Jayton Students Honored On NTSU Honor Roll

Four Jayton High School students have been selected as Outstanding Teenagers of America for 1971, according to Ralph W. Newton, principal.

Selection for the Outstanding Teenagers awards program automatically qualifies these students for further state and national scholarships and honors. Local nominees are:

Kim G. Nichols, John Charles Davis, Susan Wallace, Harold Wayne Judy. Nominated by their principals, the Outstanding Teenagers of America are chosen from individual schools across the country for excellence in community service and academic achievement. The local students will now vie for the Outstanding Teenager of the Year Trophy to be presented by the state's governor.

Similar trophies will be presented to winners in other states. The state winners are selected by the Outstanding Teenager Awards Selection Committee, in cooperation with the Board of Advisors.

City And School Elections Saturday

Residents of Jayton general area have two elections to keep in mind for Saturday.

The City election offers some activity. For Mayor, Robert Lewis has no opposition. He is serving out the unexpired term of Dick Judy.

For the five places on the city council there are nine names. Incumbent members are Euel Harrison, Edd Kyle, M. W. Davis, R. R. Chisum, and Robert Koonce. Four other names are also on the ballot, Robert Edward Hall, Mike Owen, Raldo Goodall and R. L. Short. This gives nine choices for five places.

For two places on the school board there are three names, Billy Sartain, J. B. Montgomery and Buddy Gallagher. Gallagher is presently on the board, Z. L. McAteer who is serving by appointment, said, like the president of old "I choose not to run". Sartain and Montgomery are not now on the board.

School voters can vote in Jayton, Girard and Clairemont.

Purvis SoRelle Is New Deputy Sheriff

Purvis SoRelle began his duties as deputy sheriff-tax-assessor and collector, to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Ralph Brantner.

Purvis has lived all his life in Kent County, with the exception of a "hitch" in the U. S. Army, where he did office machine and IBM work.

He is married to the former Tommie Joyce Rose. They have three children; Tommy Allen of Littlefield, who is band director in the school there; Sharon, who is now in college and Melody of the home. Also have one grandson.

Farm Program Compliance

Farmers enrolling in the feed grain, wheat, and cotton set-aside farm programs were reminded of the "average productivity" requirement for set-aside acreage and other provisions by W. E. Walker, Chairman of the Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

A acreage set aside under each program should be as productive as the acreage normally used to produce the crop.

"Since the set-aside acreage is used to help prevent excess production, the average productivity provision is a commonsense way to see that it applies fairly to all", Walker said. If the set-aside acreage is determined to be less productive than that normally used to produce the crop, the County ASC Committee is required to amount of the set-aside payment for that farm.

For participants in the voluntary farm programs the set-aside acres are 20 percent of the feed grain base, 75 percent of the domestic wheat allotment, and 20 percent of the cotton base acreage allotment. Producers need make a set-aside only for the programs they sign up for.

In addition to their set-aside acreage, farmers also maintain the conserving base on the farm they enroll in the programs. The ASC Committee Chairman cautioned that producers who have their farm conserving bases updated this year must be careful to see that their set-aside acres are designated on cropland from which a nonconserving crop was harvested or which was diverted under farm programs last year.

At the time of farm program sign-up, which continues through April 9, producers know the number of acres they must put into set-aside. However, the exact location of the set-aside acreage on a farm will be designated by the producer when he comes into the County ASCS Office to certify compliance with farm program provisions. Final dates for this certification in Kent County are August 15 for feed grain, May 1 for wheat, and August 15 for cotton.

At that time, in addition to designating his set-aside acres, the producers also certified he is in compliance with other program provisions and will remain in compliance. Spot checks may be made on farms at any time following certification.

Eligible conserving uses for set-aside acreage in Kent County include grasses and legumes, green manure crops, small grain cover crops, sweet sorghum, summer fallow, and wildlife habitat.

Set-aside acreage may not be grazed during the five month period from May 1 to October 1.

No crops may be harvested from set-aside acres, except for that acreage planted to permitted alternate crops. These are guar, sunflower, sesame, castor beans, mustard seed, safflower, crambe, and plantago ovato. If any of these eight allowable crops are planted on set-aside acreage, a $10 reduction for each acre planted will be made in the farm program payment.

Mr. Walker cautioned producers to keep in mind some essential differences between their set-aside acreage and their conserving base acreage. "Although both are devoted to conserving uses," he said, "the purpose of the set-aside from the non-conserving crop use to which it would otherwise be put. On the other hand, conserving base acreage is kept in its normal use and may be grazed throughout the year or may be harvested for hay."

UNKEL ZEKE SEZ

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I recollect a feller said onct that the only way to make shure that crime don't pay was to let the Government run it. With all them millions being made off Army PXs and little odd jobs like the Supreme Court judges take to "advise" big companies and the stocks all them cabinet members have in outfits they beg Congress to give money to, it looks like even the Government can make a go of crime.

The fellers took up this matter of everbody thinking these days that laws of God and man is made fer everbody else. What got em started on the subject Saturday night at the country store was this piece Zeke Grubb had saw in the paper about a civic club was holding Crime Prevention Week. Zeke reported where this piece said the club was putting on a feed and inviting all the law in the county to help celebrate Crime Prevention Week.

Zeke said after he read the piece all he could think of was his preacher told him not about the church being for sinners. Zeke took this to mean that the folks that go to church general ain't the ones that need it the most. He allowed that the same would hold for them that attends Crime Prevention Week feeds. Fonder how many crooks is celebrating the week, Zeke wanted to know.

Ed Doolittle said he was of the mind that the civic club was just telling the police they was behind the law. Ed said about the only way you can prevent a crime is not to do it, but being agin crime in public is like being agin bad weather. We can talk, but they ain't a heap we can do, was Ed's words.

The trouble, allowed Ed, its back to having respect fer the rights of others. The police can't do a thing afore the crime is done, Ed said, and they are pritty tied up about what they can do after. If a man's got mean doing in his heart they ain't much we can do afore he does it, allowed

Ed.

Actual, said Clem Webster, that had listened as long as he could without gitting in his dime's worth, the courts don't help none even after the police catch em. The court throws the case out on some legal point, or gives out suspended sentences that jest puts the crook on the loose agin. Course, Clem said, this could be cause the jails is full.

Mister Editor, the fellers don't buy none of that about a jena in the body making a man be a crook. But their talk about courts reminded me of the time this feller was up fer stealing two of his neighbors' mules. He told the judge the neighbor had stole his wife and he took the mules to git even.

The judge ruled that a wife that would run off weren't worth much to start with, and he ordered the feller to give back one of the mules. I reckon our courts can use more of them kind of judges.

Yours truly,
Unkel Zeke

THANK YOU
"Thank You," These words are used frequently; sometimes with deep meaning and other times, perhaps, quite shallow. There has never been a time when the "Thank you," we express here has had a deeper or more sincere meaning. MARCH HARE
What did the little March hare do,
In such wild and wintry weather?
He popped into a snow-bank
As light as any feather.
He hopped into the garden
As quiet as could be,
Hoping to find a carrot
To munch on merrily.
And so this little bunny
Hopped through his calendar of days
To find he had hopped into
Easter-time
Where he is loved al-ways.

"Those who expect to reap the blessings of freedom must undergo the fatigue of supporting it."
Thomas Paine Sept. 12, 1777

"We, the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

This short paragraph -- the Preamble of the Constitution for the United States of America -- states in one sentence the intentions of the men who wrote it. Not many would find themselves in disagreement with the proposed objectives, but from the beginning there has been disagreement over the laws which would be necessary to fulfill these objectives. Some of this disagreement arises out of the tendency of many of us to look at everything in the light of our own personal desires, ambitions and material gain. In order to be able to properly evaluate laws, either those now in force or those being proposed, we need to take a more impersonal point of view and try to think more in terms of "WE, the people of the (WHOLE) UNITED STATES."

The Mystery Scene

The mystery house last week, on the county line road northwest of Girard, was guessed by Mrs. C. C. Scott. Mrs. Jimmie Arnold of Route 1, Girard also guessed it correctly. What's the matter, surely a lot of people knew the location of this place? Didn't want to spend a toll call? Well, that will be remedied soon when the new extended service goes into effect, and Jayton and Girard people can dial each other toll free.

The word "monk" (from the Greek monachos) first meant one who lived alone, but in the course of time it came to mean a member of a religious community.

Spring

By Flora Smith Dean
 Over the fields,
 Once brown and dead,
 A carpet of softest green,
 Is spread;
 The orchard wears a bridal dress,
 A rosy, snowy, loveliness;
 The jonquil nods
 A golden cup,
 The robin sing,
 When the sun comes up;
 After a winter of death
 and sleeping,
 Over the earth new life is creeping;
 The sun has now a warmer glow,
 Gone are the days of ice and snow,
 Our hearts are glad for sun
 and showers,
 Glad for the beauty of grass and flowers,
 Glad and thankful
 for everything,
 Thankful, Oh Lord,
 For Spring, for Spring!

Days of the Past

A prisoner of war writes his mother. He and Q. T. Wade are C. K. Shanghai, China War Prison Camp, April 14, 1944.
 Dearest Mother,
 Through the kind permission of the Japanese authorities, I am able to write you again. I am in good health. Tell Mrs. Wade that Q. T. is fine also. He and I are the best of pals. I was glad to get your letter of September 1943, and January and February 1944, and learn that you had heard from me. I have received several letters from my friends. I can't write them now, but they will never be forgotten by me as letters are as welcome almost as Freedom. Here in two and half years I have learned to live a simple life and manage to stay in good health. We received four Red Cross parcels, food, clothing and toilet articles. Also they are greatly appreciated. I have nothing but praise for the Red Cross. I hope it won't be too much longer until I'll be sitting in the living room enjoying a good pipe full of tobacco, and a good cup of coffee and talking to the family.

 Your loving son,

Teresa was taken to the Hamlin hospital, reported to have pneumonia and was placed under oxygen. Her mother came for Toby and he was reported to have high fever on this Monday morning.

The latest reports are that: Lucille is at work, not frisky, Ricky Wayne is back in school and Teresa is expected to come home on Tuesday. So, folks, with all the dust storms, etc., take it easy. If you take sick, rest sure helps. A day of rest might save a week later on.

This Week In Jayton

It has been a long standing joke and sometimes not so funny, among citizens and officers, that the officers have their quotas issued to them, and if they don't issue a certain amount of citations, they are in trouble. Officers have always denied this, and sometimes get a bit huffy about it.

But this week, a group of 120 City of Lubbock Police-men joined the union, and one of their chief grievances as reported by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, is that they are issued quotas on the amount of tickets they issue. One patrolman was quoted as saying if you issued a lot of tickets you were considered a fine officer and subject to promotion, but if you were low on the tickets issued, you were subject to reprimand, or perhaps even dismissal.

So, all you guys now that have been telling this on the officers can say at least in the city of Lubbock you were right.

The effects of more than seventy winters caused the snow white hair of the speaker to give him a look of wisdom and maturity, and he began what most people would consider a difficult task. He was Tom Pennington, a retired chaplain from the State School for Boys at Gatesville. He was conducting funeral services for Nathan Curry, a young man with many problems the past few years, who, in a period of despondency had taken his own life with a shotgun.

Curry first, was accused of brutally killing a church secretary in Cisco, who had lived just two doors down the street from the young man. He spent almost two years at the State School in Gatesville, and then when he reached the age of 17 he was tried for the murder, and found not guilty. But he was under constant surveillance by the police, several times accused of crimes against young women, and a few months ago accused, indicted, tried, convicted and given a ten year sentence in Amarillo for robbing a young housewife at a laundry. He was out of jail on appeal bond from this case.

Curry was working in the Dallas area as a heavy machinery operator, while his wife and two children lived with his mother in Cisco. When he arrived for the weekend on March 20th, he was told that the police were looking for him. He had his wife to call the police station, and she was told that he was wanted for attempted robbery of a young housewife in a grocery store parking lot. He is alleged to have told his wife he was living in a constant, living hell, and he could stand it no longer. She took the two children across the street to a neighbor's, and while she was gone, she heard a shot. He had placed the shotgun in his mouth, and blew the back of his head off, according to newspaper reports. When the officers arrived to arrest him they found his dead body in the back yard.

The woman, for whose robbery he was under suspicion, said she had bitten the finger of her assailant, in fact she thought she had almost bitten it off, and she got the auto license as he fled the scene. The number she gave the police proved to be Curry's number.

But the mortician at Cisco who embalmed the body of young Curry, said there were no such marks on his hand.

As the aging chaplain began his funeral sermon, he began it by saying, "It is one of the seriously wrong things about our American system of justice, that a 10-year old boy can be charged with having committed a crime in the streets of one of our communities, and he can be committed to a State Reform School, without a trial, and be held there until he is 17 years of age, and then carried into court, and be tried as an adult for the crime he was accused of committing when he was 10 years old."

Chaplain Pennington told the small group of mourning friends and relatives, that while at Gatesville for almost two years Curry was his office boy and that he knew him better than any living person, even better than his own mother. And then he added with emphasis, "This young man never committed any crime—he wouldn't even harm a mouse."

The strain and stress of several years of litigation, and of the ensuing trial was difficult on Nathan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Curry, and four days after the trial in which a Palo Pinto County Jury said Nathan did not kill the church secretary, his father died of a heart attack. Chaplain Pennington was called upon to comfort the family at this time.

During Nathan's funeral, Pennington told of what he called the most touching incident of his entire ministry.

During the trial, the witnesses were put under rule, and were not allowed to enter the courtroom. The gray-haired Pennington said word got to him by the grapevine that the defense was ready to begin their testimony. "Somehow, we all felt prayer was in order," he said. "We walked down the hall and around the corner to a dead end and about ten of us knelt to pray. Mr. Curry was the first, and others joined in. After awhile I heard voices I did not recognize. After some 20 minutes when the prayer closed, I looked up and there must have been 30 people there. Many had joined the group after the prayer began.

The retired chaplain closed out his death sermon with this remark, "Goodbye for today Nathan, I will see you in the morning."

An important figure in the Curry story, for the many years it made the headlines was an Odessa attorney named John Watts. He has been insistent throughout the years that Curry is completely innocent, and has been a victim of circumstances, and of constant harassment by the police.

At the cemetery, at the close of the funeral as they readied to leave, Watts approached the chaplain, with tears streaming down his face, and told him, "That was the greatest funeral sermon I have ever heard."

To the outsider that only knows about Nathan Curry what he has read in the daily press, it is very difficult to imagine him being completely innocent. Why was he involved in so many things, and why so many things that point the finger of guilt in his direction?

But to his mother, who has been embarrassed and humiliated and suffered untold harassment, and to those who have been close to him, and say they really know him, they speak bitterly of how the police hunted him up and out him through long sessions of questioning everytime something unusual happened, and of the daily press that constantly write about him, never saying anything favorably about him, but will write one paragraph of current news, and then many paragraphs each time of rehashing all the things he has been accused of but not found guilty of.

"The news-hungry reporters, and the heartless, bird-dogging police are responsible for this untimely death," one person said as he left the cemetery at the close of the funeral for Nathan Curry, a young 25-year old man who ended his own life in hopeless desperation."

English Muffin Bread

Toast and tangy orange marmalade—a fine old British tradition, loved by all.

English Muffin Bread has an incomparable aroma and taste that only fresh, home-baked yeast breads offer. This recipe is a batter bread—your mixer can do all the work and there's no kneading.

For that unusual shape, bake the loaves in one-pound coffee cans. After baking, slice off what you need. As with English Muffins, toasting brings out the best in this bread. The loaves will keep their freshness for a week if sealed tightly in moisture-vapor proof wrapping.

Bread provides essential nutrients to your family diet. Four daily servings of breads or cereals are recommended. Enriched flour in all your home baked goods contributes the B-vitamins—thiamine, niacin and riboflavin—and the important mineral, iron.

ENGLISH MUFFIN BREAD

- three 1-pound loaves
- 3 to 4 cups enriched flour
 - 2 packages dry yeast
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 2 teaspoons salt
 - 1 1/4 cups hot tap water
 - 1/2 cup oil
 - 2 eggs
 - Corn Meal
- Combine 1 1/2 cups flour, yeast, sugar and salt. Add hot tap water (115 to 120°); mix until dry ingredients are moistened. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes on electric mixer or 300 strokes by hand. Blend in oil and eggs. Add flour to make a stiff batter. Beat until batter is smooth and elastic, about 1 minute with electric mixer or 150 strokes by hand. Cover and let rise in warm place (80 to 85°) until light and bubbly, about 1 hour. Stir down. Divide into 3 well-greased and corn meal-dusted 1 pound coffee cans. Cover and let rise in warm place, until doubled, about 30 minutes. Bake in preheated 375° oven 15 to 20 minutes, or until done. Let cool completely in coffee cans. Invert and shake to remove loaves. To serve, slice and toast.
- *Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.
- NOTE: If self-rising flour is used, omit salt.
- *Two 4 1/2 x 8 1/2-inch loaf pans or six #303 cans can also be used.

Cotton Income Will Be Reduced By New Rules, Rankin Tells Senators

WASHINGTON, D. C. —Income to cotton farmers will be drastically reduced as a result of administrative rulings by the Nixon Administration under the Agricultural Act of 1970, the Farmers Union said recently.

Joe D. Rankin of Falls, vice president of the Texas Farmers Union and president of the Plains Cooperative Oil Mill, told a subcommittee of the Senate Agriculture Committee that most of the loss of income will occur because of the lower loan rate and the lower government payment. But other rulings are also damaging, he said.

Rankin, a cotton farmer in Crosby County, said that lowering the government payment from 16.8c per pound to 15c per pound will cost producers $9 per bale. Other changes that will bring lower income include lowering the loan rate from 20.25¢ per pound to 19.5¢ per pound, calculation of the loan on the basis of "net weight", and cancellation of premium for the better micronaire measurement of cotton fiber. This will cost producers another $10 a bale.

Rankin said also that the new program fails to provide adequately for disasters in such high risk areas as the High Plains of Texas. When producers are prevented from planting or suffer losses from such disasters as hail, and plant another crop at a later date, they are considered to have failed to fully comply with program. Payments are reduced by one-third, he said, or to 10¢ per pound. He said this provision is aimed at correcting abuses, but he said it can be carried out better by county committees, which are more familiar with local conditions.

Another ruling that Rankin said causes hardship is the switch to "proven" yields, instead of average yields which take into account production trends, as well as local disasters.

Also, Rankin said the requirement that "set aside" acreage on irrigated cotton farms must be irrigable land results in a penalty on those farms with limited irrigation. He said such rulings have created "uncertainty and anxiety" among producers. He said they could be corrected by increasing the payments and the loan rates. He said that such tight rules are contrary to the intent of Congress which was aimed at "providing a fair return to the producer and an adequate supply of cotton."

Bruised Feelings

"It's a boy," said the absent-minded doctor to the happy parents.

But it happened to be a girl. The following morning, the doctor sheepishly acknowledged his mistake. However, the parents were so unnerved by this turn of events that they determined to sue him for damages.

At the trial, the doctor protested: "I admit I made a careless statement. But I can't see any basis for a lawsuit. After all, I didn't really do them any harm."

"Not physically," countered the parents, "but he certainly did jolt us mentally. We want compensation for our mental anguish."

Nevertheless, the court sided with the doctor and dismissed the claim. The court said mere bruised feelings, not inflicted on purpose, are insufficient grounds for collecting damages.

Most courts agree. They fear that with no physical injuries to be checked and measured, it is too easy for a claimant to exaggerate his woes.

They also fear they might be flooded by all sorts of vague claims. In another case, a girl demanded damages for hurt feelings when she was left out of a beauty pageant. The court decision claim was too "slight" allowed.

"To attempt to fix for such suffering," judge, "would be to realm of speculation." On the other hand, courts have granted unusually delicate when feelings are not tender. For example, a telegram to a bank informing him that his had died, was delivered late — after he had been doubly distressed, the telegram company negligence.

And, even though he ferred only mental anguish held the company. The judge said: "The mind is no less of the person than the suffering of the body, sometimes more acute than of the latter."
