This Week In Jayton

Someone has been reading two articles from a daily paper, finding that they be reprinted in the Chronicle. These are syndicated columns. If the party wishing the articles reprinted in the Chronicle will get written permission from the columnists, we will be glad to run them. Otherwise, we would be in violation of the law.

The Texas House of Representatives Monday passed a bill, if concurred on by the Senate, and signed by the Governor, will make liquor by the drink and open saloons available to many Texans by early summer.

Passed by a two-thirds majority, in order to let people hold local option elections May 18 along with the vote on the amendments, it was pushed through with the arguments they wanted the open saloon to be open to the tourists this summer. Voting against the measure was Representative Rosson, who represents Crosby County, and also Representative Calhoun of Abilene and Representative Heatley of Paducah.

All of the Lubbock representatives favored the bill including Tarbox, Jones and McAllister. Governor Preston Smith has promised in advance, if the bill is passed, he will sign the measure.

The Lubbock-Avalanche Journal news department made headlines in their Saturday issue about the Kent County draft board resigning en masse over the Calley case. But evidently did not choose to tell their readers about the Lubbock County member of their draft board resigning--same cause.

If the story about the Wolforth man appeared, it was in some remote spot in the paper where we failed to find it. And they did know about his resignation.

A few days ago I was talking to a man who spent quite some time in the armed forces during WW2. We were discussing the Calley case. He says some good may come from it. This man was an officer of the high rank, Major, I believe. He says the entire system of court-marshal is unjust and outmoded.

He says in the system of court-marshal, the severity of the offense, is a very unimportant matter. A man, if he is brought into a court-marshal, may be sentenced to a long term in prison for a relatively minor offense. The important thing is if he is guilty, and most people seem to have

Little League Meeting Draws Little Interest

The Jayton Ball Club met Friday night, April 16th at 7:30 in the high school library with a very small number present. Some very important discussions were held and voted on.

Officers for the year were elected unanimously as follows: President, Don Trammell; Vice President, Herman Dunham; Sec. Treas., Joy Kidd.

Much time was taken in the discussion of the number of boys we have to play and whether it feasible to have two teams or one. After weighing the pros and cons, it was voted unanimously to have only one team of Major Little League and possibly two teams of the Minor League or Pee-Wee, with a possibility of playing 10 games. With only 26 boys, it seemed unlikely to have two teams of 15 players.

It was a hard decision, but everyone agreed it was best. William D. Hall is manager and Herman Dunham is coach. Concession stand equipment was discussed, but no decision was made at the time.

Those attending were, Howard Freemeyer, Ronald Nauret, Gus Fincher, Bruce Land, Don Trammell, Nancy Hagar, Nell Ballard, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hall, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kidd.

If anyone has any questions or suggestions as to making a good Little League season, please contact one of the officers or manager. All help is appreciated. Criticism is not appreciated, unless you have something better, a spokesman said.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Did you see by the paper where this professor is suing his college for firing him cause of his age? The professor is 69 year old and wants to work, but the school put him out to pasture. Mister Editor, I hope he wins his case and they have to put him back in harness.

I was thinking about this professor Saturday night during the session at the country store. I looked around at the fellers and I realized we're all right along their with the professor. The only difference is, don't none of us want to hit a lick at a snake, so we're getting pritty much what we want. It ain't fair, seems to me, to have a set up where a feller has got to stop and rock just cause he's been around for a certain number of years.

Ed Doolittle must of read my mind, cause he come up with one of his clippings that told how old business and industry executives is being brought out of retirement on a advising basis to help out their old companies. Ed said it tickled him, cause he allus had heard that what a man needs when he puts in fer a job is 40 year experience, and these fellers got it.

Incidental, this professor talked about a heap of men in history that done a lot of their great stuff after they passed the 70 mark. I know people slow down when they put on some years, but I agree with the professor that you can't jest run a man in a computer and figger out how many working days he's got in him. If a man wants to work and can do the job, his age ought not to be held agin him, is my feeling.

Practical speaking, Mister Editor, it looks like jest living is going to be a real trick. Bug Hookum, that never smoked regular but used to chew like a beaver, has laid down the no smoking law in the store, and he has the official backing of the feller that runs the store. Bug persented as evidence for the persecution this report that allows second hand smoke will kill you.

Bug said he can see all kind of problems in this ruling, though. If we can outlaw smoking in a tight room on account of our smoke hurting somebody else that breathe the smoke we blow out, what can we do about a barber that has two beers and a bunch of garlick fer dinner, was Bug's question. And what about the wimmen that like to slip off their shoes in church?

Personal, it's still a great old world, even if we have got old folks that want to work and can't and young folks that can work but won't. We got progress ever minute. I see where this company is offering $200 a pound fer human hair, so a heap of the shaggy young-uns can cash in. And I see where this scientist has said soft music makes plants grow, so some smart feller now can come out with a wild beat to kill weeds.

Yours truly,
Unkel Zeke

Spring Rain

The rain comes down,
With a dreary sound,
The very skies seem weeping;
But we below, must always know,
That rain doth wake the sleeping;
And not in vain,
The tears of rain,
Fall soft, on the hard dry ground,
For seeds and flowers,
Await the showers,
That beauty may abound;
It cheers our heart,
Thru the dreary part
To think of the sunshine,
after;
Of birds and bees,
Of flowers and trees,
And children's happy laughter!

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Plan on Dying

Some years ago a clerk in a bookstore, unpacking a shipment of new books, found one on the subject of "estate planning." Thinking it must be about the landscaping of large homes, he placed it in the gardening section.

He would hardly make that mistake today. Estate planning has come into its own, used by thoughtful people everywhere to preserve assets during their lifetime and to pass them on wisely—and economically—at death.

One reason for the growth of estate planning is the growth of estates. Nowadays even the ordinary citizen is likely to have an estate of substance. It may well include not only a home and a savings account but also personal life insurance, group insurance, stocks, pension plan benefits, profit-sharing options, and social security rights.

Another reason is that estate planning has become far more sophisticated. Its techniques have gone well beyond the traditional "testamentary trust" for a rich lady and "spendthrift trust" for a rich young man.

Unfortunately, there are pitfalls aplenty for the amateur planner. For example: many peo-

Mr. Hale lived in the vicinity many years. I'm sure many of the old timers will remember him. And those that get the Chronicle would want to know of this another old Kent County friend passing away.

IT NEVER FAILS

Some people shrink from the thought of estate planning. But, like it or not, some plan is going to govern the care and distribution of your possessions. The plan could be yours, if you make one. If you don't, state and federal laws—oblivious of your wishes—will do it for you.

COMMUNICATIONS

Scattered throughout these United States are thousands of men, women, boys and girls whose hobby is communication by means of radio. After weeks, months or even years of study and by demonstrating their knowledge and ability, they are granted licenses by the United States government to communicate with other radio operators. In addition to enjoying their privileges of communicating with each other, these amateur radio operators, commonly known as "hams," often provide very valuable services to the rest of the population. In times of disaster, when phones and power sources are turned down, they may be the only link of communication to other areas in search of help. They regularly provide direct communication between our servicemen stationed all over the world and their loved ones at home. They often report accidents and are instrumental in saving lives and property by getting aid where needed quickly. Without fanfare and without compensation, these talented hams contribute much to the general welfare of our nation. They are truly doing their part to support America.

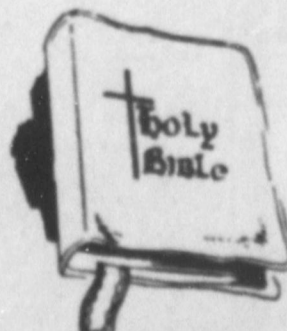

Our priceless heritage embodied in the flag of the United States, is as alive today as it was when written for the ages in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. It stands for all the world to see and for all Americans to cherish. And in the tradition of Washington, Jefferson, and Hamilton, we, too, have a privilege, a right, and a duty. While we may disagree as to the methods, we should not disagree as to the goal—that of preserving the greatest democratic society the world has ever known.

Our flag is a symbol, not of sentiment, but of history, the history of men and women willing to live and die for it. Surely this willingness is with us still, because daily we experience more of the blessings that are ours—ours because we are Americans.

This Week . . . From page one the opinion that he is going to be found guilty, even before the court begins.

Another person, with considerable military experience comes up with another angle. At least some of the men on a court marshal "jury" are subject to being disciplined in some way, by the military officers who have ordered, or who are conducting the trial. Do you think this has any influence on the men making their decisions?", he asks.

So we shall see what the final outcome will be. My friend predicts perhaps an entire change-up in the way the military will go about in conducting military trials. And, he added, "It could sure stand it."

Friday morning, I was asking someone, what had happened to the old time honored custom of having April showers? And none of us had any idea.

But, then about noon, there was a bit of moisture, and that night we really did have an April shower. How about that? Which brings up another matter. There are tornados, as noted by the twister that hit Hereford Sunday night, but one person was heard to say Saturday that you can't even enjoy a good shower anymore, without the boys on the radio and television keeping you scared up with the warnings about funnel clouds, and tornadoes and such like.

It seems to me, we need several things, to kinda help the public in these matters.

It is real fine for radio and TV to keep the public informed and warned, I am sure this has been the source of saving many lives, and this should be appreciated.

But, the public needs to be informed about the words they use. A warning that an area is put under an alert is one thing, and a warning that a tornado has actually been sighted is something entirely different. In order to understand and appreciate the information given, a person needs to understand the language they are using.

And, then, on top of this, I think every broadcaster should have to take about a two weeks course in common sense before he is allowed to handle the weather news.

The people do need to be informed and alerted. But they keep many people so nervous and torn up, they have difficulty going about their daily work, when actually there is no apparent real danger at the moment.

People who make up the weather news and send out the reports, depend upon information furnished them, along with information gained from their weather tracking equipment.

Quite often we hear reports about funnel clouds having been sighted in certain areas. This usually brings to my mind a question, "Just how do you know for sure when a cloud may be classed as a funnel cloud and when it should not be so classed?"

Anyway, some degree of caution should be used to eliminate as much as possible any unusual panic, and still be able to give people the warning they need. Just where you can draw that line, could be highly debatable.

HOME BUYER CLINIC
By Alvin W. Long President American Land Title Association

1971 - Year to Buy
Economic forecasts generally point to substantial increases in new housing starts and the availability of mortgage money in 1971. This encouraging outlook means that 1971 may well be the year for that purchase of a home you've been postponing because of unfavorable conditions in the national economy. Most experts still consider a home an excellent long-range investment in a majority of situations.

A.W. Long tions - even with today's rising real estate costs. The national housing shortage and increasingly expensive land, labor, and materials make it advisable to plan the purchase of a home as soon as possible. Waiting for interest rates to come down further could cost you more as other costs continue to climb.

When buying a home, it's an excellent idea to become well informed - in advance - on important aspects of purchasing real estate. Carefully consider home design, location, and structural condition. Look into financing that is available and calculate the impact of ownership on your budget. Ask local government officials about the planning and zoning prospects for the neighborhood.

Before you buy, look into the closing costs you will need to pay. And - whether you're purchasing a single home, town house, condominium, cooperative unit, or other type of residence - do not overlook the importance of a land title search and owner's title insurance. This kind of protection will result in a maximum financial safeguard against possible loss from defects in the title to your home.

PINEAPPLE SAUCE FOR COCONUT WAFFLES

1 (13 1/2 oz.) can pineapple tidbits
4 teaspoons cornstarch
1/4 cup brown sugar (packed)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Drain syrup from pineapple into small saucepan, and stir in cornstarch. Cook, stirring frequently, until mixture boils and thickens. Add sugar and butter and stir until sugar dissolves. Add pineapple tidbits, and heat. Serve warm, on hot coconut waffles.

To make coconut waffles add 1 cup flaked coconut to waffle batter made from standard recipe (using 2 cups flour or biscuit mix). Bake waffles at slightly lower temperature than for plain waffles.

Everyday Waffles

1 3/4 cups all-purpose flour (or 2 cups cake flour)
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 beaten egg yolks
1/4 cups milk (or equal parts evaporated milk and water)
1/2 cup melted shortening or salad oil
2 stiff-beaten egg whites

Sift dry ingredients. Combine egg yolks, milk, and shortening; stir into dry ingredients. Fold in egg whites. Bake in hot waffle iron. When steam no longer appears, waffle is done. Don't raise cover during baking. Makes 8 waffles.

Hot Maple Syrup: Combine 1 cup light corn syrup, 1/2 cup brown sugar and 1/2 cup water; cook, stirring until sugar dissolves. Add few drops maple flavoring and 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. Serve hot.

Variations of Everyday Waffles

Ham Waffles: Sprinkle 2 tablespoons finely diced smoked ham, cooked or uncooked, over Everyday Waffle batter before closing iron.

Buttermilk Waffles: Substitute buttermilk for sweet milk in Everyday Waffles recipe. Add 1/2 teaspoon soda and cut baking powder to 2 teaspoons.

Cheese Waffles: Reduce shortening in Everyday Waffles to 2 tablespoons and add 1/2 cup grated American cheese.

Corn Waffles: Reduce milk in Everyday Waffles to 1 cup; add 2 cups canned cream-style corn and 1 to 2 tablespoons sugar, depending upon sweetness of corn. Bake until thoroughly dry. Makes 12 small waffles.

Corn-Flake Waffles: Substitute 3/4 cup finely crushed corn flakes for 1/2 cup flour in Everyday Waffles.

Cream Waffles

1 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/2 tablespoon sugar
1 well-beaten egg yolk
1 cup heavy sour cream
1 stiff-beaten egg white

Sift dry ingredients; add combined egg yolk and cream; beat smooth. Fold in egg white. Bake in hot waffle iron. Makes 4 waffles.

"Oh Boy" Waffles

2 1/2 cups flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 1/2 tablespoons sugar
2 beaten eggs
2 1/4 cups milk
3/4 cup melted shortening or salad oil

Sift dry ingredients. Combine eggs, milk, and shortening. Combine liquid and dry ingredients just before baking; beat until smooth. This is a thin batter. Bake in hot waffle iron. Makes 10 waffles. Serve with Honey-Butter Sauce.

Honey-Butter Sauce: Warm 1 cup liquid honey in double boiler; add 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, and dash of nutmeg. Serve warm.

Crippled Children Camp At Kerrville
Lions Clubs Summer Project

The Texas Lions League, which has operated a summer camp for handicapped children at Kerrville for the past 18 years, has added a new dimension of service this year with a special three-week camp for diabetic youngsters in cooperation with the diabetes associations of Texas.

League President Everett J. Grindstaff of Ballinger said the pilot program would be known as the Texas Lions Camp for Diabetic Children. The special summer session June 7 through June 25 will be held at the facilities of Camp Manison near Friendswood, between Houston and Galveston, where a diabetic camp has been operated for the past 14 years.

The League is the non-profit, charitable organization which represents all the Lions of Texas, Grindstaff said.

The diabetic camp represents another important step forward by the Lions of Texas in serving children who require special attention, Grindstaff said.

At the home camp in Kerrville, nearly 12,500 blind, deaf, mute and crippled children have enjoyed the weeks of summer fun. During the other months of the year, the League—in cooperation with the State Commission for the Blind—operates a rehabilitation center for adults at the camp and has aided more than 800 Texans who have lost their sight.

The diabetic camp will have 110 youngsters, 6 through 16, in the pilot program. Dr. Luther B. Travis, an associate professor in the department of pediatrics of the Texas Medical Branch of the University of Texas at Galveston, will be medical director. Tom Manison will be camp director.

The goal of the new program—aside from having fun and developing camp skills—is to help diabetic children learn they can lead happy, normal lives by following good health practices and to give them self-confidence when they have to leave home.

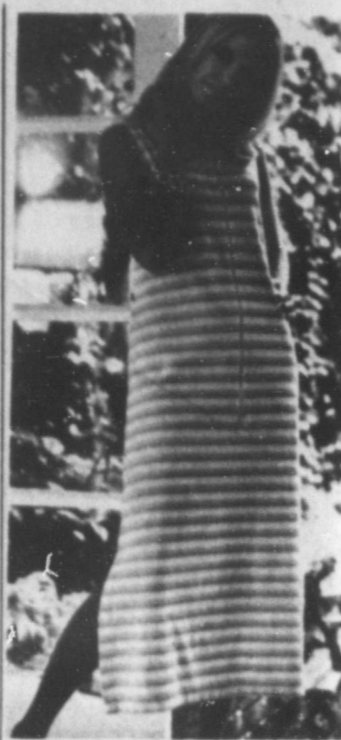

Chapters of the South Texas and North Texas Diabetes Associations, plus officers of district and county medical societies, have been requested to submit camper applications.

Fishing Widow
"Better a fishing widow", my friends say---
At least you know, when hubby is away,
No light-o-love has lightly turned his head---
A fishing widow is more securely wed".
O bless you, friends, who only mean to pour
Oil on much troubled waters; as before
I say, a dotting husband is my wish,
A rival is a rival, frail or fish.
For all your kind, well-meaning words, please know
That I shall always be, as widows go,
Lonely, alone, as long as there shall be
A single fish left in the shining sea.
