THE SECOND FREEDOM

"Find a need and fill it"—that's the secret of success in a free enterprise system.

But those six words tell us much more than the recipe for wealth. They tell us a lot about the nature of a society in which such advice proves true; a lot we take for granted.

What do they tell us? First, that a free enterprise society is concerned with the fulfillment of human needs.

Virtually every modern socio-economic system claims to have this objective. But in some societies, the determination of which "needs" to satisfy is vested in a small group.

Under a free enterprise system, each individual has the right to make his own decisions about the needs requiring attention, and to act on those decisions. If he is correct, he will be rewarded—not for his greed, but for his service to the community.

Second, the six words tell us that a member of a free enterprise society is free to criticize the established way of doing things.

Finding fault with the status quo is an essential prerequisite to making improvements. We value what works in our economic system, we do not have to pretend that it works because we value it.

Third, we can see from the first two conclusions that a free enterprise system brings to the identification and resolution of economic problems the greatest possible amount and diversity of human intelligence. There is literally no broader base conceivable than one which encompasses every individual member of the society.

We seldom think of our economic freedom as one of the fundamental freedoms, yet its loss would probably be noticed more quickly, by more people, than the loss of freedom of speech, worship, petition, or due process of law.

Imagine what life would be like if you could not choose your job; if you could not strike or quit; if you could not decide for yourself where to live, what goods to buy, what clothes to wear.

We exercise political freedom rarely; we exercise economic freedom many times each day.

It's worth remembering, as we approach our annual celebration of political independence, that the settlers who founded America and the immigrants who have helped build it came here seeking economic freedom, as well as political and religious freedom.

It's worth remembering that economic repression is one of the indictments found in the Declaration of Independence.

It's worth remembering on the 197th anniversary of the U.S. that economic freedom is—and will always be—the most fundamental freedom.

And, in so doing we HONOR AMERICA and those responsible for this freedom.

Big July 4 Celebration

(By Sammy Hunley)
Plans for the Fourth of July Celebration are rapidly taking shape. Committee members have been meeting once a week in an effort to arrange the many activities in their respective order. This year's festivities are expected to exceed any of those held in the past on the South Plains of Texas.

(By Sammy Hunley)

Plans are quickly taking shape for the Fourth of July Celebration to be held in Abernathy. The time schedule for various events has already been set up with finalization to take place within a week. One new change has been announced by the committee. The pingpong balls that were going to be dropped for the exchange of prizes will not be reeled off this year. Instead, small disc-shaped objects will be used. These can be redeemed for twenty-five and fifty cent pieces, whichever is listed on the flying disc.

A newly added attraction to this year's celebration will be a fireworks display immediately after the variety show. The display should be the highlight of the day's activities. It will be held behind the band hall and auditorium complex. Everyone is encouraged to stay for the display and celebrate the Fourth with a bang.

FIREWORKS

The following will be a schedule of the day's activities. The times posted for the various events may vary a few minutes either way, allowing for unexpected difficulties.

Paving Project Discussed At Council Meet

The Abernathy City Council met in regular session at 7:30 p.m. June 11, 1973, at the City Hall to conduct the items of business at hand.

Bids were opened and tabulated for mosquito control by aerial spraying. Bidders were Marian Air Spray, Inc., 29 cents per acre, and Mosquito Control of the Southwest, 32.2 cents per acre. The low bid of Marian Air Spray, Inc., was accepted and applications will be requested as needed.

A request by Abernathy Oil Company to place two 21,000 gallon ground level fuel storage tanks on property located at 16th Street and Ave. D was approved.

Independence Day

JULY 4TH

"... That all men are created equal... that they are endowed... with certain rights." Life, Liberty and the pursuit of happiness--that's what July Fourth is all about. The fireworks... the parades... the speeches... and the prayers. They're all to remind us that our nation is based upon individual freedoms, thankfully cultivated, cherished... and very carefully guarded. It's time once again to pledge ourselves to protect our God-given rights with our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

JULY 4TH SALUTE

The Advertisers listed on this page take this opportunity to salute all the returning POW's, the missing in action and everyone who has fought for the honor and freedom of our country. It is people like these who have made this birthday of the United States possible. Our hats are off to you!!
