MY HEART IS HEAVY

Somehow, today, I think of wet brown leaves

And trailing mist that guards a mountain crest, With kindly veils, that hide world that grieves, A world that leaves its sorrow in my breast

If only my desire could take me

I am so tired of all these things I My heart is heavy with an old despair, And mountains always lend their strength to me.

My soul finds peace where nature dwells apart,

I find my pride in lofty, silent peaks, sible for the helpless and hungry to A dream comes back home within my heart,

When solitude a fresh, new wisdom speaks.

I rise above the petty ills I know And all the waste of life and its regret,

Lord, give my weary feet tha strength to go Where mist winds white, and soft

There are those who dream of the fusion of right and wrong. They fancy they can live in some border land where right and wrong are so completely blended as to be neither the one nor the other. They would live in a moral twilight - an indefinable moment when day and night approach so very near as to be neither - and all in this moral world. They utterly forget that to be a negatively good and morally wrong are one and the same. Were you to starve a man to death, or if you were to shoot him down, you have reached the same end. There is a sort of moral fusion - it brings confusionit ends in the utter diffusion of self, so much so as to put no stamp of character at all. He who thus seeks to blend eight and wrong, without maintaining their shade of difference courts an existence as characterless as the ground on whih he stands.

Recently the United States Senate voted $10,000 for the widow of Senator Cutting of New Mexico who was killed in an airplane accident. Cutting was worth a fortune at the time of his death. A few days before, the same senate voted $5000 to the widow of a secret service man who had met his death while in the discharge of his duty at the hands of a gunman. How the members of the Senate justify such a practice is not clear. Obviously, in the case of Mrs. Cutting there was no need for the senate's liberal gesture of friendship. Equally obviously in the case of the young widow of the secret service man who gave his life in a most hazardous occupation the reward to his widow and his family in comparison was piti-

PUBLIC CONFIDENCE RESTORED BY BANKS

American Bankers Association Describes Its Activities to Create Better Understanding Regarding Banks

NEW YORK .- Eight different lines of activity through which the American Bankers Association is constantly aiming to promote better public understanding and opinion in regard to banking and the attitude of bankers toward legislation are described in detail in a statement made public here by R. S. Hecht, president of the association.

The aim, he says, is "to strengthen the real basis for good opinion in regard to the banks," through fostering informative bank advertising in the newspapers and in other ways. The statement was issued in reply to suggestions received urging a nationwide public educational program in regard to "the business of banking and its place in the life of our country."

Mr. Hecht declares that "we have tried very hard to convince the public that the banking fraternity has truly profited by the lessons of the past, is determined to approach all questions of banking policy from the broad viewpoint of public welfare and is prepared to carry its full share of the burden in connection with all efforts to restore sound prosperity in this country."

The Means Employed In describing the various measures of the association "to exert a beneficial influence on public opinion regarding the functions, methods and operations of banks," Mr. Hecht enumerated the following activities:

1. The Public Education Commission which prepares plain language talks about banking for use of bankers and others be-fore schools, civic clubs and over the radio. 2. The Constructive Customer Relations program, installed in many banks to help qualify bank employees to promote a better informed and more sympathetic attitude among their customers regarding banking.

3. The Publicity Department, supplying

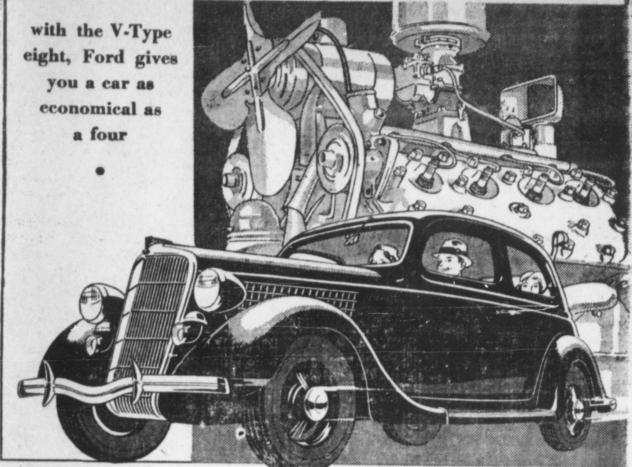

tude among their customers regarding banking.

3. The Publicity Department, supplying city and country daily and weekly newspapers with articles regarding banking and allied subjects and furnishing the general press with news and information regarding the activities of the association.

4. The Advertising Department, supplying members of the association with a series of informative newspaper advertisements setting forth in brief, popular language the methods and policies under which banks operate, their effective practices for protecting depositors funds, the services they render and the various ways in which they cooperate with business is their own communities in fostering sound recovery and progress.

Vhy not own an EIGHT?

ROM the driver's point of view, 8 cylinders make the ideal engine for a car. They give responsiveness, smoothness, quietness.

And in the Ford V-8 engine, you get this performance at 4-cylinder cost. The Ford V-8 you buy today costs less to own than any car Ford ever built! Its initial cost is at rock-bottom, and includes many "extras," such as safety glass all around, big 6.00 x 16-inch air-balloon tires, built-in luggage space.

Operating costs have also been pared this year-in sparing use of gas and oil, and in improvements which cut down brake, clutch, and tire wear.

Drive this Ford V-8. There's a Ford dealer near you-see him today. Let a Ford V-8 tell you what it has already told to a record number of eager buyers the country over.

ROBINSONS

Everything From The Cradle To The Grave.

The Objective Sought commenting on the foregoing program. Mr. Hecht says that it is not "the primary objective to attract attention particularly to the American Bankers Association as such, but rather to focus aftention on and give impetus to those ideas which it believes are beneficial in promoting understanding and solidarity among banking, business and the public." He adds:

"Our program for the development of satisfactory public relations for newspaper publicity. It is calculated out. to produce a continuous and cumulative effect by varied efforts which are aimed to work day in and day out to strengthen the real basis for good opinion in regard to the banks.

"To have favorable things said about the banking business in the newspapers and over the radio is, the association recognizes, very helpful toward creating a sound public opinion regarding banking. But the association believes that the most important thing ultimately is to foster throughout the banking profession the doing sincerely of those things that reflect favorably the sound, helpful practices of the business of banking, and that then the true news of its constructive activities will constitute the best answers to misrepresentations aimed at banks and bankers."

There are those who dream of the fusion of right and wrong. They fancy they can live in some border land where right and wrong are so completely blended as to be neither the one nor the other. They would live in a moral twight - an indefinable moment when day and night approach so very near as to be neither - and all in this moral world. They utterly forget that to be a negatively good and morally wrong are one and the same. Were you to starve a man to death, or if you were to shoot him down, you have reached the same end. There is a sort of moral fusion - it brings confusionit ends in the utter diffusion of self, so much so as to put no stamp of character at all. He who thus seeks to blend eight and wrong, without maintaining their shade of difference courts an existence as characterless as the ground on while he stands.

Recently the United States Senate voted $10,000 for the widow of Senator Cutting of New Mexico who was killed in an airplane accident. Cutting was worth a fortune at the time of his death. A few days before, the same senate voted $5000 to the widow of a secret service man who had met his death while in the discharge of his duty at the hands of a gunmant. How the members of the Senate justify such a practice is not clear. Obviously, in the case of Mrs. Cutting there was no need for the senate's liberal gesture of friendship. Equally obviously in the case of the young widow of the secret service man who gave his life in a most hazardous occupation the reward to his widow and his family in comparison was pitifully small.

American Sankers Association Describes Its Activities to Create Better Understanding Regarding Banks

NEW YORK.-Eight different lines of activity through which the American Bankers Association is constantly aiming to promote better public understanding and opinion in regard to banking and the attitude of bankers toward legislation are described in detail in a statement made public here by R. S. Hecht, president of the association.

The aim, he says, is "to strengthen the real basis for good opinion in re-gard to the banks," through fostering informative bank advertising in the newspapers and in other ways. The statement was issued in reply to suggestions received urging a nationwide public educational program in regard to "the business of banking and its place in the life of our country."

Mr. Hecht declares that "we have tried very hard to convince the public that the banking fraternity has truly profited by the lessons of the past, is determined to approach all questions of banking policy from the broad viewpoint of public welfare and is prepared to carry its full share of the burden in connection with all efforts to restore sound prosperity in this country."

The Means Employed In describing the various measures of the association "to exert a beneficial influence on public opinion regarding the functions, methods and operations of banks," Mr. Hecht enumerated the following activities:

1. The Public Education Commission, which prepares plain language talks about banking for use of bankers and others before schools, civic clubs and over the radio.

2. The Constructive Customer Relations program, installed in many banks to help qualify bank employees to promote a better informed and more sympathetic attitude among their customers regarding banking.

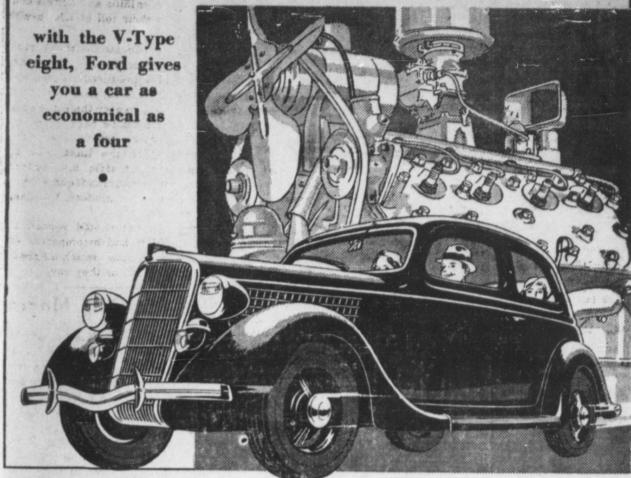

ter informed and more sympathetic attitude among their customers regarding banking.

3. The Publicity Department, supplying eity and country daily and weekly newspapers with articles regarding banking and allied subjects and furnishing the general press with news and information regarding the activities of the association.

4. The Advertising Department, supplying members of the association with a series of informative newspaper advertisements setting forth in brief, popular language the methods and policies under which banks operate, their effective practices for protecting depositors funds, the services they render and the various ways in which they cooperate with business in their own communities in fostering sound recovery and progress.

5. The Executive Officers and the Committee on Banking Studies, who are active, particularly at Washington, in consulting with Administration and Congressional leaders in formulating proposals for banking reform based on broad lines of public welfere.

hy not own an EIGHT?

FROM the driver's point of view, 8 cylinders make the ideal engine for a car. They give responsiveness, smoothness, quietness.

And in the Ford V-8 engine, you get this performance at 4-cylinder cost. The Ford V-8 you buy today costs less to own than any car Ford ever built! Its initial cost is at rock-bottom, and includes many "extras," such as safety glass all around, big 6.00 x 16-inch air-balloon tires, built-in luggage space.

Operating costs have also been pared this year-in sparing use of gas and oil, and in improvements which cut down brake, clutch, and tire wear.

Drive this Ford V-8. There's a Ford dealer near you-see him today. Let a Ford V-8 tell you what it has already told to a record number of eager buyers the country over.

The Objective Sought in commenting on the foregoing program, offr. Hecht says that it is not "the primary objective to attract attention particularly to the American Bankers Association as such, but rather to focus attention on and give impetus to those ideas which it believes are beneficial in promoting understanding and the public." He adds "Our program for the development of satisfactory public relations for banking does not consist merely of newspaper publicity. It is calculated out. to produce a continuous and cumulative effect by varied efforts which are aimed to work day in and day out to strengthen the real basis for good opin-solidabity among banking, business and ion in regard to the banks. have favorable things said about the banking business in the newspapers and over the radio is, the association recognizes, very helpful toward creating a sound public opinion regarding banking. But the association believes that the most important thing ultimately is to foster throughout the banking profession the doing sincerely of those things that reflect favorably the sound, helpful practices of the business of banking, and that then the true news of its constructive activities will constitute the best answers to misrepresentations aimed at banks and bankers."

L. Myers, Governor of the Parm Credit Administration, Washer a galvair ington, D. C. He was speaking before the Graduate School of Banking, conducted jointly by the American Institute of Banking Section of the American Bankers Association and Rutgeral University. "Some people have expressed a feat that the Cooperative Production Credit Associations are threatening the business of country banks, but these institutions have seither the desire nor the resources to monopolize a field which is still in the infancy of development," Governor Myers said, "Farmers who get their credit on time or by charge accounts have a basis for cash loans and should be buying their credit from a bank, production credit association or other institutions that selfcredit on a business basis."
