If anyone was planning on opening up a ski resort around here on the basis of weather reports, they'd better think long and hard before investing a few million dollars in it...if snow doesn't do better than last Saturday's there won't be much use.

The weather man predicted all last week with dire threats of ice, snow, sleet, etc...very little appeared...then, as Saturday approached the real statements started.

Every TV and radio weatherman flatly stated... "There will be snow tonight!"

Woke up Saturday morning and behold... snow... about a fourth of an inch of it.

By the time every kid in the world could get dressed to run outside, there wasn't any snow.

Weather radio said "70 percent chance of snow today". And there was, they didn't actually lie about it. It would snow a blizzard for about five minutes, then cease. Of course it melted about as fast as it fell.

Now when someone says it's going to snow, it conjures up visions of a smooth blanket of white, gleaming. Snow means trees clothed in softness and kids building snowmen and hurling snowballs. Sometimes it can mean hazardous driving too, with vehicles stuck in the ditch or sliding around on the roads.

Snow does not mean flakes that only collect on windshields and melts as fast as it hits...at least that's now what most folks think of.

Lots of people admit that they were glad it didn't snow, but for kids and the young at heart, the fact that everyone else got some and we didn't was a disappointment.

Nobody wants to be paralyzed by a massive blizzard, but it would be just a little bit of fun to have a pleasant change from the mud of winter to the more beautiful side of cold weather. Come on, weathermen, let's do a little better next time!

Prairiland Clips Tiger's Claws, 72-52

By Joel Birch
Recently the Prairiland Patriots haven't been playing to their usual intensity, but Thursday night the Patriots put on a show for the home crowd, beating Clarksville 72-52. Mark Reily and Jeff Griffin led Patriot scoring with 19 points and 13 points respectively.

The game opened with the Pats pressing the Blue Tigers. The Tigers came out a little cold. Clarksville called time out at the 4:06 mark to get their team together, the score 8-4 Pats. However, this would be the closest they would come to catching the Patriots. The Patriots kept up the pressure and the quarter ended 18-10, Pats.

The second quarter started with the Patriots continuing the pressure. With 4:01 left in the first half, Clarksville called time out, the score 24-12, Patriots. The Patriots defense continued to dominate the Tigers, with good aggressive rebounds by Griffin and Ballard. With less than five seconds left in the half, Mark "Whizzer" Reily drove the lane for two last second points to have a 37-20 half time lead.

In the second half, Clarksville came out into a man to man defense. However, the Patriots were on too much of a roll for anything to affect them. The Patriots kept up the pressure and the quarter ended 53-28 Pats.

In the fourth quarter, the Pats just came out on a tear. Before the starters were replaced, the Patriots had almost a 30 point lead. After the Patriot bench came in, Clarksville's Duvall Sanders decided to go on a tear, but it was too little, too late. The Prairiland bench didn't come in and score an enormous amount of points, but came in and played good hustling defense. It is always good to know you have a hustling bench behind you if the going gets tough.

The final score was Prairiland 72, Clarksville 52, a well deserved and needed win for the Patriots to boost their district record to one win and two losses.

Totals for Pats. Mark Reily, 19 points, seven rebounds, seven assists and three steals; Joe Smith, 11 points, six rebounds, four assists and two steals; Jeff Griffin, 13 points, 13 rebounds, two assists and two steals; Jeff Ballard, nine points, nine rebounds, two assists and one steal; Paul Lyles, eight points, two rebounds, three assists; Jon King, six points, four rebounds; Phil Graves, two points, one rebound; Rodney Harrell, four points, two rebounds; Ronald Nichols, one assist and one steal;

Clarksville: Sanders, 26 points; Collins, four points; Ellis, four points; Jackson two points; Gray, six points; English, 10 points.

Two Arrested For Illegal Hunting

Two men, both from Paris, were arrested for hunting ducks on the Jeffus Reservoir north of Deport on January 21.

The lake, which is under the control of the City of Deport, is completely posted for hunting, fishing or any other unauthorized activity.

Constable Al Parks arrested the subjects, who voluntarily gave themselves into the hands of authorities.

The City of Deport has pressed charges of unlawfully taking wild game without the permission of owner. Sentencing in the matter can vary from fines to jail terms.

Lady Pats Sweep By Tigers

By Shelley Vaughn
The lady Patriots proved teamwork to be the key Thursday night as they hosted the Clarksville Blue Tigers.

The lady Pats came out expecting a good game against the Tigers. To start off action, Vickie Coursey hit two consecutive buckets but not enough to match the Tigers aggressive offense and the quarter closed with Prairiland 8 and Clarksville with 10.

The second quarter the Patriots began the streak of showing the Tigers no mercy. Working together on defense and laying the points in equally on the offensive side, the Pats managed 14 while only allowing the Tigers 10.

The third stanza of play, the Patriots never looked back while sweeping in buckets from every position. Their strong defense showed considerable advantage as they only allowed the Tigers 5 marks but eagerly raked in 12 for themselves. Bringing a third quarter total to 34 for the Pats and 25 for the Tigers.

The fourth quarter was a Patriot breeze with Paula Jackson hitting three buckets and Vickie Bridges hitting two.

"I feel the girls played better together tonight than they have been playing", said head coach Ronnie Baker. "That's the key, playing together", he added. The final score was Prairiland 51 and Clarksville 35.

The game high scorer was Paula Jackson raking in 14 points with 13 rebounds and two steals. Also in double figures was Vickie Coursey with 12 points and nine rebounds, Vickie Bridges with eight points and three steals, Kelli Salter added six points, Tracy Nichols scored five points and six rebounds, Kim House had four points and two steals and JaLinda Ballard added two points.

The lady Pats win pushed their conference record to 4-1.

Prairiland Takes Second District Win

By Joel Birch
Jeff Ballard, Mark Reily and Paul Lyles led the Prairiland Patriots to their second district win by beating the Mt. Vernon Tigers, 72-46 in action Tuesday night.

The Patriots, with a district record of two wins and two losses, played all nine players in their victory over the Tigers.

The Patriots next game will be Friday, Jan. 28 at Prairiland, against Winnsboro.

Pat Totals
Mark Reily, 12 points, six rebounds, eight assists and five steals; Joe Smith, eight points, four rebounds, four assists; Jeff Griffin, eight points, three rebounds, one assist; Jeff Ballard, 17 points, seven rebounds, two assists, two steals; Paul Lyles, 12 points, five rebounds, four assists, one steal; Jon King, seven points, 10 rebounds, one assist and two steals; Phil Graves, eight points, one rebound, one assist and three steals; Rodney Harrell, one rebound, one assist and one steal; Ronald Nichols, one rebound, one steal.

Insect Control Crucial This Year, And Now's The Time To Check Chemicals, Equipment

According to Dr. James Robinson, Extension Entomologist, unless the world comes to an end, insects will once again be a problem that homeowners, gardeners, cattlemen and farmers must contend with. There are some things that can be done to help eliminate some of the problems that you might face in 1983.

If you plan to grow the same vegetables or crop in 1983 that you grew in 1982, think back and recall what insect pests were affecting your crop. Also, recall what steps you took to correct the problem. If they were successful, you may want to repeat them. If not, come up with an alternative plan now so you will be prepared when the time comes.

Check out the spray equipment, some may need replacing. All homeowners or gardeners should have a dependable compressed air sprayer. These are useful in applying fungicides, herbicides and insecticides. Unless the sprayer is brass, stainless steel or plastic, the chances are greater that some of the parts will become corroded. Flakes of metal or pesticide residue can clog the sprayer tip. If your sprayer needs replacing, consider one of the above products. Plastic sprayers are least expensive of the three and are highly reliable.

Take an inventory of your pesticides. Discard any that have become ruined. Most pesticides, especially liquids, will remain stable for several years if kept in the original containers, tightly sealed and kept from over heating or freezing. You may need to replenish your supply of your favorite pesticide if your stock is low. Make sure all of your safety equipment is in good shape. These include glasses, goggles and measuring containers. These should be stored separately from other equipment and always kept clean. Some of the things you might check out on an idle day during the winter to help your 1983 pest control strategies work better.

Bray and Boyd Hughes of the Texas State Department of Highways. Their appreciation of the garden club is extended to these men. Garden club officers that assisted with the planting were Mrs. Margaret Crawford, president; Mrs. Clara Gardiner, vice-president; and Mrs. Natalie Ray, treasurer.

East Texas Eating

By Margie Rice
Have you tasted the fresh carrots lately? Do! Some very sweet, crisp ones are in the grocery stores right now. Packed with Vitamin A, carrots can add some good nutrition as well as good taste to your winter-time meals. The versatile vegetable can perk up salads, make a vegetable dish the star of the meal, or grace a tea table in the form of Gold Nugget Cookies.

Here are some ideas and recipes.

Carrot Curls
Make some carrot curls for supper's green salad by slicing paper-thin lengths of a scraped carrot with a vegetable slicer or parer. Crisp the lengths in ice water until curled.

Carrots With Lemon Butter and Nutmeg
Carrots with lemon butter and nutmeg were the hit of many a luncheon the late Helen Corbett served in Neiman-Marcus' Zodiac Room in the downtown Dallas store. She used whole young carrots about 4 inches long. Save the recipe for your own young garden-fresh carrots a little later on. The result is almost as good—well, maybe as good—with crisp, medium sized ones that are available now.

4 or 5 medium size carrots
1 1/2 tsp. boiling water
2 Tbsp. butter
1 Tbsp. fresh lemon juice
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
A sprinkle of chopped parsley

Wash, scrape and slice carrots. Cook just until tender. Drain, mix and heat the other ingredients. Pour over the carrots and serve hot.

Gold Nugget Cookies
1 cup mashed cooked carrots (well drained before mashing)
1/2 cup shortening
1 stick margarine
Two-thirds cup sugar
2 cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt

Cream shortening, margarine and sugar. Add the mashed carrots and blend well. Into this mixture sift the flour, baking powder and salt. Mix well.

Drop the cookies by teaspoonful, two inches apart, on a lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees about 20 minutes. Do not brown. Glaze with Orange Glaze while still warm (just as they come from the oven).

Orange Glaze: One third to 1/2 of 1 lb. pkg. of confectioners sugar, sufficient orange juice to make a stiff icing, finely grated rind of one orange.

Mix sugar, orange juice and grated rind. Place a spoonful of the glaze on warm cookie and let run and glaze. The cookies keep well for several days. They are a marvelous party cookie. Or, they can be made slightly larger for snack-time or dessert cookies. They can be frozen successfully.

have a nice weekend...

Ag Census Begins

The 1982 Census of Agriculture gets underway this week with the mailing of report forms to farmers and ranchers in the 50 states, the Commerce Department's Census Bureau announced recently.

Farmers and ranchers are being asked to report on their agricultural operations during 1982 and to return the form by Feb. 15, 1983. The 1982 census is the nation's 22nd agriculture census in a series that started in 1840.

For the first time in a mail agriculture census report forms will reflect regional cropping patterns to make reporting easier.

Farm and ranch operators will be asked to report the acreage in their operations, form of ownership, type of organization, location of the place, use made of the land, and when their operations began. Other questions will cover livestock and poultry inventories and sales, amount of government crop loans, crop acreage, amount harvested, and the value of crops and livestock sold.

About 20 percent of farmers and ranchers will receive a form with an additional page which has inquiries on: selected production expenses, market value of land and buildings, machinery and equipment inventory and value, interest expenses and expenditures for petroleum and other energy sources.

Each report form will have a census file number printed on the address label. If a report is not received for each file number, the Census Bureau will send out follow-up letters to all who have not responded.

Assistance in completing census forms is available locally from offices of the Cooperative Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, Vocational Agriculture Teachers, Production Credit Associations and Farmers Home Administration.

A file copy of the report form is provided which operators can complete and keep for their own records.

A time extension can be granted farmers who request it. Census results will be published for each state, and the nation. The first preliminary data will be released beginning in the fall of 1983.

The law which requires farmers and ranchers to report in the census also protects the privacy of their reports. Census report forms are confidential by law and they may be seen only by sworn Census employees and may be used only for statistical purposes. Even other government agencies cannot obtain or use the individual reports, and copies retained by the farmers are immune from the legal process.

Each report form will have a census file number printed on the address label. If a report is not received for each file number, the Census Bureau will send out follow-up letters to all who have not responded.

Blossom Garden Club Sees Slide Program

The Blossom Garden Club held a meeting on January 17 at the Senior Citizen's Center, with the program being given by Arvona Goble. She presented slides on the past three flower shows, explained different designs and right and wrong arrangements.

Plans were made for Arbor Day. The club agreed to plant Crepe Myrtle trees on the side of Hwy. 82. The club also discussed ways to improve the downtown businesses. Plans will be finalized at the next meeting.

Hostesses were Mae Crawford and Patti Misk. Irene Bryant won the door prize.

The next meeting will be February 15 at the Senior Citizen's Center.

Animal Health Inspector Says Understanding Brucellosis Is Important

Northeast Texas Area 4 Supervising Inspector Joe T. Kelsey of the Texas Animal Health Commission has contributed information on brucellosis that should be of interest to all livestock producers in the area.

Area 4 contains 14 counties, including Red River, Lamar and Titus, and Kelsey feels that a better understanding of the disease, which in this area affects mainly cattle, will help producers handle it more efficiently.

Kelsey also says that further questions can be answered by calling the Mt. Pleasant office at 572-8381 or his home number, 632-4166 in Bogata.

Brucellosis is a highly contagious disease that affects mainly cattle, and to some degree, swine, sheep and goats. It results in abortions, weakened calves, loss of milk production and in rare instances, sterility in bulls.

Brucellosis is also called Bangs, contagious abortion and Malta Fever. In humans, brucellosis is known as undulant fever.

The organism which causes Brucellosis in cattle is Brucella abortus. It is named for David Bruce who first isolated and identified the bacteria in 1887. Other species can affect swine, sheep, dogs and goats. The organism discussed in this brochure is B. abortus, the one which affects cattle.

Most cattle become infected by swallowing the organisms, usually from licking infected newborn calves, or from feed or bedding which has been contaminated with large numbers of organisms. The Brucella organism is also capable of passing intact through mucous membranes of the nose, mouth or eyes.

Bacteria are shed in milk or leave the body with the aborted fetus, the afterbirth, or with discharges from the reproductive tract.

The most outstanding symptoms in pregnant females are abortions, birth of weak calves and vaginal discharges. There is no way to tell infected cattle by their appearance.

Affected herds can have 40 percent fewer calves. Milk production may be reduced about 20 percent due to changes in normal lactation period caused by abortions and delayed conceptions.

Not all infected cows abort, but those that do usually abort between the fifth and seventh month of pregnancy. Infected cows seldom abort more than once, but calves born from later pregnancies may be weak and unhealthy.

Even though their calves may appear healthy, infected cows continue to harbor and discharge infectious organisms and should be regarded as dangerous.

Periodic "abortion storms" may occur among herds with longstanding infection.

Other signs of brucellosis include apparent lowering of fertility with poor conception rates, retained afterbirths with resulting uterine infections, and occasionally enlarged arthritic joints. Infected bulls may have swollen testicles.

In cattle, the incubation period can range from as short as 10 days to as long as 285 days. Most animals will develop the disease within 120 days of exposure.

Factors which influence the incubation period are exposure dose, resistance, age and pregnancy.

Natural resistance varies quite widely among individual animals. Immunization with Strain 19 vaccine may provide protection to as many as 95 percent of the cattle in a herd, under field conditions.

Ponds and streams are of minor importance in the spread of brucellosis except when they are sites for congregation. Animals in close proximity always increase the changes of exposure.

Natural service by infected bulls is not an important means of transmission. Semen from infected bulls used in artificial insemination can pose a danger.

The diagnosis of brucellosis is a complex problem, as it is with any disease with a variable incubation period and limited clinical signs. Brucellosis is best diagnosed using a combination of serological tests, bacteriologic culture, herd history and complete epidemiologic evaluation.

Tests currently being used in combination include the card test, rivanol test and complement fixation test. These tests when properly and intelligently interpreted are adequate for the diagnosis of brucellosis in herds and animals.

In man, brucellosis is known as undulant fever because of the intermittent fever accompanying human infection.

Veterinarians, packing house employees, farmers and ranchers are most vulnerable to contracting undulant fever.

Buy herd replacements only from known brucellosis free herds.

Isolate cattle you buy from herd and test them in 45 to 120 days following purchase to check for animals that might have been in the early stages of infection.

Practice calfhood vaccination with the reduced dosage of Strain 19. Make vaccination for brucellosis as routine as vaccinating for other diseases.

Keep your fences in good repair.

Avoid the use of community pastures.

Test all animals that abort or give birth to dead or weak offspring as well as slow breeders and those which fail to calve.

Follow good sanitation practices.

Give serious consideration to a certified brucellosis free herd plan.

Weekly Agriculture Update

By Herb Brevard
An address by Gov. Mark White will highlight the annual Build East Texas meeting, February 1 in Nacogdoches at the Student Center on the campus of Stephen F. Austin State University. According to Billy Percival, BET coordinator and district director for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the meeting begins at 2:30 p.m. with registration and refreshments in the Promenade Room. A $10.00 registration fee includes the evening meal. The business meeting begins at 3:30 p.m. with Slay Mayo, BET chairman, Harrison County, presiding. Following the chairman's annual report, Lee Mudd, consulting forester, Shreveport, Louisiana, will discuss "Production and Outlook for Timber in East Texas."

The award is presented annually to an individual who has made outstanding contributions to agriculture in East Texas. Governor White is scheduled to address the group following the award presentation. He will be introduced by Dr. Carpenter. Following the governor's presentation, the incoming BET chairman will be introduced.

Weekly Ag Briefs

By Herb Brevard
January is almost over and now is the time to start on the new year's resolution about record keeping, says Wayne Taylor, economist-management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Extension Service has a new farm record book available through county Extension offices. Taylor says the book is simple, attractive and will allow the user to keep the records necessary for tax reporting, financial planning and year-end analysis. Studies have shown that producers and individuals that keep and use records are more successful. Before you get too far behind, check with the local county Extension agent and start keeping records now.

Also during the business meeting, Dr. Zerle Carpenter, director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will discuss "Extension and Texas Agriculture". The election of 1983 BET officers and remarks by the incoming chairman will conclude the business meeting. After a short break, the annual meeting will resume at 6:00 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom. Following dinner, the winner of the V.A. "Bill" Clements Award will be named.

The Build East Texas program began in 1963 to enhance agriculture and agribusiness in 37 East Texas counties. The program is coordinated by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and is guided by farmers, ranchers and agribusiness people from throughout the area. Serving as officers for the current year are Slay Mayo, chairman, Scottsville; Ed Wagoner, vice-chairman, Lufkin; and Jerry Nichols, secretary-treasurer, Nacogdoches. All persons interested in East Texas agriculture are invited to attend the annual meeting.

The National Christmas Tree Association will hold its annual marketing conference in Dallas, Feb. 11-12 at the North Park Inn. This offers Texas Christmas tree producers an opportunity to attend the national conference close to home, says James Chandler, Extension forester.

Now is the time to apply dormant oil sprays to fruit and nut trees, says Dr. James Robinson, entomologist. The spray should be applied when the temperature is between 40 and 60 degrees Fahrenheit and a freeze is not expected within 48 hours. In preparing the garden site, Robinson says to watch for soil insects. If soil insects such as wireworms, white grubs and cutworms are found, apply the appropriate insecticide for control. Diazinon is probably the most common insecticide used for this purpose. Follow label directions.

$200 per wild horse
In January 1982 the Interior Department started charging people who wanted to adopt wild horses $200 per horse plus delivery fees in an effort to get back part of the $4 million a year that it costs to administer the wild-horse-and-burro program.

Pond Management Strategies For Winter

By Chris Bull
Although most pond owners have turned their thoughts away from fishing until next spring, several management steps can be initiated during the cold months.

According to Billy Higginbotham, Extension Fisheries Specialist, the influx of new water due to recent rains can mean low pH levels for some ponds, possibly reducing fish growth, reproduction and survival. Those ponds with PH levels less than 6.5 are good candidates for agricultural lime applications. A pint water sample from the pond is adequate for determining PH. Owners of new ponds are especially advised to have a sample analyzed prior to investing in fingerlings for stocking.

Another management practice utilized by pond owners raising channel catfish in farm ponds is the winter feeding program. The tendency for many pond owners is to stop feeding during the cold months as fish activity slows down. However, this is not a sound management practice, especially when a high poundage of fish is present in the pond.

Catfish that are not fed from December until March can lose up to ten percent of their body weight. An advantage of winter feeding is the stronger, healthier condition of the fish entering the spring growing season. The fish will be less susceptible to stress and more resistant to parasite and disease outbreaks than if no feeding was practiced.

Several types of winter feeding programs are utilized by Northeast Texas pondowners. The best method is to feed a 28 percent protein sinking ration every other day or twice weekly at the rate of one percent of total fish weight per feeding. Care should be taken not to overfeed a pond or severe water quality problems could develop when spring arrives.

Large ponds or private lakes that are managed for bass and other sport species can be lowered two or three feet during the winter months. This practice concentrates forage species and makes them more available to bass. As a result, larger bass and bream may be produced. Water levels should be restored by March to provide shelter areas for largemouth bass. This practice is normally feasible only in bodies of water that have an existing drain pipe.

Pond management practices in the winter can pay off with better fishing and pond recreation when the spring fishing season finally arrives.

IRS Introduces Form 1040EZ

The Internal Revenue Service had developed a new simplified tax form for single taxpayers, called Form 1040EZ. The IRS says that, as the name implies, the 1040EZ is a brief, simple to complete tax form.

The IRS estimates that over 20 million taxpayers will be eligible to use the new form. For example, most college students who file federal individual income tax returns will be eligible to use the 1040EZ even if they are claimed as dependents on another taxpayer's return.

To use the 1040EZ, a taxpayer must be single, claim only one personal exemption, and claim no exemptions for children or other dependents. All income must come from wages, salaries, tips, and no more than $400 in interest. Taxable income must be less than $50,000.

The form contains only 11 items, the IRS says, which is half the lines on the Form 1040A for 1982. The 1040EZ is divided into steps that guide the taxpayer through the form.

Most of the instructions needed to complete Form 1040EZ are on the back of the form. However, the IRS advises that this year's 1040EZ filers will need to use the 1040A instructions for the tax table and for the special worksheet used to figure the allowable deduction for charitable contributions on the new form.

The 1040EZ has been included in the 1982 Form

1040A tax package. It is also available separately at many local IRS offices and through form distribution centers in many banks and post offices.

Footprints From The Past

By John W. Hood
I guess all of us like to look back and remember things that happened when we were growing up and there have been a lot of changes from the time I was a small boy until the present time. If you had told me when I was a small boy that some day that I could sit in my living room or den and see a ballgame that was being played in say New York or even Dallas I would have thought that you were crazy but that is something that we take for granted in color even.

When I was a little boy we did not have TV and very little radio. I can remember the first time that I ever heard a radio I was about eight or nine years old and one Saturday night we went to visit some family friends and they had an old Ant-water Kent radio that had the head sets and as they only had two sets of hearing devices you had to take time about listening to what was being broadcast and as I remember what we heard that night was the Hay Ride from I believe Atlanta, Ga.

It was a great treat for all of us to be able to hear someone from as far away as Atlanta talk especially when it was not on the phone. It was not long after that, that we were able to hear without the aid of the earphones. If you had the big horn that set on top of the radio, all in the room could hear.

Before the advent of the radio was spent in talking for the adults and for the kids there were games to be played, such as hide and seek, and in the summer time there was lightning bugs to chase and if you caught them and got enough of them you could put them in a jar and have you a light or so we thought. In the country there was the sport of finding you a hair out of some horses tail and put it in a jar of water and after a while it would turn into a snake or so went the story. That was just one of the superstitions that was going around when I was a small boy. I bet that if you had all the horse hairs put together that I have put in a jar you would have enough to stuff a horse hair chair and none of them ever turned into a snake that I saw.

Although we didn't have a TV or radio to entertain us when we were small there were a lot of different ways to keep a little boy or girl busy. For the boys we could always go hunting or play cowboys and indians or something else like we would find us an old inner tube that had come out of someone's car and they did not think it was good enough to patch again and then we would get it and cut us a rubber band and fit it on a piece of plank

SHOP FOR PROFITS

If you're still not planning your shopping to save as much money as possible, now is the time to start. Today the wisest of consumers uses a shopping plan that produces profits. Here's a number of money-saving tips that will help ensure that you don't spend above your means. First, never shop without a list. Decide exactly what is needed and the maximum amount you can invest before going to the market. Buy only the quantity of goods needed. An irregular or used item may fit the need as well as a new one. Make a shopping calendar for the year. Plan to buy big ticket items when at price advantage. Stock up on sale items such as food and household supplies, but only if you will use them. Any price paid for goods not needed is a waste of money. Be sure to ask yourself: "For what else might I use this money? Which use is most important to me now and in the near future?"
