JAYTON, KENT COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JANUARY 29, 1934 NUMBER 4

Economic Highlights That Affect the Dinner

Individual, National and Social Problems Inseparable from Welfare. There are no surprises in the Message to Congress. Mr. C. Jones, his wife and daughter, Mrs. Mary Jones, happened to a serious automobile accident at a point between Swenson and Aspermont where the road makes a sharp turn on an abrupt corner. The car getting out of control turned over three times and landing on its side. The occupants being unable to get a door open kicked out the back glass and crawled out and were picked up and brought back to Jayton for medical treatment. While for a time it was thought they were seriously hurt it turned out that they were only shocked, and bruised by the accident and if nothing happens will be able to be up and going within a short time. The car was a total wreck and one seeing the car can't believe the occupants escaped with only minor injuries.

Serious Automobile Accident

Lest Sunday, shortly after leaving Jayton, enroute to Oklahoma, Mr. J. C. Jones, his wife and daughter, Mrs. Mary Jones, happened to a serious automobile accident at a point between Swenson and Aspermont where the road makes a sharp turn on an abrupt corner. The car getting out of control turned over three times and landing on its side. The occupants being unable to get a door open kicked out the back glass and crawled out and were picked up and brought back to Jayton for medical treatment. While for a time it was thought they were seriously hurt it turned out that they were only shocked, and bruised by the accident and if nothing happens will be able to be up and going within a short time. The car was a total wreck and one seeing the car can't believe the occupants escaped with only minor injuries.

Cooperative Terracing Agreement Signed

College Station. — Terracing takes place early as an important rural activity of 1935 and is so recognized by an agreement between the Texas Extension Service and Texas Rural Communities Inc. to cooperate in increasing the amount of land in the State under the protection of terraces. Under the plan, which is definitely a part of the rural rehabilitation program of the Emergency Relief Administration and of the soil and water conservation program of the Extension Service, M. R. Bentley, agriculture engineer, will have charge for the Extension Service and will give supervision to the work which will be carried on in counties through the farm demonstration work supplemented by terracing work employed by relief agencies.

The Extension Service, according to the agreement, will be responsible for securing the cooperation in counties desiring the program; for furnishing technical supervision of county terracing assistants employed by the Rural Communities Inc.; and for assisting with training workers and giving general supervision of conservation work. The Rural Communities Inc., which is the governmental agency charged with rural rehabilitation, will employ an assistant to its manager to furnish funds on a refunding basis to facilitate conservation work that will furnish work for relief labor and will also provide financial aid for individuals who desire to terrace their lands with relief labor but unable to obtain the money for it from regular financial institutions. These loans will be so arranged as to be payable over a long period of time with small interest charges.

Ivey F. Murdock, mail carrier for the Salt Flat route out of Jayton office, report that many new families are moving into that section of the country at the present time. Among the new comers are: Mr. W. A. Stone and family, Melvin Jackson and family, Ross Collum and family, and others whose names we failed to secure. That is a coming new farm territory and we predict for it years of rapid growth and prosperity.

turn the printing presses loose making money. A very large House bloc will support this—but the chances are that the President, who apparently is strongly opposed to any further devaluation of our money at this time will be able to stop action. The "Tax-the-rich" advocates are also going to do much talking. Terrific higher-income and inheritance taxes will be demanded, along with heavier corporation and "excess profits" levies. Best opinion thinks, however, that the President will put a period to these desires that he has gone as far as he wants to go in burdening capital. This is the way matters stand as Congress opens, and newspaper readers are going to get a big money's-worth during the next few months. It is safe to say that both branches of Congress will be somewhat more independent than they were last session, that Mr. Roosevelt will have a somewhat harder time maintaining his control. But, with the possible exception of the bonus, it is also safe to predict that he will get his way in the end.

Kent Co. Teachers At Girard, Jan. 29th.

The teachers of Kent County are requested to come to the second monthly meeting to be held at Girard on January 29 at 7:00 P. M. The last meeting was held at Jayton and most of the teachers were present and we would like to urge the rest of the teachers to be present at the next meeting. These meetings are being held instead of the old institutes of years gone by, and a very good program has been arranged for the meeting at Girard. The program is as follows: Science in Modern Schools.—Mr. Jackson, Girard. Modern Trend in History in Secondary Schools.—Marvin Williams, Centerpoint. Modern Trend in Geography in Secondary Schools.—Coralee Hyatt, Centerpoint. Teaching by the Unit Method.—Mr. Smith, Girard. The Changing of the Senior High School Social and Curriculum problems.—Mr. Jeff Cargile, Polaris. Making Our School, Music Minded.—Mr. Jenkins, Jayton. Modern Trends in English.—Miss Cornwell, Girard.

TWO AGED SISTERS DIE IN KANSAS WITHIN FEW HOURS OF EACH OTHER

Paola, Kansas, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Ellen Wise Sheridan, 81, and her sister, Mrs. Mollie Wilson, 66, of Louisville, died within three hours of each other last night. Mrs. Sheridan died first and her sister, ill three years, died without knowledge of her sister's demise. Mrs. Sheridan was the wife of Bernard James Sheridan, well known Kansas publisher and a democratic leader. They celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary last November. Sheridan has published the Western Spirit here more than half a century. From 1906 to 1909 he was editor of the old Kansas City Post.—Mrs. Sheridan and Mrs. Wilson were great aunts of our fellow townsman, Glenn Huls. Mr Huls and family visited them last summer while on their vacation in Kansas.

Wednesday's Sandy

At last we have had one, a sand storm, they had been missing this section for the past few weeks, except for short puffs, but Wednesday we got a good one. A regular old tuskier with hair on his chest and teeth in his mouth. It made us feel natural once again. Just like getting back home after being off on a prolonged visit with our wife's relations. It gave us relief just like it did when we were a kid to go out to the barn and hide and say all of the cuss words we knew and invent a few more to prove our growing vocabulary. These sand storms are a part of the luxuries of life in this part of Texas. Without them it would be another world, not Texas at all. They put grit in your gizzard and sand in your craw. They are the one excuse for taking a bath in gyp water. Boy, we love 'em, just like a good school boy loves a hickory withe. If we could just have one every day for a month we would be honed down to a frazzle of a splinter. This one and one more will encourage us to believe we will get our full quota this spring and that means a bumper crop of nothing this coming summer.

Deserved Promotion

Raymond Van Zandt, who has been serving the farmers of Kent county for several months as assistant county agent, has been promoted to the Rural Subsistence and rehabilitation department of the government program and left for Midland, Tuesday to take up his new duties. He will supervise this work in Midland, Martin and Andrews counties, and his headquarters will be at Midland. Mr. Sparkman is one of the finest young men we have ever had the pleasure of knowing, energetic, enthusiastic, a hard worker, pleasant and qualified. The people of Kent county as a whole will regret his going—as the same time they will be glad to hear of his promotion to a better job. We take pleasure in recommending him to the good citizens of Midland, Martin and Andrews counties, as one who will work with them and for them to the limit of his ability.

"Must Do Now—Not Manana"

San Antonio, Texas, Jan. 10.—Recognizing that the tourist is the most critical of citizens and the most helpful or most hurtful advertiser, Outson Borgum, famous sculptor, is of the opinion that the cities of Texas, in preparation for the Centennial celebration of 1936, "must do now - - not manana, but now - - is to put themselves in order; look their nicest - plant, water, clean up, and profit by holding the visitors to come. Mr. Borgum thinks that the sum of $3,000,000, it is now proposed to ask of the State for Centennial purposes, is too small an amount and believes at least $5,000,000 should be expended on permanent structures in Dallas, at the San Jacinto battlefield, at Goliad, San Antonio, and similar locations of historic shrines. He is confident that even $10,000,000 invested in the Centennial project would not be ill-advised and is quoted as follows: "Texas is on the main and only highway for three-quarters of the United States into Mexico and eventually to Panams. California will have a road to Mexico City if she will have to build it; no matter, Texas must be crossed one way by at least 300,000 autos annually, Mexico bound. Fifty thousand cars detour 200 miles out of their course annually to South Dakota to see the carving on mount Rushmore. "Three hundred cars to Mexico is not too great an estimate. These cars average three persons per car; that means 900,000 practically new tourists. They will spend from $40,000,000 to $60,000,000 annually. If you do not believe these figures, drawn from memory from national tourist statistics, look them up and you will learn that I have cut down a quarter of the Government estimates." The Centennial has one object, to show

Baptist Sunday schools of the Stonewall Baptist Association are urged to send as many representatives as possible to Aspermont Sunday, Jan. 20 for the purpose of organizing an Associated Sunday School organization. Rev. Brannon of Abilene will bring the inspirational message. G. H. Brown tells this one.—Three of Jayton's most enthusiastic wolf hunters were camped for the night on a hill N. E. of Jayton, hearing a bell ring one asked, "What is that for?" No. 2 spoke up, "That's the Church bell, this is Prayer meeting night." No. 3 "Well I forgot 't was Wednesday or I would 'ave stayed in town and went to Church." No. 1—Well, I could not 'ave gone anyway, as my wife is sick and I could not go off and leave her at home.

MOVING TO MIDLAND

I am moving to Midland this week where I have a position with the Federal and State rehabilitation Commission. In leaving Jayton and Kent County I wish to express my sincere appreciation of the many courtesies and assure you that I have enjoyed my work while in the county and prize highly the friendship made. Very truly,

Can't Dance

The Editor of the Chronicle and Lady received a lovely engraved invitation to attend the Governor's ball at Austin, Tuesday night of this week. We were certainly proud of the honor, but as neither of us can dance, and Austin is too far away for us to walk, and our bank account would not admit of us buying the necessary amount of gas to make the trip, we were regretfully forced to remain at home while the other notables of the land were in Austin tripping the light fantastic. Never-the-less we wish for the new Governor of Texas success. May his administration be a notable one for the great State of Texas. May the legislature cooperate with him in every way for the good of the people of this commonwealth and may he prove to be one of the very best governors known in the history of the Lone Star State. Judging by his first address after taking the oath of office, he is going to stand for law enforcement, and it will be easier to break into the penitentiary of Texas than to get out. Jimmie, it's the sincere hope of our heart that you make good. Lee Dowdle has recently had a unanimous call to the Pastorate of the Valley View Church of Stonewall county. He closed an eight day very successful revival last Sunday night. The 50 additions to the Church only one conversion. But the Church greatly revived.

There is no greater luxury than the possession of a friend that understands you.

The one who really loves you loves the most amidst thickening shadows and gathering storms.

They call the pathway of life "a rocky road", yet the most of us want to stay on it.

This is the age of the muck-rake. Often the man at the handle ought to exchange places with the man under the teeth.

The costumes at some of our socials suggest that Eve was a little bit overdressed.

About the best definition for character we know is the age-old truism: "As a man thinketh in his heart so he is." And what is more, we fashion character as we mold thought. Eventually, we all come to the end of our row.

From lovely spring weather down to zero within a few hours is what took place here Sunday afternoon. Did we shiver and shake?

The present legislature will no doubt pass laws forcing the payment of all delinquent taxes that are collectable. It's going to hurt but the State and counties, school and cities can't exist without funds to pay running expenses.

BANKING EVOLUTION

By R. S. HECHT

President American Bankers Association

BANKING at one time was a private business, but more recently has developed into a profession—a semi-public profession. This change has not come suddenly but is the result of an evolutionary process. Banking has grown and changed with the growth and change of our country.

R. S. HECHT

The banker who has survived the trials and tribulations of the past few years has proven himself a man of courage and ability, and we may well expect him to meet the problems that lie before him with resolution and sound judgment.

Changes of momentous importance have occurred in our economic structures and bankers have had a difficult road to travel. Some will argue that all of these changes were evolutionary and inevitable, while others look upon many of them as revolutionary and unnecessary. It is extremely difficult to trace with any degree of accuracy the real causes for many of our troubles and it is not always easy in judging these developments to distinguish properly between cause and effect.

Unfortunately it has become the fashion to blame on our banking system all the troubles which the depression has brought. As a consequence we hear much of needed reform of banking by law. No one will deny that certain defects have developed in our existing banking laws which need correction, and that certain abuses were committed which no one wishes to defend or have remain possible in the future. Never before were bankers more determined than they are today to bring about whatever changes in our banking system are called for by the public welfare.

The best results can and will be accomplished by normal processes and gradual adjustments of our present private banking structure—suitably supervised by proper authority—rather than by the passage of still more drastic laws, offering panaceas in the form of more government-owned or government-controlled financial organizations.

The Basis of Good Laws

Lasting laws relating to any phase of human need are formed and modeled in the rough school of practical human experience and are usually the result of sound evolutionary processes rather than of sudden impulses to change fundamental principles.

If we analyze the new banking picture which has developed during the past eighteen months, we cannot help but arrive at the conclusion that evolutionary changes which have taken place in banking, and the economic life of the nation of which it is a part, have justified much of the banking legislation recently passed. As we look ahead and consider the new problems which are facing us we must inevitably come to the conclusion that some further changes in our banking laws will become necessary.

It is not enough that bankers merely acquiesce in banking imposed by law. Zeal for evolutionary banking reform must be more aggressive than that. Banking practice itself, without compulsion of law, can and should reflect the changes and lessons of the times and difficulties through which the nation has passed and, even to a greater extent than law, render banking more truly a good public servant by voluntary self-reform. In no small measure is this accomplished by the better training of the members of the banking fraternity and by instilling constantly higher ideals in those who are ultimately responsible for bank management.

As we march on into the world of tomorrow the banker has a greater opportunity for usefulness than ever before, and I hope that the service he will render to society will be so conscientious, so constructive and so satisfactory as to merit general approval and assure him his logical high place and leadership.

NATIONAL SAVINGS MARK INCREASES

NEW YORK.—The annual savings compilation of the American Bankers Association for the year ending June 30, 1934, shows that for the first time since 1930 total savings in all American banks recorded an annual increase. A statement by W. Espey Albright, Deputy Manager of the association in charge of its Savings Division, in the organization's monthly magazine "Banking," says that savings deposited in banks as of June 30, 1934, gained 3.5 per cent as compared with a year earlier.

"The aggregate is an increase over last year of $742,132,000, the first since the year which closed June 30, 1930," he says. "This is a notable achievement, for the decline since 1930 had been precipitate and all-embracing. In that year savings had reached the all-time high of $28,478,631,000. A year ago the amount was $21,125,534,000, a loss in three years of $7,353,097,000. This year the figure stands at $21,867,666,000.

"Depositors, too, have gained in number, going from 39,262,442 on June 30, 1933, to 39,562,174 on June 30 this year, a gain of 299,732. Four years ago there were 52,729,432 depositors, or one depositor for each 2.3 persons in the country. Now there is one account for each 3.3 persons."

COOK PORK WELL DONE

Austin, Texas, Jan. 16—Now that the winter season is here and pork and pork products are more freely used, warning against insufficient cooking of these is given by Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer.

Trichinosis is caused by a parasite in the muscles of pigs. This parasite may occur in large numbers in infested meat.

The disease is rather extensively distributed among hogs, and all pork should be regarded with suspicion unless treated to kill the larvae. Freshly killed pork is more dangerous than meat that has been kept in cold storage for some time because parasites tend to die out during prolonged storage at low temperatures. Other processes of preserving meat also tend to kill the trichinella larvae. No method of meat inspection will invariably discover the presence of this parasite. Thus safeguard against the disease must necessarily be taken by consumers of the infested pork. Thorough cooking may be counted upon to kill the parasite.

Trichinosis result from eating undercooked pork, usually in the form of sausage, that contains the larvae. There is often danger of not maintaining sufficient temperature to thoroughly cook the meat. Outer portions of the meat may appear well cooked while the inner part is quite rare and will retain the living parasites. Especially is this true if the piece of pork is quite thick. Cases of trichinosis have occurred from eating just such inner portions of undercooked pork. Pork with the slightest red tinge may contain the parasites. Pork should be cooked until all color disappears through the piece of meat, this is the only safeguard against trichinosis.

MUSINGS

The things we carry beyond the grave are the only things that are worth our while.

There is no greater luxury than the possession of a friend that understands you.

The one who really loves you loves the most amidst thickening shadows and gathering storms.

They call the pathway of life "a rocky road", yet the most of us want to stay on it.

This is the age of the muck-rake. Often the man at the handle ought to exchange places with the man under the teeth.

The costumes at some of our socials suggest that Eve was a little bit over-dressed.

There are but few central suns—the most of us are only satellites.

The fellow who is long on animal life is generally short on cerebral activity.

The world's sweetest songs have fallen from lips that knew the bitterest taste of sorrow.

About the best definition for character we know is the age-old truism: "As a man thinketh in his heart so he is." And what is more, we fashion character as we mold thought. The story of the young fellow who recently attempted, single-handed, to hold up a fast express train, should certainly be a strong argument for the temperance and anti-cigarette crowd. Eventually, we all come to the end of our row.

From lovely spring weather down to zero within a few hours is what took place here Sunday afternoon. Did we shiver and shake?

The present legislature will no doubt pass laws forcing the payment of all delinquent taxes that are collectable. It's going to hurt but the State and counties, school and cities can't exist without funds to pay running expenses.

More hog killing weather but most of the hogs in this territory have either been killed or passed out from starvation.

BE CAREFUL

Folks should be careful. These sudden weather changes from Spring warmth to arctic conditions is liable to cause much severe sickness, such as flu and pneumonia. Unnecessary exposure should be guarded against, the bowels kept regular and over eating avoided.

BANKING EVOLUTION

By R. S. HECHT

President American Bankers Association

BANKING at one time was a private business, but more recently has developed into a profession—a semi-public profession. The change has not come suddenly but is the result of an evolutionary process. Banking has grown and changed with the growth and change of our country.

R. S. HECHT

The banker who has survived the trials and tribulations of the past few years has proven himself a man of courage and ability, and we may well expect him to meet the problems that lie before him with resolution and sound judgment.

Changes of momentous importance have occurred in our economic structures and bankers have had a difficult road to travel. Some will argue that all of these changes were evolutionary and inevitable, while others look upon many of them as revolutionary and unnecessary. It is extremely difficult to trace with any degree of accuracy the real causes for many of our troubles and it is not always easy in judging these developments to distinguish properly between cause and effect.

Unfortunately it has become the fashion to blame on our banking system all the troubles which the depression has brought. As a consequence we hear much of needed reform of banking by law. No one will deny that certain defects have developed in our existing banking laws which need correction, and that certain abuses were committed which no one wishes to defend or have remain possible in the future. Never before were bankers more determined than they are today to bring about whatever changes in our banking system are called for by the public welfare.

The best results can and will be accomplished by normal processes and gradual adjustments of our present private banking structure—suitably supervised by proper authority—rather than by the passage of still more drastic laws, offering panaceas in the form of more government-owned or government-controlled financial organizations.

The Basis of Good Laws

Lasting laws relating to any phase of human need are formed and modelled in the rough school of practical human experience and are usually the result of sound evolutionary processes rather than of sudden impulses to change fundamental principles.

JAYTON, KENT COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JANUARY 15, 1935

Economic Highlights

Openings That Affect the Dinner Table, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable in Local Welfare.

There were no surprises in the President's Message to Congress. Mr. Roosevelt confined his talk almost exclusively to explaining what he had to do on behalf of the needy, the old, and the unemployed. A new program, dealing as it does with reform rather than recovery, is being termed the second phase of the New Deal.

Chiefly described, there are six chief factors to the program he has Congress to enact. The purpose, first, is to provide every able-bodied worker with a job. Second, a state system of relief is to be abandoned. Third, relief of the unemployed which is now being carried by the Federal government with a sum of state aid, is to be transferred to local authorities. Fourth, public works activities are to be carried under a new plan. Fifth, the Federal Emergency Relief Administration is to be gradually displaced by a new emergency works program. Sixth, and the most important, old age and unemployment insurance are to be provided, and a plan is to be made toward perfecting legislation for financially assisting those mothers and other handicapped by dependency or ill health.

Mr. Roosevelt outlined these matters, but gave little in the way of details. He said that he would shortly issue a statement as to their cost, and that it would be well within the credit of the government. This, of course, is a debatable point, no one is more bitterly disputed than how much drain the Treasury can stand. Irrespective of that, it can be forecast that Congress will enact the program in its entirety. While the President's ideas by the Executive branch of our government are to be as unanimous as in the past, his power is still extraordinarily great.

Of great interest was the President's statement on how the Public Works are to be carried on in the future. He said that preference will be given to projects which use a large amount of direct labor, and that they may be expected to be self-paying, in other words, projects which the government has a chance of getting all or part of its money back in the course of time. He also said that projects should compete as far as possible with private enterprise, and a legion of industrialists have heaved a sigh of relief on that point. One of the greatest problems of the time is that government is going into business in competition with private enterprise, as it has always done with power projects. Finally, according to the President, public works will be planned so that they may be slowed down if and when private enterprise is able to take up the slack of the unemployment.

Unemployment and old age insurance has been growing at a great rate during the past two or three years. The difficulty will be in the preparation of legislation, for there are an almost unlimited number of schemes to achieve social security. The Federation of Labor, for example, has the cost of such insurance borne by employers and government alone, while employers want a three-sided plan, under which the employer and government participate. Others want government to carry the whole burden, something that would seem obviously impossible in these days of distorted prices.

So much for the relief and reform. What is to be considered is Congress's program, as measured by the President's and campaign platforms of the various members.

It is certain that the bonus bill will be passed, and it is almost equally certain that the President will veto it. As he did last year, and as Harding, Coolidge and Hoover did before him, there is a difference—where, in the past, the two-thirds majority necessary to pass a bill could not be obtained on behalf of the bonus, now they think it will be at this time.

There will be efforts to devalue the dollar, and to

Serious Automobile Accident

Last Sunday, shortly after leaving Jayton, enroute to Oklahoma, Mr. J. C. Jones, his wife and daughter, Mrs. Mary Jones, happened to a serious automobile accident at a point between Swenson and Aspermont where the road makes a sharp turn on an abrupt corner. The car getting out of control turned over three times and landing on its side. The occupants being unable to get a door open kicked out the back glass and crawled out and were picked up and brought back to Jayton for medical treatment.

While for a time it was thought they were seriously hurt it turned out that they were only shocked, and bruised by the accident and if nothing happens will be able to be up and going within a short time. The car was a total wreck and one seeing the car can't believe the occupants escaped with only minor injuries.

Cooperative Terracing Agreement Signed

College Station. — Terracing takes its place early as an important rural activity of 1935 and is so recognized by an agreement between the Texas Extension Service and Texas Rural Communities Inc. to cooperate in increasing the amount of land in the State under the protection of terraces.

Under the plan, which is definitely a part of the rural rehabilitation program of the Emergency Relief Administration and of the soil and water conservation program of the Extension Service, M. R. Bentley, agriculture engineer, will have charge for the Extension Service and will give supervision to the work which will be carried on in counties through the farm demonstration work supplemented by terracing assistants employed by relief agencies.

The Extension Service, according to the agreement, will be responsible for securing the cooperation in counties desiring the program; for furnishing technical supervision of county terracing assistants employed by the Rural Communities Inc.; and for assisting with training workers and giving general supervision of conservation work.

The Rural Communities Inc., which is the governmental agency charged with rural rehabilitation, will employ an assistant to its manager to furnish funds on a refunding basis to facilitate conservation work that will furnish work for relief labor and will also provide financial aid for individuals who desire to terrace their lands with relief labor but unable to obtain the money for it from regular financial institutions. These loans will be so arranged as to be payable over a long period of time with small interest charges.

Ivey F. Murdock, mail carrier for the Salt Flat route out of Jayton office, report that many new families are moving into that section of the country at the present time. Among the new comers are: Mr. W. A. Stone and family, Melvin Jackson and family, Ross Collum and family, and others whose names we failed to secure. That is a coming new farm territory and we predict for it years of rapid growth and prosperity.

turn the printing presses loose making money. A very large House bloc will support this—but the chances are that the President, who apparently is strongly opposed to any further devaluation of our money at this time will be able to stop action.

The "Tax-the-rich" advocates are also going to do much talking. Terrific higher-income and inheritance taxes will be demanded, along with heavier levies. Best opinion thinks, however, that the President will put a period to these desires that he has gone as far as he wants to go in burdening capital.

This is the way matters stand as Congress opens, and newspaper readers are going to get a big money's worth during the next few months. It is safe to say that both branches of Congress will be somewhat more independent than they were last session, that Mr. Roosevelt will have a somewhat harder time maintaining his control. But, with the possible exception of the bonus, it is also safe to predict that he will get his way in the end.

Kent Co. Teachers At Girard, Jan. 29th.

The teachers of Kent County are requested to come to the second monthly meeting to be held at Girard on January 29 at 7:00 P. M. The last meeting was held at Jayton and most of the teachers were present and we would like to urge the rest of the teachers to be present at the next meeting. These meetings are being held instead of the old institutes of years gone by, and a very good program has been arranged for the meeting at Girard.

The program is as follows. Science in Modern Schools.—Mr. Jackson, Girard.

Modern Trend in Geography in Secondary Schools.—Coralee Hyatt, Centerpoint.

TWO AGED SISTERS DIE IN KANSAS WITHIN FEW HOURS OF EACH OTHER

Paola, Kansas, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Ellen Wise Sheridan, 81, and her sister, Mrs. Mollie Wilson, 66, of Louisburg, died within three hours of each other last night. Mrs. Sheridan died first and her sister, ill three years, died without knowledge of her sister's demise.

Mrs. Sheridan was the wife of Bernard James Sheridan, well known Kansas publisher and a democratic leader. They celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary last November. Sheridan has published the Western Spirit here more than half a century. From 1906 to 1909 he was editor of the old Kansas City Post.

Mrs. Sheridan and Mrs. Wilson were great aunts of our fellow townsman, Glenn Huls. Mr. Huls and family visited them last summer while on their vacation in Kansas.

Canned Milk For Relief Clients

Austin, Jan. 16.—Texas Relief Commission will receive for distribution to relief clients over the state 1,804,800 cans of evaporated milk, it was announced last week by C. Z. Crain, head of the commodities distributing department. The cans, each containing 14 1/2 ounces of milk, will be distributed on a basis of nine cans per average family per month. Mr. Crain said he expected delivery to Texas distribution points by the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation within the next 20 days.

Mr. Crain also announced distribution of 35,408 mattresses manufactured in Texas Relief Commission plants. Manufacture of mattresses will continue until materials supplied by the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation have been exhausted.

Who Suffers Most From Heavy Taxation?

It should be everlastingly emphasized that the tax problem is every citizen's problem—whether he is a millionaire or a worker for wages.

It should likewise be emphasized that the tax problem is of greater significance to the man of small means than to the man with large means. In spite of all the talk about "taxing the rich" government subsists principally from revenue derived from taxes on things bought by the millions of representative Americans. The rich are taxed heavily, it is true, but the revenue from that source barely makes a dent in governmental receipts. The rich are so few and far between, especially in these days, that if government confiscated all their wealth it would soon be bankrupt without additional funds.

It has been reliably estimated that 20 per cent of an annual family income of $2,000 goes for taxes. Little of it is paid in direct taxes, and that fact has led to the erroneous belief that people of small means escape paying for government. That belief should be thoroughly exploded, every bag of groceries, every gallon of gasoline, every pair of shoes you buy, is taxed. If you rent your home, part of the rental represents taxes which the owner of the house must pay. If you take a trip on a train, the heavy taxes paid by railroads are reflected in the cost of tickets. If you turn on a light about 15 per cent of your light bill goes for taxes.

The average citizen eats as much wheat as many clothes and moves about as much, as do people with large incomes. As a result, it is this average citizen who is most seriously affected by extravagant or wasteful government. And it is this average citizen who profits most from economical, efficient and thrifty government.

When these facts are realized by the American people, there will be a campaign for tax reduction that will not confine itself to pretty speeches, but will get results.

Wednesday's Sandy

At last we have had one, a sand storm, they had been missing this section for the past few weeks, except for short puffs, but Wednesday we got a good one. A regular old tusk with hair on his chest and teeth in his mouth.

It made us feel natural once again. Just like getting back home after being off on a prolonged visit with our wife's relations. It gave us relief just like it did when we were a kid to go out to the barn and hide and say all of the cuss words we knew and invent a few more to prove our growing vocabulary.

These sand storms are a part of the luxuries of life in this part of Texas. Without them it would be another world, not Texas at all. They put grit in your gizzard and sand in your craw. They are the one excuse for taking a bath in gyp water. Boy, we love 'em, just like a good school boy loves a hickory withe. If we could just have one every day for a month we would be honed down to a frazzle of a splinter. This one and one more will encourage us to believe we will get our full quota this spring and that means a bumper crop of nothing this coming summer.

Deserved Promotion

Colonel Sparkman, who has been serving the farmers of Kent county for several months as assistant county agent, has been promoted to the Rural Subsistence and rehabilitation department of the government program and left for Midland, Tuesday to take up his new duties. He will supervise this work in Midland, Martin and Andrews counties, and his headquarters will be at Midland.

Mr. Sparkman is one of the finest young men we have ever had the pleasure of knowing, energetic, enthusiastic, a hard worker, pleasant and qualified. The people of Kent county as a whole will regret his going—at the same time they will be glad to hear of his promotion to a better job.

We take pleasure in recommending him to the good citizens of Midland, Martin and Andrews counties, as one who will work with them and for them to the limit of his ability.

Pioneer Of West Texas Passes On

W. D. Lang, one of the pioneers of this part of Texas passed to his final reward January 14th in the Lubbock Sanitarium where he had gone for treatment some ten days previous. Mr. Lang came to this part of Texas from Ft. Smith Arkansas in 1900 and settled on a ranch in Stonewall county where he made his home for several years carrying on a successful ranching and farming business. Later he disposed of his interests in Stonewall county and settled on a section farm west of Jayton where he has continued to live since coming to the county.

Mr. Lang was born in Dallas county Arkansas, March 8, 1852 and at the time of his death was 82 years, ten months, and eight days old. He was married in August 1874 to Miss Martha Trammell and to this union was born two children, Herbert and W. D. Jr., both of whom are living and Herbert was with him at the time of his death. W. D. being in Oregon was unable to make it home for the funeral. Mr. Lang had been a member of the Methodist Church since early youth and was sincere in his belief of life after he had finished his work here on earth.

Mr. Lang was a man of strong convictions, sterling worth and great courage. He stood for the things he believed were right and if necessary would fight to the death for the upholding of the cause of justice.

His last mortal remains were laid to rest in the Jayton cemetery on Jan. 15, 1935, in the afternoon. Funeral services were conducted at the Methodist Church in Jayton, Rev. Van Zandt officiating. Many old timers attending the funeral as well as many of the younger generation. Peace to him who lived long, struggled bravely and went to his reward honored and respected by all who knew him.

3:00 P. M.

Baptist Sunday schools of the Stonewall Baptist Association are urged to send as many representatives as possible to Aspermont Sunday, Jan. 20 for the purpose of organizing an Associated Sunday School organization. Rev. Brannon of Abilene will bring the inspirational message.

G. H. Brown tells this one.—Three of Jayton's most enthusiastic wolf hunters were camped for the night on a hill N. E. of Jayton, hearing a bell ring one asked, "What is that for?" No. 2 spoke up, "That's the Church bell, this is Prayer meeting night." No. 3 "Well I forgot this was Wednesday or I would have stayed in town and went to Church." No. 1—Well, I could not have gone anyway, as my wife is sick and I could not go off and leave her at home.

Speaking Of Automobiles

A few of the things Liberty has to say about these "Modern Death Machines."

The automobile is no longer a useful vehicle—it is a disease. It is a virulent plague which has wrought havoc with the human race throughout the world but has done the greatest damage in the United States. It is an engine of death, a super war 'tank' juggernaut car running wild through the land and crushing every increasing numbers of innocent victims under its wheels.

"The inventors of the automobile exerted much more influence on history than Napoleon," says Dr. William F. Ogburn, in his pamphlet called "You and Machines." Dr. Ogburn, in this much discussed booklet, testifies thus: "Like the radio, the automobile has an immense influence on our lives. We think of it chiefly as a convenience, something to ride in, to carry us somewhere quickly. We do not stop to think of the great social changes it has produced. The auto took over 30,000 lives in 1933 and 36,000 in 1934; it injured 900,000 people. Every year the auto wipes out a population about equal to that of Watertown, New York, and injures as many people as live in Cleveland, Ohio. Most machines nowadays are put in cages—that is, the dangerous part is boxed up—but the automobile cannot be confined. The machine brings danger to life and limb and health, and increases the risk of unemployment and the insecurity of old age. It is truly as hazardous as man's ancient enemies. Many small villages have been ruined by the auto because farmers in their cars now go to the larger villages to trade. The auto has helped put railroads in bankruptcy. Cars help criminals to escape. The stolen car racket has become a business with the criminal gangs."

county council consists of members representing new laws. Rural churches and schools must consolidate. The machine says family life must be changed and it is changing. The machine is forcing our institutions to change; but always they lag behind. County governments were set up in days of horses and buggies. Automobiles have made them inadequate, but nothing is done about it."

MOVING TO MIDLAND

I am moving to Midland this week where I have a position with the Federal and State rehabilitation Commission. In leaving Jayton and Kent County I wish to express my sincere appreciation of the many courtesies and assure you that I have enjoyed my work while in the county and prize highly the friendship made.

Very truly,
Colonel Sparkman

Can't Dance

The Editor of the Chronicle and Lady received a lovely engraved invitation to attend the Governor's ball at Austin, Tuesday night of this week. We were certainly proud of the honor, but as neither of us can dance, and Austin is too far away for us to walk, and our bank account would not admit of us buying the necessary amount of gas to make the trip, we were regretfully forced to remain at home while the other notables of the land were in Austin tripping the light fantastic.

Never-the-less we wish for the new Governor of Texas success. May his administration be a notable one for the great State of Texas. May the legislature cooperate with him in every way for the good of the people of this commonwealth and may he prove to be one of the very best governors known in the history of the Lone Star State.

Judging by his first address after taking the oath of office, he is going to stand for law enforcement, and it will be easier to break into the penitentiary of Texas than to get out. Jimmie, it's the sincere hope of our heart that you make good.

Lee Dowdle has recently had a unanimous call to the Pastorate of the Valley View Church of Stonewall county. He closed an eight day very successful revival last Sunday night. The no additions to the Church only one conversion. But the Church greatly revived.

YOUNG MEN GUIDE
DESTINY OF TEXAS

An impression which stands out clearly in any review of the political situation in Texas is that the State Legislature, which has just convened and which is preparing to cope with problems of herculean proportions, is perhaps the youngest and least experienced in legislative matters ever assembled in Texas. Since the present period is one of the most critical in the State's history, this circumstance may be conducive to some feeling of apprehension, if not of alarm. That it should not be, and that there are compensating features for the Legislature's young and inexperienced character, constitute opinions which will be delved into later. Just now these characteristics of the present legislative body are significant of more fundamental problems.

The youthful character of the Legislature is borne out by the fact that more than half of its membership are under 40 years of age, and of these eighty-three members, thirty are under 30 years of age. There are but fifteen members over 60, and only one has attained the patriarchal perspective of 70 years. Even the Senate, which is traditionally an elderly body, has its quota of comparatively younger men. Two-thirds of its membership are under 50, and the age-span of the entire group runs from 27 to 65 years. Nor is this condition confined to the legislature. Not only is the Speaker of the House in his 40's but the new Lieutenant Governor, presiding officer of the Senate is also under 50. The new Attorney-General is comparatively a young man, who piloted his own plane to Austin this week to take the oath of office. And the State's chief executive, at 35, is the youngest Governor in the country—yet his is the responsibility of guiding the destinies of the largest and one of the most populous States.

Testimony to the relative inexperience of the Forty-Fourth Legislature is afforded by the fact that approximately half the members of the House and more than one-third the members of the Senate, are serving their first terms. This condition is not unusual under the political system now prevailing in Texas, but the circumstance that recurs with almost unvarying consistency every two years constitutes sufficient reason to call attention to it. Indeed, attention should be called to it repeatedly until the political conditions which compel inexperienced government can be remedied. Not only are nearly half the legislators serving their first terms, but the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, and Attorney-General are serving their first terms. — Texas Weekly.

KNEE-ACTION OPTIONAL

New York, Jan. 16.—Amplifying his announcement of prices of the two new Chevrolet lines for 1933, W. E. Holler, general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, today stated that enclosed knee action, optional on the Master DeLuxe models, will be available at an additional charge of $20 list. Mr. Holler predicted that at least 90 per cent of persons buying Master models in 1933 would exercise the option and obtain knee action at the small price difference involved. Mr. Holler emphasized the fact that knee action will be built in at the factory, not installed by the dealer.

"Chevrolet's knee action mechanism," he said, "is an integral part of the car. It cannot be installed as an accessory. There will be no conversions in the field. Cars will be available both with and without knee action, but they will be built complete at the factory, where special machinery, skilled workers, and other factors all focus on the production of this major feature, which is offered only by Chevrolet and builders of higher-priced cars."

MUSINGS

The calamity howler is the worst cuss in the community. Unlike the whimpering cur, he's dangerous.

The threadbare coat; the empty barrel; that sad eyed woman, that poverty stricken home! Who knows but here is the Holy Grail?

The concern that offers abnormal profits offers abnormal risks. You can not divorce them.

The man whose life is ruined by money at last cares nothing for money.

That is a real friend who stands by you when all the world would forsake and forget.

The man who hustles hardest for experience usually outstrips the fellow born with ability.

Love the glory of the battlefield infinitely more than the temptations of wallowing ease.

The measure of power is always in the obstacle to be overcome.

The fast life always kills.

A lady received the following reply from a neighbor in answer to a question as to why she allowed her children and her husband to litter up every room in the house. The sentiment will find lodgement in the heart of every home-loving person in the land. "The mark of the little muddy feet on the floor can be easier removed than the stains where the little feet go into the highways of sin. The prints of the little fingers upon the windowpanes cannot shut out the sunshine half so much as the shadow that darkens the mother's heart over the one who will be but a name in the coming years. And if my John finds home a refuge from care, and his greatest happiness within its four walls, he can put his boots in the rocking chair and bang his coat on the floor any day in the week. And if I can stand it, and he enjoys it, I cannot see that it is anybody's business."

BANKING EVOLUTION

By R. S. HECHT
President American Bankers Association

BANKING at one time was a private business, but more recently has developed into a profession—a semi-public profession. This change has not come suddenly but is the result of an evolutionary process. Banking has grown and changed with the growth and change of our country.

The banker who has survived the trials and tribulations of the past few years has proven himself a man of courage and ability, and we may well expect him to meet the problems that lie before him with resolution and sound judgment.

Changes of momentous importance have occurred in our economic structure and bankers have had a difficult road to travel. Some will argue that all of these changes were evolutionary and inevitable, while others look upon many of them as revolutionary and unnecessary. It is extremely difficult to trace with any degree of accuracy the real causes for many of our troubles and it is not always easy in judging these developments to distinguish properly between cause and effect.

Unfortunately it has become the fashion to blame on our banking system all the troubles which the depression has brought. As a consequence we hear much of needed reform of banking by law. No one will deny that certain defects have developed in our existing banking laws which need correction, and that certain abuses were committed which no one wishes to defend or have remain possible in the future. Never before were bankers more determined than they are today to bring about whatever changes in our banking system are called for by the public welfare.

The best results can and will be accomplished by normal processes and gradual adjustments of our present private banking structure—suitably supervised by proper authority—rather than by the passage of still more drastic laws, offering panaceas in the form of more government-owned or government-controlled financial organizations.

The Basis of Good Laws
Lasting laws relating to any phase of human need are formed and modelled in the rough school of practical human experience and are usually the result of sound evolutionary processes rather than of sudden impulses to change fundamental principles.

If we analyze the new banking picture which has developed during the past eighteen months, we cannot help but arrive at the conclusion that evolutionary changes which have taken place in banking, and the economic life of the nation of which it is a part, have justified much of the banking legislation recently passed. As we look ahead and consider the new problems which are facing us we must inevitably come to the conclusion that some further changes in our banking laws will become necessary.

It is not enough that bankers merely acquiesce in banking imposed by law. Zeal for evolutionary banking reform must be more aggressive than that. Banking practice itself, without compulsion of law, can and should reflect the changes and lessons of the times and difficulties through which the nation has passed and, even to a greater extent than law, render banking more truly a good public servant by voluntary self-reform. In no small measure is this accomplished by the better training of the members of the banking fraternity and by instilling constantly higher ideals in those who are ultimately responsible for bank management.

As we march on into the world of tomorrow the banker has a greater opportunity for usefulness than ever before, and I hope that the service he will render to society will be so conscientious, so constructive and so satisfactory as to merit general approval and assure him his logical high place and leadership.

NATIONAL SAVINGS MARK INCREASES

NEW YORK.—The annual savings compilation of the American Bankers Association for the year ending June 30, 1934, shows that for the first time since 1930 total savings in all American banks recorded an annual increase.

A statement by W. Espey Albright, Deputy Manager of the association in charge of its Savings Division, in the organization's monthly magazine "Banking," says that savings deposited in banks as of June 30, 1934, gained 2.5 per cent as compared with a year earlier.

"The aggregate is an increase over last year of $742,132,000, the first since the year which closed June 30, 1930," he says. "This is a notable achievement, for the decline since 1930 had been precipitate and all-embracing. In that year savings had reached the all-time high of $28,478,631,000. A year ago the amount was $21,125,524,000, a loss in three years of $7,353,097,000. This year the figure stands at $21,867,666,000."

"Depositors, too, have gained in number, going from 39,262,442 on June 30, 1933, to 39,842,174 on June 30 this year, a gain of 579,732. Four years ago there were 33,729,432 depositors, or one depositor for each 2.3 persons in the country. Now there is one account for each 2.5 persons."

WILL TELL BANKERS' STORY

American Bankers Association President Announces Move Stimulate Newspaper Advertising

NEW YORK.—Plans for stimulating use of informative newspaper advertising by banks in promoting public understanding and confidence in existing banking conditions have been announced by the American Bankers Association, as a part of its activities in aid of business.

Thorough groundwork was prepared for a nationwide survey of advertising by banks relative to their willingness to extend justifiable loans to business and trade. This, he said, revealed a large number in all parts of the country are pursuing aggressive advertising along this line and encouraging customers to develop forward-looking business plans.

Theme of New Advertising Association's Advertising Department under the direct supervision of general executive officers, has been set at the headquarters in New York, an informative advertising plan to aid them in developing their own communities better public understanding regarding banking, Mr. Hecht said.

Underlying theme of this advertising plan is that sound banking is based on human relations and that it has an interest with the people of quality which binds them together with a common purpose. He is confident that if a clear understanding of this is brought home to the public in all our banking communities, it will go far in restoring the public confidence which good banking demands in which people believe is doubly safe, it is of interest to the people to have confidence in their banks.

PLACE OF ADVERTISING

That bank advertising has a public duty to perform in this country under existing conditions, which will be supplied in the $100,000,000 have developed will not only individual bank in promoting benefits of its own facilities but is also being about with the aid of $100,000,000 for advertising a clearer public regarding the essential part $150,000,000 in the life of its community.

COOK PORK WELL DONE

Austin, Texas, Jan. 16—Now that the winter season is here and pork and pork products are more freely used, warning against insufficient cooking of these is given by Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer.

Trichinosis is caused by a parasite in the muscles of pigs. This parasite may occur in large numbers in infested meat.

The disease is rather extensively distributed among hogs, and all pork should be regarded with suspicion unless treated to kill the larvae. Freshly killed pork is more dangerous than meat that has been kept in cold storage for some time because parasites tend to die out during prolonged storage at low temperatures. Other processes of preserving meat also tend to kill the trichinella larvae. No method of meat inspection will invariably discover the presence of this parasite. Thus safeguard against the disease must necessarily be taken by consumers of the infested pork. Thorough cooking may be counted upon to kill the parasite.

Trichinosis result from eating uncooked pork, usually in the form of sausage, that contains the larvae. There is often danger of not maintaining sufficient temperature to thoroughly cook the meat. Outer portions of the meat may appear well cooked while the inner part is quite rare and will retain the living parasites. Especially is this true if the piece of pork is quite thick. Cases of trichinosis have occurred from eating just such inner portions of undercooked pork. Pork with the slightest red tinge may contain the parasites. Pork should be cooked until all color disappears through the piece of meat, this is the only safeguard against trichinosis.

ROBINSONS

SCHOOL NEWS

On Monday morning we were entertained by a humorous as well as an educational talk by Bro. Van Zandt. He took the poem, "Old Mother Hubbard" and gave us some valuable information and advice. We hope to hear him again soon.

Last week end the boys went to Peacock to a ball tournament but they did not get anywhere. They played Peacock for their first game and lost to the tune of 34 to 19. Then Saturday morning Leudens took them out of consolation by a score of 27 to 20. Aspermont won the tourney with a win over Peacock, while Leudens winning the consolation.

This week the boys go to Hamlin to a tournament, and are scheduled to play Peacock for their first game.

The girls went to Peacock Saturday night and won over that team with a good margin.

The girls are attending a tourney at Roscoe this week end. Lets hope that both the girls and boys bring back first place trophies.

The school was visited today by Miss Mann, deputy State Superintendent. She was very nice and we enjoyed her visit, even the part of us felt slightly out of place while she was visiting the different rooms.

Probably if she would appear more often it would do a lot of us good.

We are glad to welcome Miss Katie Crider back to our ranks, as her smile brightens up the faces of those about her.

Bake Robinson Jr. also has enrolled for the rest of the term, along with Sylvia Lewis. We welcome these new pupils to our school rooms.

BETTER ENGLISH CLUB REPORT

The Better English club met last Friday and a report was made on mistakes heard during the past week.

1. Sam Matthews said, "Meetin' instead of meeting."
2. Jim Claire Davis said, "Have you got."
3. Naomi Stanley started a sentence with, "Well'."
4. Floyd Hall said, "I got."
5. Crystal Lafoon said, "Gimme'."

After this first week of correction all promise to do better the next week.

Miss Waddell gave a very interesting talk enjoyed by all.

We believe that the efforts of our club are showing in our school work.

HOT LUNCHESES FOR CHILDREN OF RELIEF FAMILIES

Austin, Jan 16.—One hundred Texas counties are providing hot school lunches to children of relief families, and more are expected to join the program during the month, it has been announced by Mrs. Helen S. Swanson, consultant dietitian of the Texas Relief Commission. The lunches are served in school lunch rooms, and cost the Relief Commission an average of 12 cents per plate.

Mrs. Swanson pointed out that the Texas Relief Commission does not bear the entire cost of the program, as contributions are made by various local agencies in the counties such as the school boards, school superintendents and teachers, parent teachers' association, women's department clubs the Salvation Army, the American Legion, and home demonstration clubs. In a number of cases donations of vegetables and other food items are made by local merchants. The lunchrooms are supervised where possible, by trained dietitians. Otherwise the lunches are approved on a volunteer basis by someone trained in home economics, particularly the local home economics teacher, the superintendent of county hospitals, the home demonstration agent, the county health nurse, or the rural home supervisor.

These supervisors have been asked to keep a record of the most successful menus served during the month of January, most successful from the standpoint of nutrition and enjoyment by the children, and the most successful single dish on the same basis. These records will be sent to Mrs. Swanson, who will compile the best menus offered, making them available to all county school lunch rooms.

"One of the most consistently reported benefits of the school lunch program has been the raised school attendance standards," Mrs. Swanson said. "The children are most eager to have school lunch, and make every effort to be present every day, which of course results in better school work. Many counties report that attendance among the relief children is better this year than ever before. Also, school officials and school boards make many reports of the benefits of the program to under nourished children."
