TV News

The television networks are currently enjoying the result of a poll among television stations designed to find out what station managers think of network news programs. Generally speaking, most stations rated their network news shows as good.

Obviously, however, few stations would knock their own product, which they must sell, especially since they are competing with other stations in their vicinity. A more accurate test would be to poll disinterested parties, with no selfish interest to consider.

Television news is under fire primarily because of the grave danger to the nation posed by a situation in which three groups of news executives in New York control and determine what most Americans see on their television news programs each evening. That is an unhealthy and potentially dangerous situation and while the bias is not as bad as it was a few years ago, it could become so again; neither the television newsman nor the newspaper newsman is above reproach.

As long as three groups of commercially-oriented executives in New York determine what goes on the nation's three networks every evening, they are exercising a disproportionate power and influence over news, and therefore public opinion, in this country.

Brain & Health

New research at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons indicates discovery of a new, previously-unknown hormone, which appears to exert a powerful effect on the digestive tract.

The substance is called coherin and only small amounts have thus far been obtained. Studies indicate the hormone is produced in the vicinity of the pituitary gland, from which it is released into the bloodstream.

It is thought to induce contractions of the intestine, as a means of keeping food moving along the digestive tract. Thus the existence of the new hormone might explain the link many have long suspected between the mind and the digestive tract, between worry, tension and nerves—and peptic ulcers and colitis, perhaps.

More time is needed before research can confirm or deny the existence of coherin, but preliminary findings strongly suggest those who suffer from digestive tract ailments might look to peace of mind, quiet and relaxation to help solve their problem.

Tooth Pulling

Pennsylvania Insurance Commission Herbert Denenberg has made national headlines again.

This time the colorful state official has released a consumer's guide on dental care. Among other things, it warns millions of teeth are needlessly pulled each year, claiming about fifteen per cent of all dentists are incompetent, etc.

Without attempting to pass judgment on the dental profession, it seems fair to say all those who dread tooth-pulling now have a new excuse to avoid it!

On Flim-Flam

"The Flim-Flam Man and the Apprentice Grifter" by Guy Owen is rip-snorting entertainment. The yarn takes the reader on a joyous romp with two of the most notorious flimflammers the South ever hatched.

Two highspirited protagonists, Mordecai Jones and Curley Treadaway, stay only a half-step in front of the law as they progress through a series of boisterous cons and confrontations, while trying to establish Curley as the folk-singing sensation of America—the champion hustle of all time.

Each episode seems better than the last as Curley and Mordecai lead a white hooded clan on a midnight chase, convert a confirmed bootlegger to tent-meeting preaching, and romance the farmer's daughter—before finally being outmaneuvered in an imaginative ruse by none other than Curley's own fair lady, Bonnie Lee.

This sequel to the best-selling "Ballad of the Flim-Flam Man," a mixture of satire, native North Carolina folklore, and tall tales, is recommended to those who enjoy laughing frequently and right out loud.

She attracts no more attention than a thermometer after the arrival of a cool wave.

Postal Trouble?

Postal workers in Washington and other areas are warning of a strike if their wage demands aren't met; the workers' union implies a strike may be called later this year.

The average citizen is already often inconvenienced by slow delivery of mail, which many feel has slowed down since the postal service was turned over to a private corporation.

A major strike stopping postal service would cause hardship to tens of millions, inconvenience all Americans and financially ruin many. For these reasons, neither the President nor Congress could permit a major postal strike. If one is called, the federal government will almost certainly be forced to reacquire the nation's postal system.

Cooperators are in full swing with their rootplowing, dozing and range seeding.

At the present time work is being carried out on Bill Jones where he is rootplowing, roller chopping and seeding.

Cooperators that have completed their work are Charlie Caves and Ray Alderman, Weldon Johnson, and J. D. Patterson. Manuel Davis is dozing and seeding and will be root plowing soon. Larry Williams is seeding some marginal cropland to range grasses, and plans on root plowing some rangeland. Jim Beck plans on dozing approximately 200 acres and seeding the disturbed areas. Norman Hahn plans on rootplowing and seeding.

You can see that many cooperators are busy during this time of the year with their brush control and seeding. If you are interested in carrying out brush control or seeding, the Soil Conservation Service will be glad to assist you in planning the best methods and grasses to use.

American Housewives Don't Have It So Bad

College Station-- The U. S. housewife may have rising food prices to contend with, but she still has a few advantages over her European counterpart, according to Dr. Randall Stelly of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

In the U. S., for example an average income family spends about one-fifth of its income on food. In Italy and England, however, a third of the total consumer income goes for food. Similarly high figures hold true in other European countries as well, with France spending a quarter of her average income and Germany, 30 percent.

It also takes proportionally less work to buy food in the U. S. than in Europe, Stelly said. Paying for a pound of roast beef takes 20 minutes of work in New York but more than an hour and 20 minutes in Moscow. The same amount of beef costs 54 minutes of work in London, 85 minutes in Paris and 70 minutes in Munich, West Germany.

Even buying such a basic as bread requires 13 minutes of work for one pound in Moscow and 12 minutes in Paris but only about half as much in New York.

Another way of looking at the total cost of food is the "food basket", a figure that shows the theoretical weekly food expenditures for a family of four. In 1969, the latest figures, a U. S. food basket costs $32 and required 12 hours of work. France's cost was close to the U. S., $31, but required three times as much work, 36 hours. In England the basket actually cost less, $28, but took 27 hours of labor. The breadwinner, however, on the other hand, among the highest wage basket costing $36 and hours of work needed. Another plus the American food quality is highest in the world, said, and often the time to prepare.

How do the "experts" make their long-range weather forecasts?

Weather forecasters study a number of things in determining what the weather will be in a particular future period.

One of the things they watch closest is the build-up and movement of large polar air masses in the polar regions. These air masses spill over and flow down over Canada and enter the United States. They often bring cold or stormy weather.

Their course can often be predicted. If fewer of these polar air masses are indicated, or if they seem weak, then it is likely that warm air masses will push upward and over the United States--or at least over a southerly part of it.

Taking these calculations under consideration, and other factors something more than a "guess" can be arrived at, although the "experts" still miss--and weather remains something of a mystery.

If your family has a "sweet tooth," we have found that this Lemon Cake recipe makes a big hit at our house. The lemon juice and rind added to the cake blends with the frosting to give it just the right tangy lemon flavor.

Lemon Cake
 1/4 c butter
 1/2 c shortening
 2 c sugar
 3 eggs
 3 c all-purpose flour
 1/2 t salt
 1/2 t soda
 1 c buttermilk
 1 t vanilla
 1 t lemon juice
 1 t lemon rind

Cream butter, shortening and sugar. Add eggs one at a time. Next fold in flour that has been sifted with salt and soda. Lastly, add buttermilk, vanilla, lemon juice and rind. Pour batter into a tube pan which has been greased and floured. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

Frosting
 Melt 1/2 stick butter. Add 1 cup powdered sugar and juice of 1 lemon. Pour over cake while it is still hot.
