Nuclear Waste Dump Meets Opposition

By Nanalee Nichols
Most everyone around has heard about the proposal to establish a low-level nuclear waste dump in the area. If not, just take a look over to the right on this page and update yourself.

It fascinates me that time after time this area is picked for such a project. Indeed, we know that no one wants such a disposal site, and obviously, such wastes have to go somewhere.

But just because the soil seems promising, why can't they take into account the fact that we have a high waterfall, flooding in the fall and spring (the chemical waste dump proposed near Cunningham in 1981 has had flood water with mere yards of it since they abandoned the proposal) and a number of major lakes, including three that are being proposed, Pine Creek, Cooper Lake and one without a name yet.

But what absolutely irritates so badly is that officials behind these projects blatantly state that such dump sites must "obviously" be located away from heavily occupied areas. Then, in turn, they blithely tell people in the area the dump is proposed for that such sites are safe.

If they are so very safe, why would it hurt to put them near heavily populated areas? It certainly would save a lot of transportation costs!

It is also irritating to feel that we don't "count" in the scheme of things...that because we are not a heavily populated area, we aren't as important to protect as big cities such as Dallas and Houston.

Bluntly, big cities are producing the vast majority of these hazardous wastes, yet the minority of the population is expected to take the risks involved in handling it.

Surely there must be better sites, sites with no population at all for many, many miles, low rainfall or more willingness to accept this problem?

If not, then very deep research must be done to consider this problem. The future, not just in a few years, but for generations to come, must be considered. A solution must be found for more than just ten, twenty or fifty years...or else what price will mankind have to pay for our carelessness now?

Editor's Note: Opinions and complaints concerning the proposed nuclear dump site in this area may be sent to the General Manager of the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority, Rick Jacobi at 1300 C, East Anderson Lane, Austin, TX 78752.

By Nanalee Nichols
Opposition to the proposal to establish a nuclear waste dump in the area is steadily mounting, as city councils, commissioners courts and citizens pass resolutions and gear up to protest the proposal.

A large portion of Northeast Texas, which includes all or parts of Lamar, Delta, Fannin and Red River Counties and named the Northern Black Prairie Area by the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority, is one of 15 areas which are being considered for the dump site.

Apparently the soils in the area are considered prime for such a use.

The dump site proposal is being established by the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority.

Currently Texas has no nuclear waste disposal site, and the state is trying to establish one. Congress passed a law in 1980 which stated that states which haven't arranged to take care of their own waste will not be allowed to ship it out of the state after 1986. The nuclear waste comes primarily from hospitals, laboratories and industries.

Red River County Judge Scotty Whiteman, contacted

Tuesday morning, said "I'm 100 percent against it. I don't think it would be good for the area. There are other areas without our heavy rainfall, population and watershed which I believe would be more suitable."

Three of the county commissioners, Bruce Scott, Ben Storey and Lane Duncan also stated that they were unconditionally against it, and although they could not speak for the commissioner not present, felt that a resolution against the dump site would be passed if it became necessary to do so.

Lamar County Judge Brady Fisher, when contacted, said that he was "Definitely opposed to the idea. When you are talking about the health and safety of an area, there just isn't any price to be put on it."

The Lamar County Commissioners Court has already passed a unanimous resolution opposing the establishment of such a site. The Paris City Council has refused to let the Nuclear Waste Authority present their views on the subject, and Monday night passed a resolution opposing the dump site, not only in Lamar County, but in all the area "contiguous to the city".

A number of area citizens have already expressed their intentions to organize against the proposal.

These people are many of the same ones who have helped to block efforts to establish other waste dumps in the area.

In the mid-1970's, Southwest Nuclear also called the area a good location for such a site. At that time, massive public opinion arose against it, and the Lamar and Delta County commissioners passed resolutions formally opposing such a measure. The issue was dropped in 1976.

In 1981, Chem-Security Systems proposed a toxic chemical dump site which would have been located near Cunningham, in Red River County. Again, public opinion arose, the Red River and Lamar County Soil and Water Conservation Districts and Commissioners Courts passed petitions and resolutions against it, and public citizens rallied to sign petitions and write letters to public officials.

Whatever the end result of the attempt to establish a nuclear waste dump in the area is, it seems a fact, that it will only be created over and against the public will.

Jess Reasoner Receives Award

Reasoner Receives Recognition For Service

On a recent Sunday afternoon, the deacons of the First Baptist Church of Blossom presented Jess Reasoner with a certificate in honor of his many years of service as a deacon.

Reasoner was born September 15, 1899 on Blossom Prairie. He joined First Baptist Church in July 1926 on a profession of faith. The Rev. B.B. Crimm was the evangelist for that summer revival meeting. In the late 1930's or early 1940's Mr. Jess became a deacon. Prior to that he began teaching the Men's Sunday School Class, a position he held until 1967 when he resigned to take the Sunday night Bible class. Pastor C.G. Renfro had been teaching this class but left in November for another pastorate after serving more than six years at Blossom. Mr. Jess says Bro. Renfro is the best preacher friend he ever had. And on one occasion, Bro. Renfro said Mr. Reasoner was the best man he'd ever met. They worked side by side on a committee to build the new sanctuary, which was completed in March 1967. Mr. Jess also served as Sunday School Superintendent for six years or so.

April 14, 1922, Mr. Jess married Zora May, whom he had known all his life. Mr. Jess and his three younger brothers played ball with her and her brothers. She says there were lots of fights if they cheated or did something she didn't like! She never dreamed they would one day get married. After what amounted to a blind date, they courted from 1919 until 1922. They recently celebrated 61 years together. Miss Zora, however, remained a Presbyterian until 1954, though married to a very devout Baptist. Though childless, the couple has a host of relatives and friends.

Mr. Jess did many jobs to earn a living, but was primarily a farmer and rancher. He served as a Director of the Paris Milling Company from 1952 until it was bought by Midland Archie Daniel.

He also served on the Blossom School Board for sixteen years, though Miss Zora says she never voted for him. He even declares that he did not vote for himself! He also says he quit on his own, not because he was beaten in an election. For some of those years he was Board president.

With such a long record of church and community service, Mr. Jess was asked if he had ever done anything bad. He replied, "I never was arrested in my life!"
