

Patriots Win In Opener Against Winnsboro

By Thomas Nichols
Neither rain nor the Winnsboro Red Raiders could dampen the spirits of the Prairiland Patriots last Friday night, as they carved off their first conference victory for a season opener, defeating the Raiders 13-7.

The Winnsboro team struck their first, and last blow of the game early.

They scored only minutes into the beginning of the game, only to watch the Red Pride set up their first score when the Raiders quarterback dropped back to pass, on the 49 yard line, only to be dropped for a big loss by Prairiland's Robert Cody.

On the next play Winnsboro was moved back five yards for offside penalty and Paul Binnion and Robert Cody forced the Raiders to fumble giving the Patriots a 1st and 10 on the Winnsboro 22 yard line. This fine defensive work actually heralded what was to come from the defense for the rest of the evening... aggression, determination and good playing!

The team of Mike Connot and Dennis Rhodes carried the ball on to the 6, and Rhodes claimed the glory from there, going in for six points. Barry Johnston added the PAT, tying up the score 7-7 with 1:15 left in the half.

The Raiders made a desperate attempt, and with 42 seconds on the clock tried a halfback pass which worked beautifully, and made big yardage.

It seemed that the clock had run out, but the ruling that the half couldn't end on a defensive penalty gave the Raiders 2 seconds and a field goal chance.

The field goal attempt that was not good, but a roughing the kicker call resulted in a second try, only to have it blocked by Patriot Dennis Rhodes.

The two teams came back into the second half slipping and sliding as the rain continued to drizzle down, turning the field into something more like a bog than a playing surface.

Early in the third quarter the Red Pride finished scoring for the night with an excellent 26 yard pass play from Todd Davis to Vern Barker for the go ahead touchdown.

The Raiders really had a shot to tie the game or pull ahead by one point late in the fourth quarter, and it was then that the Patriot defense showed its merit.

From the Patriot 15 yard line the Raiders had five opportunities to take the ball into the end zone, but play after play found themselves met by a solid wall of determined Red Pride players who, almost unbelievable, held them out until they took the ball over to fall on it until the clock ran out.

Wet, muddy and happy best described the Prairiland varsity, and fans, only slightly less damp, cheered with undampened enthusiasm as the Patriots racked up their second straight victory, and what looks like the beginning of a good season of conference play.

Kickoff this Friday night will be at 7:30 p.m. as the Red Pride will travel to North Lamar to take on a team that hasn't won a game so far this season.

These days just going a little way from home is something like being a traveler to a strange and far-off land. One never knows what to pack to suit the climate.

Going to a ball game or out to eat after dark may reveal some folks in heavy sweaters, others in light weight sleeveless blouses. There just doesn't seem to be any way of telling who will be the comfortable one.

Evenings usually are cool right now, just enough so that long sleeves feel good. But long sleeves won't do the job when a sudden deluge of rain leave those not prepared for it soaked and shivering.

Or, as one night recently revealed, being in a heavy coat or sweater can make for a hot, humid evening with perspiration trickling down one's neck.

The days start out sunny and mild. And they may very well start that way... or they may end up climbing into the 90 degree area on the mercury.

There just doesn't seem anyway to accurately predict what type of clothing will result in comfort during the day!

Of course, added to these natural climate control problems are those created by two people sharing the same life and with totally different internal thermostats!

Most couples seem to have one warm natured and one cold natured half to it.

In cars in particular there is usually one person complaining that the icicles are forming on their nose while the other drives blithely down the highway with the air conditioning turned up to maximum!

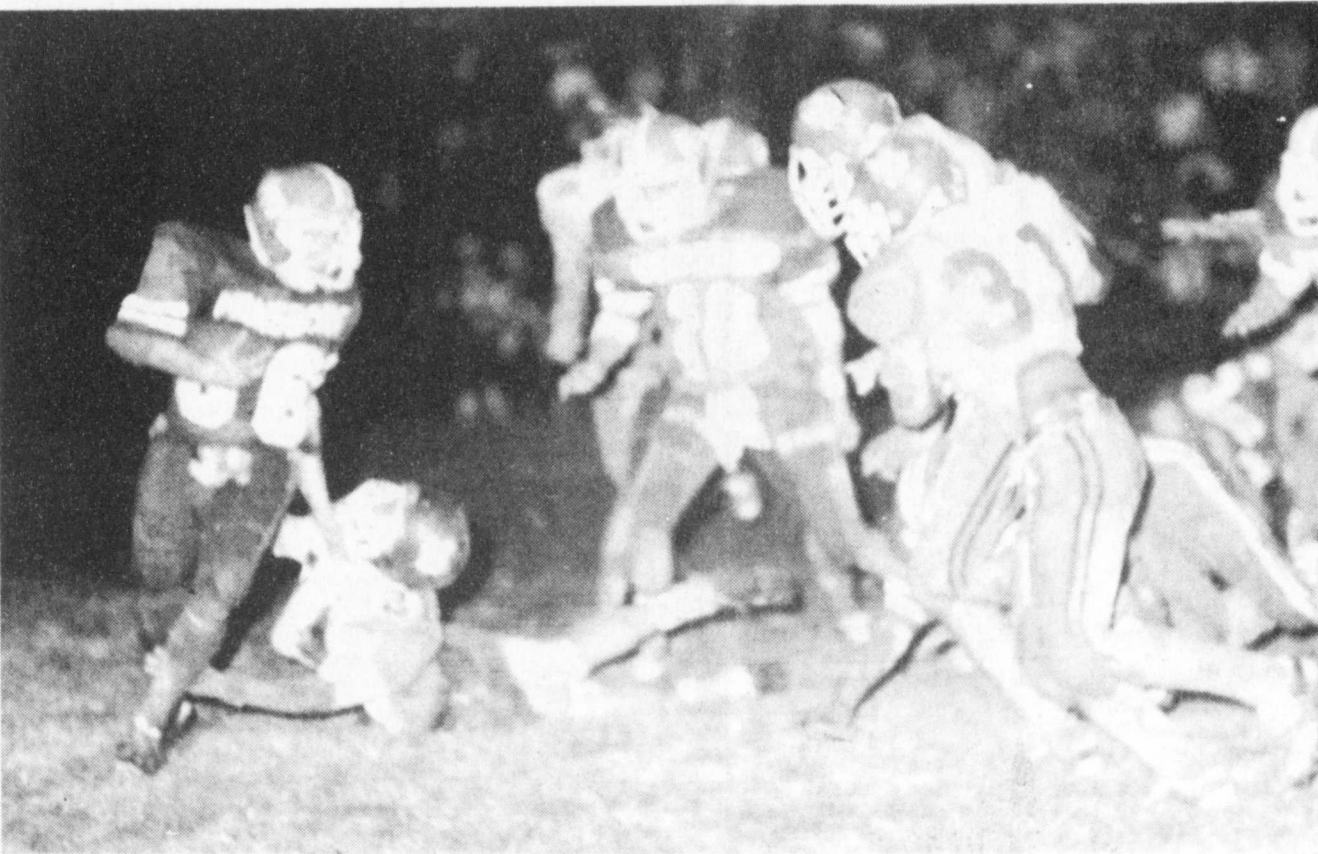

And at home the situation doesn't improve too much. While one person wraps up in a blanket the other will be throwing windows open to let in the "cool" night air.

And sleeping with the windows open this time of year presents a little problem. What feels like a gentle breeze stirring the curtains can turn into a howling blizzard before morning... leaving sleepers wrapped up and shivering.

But all in all it is a small price we pay for what may well be the prettiest time of year. It is a slight inconvenience to try and second guess the temperature in return for glowing blue skies, golden grasses, and blazing trees... so enjoy it while you can!

Prairiland Celebrating Nat'l Activities Week

Salute the hundreds local high school students involved in extra curricular activities during National High School Activities Week beginning October 16.

Prairiland students will be involved in many activities during the week. The Speech group will be making spot announcements on the local radio stations concerning activities during the week. The High School Band will perform at the State Fair of Texas on Monday morning, the Choral group will entertain at the Deport Nursing Home, there are football, volleyball games and cross-country meets scheduled as well as class and organizational meetings.

The week will conclude with an assembly on Friday, sponsored by the Math and Science Club. A $25.00 award will be given to the club or organization that has done the best job in promoting their club during the day Friday.

Former President Gerald R. Ford, chairman of this year's National High School Activities Week, is urging everyone to support and participate in local activities that draw attention to this cause because "interscholastic programs, from football to debate, are an integral part of school curriculum."

"These activities offer experience in human relations as well as physical and emotional development. They are paramount to youth's total education."

Independent studies by the American College Testing Service (ACT) and Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) have revealed that participation in self-motivating school activities help youth become successful adults.

"A student's success in extracurricular activities is a better predictor of adult success than pre-college test scores or academic grades," explained Bruce B. Durbin, executive director of the Federation of State High School Associations. "There also is evidence that students involved in extracurricular activities are less likely to be absent from class—the activities program is a tool to keep students in school and interested."

Initiated by the National Federation of State High School Associations, the Week's goal is to encourage student participation in and community support of athletics and activities in all schools.

Policeman Outlines Goals

The Blossom Girl Scouts met at Blossom Truck Stop, compliments of Mary Bove for the purpose of meeting the new Chief of Police in Blossom, Cecil Kuykendall.

He has been retained by the Blossom city council to organize and set up a law enforcement agency for the city, and has agreed to head the office for a six month period.

Over seventy teenagers and young adults, as well as a number of parents attended.

The new chief outlined the intentions and plans of the department. The ordinances of the city will be revised where essential, and existing ones will be enforced without favor to all violators.

Kuykendall stated that "My job is to prevent and assist as well as to enforce. It is the desire of the council to help everyone. Working together with teens and young adults, ministers and business people we can set an example for other East Texas cities."

Speed zones will be enforced, drag racing will slow up and the new liability law enforced.

The chief has his own private investigation service in Paris, until taking this job to organize and operate the Blossom Police Department.

Kuykendall has 28 years of various experience in Houston, Austin, Georgetown and other large and small cities.

He specializes in homicide and major crime cases, and holds certificates in narcotic investigation, criminal investigation, basic and advanced, forensic photography, forensic hypnosis and advanced courses in traffic control, FBI fingerprint identification, air crashes, auto accidents, burglary, theft, and rape investigation.

He has certificates of valor for above and beyond control in rescue of living and recovery of the dead in a grain elevator explosion and has been wounded several times in police work action.

He is married, and the couple have four grown children and three grandchildren. They are buying a home in the Blossom area.

A new police patrol vehicle due in this month will be fully equipped.

All citizens are urged to full co-operation with the law enforcement agency, and Kuykendall says that "this is your town and mine, there will be no harassment, but the laws will be enforced."

BLOSSOM-Policeman-Cecil Kuykendall has been appointed to serve as the new Blossom Policeman. He presented a program to 70 teenagers and young adults recently, outlining his plans and goals in law enforcement in Blossom. Staff Photo by Charlene Barker

The council took the matter under consideration, but took no action.

Dennis Tatum requested that the council furnish pipe to provide him with a sewer line to his residence, and he would reimburse the city at $10 per month. This was approved.

The council voted to pay the bill to Hunter and Associates for the sewer line plans they had drawn for the sewer extension running east of Deport.

They also heard the annual Housing Authority Report, and nominated Reggie McDowra to serve on the Lamar County Tax Board.

East Texas Eating

By Margie Rice

The cake roll is experiencing a wave of renewed popularity. No wonder! It is remarkably simple and quick to make. And, the result is delicious to eat and elegant, even in its simplest form, in appearance.

The cake roll -- or jelly roll as it is often called when the thin sheet of sponge cake is spread with jelly before it is rolled -- has endless variations. The plain cake can be spread with the filling of your choice -- pie filling, an orange filling, lemon filling, chocolate cream, whipped cream, or jelly.

My mother remembers a good Wise County cook whose Wild Plum Cake Rolls were popular at church dinners at the old Rush Creek Baptist Church. The woman canned wild plum pulp in the summers. She simply sweetened the plum pulp, thickened it with cornstarch, and spread the cake roll with the plum filling.

I worked out what I hoped was a duplication of the Wise County cook's Wild Plum Cake Roll recently -- with wild plum pulp which my mother had canned specifically for my efforts. The result was delicious! I've also worked out a Fresh Apple Cake Roll which my husband and neighbors have liked. Here are both recipes. Do try one or both.

or choose another filling for your cake roll.

Cake Roll

Grease a 15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1" jelly roll pan (sometimes called a high sided cookie or brownie pan) and line bottom with greased aluminum foil.

Sift together and set aside: 1 cup sifted all-purpose or cake flour 1 tsp. baking powder 1/4 tsp. salt

Beat in small mixer bowl until very thick and lemon-colored: 3 large eggs

Four beaten eggs into large bowl. Gradually beat in 1 cup sugar. Blend in...on low speed one third cup water and 1 tsp. vanilla.

Slowly mix in dry ingredients...on low speed...just until batter is smooth. Pour into prepared pan. Bake in 375 degree oven until top springs back when lightly touched. (about 12 to 15 minutes). Loosen edges and immediately turn upside down on a towel sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Carefully remove paper. Trim off any stiff edges. While cake is still hot, roll cake and towel from narrow end. Cool on wire rack. Unroll cake, remove towel. Spread with soft (not syrupy) jelly roll filling. Roll again. If desired, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Cut in 1 inch slices.

Zippy Fresh Apple Filling

2 cups peeled, diced (about 1/2 inch) Golden Delicious apples 1 1/2 tsp. grated orange rind 2 Tbsp. sugar 6 Tbsp. orange juice 4 tsp. cornstarch blended with 2 Tbsp. orange juice 1/2 tsp nutmeg

In a 1 1/2 quart covered saucepan gently cook the apples, orange rind, sugar and orange juice until apples are tender -- about 10 minutes. Stir in the cornstarch mixture; cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear -- a minute or so. Stir in the nutmeg. Cool. Spread on sponge cake and roll as directed above.

Wild Plum Filling

2 cups wild plum pulp (canned or fresh) sugar to taste 5 Tbsp. cornstarch 1/2 tsp. cinnamon

Heat plum pulp. Stir in the sugar and cornstarch which have been mixed. Heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in cinnamon. Cool. Spread on sponge cake and roll. Dust with powdered sugar, if desired.

FINGERPRINTS--the Blossom Brownies fingerprint program ended in some "inky" fingers recently, but these young ladies don't seem to mind. The Girl Scouts held an Octoberfest last week, with a good turnout.

Proceeds went to individual troops for their needs. (Staff Photo by Charlene Barker)

Footprints From The Past

By John W Hood

Growing up during the great depression of the late Twenties and early Thirties was quite a different life from what we know now. There was not a lot of money and there was a lot of hard work just to survive. All the kids were expected to work in the fields and help around the house, there were no free rides and no big lot of money, but it did not take a lot of money to make it those days as everything was a lot cheaper than now. I can remember that Dad could get enough steak for all of the family for about 25 cents or at the most 35 cents and we would usually have some left over for a sandwich for us kids to take to school for lunch the next day.

We only got 50 cents a hundred for picking cotton, but you could buy a pair of the best overalls or blue jeans for from 65 cents to 85 cents and a pair of shoes would not cost you over $3.00 to $4.00 so you see that everything was in line with the wages....

You could go on a date with only about a dollar and still have some left over for the next time you wanted to go out.

This was an exciting time of the year as you were finishing up with the gathering of the crops and also going to school and getting settled in for the long winter and you also had football practice to keep you after school and then when you got home there was time to pick a sack full of cotton and still have time to do your chores, such as milking the cow and feeding the stock and bringing in the wood for the fires and on Friday nights there were the parties to go to.

Sometimes all the boys would get together and have a possum hunt or we would invite the girls and have a weiner roast if we could get some of the parents to go along as sponsors, of course the boys would have liked it alot better without the sponsors, but that was a no-no and sometimes we would just all get together and go to someones home and study for our lessons for the next day. That was always alot of fun as we would always have something good to eat and besides we would wind up having a small dance of a square dance if we could get some one to call it.

Friday nights was always the best night of the week as we did not have to get up early and we could stay up as late as we wanted to or atleast as late as our parents would let us.

Friday was also special during football season for all the players would get together at some place of business to replay the game.

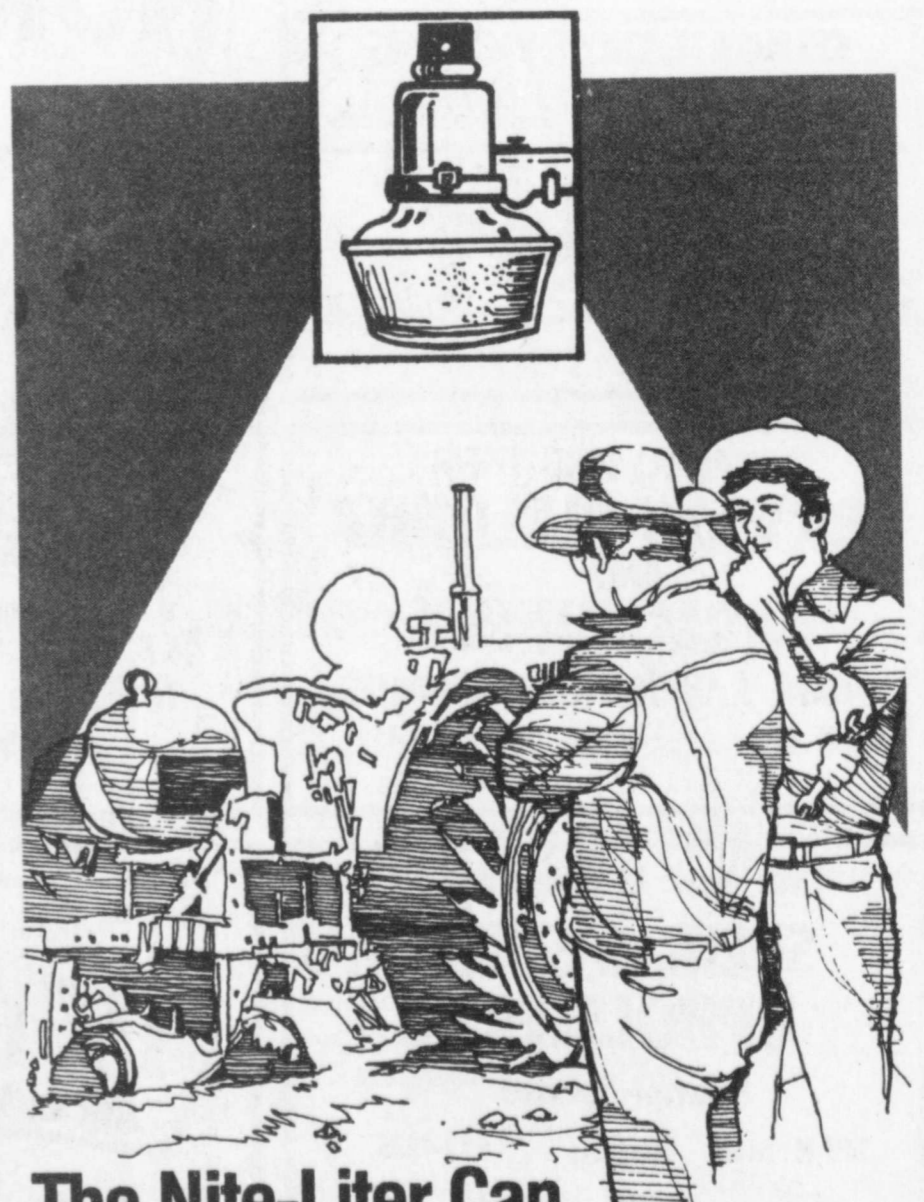

One of our favorite places to gather was at a service station run by Mr. Boyd Reece. He would put up with us boys and to this day I don't see how he could as we were always in the way when one of his customers came in and Boyd would have to run us out of the way so the customer could get to the gas pump, but he did not seem to mind too much as he would always say that he got as much enjoyment out of reliving the game as we did and he never missed a home game..

Sure wish some of the old bunch would take the trouble to get us all together again, some could not make it as they have played their last game and have gone onto the BIG GAME, but there are some left who would like to get together and we could relive old times.

LETTERS

Dear Nanalee:
After my letter urging people to attend our P.T.A. meeting last week, I just wanted to say thanks to all the parents and teachers who attended. We had better attendance than we normally do; nineteen parents, and all teachers, aids, and lunch room ladies. We had this meeting at night to give more people a chance to attend. Nineteen parents out of a school as large as ours is not a very good show of hands. I wonder if people think that our P.T.A. is worth having. In the P.T.A. guide book it states that our main objective is to promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, community, and place of worship. To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the education of youth and children. In short, the teachers are there because of the children and the P.T.A. is there to assist the teachers in any way with the children.

Please parents show your children that you care by being interested in their school.
Today more people have to work. Today we seem to run out of time or we are too tired, when all our children want is us-you, Dad or you, Mom-with our undivided attention. Stop to think about this people, where we will be when we are old and worn out and want some attention from our grown children. Are they going to be too tired or not to have enough time for us?

You may think this is getting away from P.T.A., but it comes to this-caring and pushing oneself a little further for our children. Thank you for allowing me this time and space.

I also want to say that I know our school has many fine programs such as sports and band. We know that all students may not be involved in sports or band so that is why the P.T.A. is interested in sponsoring projects and programs to involve all youth. We are interested in involving all young people in a hope of building a better community.

Come and show that you care. Our next meeting will be Oct. 19, at 3:15 in the school library. The guest speaker will be L. C. Stout. Sincerely & hopefully,
Lynn Day, P.T.A. Pres.

CONSUMER CHECKLIST

Although some people argue that it is cheaper to eat out, the USDA survey found that an average meal at home contained 81 cents worth of food per serving. The average away-from-home meal cost $2.06, about 2 1/2 times the value of food in the home meal. Eating in or carrying bag lunches and snacks is one way to trim food costs.

Weekly Agricultural Update

Now is a good time to either stock or harvest catfish, says Dr. Joe Lock, fisheries specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. It is best to handle the fish during the morning or cooler part of the day. Harvesting some of the fish this fall will help prevent overstocking next spring. If producers wait until cold weather for harvesting, it will be too cold to seine the ponds for the fish to bite. Lock says the supply of catfish fingerlings is excellent. County Extension agents have a list of fingerling producers in the area. Practically every county in East Texas has at least one fingerling producer.

At least two species of cockroaches are moving into homes this time of year, according to Dr. James Robinson, entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The American cockroach is approximately one and three-fourths inches long and the Oriental cockroach is approximately one and one-fourth inches long. Both have long life cycles and do not reproduce nearly as fast as the German cockroach, the most prevalent cockroach in the area. The currently invading cockroaches are primarily a social problem but do contaminate food and kitchen utensils. Robinson says even the best kept home will have an occasional roach. Caulking and sealing cracks help keep the roaches out of the house. A barrier of insecticide sprayed outside the house is also helpful. Several insecticides are available for controlling roaches. Follow label directions. Spraying inside the house is recommended if the infestation is great enough.

PJC Play Features Local Students

Tickets for "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" scheduled at Paris Junior College Oct. 20-22 will go on sale Thursday, Oct. 13, in the College Store on the PJC campus. The reserved seat tickets may be purchased from 10 a.m. to noon or from 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays in the store, said Ray Karrer, chairman of the drama.

Cost of the tickets is $3.00 for the general public, $2.00 for area students and for those senior citizens holding PJC ID cards, and free for PJC students and staff. Group rates may be obtained by calling the drama office, Karrer said.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the College Store, 785-7661, ext. 344, during the ticket sale hours, and they may be picked up later or at the door for out-of-town residents.

Designed for mature audiences, high school age or above, the drama deals with a mentally alert patient who feels he can never again have a meaningful productive life after becoming a quadriplegic. In the play, the author studies human dignity, the freedom of making one's own decisions.

Named the best play of 1978 by the London Theatre Critics, the drama has been performed in more than a dozen foreign countries and was widely acclaimed when it opened in New York in 1979, Karrer said. It also was presented as a television movie starring Richard Dreyfus this year. The author, Brian Clark, was born in 1932 and was brought up in Bristol, England, educated at the Central School of Speech and Drama and the University of Nottingham. He taught English in various schools and for four years served as staff tutor in drama at the University of Hull.

Cast in the play are Mela Dee Elliott, Dorothy Cullum and Sandy Wixom of Paris, Kim Couch of Pattonville, James St. John of Blossom, Ivan Hall of Arthur City, Jerry Piland of Honey Grove, Todd Landrum of Mt. Pleasant, Kurt Smith of Denver, Colo., Marvin Woods of Wolfe City, Darlene Harmon of New Boston, Jane Esbensen of Irving, David Hartzog of Harlingen and Joe DiPuccio of Cleveland Ohio.

Weekly Agricultural Update

Armyworms are eating wheat in Lamar County. Farmers who have young wheat will need to check their fields daily for the hungry worms. Armyworms left unchecked have the ability to eat entire fields in a very short time. Individuals should look for areas around the edge of their fields, near a building or trees. Since this is the first outbreak of the worm this fall, they generally can be found in pockets and later outbreaks will be more general.

Infested areas will have a grayish cast where the worms have fed on the leaves. The worms are easily controlled by the use of several insecticides - Dylox, Sevin, Parathion or Lamate.

None of these insecticides will last very long in the field, so the worms must be present in the field before treatment. Check prices of chemicals before selecting one and pay attention to grazing restrictions if this is important.

It is doubtful that young wheat eaten off at this stage of development would put back out.

Grass Herbicide for Alfalfa...
Alfalfa producers have a new herbicide available to annual grass control that shows great promise. The chemical is Kerb and it is produced by Rohm and Haas Agricultural Products.

Gary Plunkett, company representative, told a group of area alfalfa producers in Paris last week that the herbicide controlled ryegrass, cheat grass and winter grains at the rate of one pound per acre.

Kerb works best when the temperature is cool and moisture is available to activate the material. So, in general terms, it should be applied later this fall when the moisture conditions improve.

The herbicide does not act immediately after application, as it is absorbed in the soil and enters the plant through the root system.

Producers who are planting alfalfa behind wheat (this is a common practice now) should consider using Kerb. It did a beautiful job of controlling volunteer wheat in test plots in southern Oklahoma last year. We expect the same results in our area.

Plans call for one or two test plots in Lamar County this year.
By the way, the chemical can be used on clover also.

Upcoming Meetings...
Area agricultural producers will want to reserve the night of October 24 for a Marketing and Hedging Meeting. The meeting will be held in the Community Exhibits Building at the Fairgrounds. The speaker will be Mr. Richard Quiter. More details later.

Dr. Dennis Herd, Beef Cattle Nutritionist from Texas A & M University will be the speaker at a beef cattle meeting in Paris on October 31. He will be discussing "Meeting the Nutrition Needs of The Beef Cow". More details on this later.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

BUDDY'S WORKSHOP
Inadequate Extension Cords Cause Many Home Fires

If your home is equipped with circuit breakers, do you have protection from fires caused by inadequate extension and power cords?
Circuit breakers and fuses are designed to protect house wiring. Inadequate power cords and extension cords can overheat when appliances are in use without affecting the house wiring to trip the circuit breaker or fuse. The major cause of home fires is the use of extension and power cords that are inadequate. If you replace a power cord or must use an extension cord, be sure they meet the manufacturer's recommendations for the appliance. It's also wise to use extension cords sparingly. Do not use several lengths of extension cord.

What is the problem when gutters that have been painted and kept obstruction free still do not drain properly?
The problem could be that the gutter hangers have received no attention. They should be inspected each year and replaced as necessary. Rusted gutter hangers are often loose and throw the gutter out of line so that water must run uphill to the downspout.

Why are slip-joint pliers so named?
Slip-joint pliers have two center slots in which the fastener pin can be located. One slot enables you to grip small objects; the other allows the jaws to open much wider to grip larger objects.
