TENTH SUB-CHASER LAUNCHED SATURDAY

PILOTING

EDITOR'S NOTE. This is the first of a series of four Piloting Columns designed to give the readers of this newspaper a clear, concise picture of the Naval Service and to aid the men eligible for military service in making their decision as to which branch of the nation's military service can best use their talents.

Today every true American is asking himself one question. It comes from the heart: "How can I help my country most?"

The might of industrial America is laboring night and day to produce the most powerful Navy the world has ever seen. Battleships, cruisers, destroyers, aircraft carriers, torpedo boats, subchasers, submarines—every day new ships slide down the ways. Airplanes, too—lightning-fast fighters, deadly hell-divers, giant long-range bombers—we're turning them out at a rate no enemy can even approach.

But your Navy is more than ships and planes. It's a world-wide network of land bases—bases for ships, planes, tankers, transports, hospital ships. It includes dry-docks, wharves, machine shops, ramps, anchorages, barracks. It's a vast fleet of armed merchant ships carrying weapons of war across the seas. It's a great system of steel mills, factories, arsenals, ordnance depots. It's air power and air bases. It's more than a score of the finest training schools in the world.

Upon enlistment as Apprentice Seaman, you go to one of the great Naval Training Stations for about eight weeks. During this time you get to know real Navy life, Navy traditions, Navy Regulations. Every recruit has an equal chance for assignment to one of the Navy trade schools at the end of his training period. More than 25,000 a month are selected. This does not mean that the men who do not qualify for trade schools have lost their chance for training; they are sent to sea for practical experience, and as soon as they show they are qualified, they are returned as soon as possible to shore duty to attend advanced trade schools where they can become expert in the trade for which they have shown themselves adapted.

You don't need experience. If you show the right qualifications, the Navy is ready and willing to send you to a trade school and give you training worth $1500—the first year alone—teaching you to be an expert in the trade for which you are qualified... helping you to develop all the skill and talent which you always knew you had.

If you're handy with tools... or if you like radio, photography, welding or any of nearly fifty other skilled occupations, here's your chance to get the finest equipment the world has to offer. Costly lathes... marvelous telescopic cameras... vast power and tool plants... they're all part of Navy equipment, all part of workshop you can call your own.

Remember, the Navy is just as anxious as you are to have you become an expert in a specialized field. More than half of the men now in the Navy are skilled experts! You will be given training and promoted as rapidly as your qualifications permit. And every day of training you get now will not only make you more valuable to your country now... but more valuable in a well-paid civilian job after the war.

The second Piloting of this series, opportunities in the Navy for men with skilled trades, will appear in the next issue.

County Auditor Here Work Out Budget

James H. Houlihan, special auditor for Aransas county, and his son Francis X., are in Rockport this week, assisting County Judge B. S. Fox in preparing the 1943 county budget and in setting the tax rate for the 1943 tax rolls.

Fishing Interest Soars With Big Catches Past Week

Big Tarpon and Sail Fish Taken In Gulf 'Battles'

Trout Fishing in Bays Better than Average During Past Week

Fishing this week is reported good all along the bay and in the gulf. A tarpon measuring six feet six inches and weighing 125 pounds was brought in Monday from the gulf by B. K. Carrol of Fort Worth and Miss Elizabeth Acklin, Miss Bernice and Miss Frankie Henry of Dallas.

Miss Bernice Henry hooked the big fish, battled with it fifteen minutes then let Carroll take over. He brought it in after another hour and ten minutes of spirited fight. This tarpon equals in size the largest one caught this year. Total catch for the party that day was 228 pounds of kingfish.

Truett Moss of Freer with his father, W. J. Moss caught 93 trout in the channel outside Monday, some measuring 20 inches. Moss knows where the fish bite, this is his 15th trip to Rockport.

Two by Four reef was good luck for W. C. Hodges of Wharton and G. P. Shuyer of Dallas who caught 25 nice size trout there Monday in a very short time. Hodges fishes here every summer.

Charlie Cleveland, who nearly always brings in a nice string when he goes out, brought in strings of thirty to forty beautiful speckles several mornings the past week.

Many others caught good strings of trout. A few nice strings of reds were also taken during the week.

SAILFISH CAUGHT
Mrs. Everett Schadt of San Antonio last week came back to Rockport from the Gulf as the victor in a hour's battle with a big sailfish. The beautiful fish, measuring 6 ft. 10 1-2 inches, was brought in to Bayshore Cottages where it attracted a great deal of notice.

The sailfish was reportedly the first of the season and lending to the feat of landing the big fighter was the fact that Mrs. Schadt was using light tackle and a 24-pound test silk line.

With Mrs. Schadt were Mr. Schadt and Frank Campbell Fourney of Houston.
Pete Daniels Sr. and Junior of Dallas, with Emil Hausemann, Bobby Hausemann of Refugio, J. B. Heard and Otis Yeats left Tuesday evening for an overnight fishing trip to Cedar Bayou. They left out of Mills What of the Mary Edith which was captained by John Baugh.

Red Cross Knitters Will Meet Monday For Instructions

An urgent call for women who will knit for the Red Cross is issued this week by Mrs. Fred Booth, chairman of that service for the local chapter. First meeting of the knitting group will be held Monday afternoon at four o'clock in the Red Cross quarters in the Meyer building.
Mrs. Fred Brundrett also announces that 162 yards of striped outing, from which 50 pairs of children's pajamas are to be made, has arrived and that women who will sew may secure patterns and supplies the latter part of this week. Sewing machines are provided for those who wish to sew in the Red Cross rooms.
"We have been assigned 50 turtle neck sweaters and 80 helmets to be sent in to national headquarters as soon as possible," Mrs. Booth said. "The instructions are here for the sweaters and we need to get them started right away."
National headquarters advises the local chapter that more garments will be needed this year than ever before and urges that the chapter not depend entirely on women who already know how to knit, but that they teach new ones.

P.T.A. Immunization Program Success

Unwelcome Visitors for Herr Rommel

The new M-4 tanks, built at Hammond, Ind., and said to be the most formidable tanks in the world, are shown lined up on flat cars inside the plant awaiting final inspection. This huge tank carries a 75-mm. cannon on a revolving turret which enables the gunner to swing in a complete circle. Just to look at them is most reassuring.

Mrs. G. A. Brundrett, Pioneer Religious Leader and 'Friend To Those In Need' Dies At Home In Rockport

Grandma Brundrett Taught Sunday School 54 Years, Organized First At Lamar

Funeral services for Mrs. George A. Brundrett, 84, resident of Aransas county 46 years, were held Wednesday afternoon in the Presbyterian church with the Rev. T. H. Pollard, pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Brundrett died in her home here at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 18. She had been in failing health the past six months. Surviving are four sons, G. L. Brundrett, J. F. Brundrett, Oliver Brundrett and H. A. Brundrett; two daughters, Mrs. S. A. Crawford, who made her home with her mother, and Mrs. I. E. Allemang, all of Rockport; two step-children, W. A. Brundrett of San Benito and Mrs. L. B. Roberts of Corpus Christi; fifteen grandchildren; and three great grandchildren. Nearly all of them were near her at the time of her passing.

"Grandma Brundrett" as she was affectionately called by everyone who knew her, was born in Baton Rouge, La., April 19, 1858. She came to Texas at the age of ten months with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Madden, first settling in Galveston. Her father was a pioneer physician of the coast country. The family lived five years in Indianola, later in Jackson county and on Matagorda Island. During a stay in Hynes Bay settlement as a governess, Miss Flavilla

Candidates Urging Voters To Go To Polls On Saturday

Sixteen absentee ballots have been cast in the second democratic election to be held Saturday, according to J. M. Sparks, county clerk. Absentee voting closed at five o'clock Wednesday.
One county office is to be filled by the run-off election, that of sheriff, for which A. R. Curry and M. W. Haynes are candidates.

Madden met George A. Brundrett, a rancher, whom she married.

The couple lived on Matagorda Island until 1887, when, after the Indianola storm of that year, they moved to Lamar, where they lived 20 years. To them were born ten children, six of whom are living. They came to Rockport in 1916 in order to have better school facilities for the younger children. Her husband died in 1920.

Grandma Brundrett's life was a religious one, characterized by good deeds all well as words. She taught a Sunday school class for 54 years, for 15 years of which she had an unbroken attendance record. She continued to teach faithfully until poor health kept her away from her church.

During the early years at Lamar, where there was no church, the young wife and mother felt deeply the need of religious influence in the community and organized and taught the first Sunday school class held there and kept it going during her stay. She appealed to Corpus Christi and Rockport churches for ministers to come to Lamar and hold a revival. She not only furnished quarters for the preacher but also opened the hall of her home as a place of meeting.

Later, during a ten-year residence on Blackjack Peninsula Grandma Brundrett was both friend and doctor to her neighbors. She sometimes rode 25 miles horseback to assist families in times of need.
Pallbearers were J. C. Herring, J. M. Sparks, A. R. Curry, J. A. Steele, T. C. Kelly and A. A. Knox. Burial was in Rockport cemetery with Cage-Mills Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Driver's Licenses To Be Issued Twice Monthly Hereafter

Drivers' licenses will be issued only every first and third Tuesday each month hereafter instead of every Tuesday as has been the custom, according to Examiner G. H. Williams of Corpus Christi, who gave the reason for this change as being due to tire rationing and a shortage of men. The various branches of the armed services are taking men out of the Highway Patrol ranks, he said.

Williams is now in charge of issuing licenses, taking the place of E. W. Carlburg, who has been placed on patrol duty.

Selective Service Board Discusses Induction Rules

Asks Better Understanding With Citizens Regarding Draft Act

It has come to the attention of this board that there has been much criticism of their action regarding the induction of registrants and much is of a personal nature. We feel that this is largely due to a lack of information of the Selective Service Act and the Law as it applies to the Local Boards.

The Board is composed of F. L. Booth, A. A. Knox and Fred Brundrett who have volunteered this service simply as a patriotic duty to their country in time of war.

For the information of those interested we are giving a brief summary of this Act.

All men from 20 years to 65 years old are required to register. All registrants from 20 to 45 years are required to fill out a questionnaire giving full information regarding age, occupation, dependents, etc.

These questionnaires are the basis of the classification of all registrants. All registrants were given a number and this number was subject to call as it appeared on the master list, made from the drawing at Washington.

All men with dependents were classified under class three as it was the desire of the government not to disturb the home life.

On June 24, a bill was passed raising the basic pay from $21.00 to $50.00 per month and also setting up a fund for the subsistence of dependents.

This was done because of the fact that the Army realized that it would be necessary to call many men with dependents.

Instructions were issued to re-classify all registrants. First, single men, no dependents. Second, single men with dependents. Third, married men with wife only. Fourth, married man with wife and one child. Fifth, married man with wife and more than one child.

The quota or number of men called is determined by the State Board.
Our instructions are that these quotas must be filled in the above order when possible, but they must be filled regardless of class.
This board has always been ready and willing to assist in any way possible, but this is war and when your Government calls for assistance it is a poor type of an American who is willing to accept all the benefits of our way of life and be unwilling to help preserve it.
The picture of what is happening in other countries and what will happen to us if we do not win this war should be enough to induce every true American to wish to do his part.
This board is doing its best to be fair to all, but when orders are received for men from Aransas County they must be filled.
Under these circumstances it appears very unfair to spread criticism regarding the honesty and good intentions of men who are

300 Children Vaccinated In PTA Clinic

Dr. Cron Thanked For Giving Time to Vaccinating Children

Three hundred children were inoculated against smallpox during the Parent-Teacher Association's vaccination campaign this summer which culminated in the free clinic held Friday and Monday, according to Mrs. Somer Smith, chairman of child hygiene.

Of this number 25 had previously been vaccinated during the summer. Friday morning the applicants were lined up one hundred strong when the clinic opened in the school building at nine o'clock. The number increased steadily and although Dr. Charles F. Cron and the members assisting worked until four thirty it was found necessary to continue Monday morning. Two dozen were turned away because the supply of serum gave out.

The children were orderly but excited; there were few tears, although the majority were there without their parents. All ages from tots to teens sat obediently in classrooms until the serum was dry on their arms, and each solemnly promised to keep the vaccination site dry and to protect it from infection.

A report on how well the inoculation is taking is requested by the chairman. She suggests that the parents telephone her or Mrs. Paul Dupuy, president, one week from the date of vaccination and make this report. Mrs. Smith's number is 260 and Mrs. Dupuy's 236.

"The P. T. A. is very grateful to Dr. Cron for his services and the time he so generously gave," Mrs. Smith said, "and to the mothers who so ably assisted, Mrs. Dupuy, Mrs. Floyd Huffman, Mrs. W. C. Rethmeyer, Mrs. Ted Atwood, Mrs. Clark Herring, Mrs. J. P. Hanway, Mrs. R. H. Clark; and also to Judge B. S. Fox, Miss Rosita Falcon and Miss Josephine Solis who arranged for the 150 permits written in Spanish."

Federal Works Agency Orders Postponement Sewer Project

Local Project 'Not Essential To Navy's War Effort, FWA Notifies City

Construction work on Rockport's sewer system came to a stand still this week upon notification from the Federal Works Agency that the project is being postponed.

Whether the Federal agency intends completing the project at a later date, or whether it will be possible for the city to complete the work now or at a later date, is not known at present. More definite information will be available here within a few days after the arrival of a FWA representative.

James W. Bradner Jr., regional director of the Defense Public Works Division of the FWA, wrote the following in a letter to Mayor Travis Johnson:
"This office is in receipt of a recommendation from Captain J. T. Mathews (CEC) of the Navy Department, Office of Superintending Civil Engineer, New Orleans, La., which we quote:

Rice Bros. Co. Launches 2 Boats In Three Days

Workmen Praised For Spirit Shown in Speeding Ships Into Service

With the launching of their tenth sub-chaser Saturday Rice Bros. & Co., shipbuilders, stand at the half-way mark on their present building program for the U. S. Navy.

Two of the little warships slid down the ways last week, the SC-1041 on Thursday and the SC-1042 on Saturday. These two ships will soon be out at sea doing their part toward keeping the shipping lanes free of submarines.

The PC-498, second of the Rockport ships to go into service, was pictured on duty on the high seas recently in Business Week magazine. The picture was made from the deck of a destroyer and showed the little boat bristling with armament as it rode the waves somewhere on patrol or convoy duty. The 498 left here under the command of Captain U. V. Martin.

"Production is on schedule," said Rob Roy Rice, member of the firm of builders, "Ten on the water and ten to go."

"We are appreciative of the way the workmen cooperate in the job we are doing," he added, "they want to work and they want to turn out a good ship, every man realizes that he is a producer in the war effort and they deserve the thanks of the company and of the whole country."

The first boat was launched here on July 4 a year ago.

Praise for the men who work on the boats was heard also in the talks by Rev. Almus D. Jameson, pastor of the First Methodist church, who gave the invocation at the launching ceremonies of the SC-1041 Thursday, and again Saturday by the Rev. Frank M. Taylor of the Presbyterian church, Aransas Pass, who assisted in the christening ceremonies on the SC-1042.

Sponsors for the ships were Mrs. Ralph Phillip Bledsoe, wife of an inspector at the boatyard, who christened the 1041; and Miss Genevieve Escoffier, daughter of another inspector, Eddie Escoffier, who christened the 1042.

Officers Attend Bomb School

Special instructions in bomb reconnaissance given in a Civilian Defense school in Corpus Christi Monday and Tuesday were heard by Emory M. Spencer, Marshall V. Clark, Leon Bullington, Edward Barnard, Ted Little and C. C. Hayden from Rockport.

The school was held in the Palace Theatre with 140 in attendance. The two day session was devoted to methods of control of high explosive bombs.

Lectures were given by Capt. F. A. Parsons, recently returned from bombed cities in England, and Capt. Newton W. Jackson and Lt. D. C. Cutter

U. S. Coast Guards Get in Trim

Dig 'em in deep, boys, heave-ho, so you'll be able to give the Axis what they've got coming. The "boys" are coast guards at their new camp near Battle Creek, Mich., the first of its kind in the Midwest, and the pictures were taken as thousands went into training there. In photo at the right the coastguardsmen go through a night drill in their breeches buoy. They are training for any kind of warfare.

Welcoming Committee for Japs

Inside World's Largest Air Transport

This picture, retouched by order of the war department, is the first of its kind ever published, and shows how fully equipped U. S. infantrymen occupy specially designed seats alongside mobile equipment in the new Curtiss Commando (C-46) military transport, world's largest twin-engined airliner. Unrevealed numbers of jeeps and troops can be carried in this plane.

Midshipmen Learn How to Handle Big Ones

Midshipmen of the reserve officers training corps, USN, are shown at gunnery practice aboard a navy battleship on a training cruise. The midshipman with the earphones and speaker is receiving aiming data. The man at the breech shouts the number of the shell loaded, the man at the angle and scale controls says "ready," and the man at the range control yells "Fire."

Japs' Asiatic Time-Table Delayed by U. S. Offensive in Southwest Pacific; Yank Air Force Now Active in Europe; Russians Continue Caucasus Retreat

SOLOMON ISLANDS: Marines Landed

The marines had landed. The Jap-infested Solomon islands northeast of Australia were the site. After seven days of savage fighting, the marines were reported consolidating their positions on three key islands—Tulagi, Florida and Guadalcanal. Key prize on Tulagi, aside from its

VICE ADMIRAL GHORMLEY
He unleashed Devil Dogs.

In an area north of the Caucasus the Russian position was grave, for Stalingrad, industrial city of the Volga, was menaced by a Nazi pincer movement from the Kietskaya area on the north and the Kotelnikovski sector in the south.

The effectiveness of the entire offensive was indicated by a communique from General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia which reported that the marines had captured a Japanese airfield on Guadalcanal island.

Intent on India and massing strength along the Siberian frontier, the Japanese command did not like the idea of an American offensive in the Solomons. An offensive it was, however, with the intent of regaining lost territory, cutting a wedge into Japanese supply lines and carrying the fight to the enemy.

The marines were only a part of the attacking task force under command of Vice Admiral Robert L. Ghormley. They performed the necessary landing and cross-country fighting operations. But back of them was stout naval power and strong air forces which gave the Yankees a superiority the Japs had hitherto held.

U. S. AIR FORCE: Active in Europe

The long-awaited entry of American fighting planes on a large scale into the European air war took place when U. S. fighting craft engaged in 31 operational sorties.

This baptism was regarded as a forerunner of the time when the sky above Germany would be filled with destruction-laden American planes. In the initial operations, United States fighter squadrons flying in conjunction with Royal Air Force units made three flights over the French coast. Twenty other aerial missions were over the sea and eight were interception sorties off the coast of England, according to a communique of the United States European headquarters.

Meanwhile the RAF's assaults on German industrial centers continued with another blistering attack on Mainz in which high explosives and incendiaries were again rained down. The effectiveness of the British air blitz was attested by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda, who admitted that Germany is suffering "painful wounds" from the RAF's summer offensive, in an article for "Das Reich."

NAVY: Policy Board Reshaped

Two sea dogs grown gray in their country's service were added to the navy general board, when Secretary Frank Knox announced a reorganization of the committee. They were Admiral Arthur J. Heppburn, retired, who was named chairman of the board, and Admiral Thomas C. Hart, retired, former commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet.

The board's functions are to advise the secretary on matters of policy. The navy said the board's duties and responsibilities had greatly increased since America's entry into the war and that the reorganization brought to the board officers well qualified to deal with vital problems arising out of the war.

FARM INCOME: Ahead of HCL

Increases in farm income have thus far been able to outrun rises in the cost of living, it was disclosed in a department of agriculture survey which showed that while net income of farm families averaged 46 per cent higher in 1941 and in the first three months of 1942 than in the comparable period in 1935-36, living costs had increased approximately one-third. Thus income outstripped the rise in living costs.

RUSSIA: Cossacks No Barrier

The appearance which Russian communiques placed on "saber-bearing Cossacks" suggested that the Red forces in the Caucasus lacked the heavy tank and armored equipment with which Nazi advances had previously been repelled.

The appearance of new geographic names in the communiques—Cherkess, Kotelnikovski, Krasnodor and Maikop—indicated the rapidity with which the German steamroller had been able to flatten out Russian resistance and move on to new objectives.

There was no doubt that Russia needed a second front and knew it. A Soviet communique acknowledged that one swift thrust had brought the Nazis to Mineralnye Vody, only 140 miles as the crow flies from the oil wells of Grozny.

But things were not completely hopeless. While the Germans had seized some oil in the Maikop area of the Caucasus, the big prize was still out of their reach. Between them and Baku rose the barrier of the Caucasus mountains. Moreover, Marshal Timoshenko's forces were contesting every mile of advance stubbornly.

In an area north of the Caucasus the Russian position was grave, for Stalingrad, industrial city of the Volga, was menaced by a Nazi pincer movement from the Kietskaya area on the north and the Kotelnikovski sector in the south.

INDIA: Gandhi Spins

As Mohandas K. Gandhi worked at his spinning wheel in his sumptuous prison in the Aga Khan's palace, the harvest of his passive resistance campaign against the British was a series of bloody riots that spread to the far corners of India.

Madras, heart of India's war industries, populous Bombay, Wardha in the central provinces and Madura in the far south had been the scenes of outbreaks, despite official threats of death and flogging for all who took part in the revolution. That the British had the situation well in hand was indicated by the fact that the disorders were sporadic and confined to big cities, whereas the countryside was virtually unaffected.

Meanwhile in Washington, the state department made it clear that American military forces in India had been ordered to "exercise scrupulous care to avoid the slightest participation in India's internal political problems." A statement explained that "The sole purpose of the American forces in India is to prosecute war of the United Nations against the Axis powers."

PRIMARIES: Triumphant Fish

As political wiseacres examined the results of primary elections in five states, one conclusion emerged, isolationism was apparently fading out of the picture as a prime political issue.

HAMILTON FISH

Outstanding example of this trend was the result in President Roosevelt's home bailiwick, Dutchess county, New York, where Congressman Hamilton Fish, prewar critic of the President's foreign policy, won renomination by a three-to-one ratio. Informed of his success, Fish said: "Prewar issues were sunk at Pearl Harbor."

While results appeared contradictory in other states, the trend seemed to be running in this direction. Although Democratic voters defeated two prewar opponents of the administration's foreign policy in other states, these defeats were attributed by most observers to local dissatisfaction rather than emphasis on national issues. The defeated candidates in this case were Representatives Martin Sweeney of Ohio and Harry B. Coffey of Nebraska. Both were veterans in point of service in the House.

ALEUTIANS: Japs Pay Dearly

Japan was paying a high price for the occupation of three western Aleutian islands. That was evident when a navy communique disclosed that 21 Jap ships had been sunk or damaged, an undetermined number of airplanes lost and important shore installations had been blasted since the invasion was first undertaken.

Latest exploit was a surprise attack by an American task force on Kiska harbor. Caught unawares, the Japs replied to the first American shells with anti-aircraft fire. In the raid, the navy said, shore batteries were silenced by cruisers and destroyers, fires started in the enemy camp area, a cargo ship apparently sunk and "the only resistance encountered was from aircraft."

Kiska is the Japs' main base in the Aleutians, although the Nipponese have also occupied Attu and Agattu, at the tip of the island chain.

WAR SITUATION: Realism Required

Examining the war situation with cold realism, Senator Millard E. Tydings, ranking majority member of the senate naval affairs committee, warned that a United Nations victory cannot be expected before 1944 at the earliest. And, added the Maryland senator, the sooner the American people realize what lies ahead, the better off the United States will be.

"It ought to be perfectly obvious to any one that, barring some wholly unforeseen and unpredictable event," he said, in a radio broadcast, "there is not a chance for this war ending in 1942, and little chance for it to end before 1944 at the earliest, unless, of course, the United Nations are willing to submit to a Hitler-dictated peace."

Senator Tydings said it is useless to hope for a revolt of the German people against the Nazi.

"It is well to remember that the German people, whether Nazi or non-Nazi, have been winning almost constantly ever since the war started. The sooner we realize the grimness and gigantic size of the task ahead, the sooner we will have a complete comprehension of the great demands needed in blood and treasure."

SENATOR TYDINGS
"... 1944 at the earliest."

DOCTORS: Getting Scarcer

Mounting needs for doctors in the armed services will make necessary a speeding up of medical training and an expansion of their practice by physicians remaining in civilian life.

This was made evident when statistics released in Washington showed that the country has 60,000 doctors, whereas needs for military and civilian functions will require 140,000 physicians. As a result of this situation, selective service headquarters said local boards had already begun to reclassify physicians who can be spared from civilian service.

For every 1,000,000 men in the army, approximately 6,000 doctors are required. The navy's needs are 6,500 physicians to every 1,000,000 men. President Roosevelt's recent statement that 4,000,000 men are already under arms indicates that 24,000 doctors are ticketed for military service. The army recently declared it will need 20,000 more by the end of the year.

MISCELLANY:

LONDON: Soil that had not been cultivated for almost 2,000 years has been reclaimed for wartime food production in Britain, Lord Woolton, food minister, announced. This land, which is producing oats, wheat and potatoes, has not been in crop since the days the Romans moved through the district.

WASHINGTON: Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. suggested that gasoline rations for politicians be cut so that traveling salesmen in eastern states could have more motor fuel. Lodge asserted that the recent gasoline rationing order deprived salesmen of adequate gasoline and was "destroying their livelihood."

MEXICO CITY: The Mexican government gave the screen actor, Ramon Novarro, permission to enlist in the United States army without losing his Mexican citizenship. It was announced here.

ON THE HOME FRONT

EVERYONE knows that quick meals in the kitchen save time, but it was both time and space that had to be saved in this kitchen where breakfasts were eaten on the run and the children had but a few minutes for lunch. The problem was solved by building a 16-inch-wide counter under a window and then making simple stools to be slipped under it when not in use. The dimensions and construction of the stools are shown here. A saw, a screw driver and a wood chisel are the only tools that were used.

The stools were painted cream color to match the woodwork and the counter was covered with blue linoleum like the floor covering. Cream colored place mats, napkins and window curtains embroidered in colorful Mexican figures were then added to give a smart note of gaiety.

NOTE: These curtains, mats and napkins were made of flour bags and the gay figures tell a story of life down Mexico way. A flower seller; a peon on his burro; a caballero with his guitar; a man leading a pig to market, and girls carrying jugs and baskets on their heads are all worked in simple outline stitch. Transfer pattern including enough figures for six mats, six napkins, borders for one pair of curtains and extra figures for several pot holders, is available to our readers. It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

CHAPTER XIX

Light was good in the Canyon, now.

"Yon's the cabin," Step called softly. "Slow down!"

He moved to look over a big boulder. After a long time of staring, he walked out and past the great rock. Con and Martino followed.

The stone house was small, a single spacious room built of native stone. The gaping windows were dark blurs against the weathered gray of the walls. Step shook his head.

"Reckon nobody's using it. Let's scatter out some. I'll go left. Con, you go 'way right. Martino, middle for you."

They moved as directed. As he walked toward the stone house, Con listened to the faraway rattle of the firing. He came up to the cabin, looked at it and turned to place Step and Martino. Neither was in sight from where he stood, for his had been the longest move. He could not look into the window openings. They were small and set high. There was a door opening, but no door. He went cautiously up to look in and listen. But he saw nothing, heard nothing, inside. He set his carbine down and fished a match out of his hand, to relight his cigarette. Then, around the corner from the cabin front, Dud Parmore stepped carelessly, humming.

Con stared, not moving.

"The Raniers told us that you're not Comanche Linn," Dud said abruptly.

"Linn was killed after that Salado business."

The tip of Dud's tongue came out to wet his lips. Con took a step toward Dud and, exactly as if pushed by a pole, Dud took a step backward. Another step, and Dud duplicated it in reverse. The third step took them both out into the open, clear of the cabin. There was a heavy report that jerked Con from his grim concentration upon keeping control of Dud; a shot from the cabin wall.

Dud staggered. Then, like a drowsing cat stabbed, he whirled to face Martino, screamed, flashed his hands to twin Colts and whipped them out with speed that fairly blurred the movement. Martino sent another big slug crashing into him, but Dud was already falling twistedly backward. His groans almost together and the bullets rang on the wall. Martino stared savagely down, then sighed gustily and put up a hand to rub his cheek.

"We walked right into each other," Con said slowly. Well! He's had it coming for a long time. We'd better get going!"

As they got nearer, the sound of the firing drew Con's brows together. He began to hurry. But, without meeting anyone, they came out of the wide Canyon, where cattle and horses grazed undisturbed by the battle their brands had brought about, into a narrow gorge as deep as the valley it led from. Step waved toward the walls of the entry-canyon. But already Con had seen smoke rising from point after point up there. He nodded and they continued silently until Step halted them where a long jumble of boulders split the canyon.

Sitting comfortably behind a pair of boulders that gave him a resting notch for the carbine, Con saw that Step put down his battered hat under his stomach, before stretching at length. Then he looked up at the wall and the little carbine flamed. Like something jerked, a blue-and-black figure came sideways from high on the left wall, began to turn over and over in air. It fell with the seeming of slowness, then vanished on a level with Con's eyes.

"Come on!" he ordered. "Four down. Kind of timid souls, looks like. Maybe wondering about these doings behind 'em. Keep to the walls and watch!"

They edged along the rugged sides of the canyon for fifty yards. Then Martino jerked a thumb at the huddled man just ahead. Con stared and shook his head.

"Now, tie that!" Martino grunted. "Janton, Onopa constable."

Step waved them down behind boulders, again. Con could see the mouth of the narrow canyon and from the rough mesa on which it opened came heavy, ragged fire. But it was overhead that he looked. He was too close under the right wall to see anyone above him. But he understood that they were to cross-fire, Step shooting to the right, he and Martino to the left.

Just beyond him, three men seemed to be alarmed by the cry. Con began to shoot quickly, as Martino moved for a new position. Step slapped shots at the other wall. A long, shrill cry lifted above the roar of the shooting.

"They're down in the canyon! Behind us! Look out!"

Apparently, not all of the rustler defenders had taken to the guard rocks and shelves above the floor. Ducking, dodging, men began to appear straight ahead of the three. In the van he saw a big, dark man, with a hulking double of him close behind. He leveled his carbine at Latimer, saw him fall with the shot, shifted aim to the runner who had jumped aside and fired again.

The first fury of the charge slackened. The fight became a series of individual battles, between Con, Martino, and Step, each hugging his shelter, and men of the other side similarly covered. The advantage was even. But there was yelling outside where the cowboy line was. Over the concentration of hunting targets without exposing himself, Con heard the Indian-like yipping.

He moved to the side and peered around his boulder, looking down the barrel of his carbine. A hatchet face was exposed twenty feet away, above a pistol. Con fired at Gloomy Megeath and the face disappeared. Up from a rock, as if stung, jumped the lanky, yellow-haired Saint West, to drop again under the thunder of guns. Something exploded in Con's skull.

From the flat ground behind his boulder, Con felt himself falling.

"It's certainly cold for this time of year," he said politely to someone beside him. "It seems to be getting into my throat, too. Hard to talk. Wonder what I'll land on . . ."

He saw Janet come up to the train in Wild Horse and she looked at him and touched Nevil's arm.

"That is a murderer from Texas," she said. "Be very careful about him."

She stepped through the train and that seemed strange to Con. He wanted to tell her that he was—but who was he? He tried to remember, but Uncle Hugh only looked at him with blank face and refused to answer. Aunt Hetty shook her head.

"You're Mr. Norris' sister's boy, Con."

She had never called Uncle Hugh anything but Mr. Norris. But somebody, somewhere, knew who he was. A fat, cheerful man, with a round, red face like a balloon, wiped his hands on a flour-sack apron—no, his hand! For where his left arm should have been was a shining steel hook.

Con forgot to ask him about his name. Something else was much more important. He stood by the corral in the Broken Wheel doorway and looked all around him, even squatting to examine the ground close to the butts of the logs.

"I want Billy Turtle!" he yelled. "Con! Con!"

But that was just a dream. He opened his eyes and found a wall ahead of him, a cool-looking wall of buff plaster. Faces came between him and the wall, Topeka's and the doctor's and Janet's and Mrs. Tenison's. They all seemed happy about something. Even Topeka was grinning.

A hand touched his forehead and he knew that he had been asleep and someone had been humming close by. The hand was taken away and he opened his eyes.

"Sonny!" Mrs. Tenison said softly. "Sonny, are you awake?"

"Sort of," he answered thickly, and fell asleep again.

When he waked in the room again, the hand was still on his forehead. But Janet looked down at him. He smiled when she smiled.

"You — you know me?" she breathed.

"Trouble has been," he said carefully, "that you didn't know me. In spite of all my telling—"

Then he remembered the Canyon.

"What happened — at the fight?" he demanded. "Did—"

"Thanks to you and Step and Martino Palafox, Helligo Canyon is just a place, now. You came so close to getting through it all without a scratch! Then at the last you were hit three times almost at once, Martino says. On the head, in the arm and the leg. But you mustn't bother about it. The doctor says—"

"Step and Martino all right? Mr. Tenison and Caramba?"

"Step has two more scars and Martino one. But they were just flesh wounds. Your—Mr. Tenison and Caramba weren't hit. Some of the cowboys were killed; more were hurt."

He lay looking at her, thinking.

"We know about Comanche Linn, now," she said. "Both Raniers were killed in the fight. Nevil had a telegram from the Salado officers. They had found Linn, buried on a ranch where the Ranier gang often hid. Nothing that you've done, in the Territory, will ever be thought of as anything but good."

"That's fine! So, if I want to stick on the Wheel and learn the business, looking to the day when I'll have a ranch of my own—"

"A ranch of your own!" she interrupted. "Do you remember owning a turtle—a desert tortoise, that is?"

"I never did! That is, unless you count dream turtles. Three-four times a year, all my life, I've had a nightmare about hunting a turtle named Billy. But I never find him. I fall over a cliff and hurt myself—"

"Break your arm! Lie in the arroyo for hours before you're found— by your closest friend and childlike idol, Con, the one-armed cook of the Wheel!" she finished for him in a rush. "That Billy Turtle was your prize possession. He was always straying, so old Con branded him WT. You'd go hunting him, calling —and calling for Con, who was the one you turned to for help in all your affairs—"

"What are you talking about? How do you know about my dream? And more than I ever dreamed?"

"Didn't you ever wonder about this broken bone in your left arm? Didn't—that uncle ever tell you about it?"

"Happened when I was a baby. In—Horsehide."

"It happened within a quarter-mile of this house! And your scarred 'uncle' was Emory, who stole you! But—he must have had some good in him; he made a fine man of you. He—"

"You—you mean that I'm—Ware Tenison?"

"Nobody else! The evidence just rolled in, all at once! The cook remembered the name of a man scarred just as you said your 'uncle' was scarred—Emory. The doctor saw your broken arm and remembered the broken in Ware Tenison's. Then, all through your delirium, you called for Billy Turtle and Con—the things that everybody who knew you at four remembered about you. Your mother—well, you'll see her. Your father is going around one walking smile."

"I am thinking," he said very slowly, looking away from her. "If I hadn't somehow headed for this country, like a homing pigeon, you would have inherited this place. I—I have to think about that, Janet. It would have come to you, because of the way they feel toward you—"

"Come to me? Do you think for one minute that I—"

"Don't bite me! What I am thinking is—"

He managed to get a weak hand up and find hers and hold it, even draw upon it enough to bring her down closer.

"—If there might not be a way that you wouldn't lose all the Wheel? Try and think! You're an educated girl. Can't you figure some way that'll let us both have a share of the place?"

"If you're thinking what I'm thinking—I certainly can!"

And she carried the arm up, about her neck, and put her face against his.

"A fine tassel end to this lariat," he whispered. "Fine!"

(THE END)

Girl Pilot Faints, Ship Lands Safely

Learner Swoons Again on Landing After Trip.

ANN ARBOR, MICH.—Joan Tesch, 19 years old, who has had only four hours of solo flying time, was under treatment for severe shock today as a result of her harrowing experience in flying unconscious in her trainer cabin plane for a full hour last night.

Dwight Reynolds, manager of the Municipal airport and Robert Young, the girl's instructor, went aloft in their own planes to investigate why Miss Tesch kept circling the field. They were horrified when they saw her slumped against the side of the cabin, unconscious.

They flew around for several minutes, then came down and made preparations for a crash landing. A sheriff's ambulance was called to stand by. Fire extinguishers and first aid equipment were brought out. Dusk gave way to darkness. Still the plane circled aimlessly.

Finally, an hour after her takeoff, Miss Tesch regained consciousness and tried for a landing. Groggy from her experience, she twice missed the field. On the third attempt the motor stalled when her gasoline supply ran out, and she landed without lights in a farm field adjacent to the airport. The plane stopped when it bumped into a fence.

Stepping from the plane unscratched, Miss Tesch fainted again before she was taken to the hospital.

"Seeing that we were likely to be in the water for some time, I got rid of my clothing. Every time the Zeros made a pass at us I dived as deep as possible and remained under until my lungs were nearly bursting. I had to deflate my life belt three times.

"One Zero came down within 100 feet before letting go a burst of bullets. One bullet nipped off the tip of one of my fingers.

"By the time the Zeros left, I struck out for shore, but couldn't make any headway against the current. My buddies were disappearing out to sea.

"By nightfall I was five miles offshore and did not know in what direction to swim. During the afternoon a boat had put out from shore, but I dived, feeling certain it was a Japanese vessel.

"I spent a terrible night, alternately swimming and dozing. Once I dreamed I was back aboard the bomber, bouncing about in a terrible storm.

Tries to Catch Raindrops.

"Next morning I was closer to shore, being carried by a current parallel to the beach. During the day I tried to ease my thirst by opening my mouth to catch raindrops.

"Forty-two hours after the bomber came down I drifted into shallow water and staggered ashore. I spent a few hours recovering some strength and drinking milk from coconuts.

"Naked, without shoes, and with my body already badly sunburned, I set off in the general direction of our base. After seven days I met the survivors of another plane crash, carrying their wounded pilot on a litter.

"I'm dying to get into the fight again. I'll have no mercy on those Japanese for what they did to us in the water."

Another Boner: Student Is One Who Uses Brain

BERKELEY, CALIF.—Correcting examination papers at a large university is not all dull routine. Now and then the professors come across some choice "boners."

Here are some gathered in a survey by the Daily Californian student publication of the University of California:

"The dome of St. Clement's is supported by eight peers all of which are unfortunately cracked."

"Browning wrote principally heroic cutlets."

"Shakespeare lived at Windsor with his merry wives."

"A spinster is a bachelor's wife."

"The object of 'he' is 'she.'"

"William Tell shot an arrow through an apple while standing on his son's head."

"The opposite of pessimist is bigamist."

"A grass widow is the wife of a vegetarian."

"The Mediterranean and the Red sea are connected by the Sewage canal."

Bible Saved Man in '18; Soldiers of '42 Get Them

LEBANON, TENN.—Because a New Testament saved Ross Neal from death by German shrapnel fragments at St. Mihiel in the first World war, the Lebanon Church of Christ ordered New Testaments which will be sent to all of its members now in service.

Neal, who enlisted at New Orleans in the marine corps at the beginning of the first World war, still has the Testament with an inch-long piece of shrapnel imbedded in its pages, where it struck directly over his heart.

As a gesture of thanksgiving for Neal's escape, the church has ordered 24 Testaments, inscribed with the names of the members now in service, and will send the books to them.

$20,000 Fortune Found

On Body of Iowa Woman

OSKALOOSA, IOWA.—Although she was not known as a wealthy woman, when Mrs. Lillian Crispin, 81, died, officers found six money bags tied to her waist.

It was estimated that she had been wearing $20,000 when she died. One of the envelopes concealed on her person contained a stack of $20 and $100 bills four inches high.

Wounded in Sea, Nude U. S. Flyer Walks 80 Miles

Anxious to Get Back Into Fight to Seek Revenge For Slain Buddies.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—Shot down at sea and wounded by Japanese fliers as he floated in a life belt, Corp. Louis Murphy, 25-year-old United States airman from Bridgeport, Conn., has reached an Allied base after a two-day swim and 18 days of walking naked and hungry over 80 miles of wild country.

The other crew members of his bomber all apparently were killed in the water by low-diving Japanese planes.

Here is Murphy's own story: "Our bomber had been attacking Lae, New Guinea, when an overwhelming force of Jap Zeros attacked and shot us down. The crew swam about in Mae Wests (brilliant orange colored life belts). The Zeros began machine gunning us, so we separated.

Got Rid of Clothing.

"Seeing that we were likely to be in the water for some time, I got rid of my clothing. Every time the Zeros made a pass at us I dived as deep as possible and remained under until my lungs were nearly bursting. I had to deflate my life belt three times.

Here's New Reason Not To Pilfer Church Box

NEW YORK.—The punch of a six-foot priest must be reckoned with by those who seek to pilfer the poor box of the Sacred Heart church.

The Rev. Father U. T. Gilmartin proved this when he sprinted from his quiet rectory, cackock whipping in the wind, caught the suspected thief, threw a left to his jaw and downed him.

Then he hoisted him to his feet and marched him to the police station, where the man was booked on burglary charges.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman
Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.
DAMPNESS IN HOUSES OFTEN DUE TO METHOD OF PLASTERING

COMPLAINTS of cold and damp houses are likely to be due to the application of inside plaster directly to outside masonry walls; brick, tile, concrete blocks and stone. Properly, plaster should be on lath to provide an insulating air space. Without it the plaster becomes almost as cold as the masonry itself, and the house air in contact with it becomes chilled. Further, moisture in the house air condenses against it, often to such an extent that the wallpaper comes off. This defect in construction can be noticed by placing the hand on the inner surface of an outside wall to compare its temperature with that of a wall between two rooms. The appearance of wet spots on a plaster wall covering an inside chimney is from a similar condition; the chimney brickwork is cold, and in chilling the plaster that is applied directly to it, will result in condensation from damp house air. Such situations can be remedied only by protecting the inside plaster against the low temperature of the masonry. One method would be to replace the inside plaster with plaster on lath on furring strips; another, to sheathe the inner surface of the outside walls with insulating board. With this protection a house would be much more comfortable in cold weather because the house air would not be affected by the low temperature of the walls.

Wall Smoked Black

Question: We have a new house heated with a forced air furnace. In about four weeks after starting the fire, the living-room wall around the register was smoked black. The furnace engineer, without examining the furnace, said the soiling was not from smoke, but from dust, rug lint, etc. We doubt this, as everything is new and clean. What do you think?

Answer: Soiling around registers is usually from open joints around the firebox; probably through breaks in the cemented joints. These should be recemented at a time when the fire is out. In the meantime, lift out the register and cover the end of the pipe with fabric mosquito netting, preferably dark in color, which will be held in place when the register is returned to position.

Sagging Floors

Question: The floors in my very old house are sagging because of the weight of the massive chimney in the center. As the walls have just been plastered, I do not wish to have the floors raised. I am thinking of taking up the hardwood flooring and putting a filler underneath. What could I use for this?

Answer: The sagging of the floors may indicate serious troubles, the settling of foundations, the rotting or destruction of floor beams and other woodwork, or some similar trouble. It would be a waste of time and money to do any kind of repair work without knowing the exact condition of the house. I strongly recommend that you have a thorough examination made by a competent builder.

Cellar Floor Paint

Question: Part of the cellar of my house is used as a kitchen and general utility room. The cement floor has been painted a number of times with cement paint, but with unsatisfactory results; it peels off and the cement shows through. How can I finish that floor to stand reasonable wear?

Answer: You must use special paint for the job; a kind of paint that is proof against the lime in the cement. One variety that gives excellent results is based on rubber. Any large paint dealer should be able to supply it. Cement paint is not intended for a floor, although it is also proof against lime. It is excellent for walls that do not receive wear.

Fire-Stained Walls

Question: We recently had a fire in our home, and the walls are covered with black smoke stains. What should be done before we re-paper?

Answer: Take off the old paper, or if the walls are not papered, wash with a solution of washing soda in water, a pound to the gallon. Rinse with clear water and allow to dry thoroughly.

Bathroom Ventilation

Question: Must a bathroom be ventilated by running a pipe through the roof?

Answer: Ventilation and other details of a plumbing installation are covered in the plumbing code of the neighborhood. If this code is not followed, you may get into trouble with the authorities.

Mrs. Clara Seaton Will Teach Music Here

Mrs. Clara Seaton announces this week that she will take a class in piano here when school starts. Mrs. Seaton has been living in Rockport since May, having moved here to be near her son, L. E. Jones, Jr., of Corpus Christi, who is an attorney for the Department of Justice.

Mrs. Seaton was educated in Sherman, graduating in music in 1907 from Kidd Key College. She was a student of Ludwig von Mickschitz and Detweiler, and later studied with Ruby Hilderbrand, graduate of the Boston Conservatory.

After several years as a teacher of music in East Texas, she was made musical director of City Recreation in San Antonio. During this period Mrs. Seaton attended classes of the National Recreation Association in New York. She has recently done some study in the University of San Antonio, receiving credits in public school music.

In addition to piano, Mrs. Seaton will teach rhythm band and folk dancing and old fashioned dancing. She will maintain a studio in her home.

Mrs. Jack Sparks left Monday for Boise, Idaho, where Jack is now stationed. She expects to stay a month.

Mrs. Mary L. Clewis is returning today, Thursday, to her home in San Antonio. She spent the last two months in Rockport visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Clobberdants Leads Program For Auxiliary Meeting

The August meeting of the Presbyterian Auxiliary was held in the church Monday with Mrs. Floyd Smith, president, in charge of a business session. A devotional on "Righteousness" was given by Mrs. Fred Clobberdants, who also led a program on the subject, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" She was assisted by Mrs. Carl Gentry, Mrs. Ted Little and Mrs. Hugh Morrison. The program closed with sentence prayers by other members.

A guest, Mrs. Russell Faulkner of Austin was present, the members were those named and Mrs. E. H. Norvell, Mrs. Henry Bailey, Mrs. W. H. Morrison, and Mrs. T. H. Pollard.

Housewarming Held In New Home Of John Kellers

The new home of Mrs. John Keller was the scene of a housewarming and shower given by Mrs. H. G. Smith and Mrs. Emil Keller as hostesses Saturday afternoon.

Guests presented their gifts as they arrived and were taken on a tour of inspection of the new home. Summer flowers were placed attractively throughout the rooms. The hostesses served sweets, sandwiches and iced drinks.

Those present were Mrs. Somer Smith, Mr. Ed Billing, Mrs. L. C. Reddock, Mrs. V. C. Hapner, Mrs. Urban Hemmi, Mrs. F. A. Keller, Mrs. J. F. Whitlaw, Mrs. Charles Garrett, Mrs. A. L. Brundrett, Mrs. Leonard Casterline, Mrs. Harry Mills, Mrs. Robert Key, Mrs. J. A. Young, Mrs. Lloyd Smith, Mrs. Fred Diederich, Mr. and Mrs. Max Appelt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Appelt, Mrs. J. H. Schleider, Mrs. Ollie Schleider, Mrs. Leonard Roberts, Mrs. R. Hapner, Mrs. Alex Stewart, Mrs. Lyle Diederich, Miss Sarah Belle Smith and Miss Beatrice Keller.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Noah Smith arrived over the week-end for a stay in their summer home here. With them were Mr. and Mrs. Tiny Smith and their little daughter, Sugar; and Waldon Smith and his son, Waldon Jr. The ladies will remain for two weeks.

KAYS M LUM

There is some uneasiness among Judge Priddy's friends here about his welcome when he arrives. Denver. He "softened" the first up there two weeks ago by sending his grandson a pair of young armadillos.

This pertinent little verse by Julia Beazley was found in the August issue of the Texas Outlook: 1492-1942

"In fourteen hundred ninety two, Columbus sailed the ocean blue" A mighty deed of derring-do. But if his title he would keep, Of champion sailor of the deep, Let him break his laureled sleep; Let him bring a vessel through That sub-infested ocean blue In nineteen hundred forty two.

Those women in uniform who were turning all heads Saturday noon were not WAAC's but were army nurses, Lt. Maxine Coble, Lt. Lorene Chancey, and Lt. Grace Kethcart. They were transferring from Fort Knox, Ky., to Moore Field at Mission. This is the first trip to Texas for all of them. They looked right chic, didn't they?

We have been promised a recipe for baked custard that is easy and fast to make, and so good you wake up in the middle of the night and think about it. Coming up next week.

Teachers Return From Summer School In Huntsville

Mrs. C. C. Hayden and her children Jimmy, Cloyce and Nancy with Miss Ellen Johnson will return Thursday from Huntsville where Mrs. Hayden and Miss Johnson have been attending the summer session of Sam-Houston State Teacher's College.

CPL Serves Main Street - NOT Wall Street!

OUR INTERESTS lie in Main Street! By Main Street, we mean, of course the farm communities, small towns, cities and surrounding areas which make up South and Southwest Texas. Because Central Power and Light has no Wall Street connections, we have no interest in "sending money to Wall Street." Wherever possible CPL spends its money on the Main Streets of South and Southwest Texas. This money goes for fuel, supplies, wages, taxes, and the hundred and one items it takes to give good utility service. Because our employees are Texans, because about one-half of our stockholders and all of our officers and directors are Texans, CPL is primarily a Texas company -serving Texas, not Wall Street.

CPL Pays No Tribute to Wall Street When you hear somebody say about CPL that "they're owned by people in Wall Street," put it down as so much loose talk. CPL pays no tribute to Wall Street. CPL stockholders and bondholders live in nearly every state in the Union. Almost half of the stockholders live right here in Texas and are your friends and neighbors.

JUNK needed for War

In the attics and cellars of homes, in garages, tool sheds, and on farms, is a lot of Junk which is doing no good where it is, but which is needed at once to help smash the Japs and Nazis.

Scrap iron and steel, for example. Old radiators, lengths of pipe, refrigerators, garbage pails, broken garden tools...

It may be rusty, old "scrap" to you, but it is actually refined steel, with most impurities removed—and can be quickly melted with new metal in the form of pig iron to produce highest quality steel for our war machines.

Even in peacetime our Nation relied on scrap to provide about 50% of the raw material for steel. Now production of steel has gone up, up, UP, until today America is turning out as much steel as all the rest of the world combined.

But unless at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap steel is uncovered promptly, the full rate of production cannot be attained or increased; the necessary tanks, guns, and ships cannot be produced.

The rubber situation is also critical. In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber. Also for other waste materials and metals like brass, copper, zinc, lead, and tin.

America needs your active assistance in rounding up these materials. The Junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Will you help?

First—collect all your waste material and pile it up.

Then—sell it to a Junk dealer, give it to a charity, take it yourself to the nearest collection point, or get in touch with your Local Salvage Committee.

If you live on a farm, consult your County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

A JOINT RESOLUTION

proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas authorizing the Legislature to appropriate Seventy-five Thousand ($75,000) Dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay claims incurred by John Tarleton Agricultural College for the construction of a building on the campus of such college pursuant to the deficiency authorization by the Governor of Texas on August 31st, 1937.

Section 1. That the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding a new section, as follows:

"The Legislature is authorized to appropriate so much money as may be necessary, not to exceed Seventy-five Thousand ($75,000) Dollars, to pay claims incurred by John Tarleton Agricultural College for the construction of a building on the campus of such college pursuant to the deficiency authorization by the Governor of Texas on August 31st, 1937."

Sec. 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1942, at which all ballots shall have printed thereon: For the constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to pay for building constructed for John Tarleton Agricultural College; and

"Against the constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to pay for building constructed for John Tarleton Agricultural College."

Each voter shall scratch out one of said clauses on the ballot, leaving the one expressing his vote on the proposed amendment.

Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State. The expenses of publication and election for such amendment shall be paid out of proper appropriation made by law.

H. J. R. No. 1
A JOINT RESOLUTION

proposing an amendment to Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas by adding a new section thereto to be known as Section 49a, requiring all bills passed by the Legislature on and after January 1, 1945, appropriating money for any purpose to be sent to the Comptroller of Public Accounts for his approval, and fixing the duties of the Comptroller with reference thereto; authorizing the Legislature to provide for the issuance, sale, and retirement of serial bonds, equal in principal to the total outstanding, valid, and approved obligations owing by the General Revenue Fund on September 1, 1943; providing for the submission of this amendment to the voters of this State; prescribing the form of ballot; providing for the proclamation and publication thereof; and providing for the necessary appropriation to defray necessary expenses for the submission of this amendment.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto, immediately after Section 49, a section to be known as Section 49-a to read as follows:

"Section 49a. It shall be the duty of the Comptroller of Public Accounts in advance of each regular session of the Legislature to prepare and submit to the Governor and to the Legislature upon its convening a statement under oath showing fully the financial condition of the State Treasury at the close of the last fiscal period and an estimate of the probable receipts and disbursements for the then current fiscal year. There shall also be contained in said statement an itemized estimate of the anticipated revenue based on the laws then in effect that will be received by and for the State from all sources showing the fund accounts to be credited during the succeeding biennium and said statement shall contain such other information as may be required by law. Supplemental statements shall be submitted at any Special Session of the Legislature and at such other times as may be necessary to show probable changes.

"From and after January 1, 1945 save in the case of emergency and imperative public necessity and with a four-fifths vote of the total membership of each House, no appropriation in excess of the cash and anticipated revenue of the funds from which such appropriation is to be made shall be valid. From and after January 1, 1945, no bill containing an appropriation shall be considered as passed or be sent to the Governor for consideration until and unless the Comptroller of Public Accounts endorses his certificate thereon showing that the amount appropriated is within the amount estimated to be available in the affected funds. When the Comptroller finds an appropriation bill exceeds the estimated revenue he shall endorse such finding thereon and return to the House in which same originated. Such information shall be immediately made known to both the House of Representatives and the Senate and the necessary steps shall be taken to bring such appropriation to within the revenue, either by providing additional revenue or reducing the appropriation.

"For the purpose of financing the outstanding obligations of the General Revenue Fund of the State and placing its current accounts on a cash basis the Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby authorized to provide for the issuance, sale, and retirement of serial bonds, equal in principal to the total outstanding, valid, and approved obligations owing by said fund on September 1, 1943, provided such bonds shall not draw interest in excess of two (2) per cent per annum and shall mature within twenty (20) years from date."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the State of Texas, at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1942, at which all ballots shall have printed thereon: For the constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to pay for building constructed for John Tarleton Agricultural College; and

"Against the constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to pay for building constructed for John Tarleton Agricultural College."

Each voter shall scratch out one of said clauses on the ballot, leaving the one expressing his vote on the proposed amendment.

Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State. The expenses of publication and election for such amendment shall be paid out of proper appropriation made by law.

proposing an Amendment to Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas authorizing the lending of Two Million Dollars ($2,000,000) of the Permanent School Fund for the construction of a State office building or buildings; providing for the repayment to the Permanent School Fund; providing for the submission of this Amendment to the voters of this State; and providing for the necessary proclamation and expense publication.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto a new section to be known as Section 49-b, which shall read as follows:

"Section 49-b. The Legislature may provide by law for the issuance of not more than Two Million Dollars ($2,000,000) in bonds or obligations of the State of Texas to the Permanent School Fund for the construction in the City of Austin of a State office building or buildings, and the State Board of Education is hereby directed to invest not more than Two Million Dollars ($2,000,000) of the Permanent School Fund therein. Such bonds shall be executed on behalf of the State of Texas by the Governor and Comptroller, and shall bear a rate of interest not to exceed three (3) per cent per annum, payable annually; they shall be of such denomination as may be prescribed by law, and shall be payable in not to exceed twenty-five (25) equal installments beginning one (1) year from date of issuance; and the State Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to set aside into a special fund annually at the beginning of each fiscal year until all of said bonds have been paid off and discharged, a sufficient amount of the first moneys coming into the Treasury for Revenue Fund not otherwise heretofore obligated to the payment of bonds and interest, a sufficient amount to pay the interest becoming due and the bonds maturing during such fiscal year. From said Fund, the Treasurer shall pay the interest on said bonds as it comes due, to the credit of the Available School Fund; and shall pay off said bonds as they become due and deposit the amounts so paid to the credit of Permanent School Fund. The power hereby granted to issue bonds is expressly limited to the amount stated and to five (5) years from and after the adoption of this grant by the people."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Texas at an election to be held on the third day of November, 1942, at which election all voters favoring such proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"For the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas authorizing the investment of not more than Two Million Dollars ($2,000,000) of the Permanent School Fund in bonds of the State of Texas to be issued for the construction of a State office building or buildings and providing for the repayment of the said sum of money to the Permanent School Fund."

Those voters opposing said Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"Against the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas authorizing the investment of not more than Two Million Dollars ($2,000,000) of the Permanent School Fund in bonds of the State of Texas to be issued for the construction of a State office building or buildings and providing for the repayment of the said sum of money to the Permanent School Fund."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and existing laws of the State.

Sec. 4. The sum of Eight Thousand Dollars ($8,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses of said publication and election.

H. J. R. No. 24
A JOINT RESOLUTION

proposing an Amendment to Article V of the Constitution of Texas by providing that the Legislature shall have the power by local or general law, in counties having a population in excess of two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants to create other courts having exclusive jurisdiction or concurrent jurisdiction with the county court in civil, criminal or probate matters; fixing the time for an election therefor; prescribing the form of ballot; providing for a proclamation of such election and the advertisement thereof; and making an appropriation therefor.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. Article V of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto a new Section to be known as Section 22-a and reading as follows:

"Section 22-a. The Legislature shall have the power by local or general law (without the necessity of advertising any such local law), in counties having a population in excess of two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants according to the then last Federal Census, to create other courts having either exclusive jurisdiction or concurrent jurisdiction with the county court in civil, criminal or probate matters."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Texas at a special election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1942, at which time all voters favoring such proposed amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots the following:

"For the Amendment to the Constitution, providing that the Legislature may in certain counties create other courts having either exclusive jurisdiction or concurrent jurisdiction with the county court in civil, criminal or probate matters."

Those voters opposed to such Amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots the following:

"Against the Amendment to the Constitution, providing that the Legislature may in certain counties create other courts having either exclusive jurisdiction or concurrent jurisdiction with the county court in civil, criminal or probate matters."

If it appears from the returns of said election that a majority of the votes cast is in favor of the Amendment, the same shall become part of the Constitution of the State of Texas.

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for such an election and to have it published as required by the Constitution and existing laws of this State.

Sec. 4. The sum of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000) or so much as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses of said publication and election.

S. J. R. No. 20
A JOINT RESOLUTION

proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas by amending Section 33 of Article 16, of the Constitution of Texas so as to permit the accounting officers of this State to draw and pay warrants for salaries to officers of the United States Army or Navy who are assigned to duties in State Institutions of higher education.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Section 33 of Article 16, of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 33. The accounting officers of this State shall neither draw nor pay a warrant upon the Treasury in favor of any person, for salary or compensation as agent, officer or appointee, who holds at the same time any other office or position of honor, trust, or profit under this State or the United States, except as prescribed in this Constitution. Provided that this restriction as to the drawing and paying of warrants upon the Treasury shall not apply to officers of the National Guard of Texas, the National Guard Reserve, the Officers Reserve Corps of the United States, nor to enlisted men of the National Guard, the National Guard Reserve, and the Organized Reserves of the United States, nor to retired officers of the United States Army, Navy, and Marine Corps and retired warrant officers and retired enlisted men of the United States Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, nor to officers of the United States Army or Navy who are assigned to duties in State Institutions of higher education."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at an election to be held throughout the State on the third day of November, 1942, at which all ballots shall have printed thereon:

"For the Constitutional Amendment permitting the accounting officers of this State to draw and pay warrants for salaries to officers of the United States Army or Navy who are assigned to duties in State Institutions of higher education"

"Against the Constitutional Amendment permitting the accounting officers of this State to draw and pay warrants for salaries to officers of the United States Army or Navy who are assigned to duties in State Institutions of higher education."

Each voter shall scratch out one of said clauses on the ballots, leaving the one expressing his vote on the proposed amendment.

Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election, and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State, and the sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated from any funds in the State Treasury, not otherwise appropriated to defray the expenses of printing said proclamation and of holding said election.

In its great war production effort, the steel industry of America this year will consume about three times as much scrap iron and steel as it needed in 1939.

Scrap iron and steel were important raw materials in Civil War days. The open hearth furnace, which today uses 90 percent of the scrap consumed by the steel industry was not operated in this country until 1868.

New Instructions How to Fight Fire Bombs

R. E. Smith, director of the Eighth Civilian Defense Region, today requested that all citizens of this defense region familiarize themselves with the official instructions from the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense as to how to fight fire bombs.

"These new instructions are based on exhaustive research by technicians of OCD and the Chemical Warfare Service, U. S. Army," said Smith. "They represent changes now adopted by British officials after careful analysis of the results of both this and the old method during actual air raids. Both American and British tests prove that a jet of water, as illustrated below, will knock out the fire bomb in less than one minute—before major fires can get started. Fire (not the bomb) is the chief danger, and a jet of water is the best weapon. Respect the fire bomb but do not fear it."

Mr. Smith called the following instructions to the attention of all citizens, explaining that the instructions have been revised during July as a result of the research made by OCD technicians.

BRING YOUR FIRE FIGHTING EQUIPMENT TO THE SCENE QUICKLY. The small magnesium bomb, which is dropped in great numbers, will go through any ordinary roof. Store your equipment where it can be reached easily and keep it ready for instant use.

SHOOT A JET OF WATER ON THE BOMB AT ONCE: Take cover behind a door, chair or other furniture, if you can, when you do this. The jet knocks the bomb out quickly. There will be a burst of white flame and a scattering of molten metal most of which will be driven away from you by the force of the jet.

QUENCH PROMPTLY THE REMAINS OF THE BOMB AND ANY OTHER FIRES: If any small fires are started the jet will put these out easily. Within a short time you will be free to attack any other bombs which may have fallen nearby. Be absolutely sure all the fire is out before you leave.

JET MAY PREVENT ACTION OF BURSTER: Some bombs have a small burster attachment. When the jet is used promptly, the bomb may be destroyed before the charge goes off.

THE PUMP TANK HOLDS ENOUGH WATER TO PUT OUT TWO BOMBS WHEN JET IS USED: The Office of Civilian Defense will distribute a 4-gallon pump tank extinguisher to the air raid warden service in target areas. The tank can be refilled while the pump is being used.

KNOW YOUR EXTINGUISHER: All fire extinguishers that contain water or water solutions of chemicals can be used on the bomb. These include the soda-acid, foam, and gas cartridge types.

Other types of extinguishers should not be used on the bomb, because they do not contain water, but they can be used on fires started by bombs. Remember your garden hose is one of the best fire fighting devices so long as there is water pressure.

June Registrants Now Subject To Classification

Selective Service Boards Mailing Questionnaires To Twenty-Year Olds

Immediate classification of Selective Service Registrants of the Fifth Registration (June 30th) is announced by General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director.

Local Boards throughout the State have been instructed by State Headquarters memorandum to proceed immediately with the classification of all registrants of the Fifth Registration who have reached their twentieth birthday.

FALLS WHERE IT CANNOT START A FIRE OR IF WATER IS NOT AVAILABLE: This can be done by dropping a bag of sand over the bomb, or by the shovel and bucket technique.

The men registered in the Fifth Registration, General Page pointed out, were those between the ages of eighteen and twenty, inclusive, and in Texas affected approximately 132,000 men.

"The Selective Training and Service Act, as amended," General Page stated, "sets out that, except as otherwise provided, every male citizen of the United States and every male person residing in the United States, who is between the ages of twenty and forty-five at the time fixed for registration, or who attains the age of twenty, after having been required to register, shall be liable for service in the land or naval forces of the United States."

"Accordingly, all registrants of the Fifth Registration are, upon reaching their twentieth birthday, subject to induction when their order number is reached." No national lottery was or will be held for registrants of this age group, General Page stated, and order numbers have been assigned on the basis of birth dates of the registrants (and alphabetically as to registrants born on the same date).

Registrants who have not reached their twentieth birthday will not be mailed a questionnaire, he said, but immediately upon attaining their twentieth birthday they will be mailed a questionnaire and classified in accordance with current Selective Service Regulations and policy for filling calls.

THE brilliant pitching record set by Spud Chandler, Georgia's former half-back, has brought an old discussion out of the dust. How many former football luminaries have also starred under baseball's Big Tent?

More than a few managers, Joe McCarthy especially, believe football is a bad dish for any baseball player to take on.

They figure football takes too heavy a toll in injured ligaments, battered shoulders and wounded ankles or knees.

They also point to the long list of football stars who made their bids for the big league, only to blow the job.

But there were more than a few who didn't blow.

Among the First

Christy Mathewson was better known as a football star at Bucknell than he was as a pitcher.

He had just won a major Bucknell game with a long drop kick when he came to the Giants, where Andy Freeman wanted him to play first base. A college football star was a sensation in those days.

About the same time a big California football star by the name of Orvie Overall came to the Cubs. He was among the best.

Mickey Cochrane was a better football player at Boston U. than he was at baseball. Mickey had everything an All-America entry needs.

Lou Gehrig was among Columbia's better backs.

Eddie Collins was a Columbia quarter-back of first class merit before starring at second for the Athletics, where he first played under an assumed name.

Jim Thorpe was a fine outfielder, but Jim couldn't quite locate a fast breaking curve.

Reese and Collins came up from football at Vanderbilt to join the Giants and Dodgers. Ernie Nevers, one of football's best, couldn't quite stick in the majors. Schoolboy Rowe was another football star.

Joe Gordon was a football wonder as an Oregon freshman before they made him stick to baseball.

Gordon would have been as big a star in pro football as he is in baseball. Ask Tuffy Leemans.

The tops of the football - baseball combinations were Mathewson, Overall, Cochrane, Collins, Gehrig and Chandler.

There have been more than we have mentioned here, but this sextette has the lead.

Trained Muscles

The majority of all the leading stars were one-game people. Bobby Jones, for example, played no other game but golf until he was grown. Every muscle in his body was trained and developed for a golf swing.

Bob had no conflicting muscles that wouldn't work together.

Schoolboy Rowe was a star at football, golf, tennis, shot-putting and other pastimes while playing baseball. Over-developed muscles had no helpful effect on his pitching career.

Ty Cobb played no game but baseball. Cobb refused to swing a golf club until near the end of his major league career.

Ty still insists the two swings are different. They are in Cobb's case, as Ty in baseball was more of a puncher than a swinger. Ruth, Speaker and others were swingers who could play golf in the 70s.

The Case of Chandler

The case of Spurgeon Chandler, the Carnesville Clipper, takes an unusual angle.

Here is a pitcher who has won 22 of his last 24 games, turning back to the summer of 1941. And this happened after he had passed his 32nd birthday.

As a starter it took Chandler five years and a touring jaunt through seven different cities before he finally parked himself on a Yankee bench. After that a yanked arm ligament and later a broken ankle were no great help.

When Spud dropped his first four games last spring his outlook was about as sunny and as cheerful as a windowless cellar.

And then it happened—10 straight for 1941—12 out of 14 for 1942—and almost every game brilliantly pitched.

I recall years ago Harry Mehre, then Georgia's coach, telling me that Chandler was one of the hardest workers on his squad.

Chandler has proved that by taking the knocks and raps that came his way without a kick or an alibi. It took him 10 years to locate the smoother road, and 10 years is quite a chunk from a pitcher's career. But I doubt today that anyone can name a better pitcher.

PICNIC WEATHER
NEW YORK.—One day was so clear and beautiful that we went to the top of the hill back of my cottage for a picnic on the porch of the President's little cottage. He has had vistas cut, so that as you sit on his porch, if the weather is clear, you can see the Catskill mountains to the north and straight down across the Hudson river.

By walking a very short distance from the highest point of all, one can get a view of the foothills of the Berkshires and the Shawangunk range to the south.

We all enjoyed ourselves, except the poor cat. She had to be shut up because she went after a little dog we had with us who was completely intimidated by her. Fortunately, as we left, I remembered she must be given her freedom and the closet door was opened.

'POCKET' BIBLE

The other day, Mr. Lunsford P. Yandell came to see me in New York. From his brief case, he took three copies of a little book and told me the story of how he came across it. Because of his interest in the book, he located the original publisher and found several people who at one time or another had endorsed it. He is now having it republished, feeling that in the present crisis many people will find it valuable.

In a letter to me after his visit, there occurs the following sentence: "Conscientious parents are faced with the problem of giving their children a set of standards for their lives, some theory on which to work, whether it is called religion, or by some other name. The great barrier to arousing a youngster's interest in religion as it is taught in the churches, is the impatience of the child. To young people the Bible is a fearfully large book."

Mr. Yandell found a comment by Mr. Dale Carnegie, which strikes me as particularly interesting: "This little book contains the words of the greatest teacher of human relations the world has ever known. There is an urgent need for such a book, it should have been published centuries ago."

Well, here it is. You can carry it in your pocket or in your shopping bag and read it in odd moments. It is the complete sayings of Jesus, taken from the King James' Version, arranged by Arthur Hinds.

My generation was accustomed to reading some verses from the Bible morning and evening, or to having them read aloud in the family circle. Most of us had our favorite chapters and verses which we learned by heart and which still remain in our minds, no matter how our own special religious beliefs have developed. This is a good book to have, good company at all times.

NAVY SEES 'THE ARMY'

One night I again took some young navy men to see the show, "This Is the Army." There are not many shows you can see a second time, and enjoy them as much as the first. But I can honestly say in this case, that I had a good time myself, which was enhanced by watching my guests enjoy themselves.

Next morning, I left the train at Beacon, N. Y., so as to have a swim and lunch with Secretary and Mrs. Morgenthau. I was home by three o'clock, and we had quite a number of guests for supper at my cottage. Today there are guests again for lunch and supper, but on the whole, the day is a quiet day, which the gray sky perhaps accentuates. Not even a leaf is stirring outside of our windows now, and the purple fireweed along our brook, which I have always loved, is reflected in the water as in a looking-glass, for not a ripple is stirring.

When I awakened this morning, the sky was blue, and the birds were chirping everywhere, but now it looks as though Nature were waiting for the rain to come, or for the wind to blow.

PAINTING EXHIBITION

In the late afternoon I had to meet a train, and then go to the library for the opening of an exhibition of "Paintings of Dutchess County," by members of the Dutchess County Art association. It was a very well attended party.

The association had chosen 11 winning pictures, which are to be photographed for a calendar. The 12th is to be chosen by the public, so everybody was asked to vote and the voting will continue till the close of the exhibition at the end of this month.

NEED FOR TRAINED NURSES

I have a letter from Mrs. Nathan Straus of the American Women's Voluntary services, asking me if I would not remind women everywhere in the country that they should take a home nursing course.

There are reasons for this. Wherever possible, people with minor ailments should be cared for at home, because hospital facilities at present are being taxed to the utmost. Their resources are being so largely drawn upon, that hospital care must of necessity be limited.

Kathleen Norris Says:
Married Woman 'In Love' Is Helpless
Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

My husband went away for several weeks and during that time Douglas and I became much too intimate. I had never before experienced such absorption in my emotions.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

NO ANSWER
The "Alberta" of this letter gave up her husband and children for a man whom she does not now love, but with whom she says she was once "in love." She and "Douglas" found themselves at the mercy of the stormy, unreasonable passions that go with the unhappy state of being "in love." After that Alberta completely lost control of her reasonable self. Douglas could not get a divorce, but they went away together anyway. Then, after a few years, Douglas left her. Now Alberta has learned that her husband has been sent abroad with the medical service. She says she would do anything to regain her lost happiness. You will want to know why Kathleen Norris says she has no answer to this letter.

IT IS very hard to be anything but a complete fool when you are "in love." To be "in love" is to be in a fever, with moments of actual delirium, and nobody expects a person in such a condition to be capable of making wise decisions or of rational action.

Many men and women marry, enjoy life, raise families, consider themselves fortunate and happy people, without having known the agonies and delights, the fears and raptures of being "in love."

It is a sickness of spirit that makes everything else in life seem dreamy and far away. A woman determines she will not telephone; she cannot wait to get her hands on a telephone. She determines she will not humiliate herself by writing a letter, even as she is inscribing her passionate words on a page. She will not think about him, but she hopes at every corner to meet him, every man's coat or walk or eyes or smile brings him back to her. She will start a conversation, break it off restlessly, determine to lie down for awhile just to dream of him and spring up instantly like a person blinded by sudden pain, to put on her hat and go forth aimlessly to haunt such places as he frequents.

A woman "in love" cannot eat or sleep; she is helpless under the neglect or cruelty of the man for whom she is burning with desire, because he is as much her whole world as is the air she breathes and she can do without the one no better than she can do without the other.

Unfortunately, to many of our modern women, who are not bound down by housework, child-bearing, a generally moneyless and helpless condition as their grandmothers were, the experience of being "in love" is one that comes after marriage. Engagement, marriage, motherhood, and home-making seem a tame affair beside it. Some man, romantic, unknown, ready with subtle flatteries—about 80 per cent of being "in love" is mutual flatteries, by the way—comes out of the blue, and sensible little Nancy, who up to this point has been everything a sweet good daughter, wife, mother, friend ought to be, is carried off her feet and washed out to sea.

Ignores the Consequences. That she is living on whipped cream and caviar and terrapin and marrons glacees, and that she is going to have a good old-fashioned attack of nausea and stomach-ache after it, doesn't occur to Nancy. The very fact that this particular fruit is forbidden only adds to its flavor. She knows, looking at similar affairs going on among her friends, that after a few months the glamorous Freddie will seem to her just another shallow, simple, selfish, unreasonable man like so many of the others.

But fever is upon her, her whole body thrills and throbs with it, and for a few months of passion she will sacrifice everything she has built into her life and character.

Here is a letter characteristic of many I receive, characteristic of a situation that has meant wreckage for a good many women's lives: "Five years ago," writes Alberta, "I was living the quiet life that millions of American women live in small towns. I have two sons; they were aged five and three. My husband was a devoted but rather

The Drifter
By HELEN V. KERR
McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

"GEESE are all heading south. Time you went out, Pete, and saw the sights." Joe Green advised with a supercilious grin.

Pete thought of his friends, scattered up and down the river. They liked him, with his kind eyes and his quiet ways, and Pete needed to be liked. He let his glance stray around the walls of his neat little log cabin before answering amiably. "No. It's better here."

"I got a swell new girl waiting for me," Joe boasted with malicious satisfaction, knowing that a girl Pete couldn't forget was the cause of his flight from civilization.

Joe enjoyed talking to Pete. Such a timid, puny fellow—a drifter who had settled up here in the wilderness to hide his failure in the outside world. Joe felt as important lordling it over him as when, resplendent in city clothes, he talked some poor, dreaming widow into trusting him with her savings. He was a good talker, was Joe—"Beautiful Joe," people called him. With a few the name was a smiling tribute, for he was handsome in a dark, masculine way, but there were many on whose lips it was a sneer, or worse. Tonight he was heading down river on his way outside for the winter, enough glittering ore samples in his mackinaw pocket to lure another summer's comfort for him from the too-believing. Pete had shared his supper with him, not out of friendship, but because it is the way of the north country.

"She's mighty pretty, according to her picture," Joe continued on a favorite theme. "Shy, I expect, but I can melt 'em," he said with a coarse laugh. "Funny how I come to get acquainted. Picked up a ring in Vancouver one day, a queer Indian thing."

He drew the silver band from his pocket, and, handing it to Pete, went on with his story. "Out of curiosity I put an ad in all the coast papers, and a girl in San Francisco answered it, saying she'd given the ring to someone who'd proved unworthy, and could she please have it back. Just for fun I wrote her I was having it mended, so I couldn't send it yet and told her how I sympathized with her, and she fell for it hard. Came right back with a long letter, thanking me, and telling how she knew the person—Harry was his name; you can see it inside the ring. 'I marry with my love'—she knew Harry would lose it because the Indian who made it said no one who was unworthy could keep it. We kept on writing. She was lonely, I guess. This fellow must have broken her heart, pretty near. But she's coming to Vancouver to meet me, just the same."

"Not your usual sort, is she, Joe?" Pete commented in a slow drawl as he reached for his rifle from the wall and set to cleaning it. Joe leered at his host. "They're all my sort, if I like 'em. Anyway, she can learn. I sent her my picture—told her I was working on my mine. Gee, I laughed at the things she wrote about that." He pulled out a letter and read, "You look so splendid and clean, using your fine strength to get riches out of the earth, not out of other folk as most of us do—." What she didn't know, won't hurt her, eh? Now, this fellow she was so crazy about, he made the mistake of letting her know too much. He couldn't make enough money to get married on, so he started doing a little thieving from the firm he was bookkeeper for. But she got suspicious when he began throwing money around freer than usual, and then she asked him about it and the poor sap went and confessed!"

Joe had known he was roiling Pete with his scornful recital of Harry's incompetence, but he had failed to observe how his host kept nervously fingering the hammer of his rifle, or to catch the bitterness in Pete's mild voice as he asked, "Think she'll like your occupation?" "Huh! Before she gets wise to me, I'll be through with her," declared Joe.

A less self-satisfied man must have recognized the intensity behind Pete's next question. "Going to break her heart all over again, are you?"

"Aw, she'll get over it. They all do."

"She wouldn't," said Pete with quiet emphasis. Then he leaned forward and uttered a solemn pronouncement. "Joe, you're rotten clean through. With the help of your good looks you've spent your whole life hurting people who couldn't stand it, but I'll be damned if you're going to hurt that girl!"

Before Joe could do more than gasp in astonishment Pete had lifted his rifle to his shoulder and with steady aim shot him through the heart. Then he put down his gun, took the girl's letter from his victim's hand, and scribbled a note on the back to Corporal Bryce of the Mounted Police. It read:

"Jim Bryce—I killed Beautiful Joe. You'll be doing this lady a favor if you'll write and tell her Joseph Green was killed in an explosion at his mine, and send her this ring. But don't say anything about me. She never heard of me. Thanks.

"Pete."

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EIGHTY army nurses whose names ought to go down in history because of the courage with which they did their work during the siege of Bataan will receive their due partially, at least, in a picture which Paramount has scheduled for production in the autumn. Called "Hands of Mercy," it will be produced and directed by Mark Sandrich, who'll take a hand also in writing the scenario. Another timely picture will be Metro's "Next of Kin," in which Joan Crawford will appear as a girl without social background, who marries a naval officer, and finds herself confronted with navy snobbery. Joan will come out on top of course!

Bette Davis refuses to call her vegetable garden at her Sugar Hill, N. H., home a "victory garden." Like a lot of other people, she discovered to her sorrow that vegetables won't grow just because you plant them. She says she'll be lucky if she gets one New England boiled dinner out of the whole crop.

Charles Boyer couldn't have Greta Garbo for that murder mystery, "Flesh and Fantasy," of which he is both co-star and co-director. But Universal did very well by him by getting Barbara Stanwyck to play opposite him in the second sequence.

Rosalind Russell thinks she knows what the boys in camp expect of picture stars, so she decided to take all the glamour clothes that she could pack into seven trunks when starting on the tour of army camps scheduled to follow completion of "My Sister Eileen." Though on a 16-hour-a-day schedule, she'll have clothes enough to change ten times a day. "I'll wear everything but a bathing suit," she announced. And she looks so fetching in a bathing suit!

Betty Brewer, the Paramount starlet, isn't wasting any time between pictures. The 15-year-old actress, who plays a featured role in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," is studying singing and taking piano lessons—takes piano from Diana Lynn and singing from Susanna Foster, also budding stars.

Paulette Goddard's new priority gown was made from just 1 1/2 yards of fabric. Designed by the famous Valentina, it's a dinner dress of black jersey, made with a backless top and a short, peg-top skirt. You'll see her wearing it in "The Forest Rangers."

Warner Baxter, who hasn't appeared on the screen since early last year, when he appeared in "Adam Had Four Sons," for Columbia, has been signed by the same studio to make two pictures a year. They'll be based on the radio program, "Crime Doctor," one of our most popular air shows.

Can't keep "Mrs. Miniver" out of the news. With the announcement that it was being held at the Radio City Music Hall for the ninth week—no other film has been held there for more than six—comes the news that it had been seen in that theater by 1,142,107 persons.

ODDS AND ENDS—Gary Cooper's rapidly catching up to Don Ameche as a portrayal of famous men on the screen. . . . Dennis Morgan has been taking daily treatments for the "sand blindness" he suffered while on location near Gallup, N. M., for "The Desert Song" . . . Ginger Rogers taps to only the tune of her own humming in "The Major and the Minor" . . . "Little Miss Marker," the film which made Shirley Temple famous eight years ago, may be filmed again by Paramount, with Baby Sandy in the leading role. . . . Dorothy Comingore, has refused all assignments since she made "Citizen Kane."

Knitted garments should be laid flat to dry, shaped to the outline drawn before the garment was washed.

Three sprigs of parsley, one bay leaf, six whole cloves and a bit of thyme tied loosely together in a cheesecloth make an aromatic spice bag for cooking with soups and stews.

Don't twist, bend or tie the so-called cord attached to your electric iron. It is not a cord, but two bundles of wires.

A few drops of ammonia in the dish water will clean greasy dishes and roasting pans quickly.

Wash beans before soaking. Then they can be cooked or baked in the water in which they were soaked, with a small onion added.

Peroxide will remove perfume stains from linen bureau scarf. Keep a blotting pad under scarf to protect dressing table or bureau top when perfume is spilled on it.

All wild meat should be soaked clean of blood. An onion roasted with the meat improves the flavor.

Kitchens should be cheerful and comfortable as well as convenient. A high stool is an aid to comfort in preparing vegetables or mixing ingredients. An attractive corner where the homemaker can sit and read over a new recipe, make out her order list of groceries or wait for a dish to finish cooking adds considerably to a comfortable kitchen.

To prevent pitting and discoloration, food should not be left in aluminum ware any longer than is necessary.

New Bird-Hunting Regulations Announced

Hunting season for migratory water fowl will be ten days longer this year, and more hunting hours per day are allowed, according to new game regulations announced this week by Marshall V. Clark, captain of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission.

Bag limit of doves is to be ten birds this year instead of twelve, and especially emphasized in the announcement is the ruling that a hunter and his guide must apply the day's kill of migratory waterfowl to the one bag limit.

THE RULES:
MOURNING DOVES AND WHITE-WINGED DOVES (Federal Regulations)

DAILY BAG LIMIT—10 a day of either or both species in the aggregate. Not more than one day's kill in possession.

Open season for Mourning Doves: SOUTH ZONE (which includes this section)—September 16 to October 27 inclusive, with exception of Culberson and Hudspeth Counties which have no open season on Doves.

Open season for White-Winged Doves:

September 16 to 25th inclusive. (The state law provides however, that in the counties of Webb, Starr, Zapata, Hidalgo, Cameron and Wilbacy, it shall be unlawful to hunt, take or kill mourning doves only on each Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday during specified hours, therefore, in said counties in obedience to State law and U. S. regulations, hunters may take white-winged doves only on September 17th, 20th, 22nd and 24th, between the hours of 12 noon and sunset.

State law provides that in other sections of the State mourning doves and white-winged doves may be taken from 7 a. m. until sunset only.)

MEANS OF TAKING: Mourning doves and white-winged doves gun that is capable of holding more than three shells in the chamber may be used. No shotgun larger than 10 gauge may be used.

PROTECTED AREA—Unlawful to shoot white-winged doves or chachalcas between Rio Grande River and U. S. Highway 83 from the Zapata-Starr County line to the west boundary of the City Limits of Brownsville.

DUCKS; GEESE AND COOT

OPEN SEASON—November 2 to January 10, both days inclusive. SHOOTING HOURS—Sunrise to sunset.

may be taken only with a shotgun. No repeating or auto-loading shotgun. BAG LIMIT

DUCKS—10 a day. Possession limited to 20 including not more than six singly or in the aggregate of redheads and buffheads, nor more than one wood duck.

COOT—25 a day or in possession. GEESE—Two in a day but in addition to other geese four blue geese may be taken. If only blue geese are taken six may be taken in one day. Possession limit to two days legal kill.

WARNING: Not more than one day's limit of ducks and-or geese may be possessed on opening day.

Ducks, geese and coot may be possessed for only 30 days after the close of the season.

No person over the age of 16 may hunt, ducks, geese or coot without a Federal duck stamp (obtainable at Post Offices) and a hunting license wherever required.

MEANS OF TAKING—No baiting or live decoys permitted or the taking of waterfowl by means, aid or use of cattle, horses or mules.

May not use shotgun larger than 10 gauge. May not use auto-loading or repeating shotgun capable of holding more than three shells, including those in the magazine and chamber.

May not take waterfowl from any power driven boat or boat under sail.

May not take ducks or geese on any State or Federal Refuge or Preserve, or take them from any enclosed private property without the consent of the owner or agent of said property.

The hunter and his guide both must apply the day's kill of migratory water fowl to the one bag limit.

HURRY IN THE SCRAP.
