Outdoor Leased Floodlighting A Bright Idea

The days are getting shorter but perhaps your business stays open after dark so you need a well-lighted parking area. Or maybe you need to protect your equipment at night. Wide-area outdoor leased floodlighting may be the answer. These metal halide units are automatic. They go on at dusk and off at dawn in all kinds of weather. And they are directional so you can have the light where you want it. More efficient than incandescent lighting, they give you more light for your money. Call Texas-New Mexico Power Company today and ask to have outdoor leased floodlighting installed on your property.

Weekly Agricultural Update

Many producers are concerned about their winter pastures. Although some areas of East Texas had some rainfall, it has basically been spotted. With rainfall, seed that were dusted-in earlier should germinate and do well.

Dr. Sim Reeves, Jr., agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says that some producers may want to plant ryegrass alone in some areas. Good results were obtained last year in Henderson County with seeding rates of 35 to 40 pounds per acre. Marshall ryegrass did well under these conditions.

If the ryegrass is planted in a sod, Reeves advises to hold back on applications of nitrogen until after the first frost. Otherwise, nitrogen may cause the permanent grasses to compete too heavily with the seedling ryegrass.

Once winter forage plants get a little growth, Reeves says that they are pretty tough and can withstand some dry weather. With adequate rainfall, many of hese plants can survive.
