Texas Oil Production At Low Ebb

in the second second

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday said that Texas oil wells have produced 51.1 million barrels less this past year than the year before.

This shows that the low price of oil isn't the only culprit working against the Texas economy and the Texas oil industry, he said.

"The drop in production was worth $772.1 million at current market prices," Bullock said. "So much attention on declining oil prices may have masked the fact that production in Texas has slipped by more than 140,000 barrels a day.

He said tax records show that Texas wells were producing about 2.3 million taxable barrels of oil a day in mid-1985.

Production had dropped to slightly more than 2 million taxable barrels a day by August of this year.

The Deport Times

DEPORT, LAMAR COUNTY, TEXAS

Bullock said the downturn in production alone cost the state about $35.5 million in severance taxes dur- 60 percent and drilling permits were ing the one-year period based on the Comptroller's estimated average oil price per barrel.

Further, Bullock said, active rotary rigs operating in Texas fell by about down by more than 50 percent, he said.

Winter does not put me in a good mood. That's just the way it is. While my husband is running around singing and hoping it will come a foot of snow, I'm gloomily throwing another log on the wood stove and wishing summer would return.

Of course, I know that won't happen. It never has, until the appointed seasonal changes roll around again.

But I go into a positive tailspin of depression when the cold kills my marigolds and zinnias, when the late petunias are a slimy jelly after frost, and very the frogs and snakes go in for the winter!

I don't LIKE it when there aren't any leaves on the trees. I don't like it when the yard stops growing, and I don't like it when autumn is over.

I can't help it. I know there are lots of people who feel exactly like I do. I also know that there are lots of folks who share my husband's feelings...that they wished they lived up north where winter lasted longer and the snow piled up.

To me, nine months of winter would be fatal. I get cold about the last of October and my feet aren't truly warm again until April or May.

I don't like being inside, but can't take the weather outside, which tends to be a bit of a problem. I usually bundle up like an eskimo and take a walk through the cold gray grass.

Oh, I admit that a warm house and gatherings of friends and family at Christmas makes life pleasant. Hot coffee and a warm coat goes a long way to relieve my depression.

Shuffling houseplants inside and making room for them at our greenhouse windows at the office occupies some of my need to cultivate. Planting my bulbs will help, too. But for the most part, I'm fighting that old heavy blanket of gloom trying to settle over me this week.

77th YEAR No. 40

The Mt. Vernon Tigers outlasted the Prairiland Patriots at Tiger Stadium last Friday, 25-20.

The Patriots took the opening kickoff in a cover of fog more related to London, England than anywhere in east Texas. The Patriots tried three downs, but failed to travel ten yards for the first and ten.

Following the Patriot punt, the Tigers started their attack on the Patriots 38-yard line. Patriots Eric Foster, Jack Kindle and Joseph Whelchel forced the Tigers into a third and fifteen situation. The Patriots forced the Tigers to fumble the snap, but the Tigers recovered only to be dropped for a big loss by Richard Eatherly. What appeared to be a big play for the Patriots was nullified by a personal foul on the Patriots, and the Tigers had new hope deep in Patriot territory.

The Patriot defense forced the Tigers into a fourth down and four for the Patriots, but the Tigers stood rigid and completed the bomb for the first TD! The point after was good and the. Tigers led by seven.

The Patriot offensive picked up three first downs right off the bat, but fumbled the ball away to the Tigers on the Mt. Vernon forty-two yard line. the Tigers were unable to However. control the momentum, and had to kick the ball away after three downs. The Patriots also had trouble controlling the ball in the fog so thick it was difficult to see from one side of the field to the other. With just over four minutes to play in the first half, the Tigers bombed the Patriots again for a 25-yard scoring drive. The Tigers failed on the two-point conversion and the clock gave the Tigers a 13 point advantage. The Patriots came right bck to only have to punt after three downs, but the Tigers fumbled the punt and the Patriots reclaimed the ball on the Mt. Vernon 32-yard line. Two plays later, quarterback Martin Babb hit Steven Johnson for a Patriot touchdown. Babb drilled the uprights for the point after, and the Patriots trailed by six points at the end of the first half.

The third quarter started off disastrously for the Patriots. The Patriots fumbled the return, and the Tigers took over on the Patriot 25-yard line. Two plays later, the Tigers struck again, and the Patriots trailed by 12 points.

The courageous Patriots didn't give up. Craig Ladd raced 77 yards and the Patriots claimed 13 points.

With six minutes to play in the third quarter, the Tigers scored their final touchdown of the evening, and had racked up 25 points.

The clock ticked down to seven minutes to play before Steven Johnson struck paydirt!

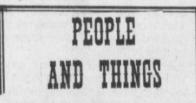

The fog lifted, and the Patriots trailed the Tigers by only five points with just over six minutes to play. The Tigers controlled the ball over four minutes, but were unable to score
