlling interest in the bank."

The Indians have supplied more volunteers to the Army than any other racial group . . . When they first learned of selective service they came to register with their own weapons . . . The average soldier drinks four cups of coffee a day . . . G. W., who fathers the "Our Fighting Men" dept in Collier's, calls the U. S. Armored Division the Anzers . . . Because they are the answers to Hitler's Panzers . . . A jeep is also a nickname for a rookie.

Field Marshal Herman Goering's kin is Werner George Goering of the U. S. Army . . . Can't wait, he says, to drop a bomb on his relative . . . In our Army a private can prefer charges against a colonel, and if a corporal sees a captain conducting himself in a manner "unbecoming an officer and gentleman" he can have him put in the guardhouse . . . The name for woolen underwear is "superman drawers."

When a private at Randolph Field comes to a non-com with a complaint he is handed a mourning-bordered card which says: "Your trials and tribulations have broken my heart. They are unique. I have never heard of anything like them before. As proof of my deepest sympathy, I give you this card which entitles you to one hour of condolence."

Fort Riley's newspaper, The Guidon, has an advice-to-the-lovelorn column. "Betty Lou" signs it. Betty Lou is the nom de plume for a pair of privates . . . For every fighting man in the Army there must be five other soldiers to feed, clothe and supply him . . . Unless a rookie is smart, he can be trapped into volunteering for unpopular chores. The big gag in the Army concerns the sgt. who approached a bunch of men at play and asked them if any were good at shorthand . . . A dozen newcomers, angling for soft snaps, eagerly stepped forward . . . "Fine," said the sarge, "report to the kitchen, we're short of K.P.s!" . . . The phone number of the Negro Enlisted Men's Service Club at Camp Bowie is, oddly enough—711.

Army men always titter derisively when in the movies a sentry says: "Halt! Who Goes There?" . . . The correct challenge is: "Halt! Who's There?" . . . A letter from a girl is called "a sugar report" . . . There's no favoritism in the Army . . . Even chaplains must undergo five weeks of training at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

Soldiers do not rate preferred treatment over civilians. They cannot buy shaving cream or toothpaste at their post exchanges without turning in a used tube . . . At Camp Davis the mimeographed directive given to men in the 96th Coast Artillery (for handling of the wire cable winch on army trucks) warns that the apparatus is "as temperamental as Greta Garbo, and treating it carelessly is like asking Lana Turner to scrub the kitchen floor" . . . The men treat it with great affection and care.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Salt fish are quickest and best freshened by soaking in sour milk.

Rancidity in lard can be prevented by keeping it away from air, light and warmth. Store in tin or crockery containers in a cool place.

Each time bed sheets are changed the mattress should be turned end-for-end or upside down.

That fish may be scaled much easier by first dipping them into boiling water for a minute.

Food bought in season will help to keep that part of the budget within reason.

Onion juice should be added after a mixture is cooked rather than cooked with the mixture if the best flavor is desired.

Sheets and other linens should be ironed in different folds each week so the creases will not break through.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

YOU'RE going to see something in the new Fibber McGee picture, "Here We Go Again," that you never saw before — and that's Charlie McCarthy moving around without benefit of any manipulation by Edgar Bergen. It's perfectly simple — RKO just engaged a midget, Jerry Maren, for the part. He's practiced those stiff, mechanical movements of the dummy's until he's got them down pat. In fact, he does them so well that people who stroll onto the set without knowing what's happened have thought they were imagining things when Charlie, in the person of Jerry, went into action.

How'd you like to have a blind date with Ginger Rogers? Nine boys in uniform did recently. Planning to see two new feature pictures at home, she sent her station wagon to the USO to ask if some of the men would like to spend a quiet evening and see some pictures free. They dined with her, to their surprise; they hadn't known who their hostess was to be, and then, when they said they'd like to see one of her pictures, she showed them something few people have seen. It's a film of every dance she's done since "Flying Down to Rio" — shows her with old-fashioned make-up, clothes, etc., and that's something most stars avoid like poison.

Tony Merrill had a perfect alibi when he showed up two hours late for scenes with Rosalind Russell in "My Sister Eileen" the other day. He had been down town being sworn into the army. If Janet Blair's late for work in the same picture she'll have a good reason, too. She sang at the San Diego marine base just before the picture started, and the leathernecks sent her a souvenir — a baby wildcat.

After each "Hobby Lobby" broadcast thousands of dollars worth of war bonds and stamps are sold in a "Victory Auction." Dave Elman auctions the handicraft or property of hobbyists, selling to the person who buys the most bonds. Lieutenant Bulkeley's tie pin and shoulder insignia brought $16,000!

James Cagney and his neighbor at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., have turned over their estates to the army for maneuvers — 6,500 acres altogether, of which Cagney owns 500. He has also offered his summer home as quarters for staff officers.

Hope you've been listening to those Stage Door Canteen broadcasts. Rafts of amusing stories come from the canteen. Alfred Lunt was making sandwiches when a young actor approached him. "What are you doing?" asked Lunt. "Nothing," said the youth. "I'd sure like to go into a play with you this fall. I could go into rehearsals right away; I'm not doing a thing now." "Well, then," roared Lunt, "go empty this garbage pail!"

Five-year-old Maxine O'Brien will play the title role in "Journey for Margaret," starring Robert Young and Laraine Day, so that "search" is settled! Incidentally, Laraine is filmdom's loneliest bride — her husband, Ray Hendricks, was recalled to his flying instructor's post six hours after his first leave began.

Ann Summers is leading lady in "The Avenging Rider," Tim Holt's next. She's the girl who was told that she was to appear in an earlier Holt western, devoted six solid weeks to learning to ride a horse — and then when she reported for work, found out that she didn't have to. But in this picture she'll ride, at last.

ODDS AND ENDS — Cary Grant has bought a new organ for the church in Santa Bernardino, Calif., whose minister married him to Barbara Hutton. . . . Eddie Cantor and his wife entertain 12 to 15 service men with luncheon and a swim nearly every day. . . . Got any old band instruments? Joe E. Brown, between scenes of "The Daring Young Man," is still collecting them — wants to equip a navy band before its departure for an undisclosed spot; has 23 so far. . . . "Come One, Come All," a film based on the housing shortage in Washington, D. C., will probably be Jean Arthur's next at Columbia.

Lynn Says:

Household Tips: Are you wondering how those pots and pans are going to last for the duration? Since the production for these has been sharply curtailed, you will want hints on keeping them in "cooking" condition:

Aluminum: Leaving food in aluminum longer than necessary, soaking the utensil before washing and alkalies such as soda spell short wear for this metal. If you want to clean aluminum without endangering its wearing period, use very fine scouring powder or steel wool for discolorations. Or, cooking acid foods like tomatoes, rhubarb and apples will do the trick.

Iron: Wash in hot, sudsy water. If this doesn't clean it, use hot soda and water. If rusted, use scouring powder or steel wool. Always dry completely and wrap in paper for storage.

Tin: This metal does not keep shiny indefinitely. Remove burnt foods by boiling in soda and water for five minutes, never longer. Rinse and dry thoroughly.

Bermuda Appetizers.

Chop Bermuda onion finely, marinate and drain. Spread on crisp crackers and cover with slice of Liederkranz cheese. Thin slices of rye, pumpernickel or whole wheat bread which have been buttered may be used instead.

You can do all sorts of things with cheese as a last course and serve it in place of fruit. Camembert has an affinity for fruit. Try it with crackers served with a bowl full of summer's luscious fruits or, try American-made equivalents of Roquefort and Blue cheese spread on hot buttered Boston brown bread tossed with after dinner coffee in place of dessert. Serve a cheese tray for refreshments and spare the sugar ration.

This spicy apple sauce cake requires only 1/2 cup of sugar.

*Apple Sauce Cake.

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 2 cups cake flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1 cup apple sauce
- 1/2 cup raisins

Cream shortening; add sugar slowly, beating in well. Add well-beaten eggs and beat until well blended; add molasses. Sift together dry ingredients and add alternately with apple sauce to first mixture. Add raisins. Bake in greased square baking pan in moderate oven at 350 degrees about 1 hour. Frost with:

Raisin Nut Frosting.

- 1 egg white
- 1/4 cup light corn syrup
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1/2 cup chopped seeded raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped pecan meats

Beat egg white until stiff. Add syrup slowly, beating constantly. Add vanilla and half of raisins and nuts. Spread between layers and on top of cake. Sprinkle with remaining raisins and nuts.

*Lemon Smothered Chops.

- (Serves 6 to 8)
- 2 pounds pork or lamb chops, cut thick

Put in a large covered skillet or chicken fryer. Cover top of meat closely with:

- 2 unpeeled lemons, sliced
- 1 large sweet onion, cut in rings
- 1 green pepper, cut in rings
- 1 teaspoon salt

Pour over all:

- 2 cups tomato juice

Dot with flakes of fat cut from meat or butter. Cover and cook on top of stove 1 1/2 hours or until done. Lift onto a hot platter, being careful to keep lemon, onion and pepper slices in place. The meat cooked this way acquires a chicken texture and color, while the lemon, onion, pepper and tomato make a delicious sauce accompaniment.

ISAAC PRACTICES PEACE

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 26:18-31. GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.—Matthew 5:9.

To talk peace in a warring world seems almost futile, and so it is, unless it be the peace of God. In a world largely dominated by the philosophy that might makes right, and in which men demand what they call their rights, taking them even by lawless and violent methods, it is increasingly difficult to proclaim the truth that patience and meekness are not weakness, but are Christian virtues worth emulating.

The story of Isaac is interesting from beginning to end. He was an ordinary man, one of the common people. He had come through varied experiences of victory and defeat before the time of our lesson. Fearing a famine, and apparently not trusting God at the moment, he had gone down from the promised land to the country of the Philistines, there redigging the wells which his father Abraham had dug. The result was that he prospered. Ere long, however, envy on the part of his enemies taught Isaac that—

I. Peace in This World is Temporary (vv. 18-21).

Isaac had prospered, but he was still out of the promised land, and while he was in the land of Philistines he could expect no permanent peace.

We are in the world. We long for peace, and would throw all our influence and service into the cause of bringing a righteous peace to the troubled peoples of the world. But let us not be misled by that desire into the support of unscriptural and impossible peace programs. This world is a sinful world, and as long as that is true, there will be strife and war, that men (as James puts it) may have the gains thereof for their own pleasure.

Our business in such a world is to preach the gospel of grace, winning men to Christ, that they may become men of good-will. Isaac was such a man, willing to yield even what seemed to be his right, rather than cause contention.

Undoubtedly there are times when one must defend his name and his possessions, but all too often those who do "stand for their rights" have wrecked homes, churches, and nations, and have gained nothing but an empty victory.

The peace of this world is temporary. Is there then no real abiding peace and joy?

II. Abiding Joy Is Found in Fellowship With God (vv. 22-25).

When Isaac came up into Canaan, the land which God had promised to him, he found real peace and an abiding joy in renewed fellowship with God. Even so, the Christian man and woman who will step out of a spiritually destructive fellowship with the ungodly world and come over wholeheartedly into the spiritual Canaan of full consecration and separate living, will find true peace and satisfying communion with God.

Our thought, however, has wider application—one much needed today. There is to come a time when this world will have true and abiding peace which shall cover the earth like the waters cover the sea. When the One who has the right to reign, the Lord Jesus Christ, returns to take His throne, then, and not before, will there be true peace.

We await that day with longing which grows more intense as men grow more violent in their hatred. But is there nothing more we can do? Yes, we learn from Isaac's experience that—

III. A Godly Life Is a Testimony to Warring Men (vv. 26-31).

These men were wicked men, even speaking falsehood in their claim of friendship toward Isaac (v. 29). Now that they perceived that God was continually blessing Isaac in spite of their repeated injustice toward him, they decided that it would be well to make a covenant of friendship with him. Even those who follow the way of war and aggression cannot deny the effectiveness of true Christian testimony.

Observe also that by his patience and kindness Isaac ultimately made friends out of his enemies. "It is better to turn enemies into friends than to beat them, and have them enemies still." And so this man with the patient, self-sacrificing spirit brought peace not only to himself, but to those about him, because he believed and trusted God. "When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him" (Prov. 10:7).

What can we do to bring peace today? We can pray that God will help America and her allied nations to turn to Him in repentance of sin, and in a desire to so honor His name that He may be able to give His blessing. When Hezekiah spread before the Lord the threat of his enemy, God undertook for him in a mighty way, because his heart was right toward God (Isa. 37:14-20).

Will he do less for us?

TWO WEEKS

Two weeks have elapsed since there appeared in this paper an article, launching and explaining the purpose and objective of the Aransas County Salvage drive. We were asked by our Government to collect immediately all salvage materials in our county that are considered vital to our victory assuring war production, consisting of steel, iron, rubber, copper, brass, manila rope regardless of condition and rags.

The County Salvage committee proposed to help our community by making this campaign strictly a donation proposition. All scrap was to be donated and collected at a salvage depot, designated just north of the courthouse. All materials were to be sold into the regular junk dealer channels, as requested by the government, and the money derived from such sales to be distributed to local civic organizations, such as the Red Cross and the County Emergency Corps which includes the Rockport Fire Department. These organizations are manned by volunteers, every one of whom is donating time and energy to our protection and welfare.

Two weeks, and Hitler has blasted and bombed and crushed his way through the struggling bleeding armies of Russia to the riches of Caucasus oil.

Two weeks, and Hirohito's hellish hoards hammer on their butchering, raping, torturing way through war weary China, toward revolting India, and to the very outposts of American soil.

Two weeks, and our Government has used every available means to notify us, and inform us that our war production program is urgently in need of scrap metals and numerous other salvagable materials.

Two weeks, and the Gestapo could goosestep blindfolded right over the top of our scrap heap, to your front door and never be in danger of even stubbing his toe. Is our Salvage program bogged down in the rotting mire of indifference and complacency?

Listen, we don't have to get into this "Scrap with Scrap." To be plain about it this is no scrap as we are accustomed to use the word. It's a FIGHT. And one of the most profoundly vicious and bloody fights with which we have been confronted in the history of our nation, and we are already in it, every mother's son of us, and our wives, mothers, sisters, sweethearts, and babies.

Sportsmanship died at Pearl Harbor, if you saw a hop headed henchman of Hirohito's or a puss brained maniac of Hitler's, with a bayonet poised at your son's heart would you hurl that old scrap iron at him with all your might? Then folks, we better start hurling it now, with all we've got.

Lets make our salvage pile as high as the courthouse. It will be another barcade between our men and the bullets, bayonets, bombs, and shells of the ruthless enemy. It may save your boy from the ever increasing list of missing and dead in action.

TED R. LITTLE, Chairman
Aransas County Salvage Committee.
