NUMBER FOURTEEN

C of C Officers, Directors Discuss Various Projects At Meeting Tuesday

Officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce met at 7:00 a. m., Tuesday, April 5th, at Felker's Restaurant, with president Elbert Johnson presiding for the business session.

The meeting was opened by a prayer by Bob Philpot, after which manager Rex Felker read the minutes of the last meeting, and presented the financial statement for the month of March.

President Johnson outlined the Dollar Day Program and explained that two or three minor things had been corrected such as holding the mail-out circulars a little longer before sending them out, and the distribution by hand in Stamford and Haskell was in the process of altering. He stated that when these things were done that it would be one of the most successful trade promotions and that almost a 100% of the advertisers were happy about the program.

Frances Lane gave a report on the recent Miss Universe Contest in Abilene where the reigning Miss Hey Day of Haskell, Katie Darnell, represented Haskell and was one of the ten semi-finalists in the contest. She read a letter of appreciation which Miss Darnell had written to the chamber of commerce.

In other business, motion was made by Bob Philpot and seconded by Darold Roberson that the Chamber of Commerce make a donation of $15.00 to the Little League organization. Motion carried.

A discussion of the Frontier Days Celebration which will be staged in conjunction with the Jaycee Rice Springs Rodeo was held. The week of May 17th through May 22nd has been designated as Frontier Week with the rodeo to be staged Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights under auspices of the Jaycees. Present plans call for the Frontier Days Queen's Contest to be staged at the Texas Theatre either on May 17th or 18th with rules to be drawn up within the next few days.

Mayor Woodard gave a detailed report on the present status of the City-County Airport and stated that it was complete other than an emulsion base which would be put on the runway sometime in August. The lights are presently in operation and work is being done toward the installation of a telephone. Meetings have already been held with representatives of three companies relative to the erection of hangars to accommodate at least ten planes which are expected to be based here. The 3200 ft. runway will accommodate twin engine jet planes but can be extended at a later date to almost one mile in length, he stated.

Present for the meeting were Elbert Johnson, Bob Beau champ, Bob Philpot, Lorraine Johnson, Pat Hale, George Feuts, Charles McCauley, Darold Roberson, Joe Williams, Edith Wheatley, Frances Lane, Tom Watson, Mayor H. V. Woodard and manager Rex Felker.

'Mr. Tiger' Meant Many Things To Many People

Volly Ivy was a man's man and a boy's friend. Volly was many things to many people, but to over 224 boys he was "Mr. Tiger" of Little League baseball. Volly was the manager of the Tiger team for 16 years - from 1953 to 1969. He started with baseball when it was organized under the Haskell Youth Program. Later the program was affiliated with the National Little League.

As the father of four sons and a sports enthusiast he became involved in baseball when Volly J., the oldest, was 12 years old. Through the years all four of his sons, Volly J., Jr., James, Lanny, and Randy, were Tigers and coached by their father. But his sixteenth year he had no son playing. He continued as Tiger coach that year by "special request" from the other boys on his team who were his loyal friends. Volly was a competitor as the records show. Over the years he won more games than he lost. He taught his Tigers the rules of the game, how to play, and to play to win.

Friends have expressed a desire to establish a memorial to Volly related to baseball. This memorial will be in recognition of his many years of dedicated service to the boys and baseball of Haskell.

An account has been opened in the Haskell National Bank as a memorial fund for Volly Ivy. The fund will be used to purchase a permanent grandstand for the Little League Field. A placard will be placed on the grandstand in his honor.

Those who wish to contribute may do so through Olen King, Gene Long, Golda Colbert or the bank. Please make checks to Haskell Little League, Volly Ivy Memorial Fund. The family will receive a record of each contribution.

Who Will Pay The Increased Sales Tax
By JAY NAMAN
President, Texas Farmers Union

No one has a kind word to say about the sales tax. Even the members of the legislature who vote for it have some reservations about its legitimacy and worth. In fact, the sales tax is the most difficult of taxes to administer, and probably the most costly. It is unquestionably a regressive tax, which means that it falls hardest on the shoulders of those who are least able to pay.

Some characterize the sales tax as having "grown up" like Topsy, and as a result of it. Wherever the sales tax has become a part of a state's taxing system it has continued to grow, and grow, and grow. In most states it has started as an exemption on one item or another, but in most cases these exemptions have been eliminated. When Texas politicians attempted to remove the exemptions on food and equipment in the last session, the wrath that descended on their heads was so great that they were forced to back down. However, doubtlessly, the exemptions eventually will be removed.

Several studies have been made to show the percentage of income paid in sales tax by various segments of taxpayers. All these studies have shown that the lower income taxpayer pays the higher percentage of his salary in sales taxes. This study was applied to agricultural groups it was concluded that of the different groups of taxpayers, farmers paid more sales tax in relation to income than any other group. This is particularly true of farmers having a net income from $1,000 to $10,000.

The sales tax is also particularly burdensome on farmers and ranchers because they buy at retail so much of the supplies they must have to produce a crop or stock products. Although farm machinery, feed and fertilizer are exempt, much of the farmer must buy is not. He buys at retail, pays the sales tax, and then at the end of the year, if he makes a profit, he pays more sales tax on the items he buys to sustain the family. In other words, unlike any other segment of taxpayers, the farmer pays the sales tax twice.

Occasionally, farmers are heard to say, out of sheer desperation, more of a burden should be placed on the sales tax because property taxes are completely out of control. This is a fair statement, but it is abundantly clear that the increase of revenue from sales taxes to state government has never and will never be returned to the local school district governments which are bleeding in need of an expanded tax base. Rather, the taxes are being used to provide the revenue to state government that should be provided in Texas by business and industry. This could be done efficiently by a proportion income tax. A ten percent corporation income tax will raise twice as much as the entire increase in taxes under the House-passed tax bill will raise, and it with a minimum of administrative cost.

Big business lobby that has traditionally opposed a corporation income tax has accused the anti-sales tax forces of being arbitrary and inflexible because of their determined opposition to the sales tax. Yet, when Rep. Tom Moore of Waco introduced a balanced tax which would share the burden between the consumers and business, it was evident that it is the business lobby that is inflexible, and that the House leadership is unwilling to buck the powerful business lobby.

Some view the sales tax as a "painless" tax, not because it doesn't cause any pain to those who pay it, but because it is passed "painlessly" through the legislature. The old, the impoverished, the working man, the farmer and the consumer of these people seem to count very much when the votes are tallied in Austin.

Soil Conservation Service Warns That Dust Storms May Get Worse

Temple, Texas. Dust storms that have ravaged Texas in recent weeks may get worse before they get better warns the head of the state's U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Clyde W. Graham, SCS state conservationist, and a native of Knox City, says Texas dust storms have reached alarming intensity. "Acres damaged by wind erosion this blow season are already higher than any year since 1965," Graham reports. "If we don't get widespread rains soon, wind erosion damages may reach mid-1950 levels."

Graham said the record-breaking drought is a major cause of the problem. Many areas report winter rainfall to be the lowest since records were started.

"Dry weather last fall kept many farmers from planting cover crops," Graham continued. "The drought has also reduced the effectiveness of emergency tillage which some farmers rely on to prevent wind erosion. And high wind velocities in the December to May blow season always seem to accompany a severe drought."

He said the combination of drought, high winds and lack of cover was causing serious land damage across a wide section of the state. The storms are also creating health problems for people with respiratory ailments. Reports from SCS offices tell of roads and streets blocked with sand and 6-foot drifts against houses. And it's not just a farm problem. Sandy land being stripped bare for urban developments is blowing, too.

About 2 million acres of land in Texas has been damaged by wind erosion this year which is about the same as 1965. This compares to only 126,000 acres damaged last year. The most wind erosion in the past 20 years occurred during the 1956 blow season when 2.7 million acres were damaged.

Graham expressed concern that the 2 million figure for 1971 may double unless it rains soon.

He pointed out, however, that conservation programs pushed by his agency and by local soil and water conservation districts have been extremely valuable in curtailing wind damages this year. While the 2 million acre figure is high, it isn't close to the 15 million acres damaged during Dust Bowl days of the 1930's.

"It's remarkable how land covered with a good surface mulch of crop residue is being protected from wind erosion," Graham said. "Farms and ranches covered with conservation measures installed under the Great Plains Conservation Program are weathering the wind storms especially well."

Graham said that in the last 15 years some 500,000 acres of cropland subject to wind damage in Northwest Texas have been planted to protective grasses. Nearly a million acres of depleted rangeland have also been seeded. Better grassland management is holding down wind erosion on range and pasture land.

"But 2 million acres of land being damaged by wind this year is simply intolerable," Graham said, "especially when you realize it could have been prevented. It's easy to blame it all on the drought but that's only part of the cause. We've been urging people for years to do a better job of leaving crop residues on the soil surface. Many listen but some do not."

Graham said that when you have good moisture, as we have had in recent years, wind velocity drops. And emergency tillage works as a good standby measure. As a result, people get by without wind damage during good rainfall years in spite of the fact that their land may be bare. This lulls many farmers into complacency and they ignore sound conservation farming principles.

But right now, the state conservationist said all that will help is a good rain.

LATEST REPORT ON DRIVERS OF FARM TRANSPORTATION

FEDERAL SAFETY REGULATIONS FOR DRIVERS OF TRUCKS was the subject of a special hearing Thursday, April 8, at the Department of Transportation. PROTESTS BY FARMERS UNIONS and others against the elimination of farm driver exemptions from federal safety regulations are beginning to show results. DIRECTOR ROBERT KAYE of DOT's Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety presented at the meeting a change in federal regulations that would exempt 12 million vehicles (including but not limited to farmers) of vehicles with a gross weight not in excess of 10,000 lbs. TWELVE FARM SENATORS—including Senator Henry Bellmon (Okla.), Congressman Abourezk (S.D.), and NFU Assistant Legislative Director W. Barton—testified at the hearing. BARTON SAID permitting a gross weight of only 10,000 lbs. was inadequate and should be increased in order to allow for the needs of farmers. HE REQUESTED the Department of Transportation to consult with DOT officials before any revised regulations are published in the Federal Register. UNDER A PREVIOUS POSTING, the Department of Transportation has until July 1 to announce new farm driver exemptions.

SCS Dist. Supervisor Yeary Points Out Advantages of "Mulch Tillage"

What's better, faster, cheaper—and reduces erosion up to 80 percent?

It's mulch tillage, says Clyde W. Graham, state conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service in Temple. Sometimes called minimum tillage or no-till, mulch tillage is a new system of farming where residues from a previous crop are left on or near the surface through out the cropping year.

According to J. C. Yeary, district conservationist, SCS, Haskell, the specific advantages are:

- less labor. Plowing and planting trips across the field are reduced.
- lower production costs. Many farmers report savings of $8 to $14 an acre.
- more moisture conservation.
- less soil erosion.
- possibility of double cropping in some areas.
- protection of seedlings from wind damage.
- more food and cover for wildlife.

Farmers and researchers report that yields of mulch-tilled corn and grain sorghum are usually equal to or higher than yields from conventionally tilled fields. Graham says, "However, the system may lower soil temperatures, delaying seed germination in the spring. But moisture conserved by the mulch usually offsets this delay later in the growing season. The system does not, of course, eliminate the need for other good farming practices, such as disease or insect control."

Here's how mulch tillage differs from conventional farming:

In one trip across a field, a farmer simultaneously prepares a seedbed, plants his seed, applies fertilizer, and adds herbicides for weed control while disturbing only a small portion of the soil surface. In conventional methods, 8 to 10 trips are often required to do the same job, and almost all surface soil is disturbed on each trip. And each disturbance destroys residue that might have been left on the surface for soil protection.

"Since it costs at least $1 a mile to pull a plow, it pays to soil tillage across a field to a minimum," Graham points out. "With mulch tillage, herbicides are used to control unwanted vegetation instead of cultivation."

It's the big factor in Haskell County, he explains, that Yeary emphasized. On sands or loamy soils in the northwestern portion of the county, mulch tillage will be especially effective.

Wilson Charged With D.W.I.

Arthur Ernest Wilson, of Ham, pled guilty to a DWI charge in Judge B. O. Robertson's County Court Monday morning.

He was assessed a fine of $50.00 plus $25.00 court costs, and a 30-day probation jail sentence.

hog raising in Haskell within the next two or three weeks, by Mr. Singleton, who is recognized as the leading hog expert in Texas.

USDA researchers report that in one field test, switching to mulch tillage from conventional methods reduced soil losses by a whopping 85%—from 7.8 tons per acre to .03 tons per acre.

SCS personnel in Texas made a concentrated effort to get mulch tillage trials started across the state during 1949 and 1950. Cooperators with soil and water conservation districts have used the system on several kinds of crops on varying conditions. Results generally have been excellent and the practice is expected to spread rapidly.

Graham said special farm equipment now on the market and new techniques for putting fertilizer in the ground have helped make the measure practical. He also credits the perfection of new herbicides which take the place of cultivation in controlling and preventing weeds with speeding up acceptance of the practice.

Yeary said older farm equipment can be adapted to mulch tillage. Or farmers may by specially designed planters that cut through stubble-covered fields with minimum disturbance while preparing narrow, easy-to-lose planting slots in the soil. Fertilizer can be knifed in with the seed or scattered on the surface.

Yeary said the SCS has a new leaflet which explains how much and what kind of crop residue is most desirable for erosion control, and how to estimate the amount of residues from crop yields. While the publication talks mostly about corn, soybeans and small grain, the principles also apply to cotton and grain sorghums.

Yeary said single copies of "Mulch Tillage in Modern Farming," Leaflet No. 126, are available free from the SCS office in Haskell.

On Friday, April 2, the Haskell Maidens, thirty-two strong, ran, jumped and tossed to win second place tournament awards in a Junior High and High School Girl's Track Meet. The Annual Jayton Tournament drew entries from 17 different schools with an estimated 15 competitors from each school. Tournament officials stated that over 500 girls took part in the track meet.

Preliminary races started at 12:30; field events were scheduled mid-way in the tournament; finals began about 5:00 p. m. and lasted until almost 7:00 p. m. Each event was run by Junior High participants and then by those from high school. Field events altered between the two school group levels in order to make best use of the time because of the large number of girls in each event.

Preliminary runs were scheduled as follows:

coincidence that suppression of books is a first act of any despot who fears the wisdom of human experience as recorded in books that can be found in virtually any library.

National Library Week serves to remind that we are indeed a wealthy nation... wealthy because we possess two vital ingredients of liberty... thousands of libraries where the world's knowledge is stored and freedom of the press to utilize that knowledge for the advancement of mankind.

Not long ago I noticed a couple in a public gathering and between the husband and wife, there sat their only child, now almost grown. I wondered at the time if this young person fully realized all the importance of his relationship to the older people who had carried life's burdens for all three up to that time? For the older couple, life is almost a thing of the past. Except for a brief interest in a few remaining years, all that life still held for them was wrapped up and centered around the activity and future of their child. Yet, as we all know, these parents, and others like them, are powerless to affect the child's destiny very much. Unless character had been builded in earlier youth, no amount of love and interest can inject it now. The child had grown out of the parental range for all time. The moral of this, if any, is two-fold. Parents whose children are young should not neglect the training of their boys and girls. It is a task which cannot be delegated to others entirely. And, children as they enter in to life on their own responsibilities, should not overlook their power to wreck and make miserable the closing lives of their parents.

The other day when the dust was blowing and things looked rather grim, a Haskell businessman sauntered up to a fellow merchant and asked "Do you believe in a hell?" Came this reply, "If there isn't, I would like to know where business has gone to."

Mr. and Mrs. James Raughton, Jean Ann, Jimmy Dan and Janie Lynn of Bronite spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Overton, and his mother, Mrs. Lorene Raughton. Mrs. Grace Montgomery had her son's family visit her over the weekend, Mr. and Mrs. John Carlos Montgomery, Craig and Carrie Eastley, and Mrs. Montgomery's mother, Mrs. Jane Whitset.

The Paint Creek FFA Land Judging team won 2nd in district competition at the field day at ACC. This qualifies them to enter the state contest.

I don't know what the Haskell Cattle Auction Barn would do without Paint Creek people, and I guess Paint Creek people could hardly do without the Auction Barn. Pat Casselberry is manager or director, anyway the boss of the lunch counter at the Barn, and Mrs. Ned Green and Debbie Weaver work with her. Mrs. Allen Isbell and Mrs. Jennie Brazzell work in the office. Working out in the pens and in the ring are Tommy Pritchard, Ricky Brazzell, Glen Casselberry, Mike Brazzell, Dale Casselberry, Donald Livengood, Danny Weaver, Billy Green, Jim Bob Miekler, David Green and Joe Miekler. Those boys are most of the Scout Troop, and so camp-outs and hikes have to be planned on school holidays other than Saturdays. Mr. James Powell must be a good boss because most of these folks have worked at the Auction ever since it was opened.

Dennis Gilbreth of Ft. Ord, Calif., has spent several days visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gilbreth and family. Gilbreth is on a 30-day leave before going to Germany for six months. He and his wife have also been visiting her family in Seymour.

Danny Isbell spent the weekend at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Isbell and sister, Janice, and had as his guest, Mack Goldsmith, from Clyde who is also a student at Hardin-Simmons.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pritchard and children spent last weekend in Weatherford with his parents.

The All Sports banquet was held at Felker's Restaurant on Friday night, March 27. Music was furnished for the banquet by Mrs. Linda Chapman's trio composed of Kerry Gibbs, Annilyn Pritchard and Connie Brazzell. The speaker for the event was Coach Merrell Green of Cooper High School in Abilene. Ricky Brazzell's name was placed on the plaque as most conscientious player. Football Sweetheart, Quala Buerger, was presented a gift from the football team, and Mike Brazzell was presented a gift from the Pep squad as their Football Hero.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

City of Haskell, Haskell, Texas

Needless to say, I am delighted to have the good report you give and to have the article from the Haskell Free Press on this same subject.

Certainly, I wish all of you every continued success in this undertaking and it is needless for me to say that if there is any further way I can assist, I will want to hear from you. I will keep in touch with FAA

HOW FARMERS UNION FEELS ABOUT DRIVERS OF FARM TRANSPORTATION

EXEMPTION OF DRIVERS OF SMALL FARM TRUCKS

ing drivers under 21 years of age provided they meet requirements state laws and regulations, was requested March 22, by Farmers Union President Tony Dechant. In a letter to Secretary of Transportation John Volpe, he asked that drivers of farm under 10,000 lbs. gross weight be permanently exempt from driver qualifications when hauling supplies or products to or from farm. Regulations removing such exemption are scheduled to take effect July 1. In addition, Dechant urged that agriculture be given a local haul exemption comparable to the commercial zone exemption in urban areas. The exemption would be applicable in two limited circumstances: (1) When trucks are used to transport agricultural products the farmer has produced from the farm to the point of marketing or to another farm; and (2) When trucks are used to transport products acquired for farm consumption or production purposes and the truck controlled by the farmer in a radius of up to 100 miles.
