NICHOLS' WORTH

By: Nanalee Nichols

It was, to put it mildly, foggy Tuesday morning. Fog isn't so bad, except for those who must drive in it. It does add a "cloak of mystery" to old, familiar landscapes.

But it set my mind to recalling some of the things that have happened in fog.

Nothing important, I've always said we have never been so lost we didn't get home...although there have been a few times I've wondered!

On our trip several years ago to the United Kingdom, we had wandered up the length of Great Britain from London to Wales to the top of Scotland and back down. During that time, we never quite got to see the sea. (Since one is never more than 75 miles from the ocean on that island country, it's amazing!)

We decided to make a special trip about 20 miles over to the coast to specifically and definitely see the sea.

Of course, upon arrival, the fog was so incredibly thick we couldn't see the sea...only the fog. We found the sea, by feeling our way down the beach until a wave wet our feet...but we could never say we really saw it. I took a picture of that fog, with brightly painted boats under a single spotlight. Everyone told me I was crazy. It won first place in competition that year.

In the Smokey Mountains one time I was driving through a fog that seemed thick enough to cut with a knife. The road was twisting and mountainous, and I was so proud of how well I was doing until I realized I had pulled into a parking lot instead of the road!

Several years ago, we tried to take Britt and Amanda Barnard (before they shared the same last name) up into the Arkansas mountains to see the fall foliage. Naturally, the fog was totally thickened everywhere. To this day the only thing they have seen are the steps to the lodge at Wilhemina State Park...not a mountain one could they glimpse!

As any cattleman knows, hunting for a lost cow in fog is a useless occupation. Not only is the cow invisible...but fog muffles and distorts sounds so that noises seem to come from somewhere other than their origin.

One of the best incidents occurred only two weeks ago, when the last football game of the season (high school that is) was played in a fog so thick that it was difficult to see jersey numbers...and impossible to see the stands on the other side of the field.

All in all, fog seems to come around pretty regularly. It has, certainly, led us into some strange places, and livened up things with a good laugh. It isn't, to my mind, so very bad!

Fire Destroys First Baptist Church In Bogata

A large crowd gathered in Bogata Sunday, November 16, to watch as a blazing fire ripped through and destroyed the First Baptist Church building. As firemen from Deport, Talco and Bogata worked frantically to combat the fire, many who had gathered, exchanged embraces of comfort and looked on through tear-filled eyes.

The church auditorium was constructed in 1956 and the new educational facilities were completed in the 1970's. A new parking lot was being planned for the church, due to the recent purchase of Cawley's Laundry situated behind the church building.

Smoke coming from the attic in front of the building was detected and reported around 12:15, just minutes after dismissal of the Sunday morning services. Apparently, the fire had started during the service, although there were no indications of the fire at that time.

A number of the members later reported that they had felt uncomfortably warm while sitting in the choir loft during the morning services. Bogata Fire Chief, Berney Huddleston stated, "It was really scary, because something could have happened right in the middle of Sunday School and church. I'm just thankful it didn't and I'm awfully grateful for all the help from Talco and Deport."

A possible cause of the fire suggested by Rev. Bob Posey, pastor of the church, was an electrical short. "However," he added, "that's just a guess." Pastor Posey also speculated that the fire might have happened as a result of some lightning damage which had occurred three or four months ago.

According to Pastor Posey, the insurance company is now working on the adjustment procedures. A building committee is to be elected Sunday, November 30, but no work will actually be done until the settlement is made. "We will definitely rebuild," stated Rev. Posey, "but all the details of the rebuilding will be worked out at a later date."

Services of the church are presently being held in the gymnasium of the First Assembly of God Church in Bogata.

HELPING OUT-The Deport Volunteer firemen were on hand to help the Bogata volunteers Sunday afternoon, as fire completely destroyed the First Baptist Church of Bogata. Discovered only minutes after church services were concluded, the blaze was out of control immediately. Deport, Talco and Bogata battled the blaze for several hours. (Staff Photo)

Presbyterian Women Meet

Presbyterian Women of the Deport Presbyterian Church met Tuesday evening, November 11 in the home of Mrs. Ray Woodard.

Mrs. Farris Read, president, opened the meeting with the Mission Yearbook of Prayer. She discussed how 20 families in the University Presbyterian Church in Seattle, Oregon moved their membership to Ravenna Presbyterian Church which was about to close its doors forever. These families helped create new interest in the church and started to grow again. Rev. John (Ted) Schult is pastore of this church where the old members and new members are working together to claim God's promise in Revelation 21:5; "Behold I make all things new".

Following a short business meeting, Mrs. Read directed the Thank Offering program. This is the annual Thank Offering program held in November of each year. Reba Temple presented a report on "European Women Risk Keeping the Faith".

Helen Moore discussed "Continue the connection, wait for eighty-eight", which explained the ways

Presbyterian women from the former U.S. church and the U.S.A. church will combine the two programs when the voting is over in 1988, and decisions are made and procedures are established. The U.S. church and U.S.A. church have merged and formed the Presbyterian Church (USA).

The Thank Offering was collected and Mrs. Read led the srvice for the dedication of Thank Offering. Over $700,000 was given to this offering in 1985 and was used to fund 133 projects that in some way will benefit hurting people in most of the 50 states and at least 20 countries.

This is an opportunity for Presbyterian Women to minister to those who are passed by. It is an act of love, and thankfulness for our many blessings.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

During the social hour, the guests were seated at the dining table which held a Thanksgiving centerpiece and Mrs. Woodard served refreshments of ham ball, crackers, chips, coffee and pie.

Home Cable To Present Free Week

This holiday season every basic cable subscriber will have a chance to sneak a peek at the Disney Channel for an entire week, November 17 through 23. Everyone can tune in and wrap themselves in the fond memories of Disney from their own childhood, while their children begin to build their own memories.

The preview features the Disney Channel's high quality children's and family programming and several exclusive premieres, such as "What A Day For A Daydream", the new John Sebastian concert, and "Happy Birthday, Mickey", a special salute to Mickey's 58th birthday.

Home Cable TV will present "Sneak-A-Peek Week" on cable channel 6. Also airing during the preview are the adventure epic, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea", starring Kirk Douglas and James Mason, and the animated Disney classic "Ichabod and Mr. Toad."

To subscribe to the Disney Channel, call 784-0991. Home Cable TV is offering to install the Disney Channel for only 99 cents until December 31. Anyone who does not have basic cable service at this time may also take advantage of this 99 cent installation offer when they subscribe to basic cable and both the Disney Channel and HBO. This is a savings of $24.00 on the normal basic cable installation fee.

New subscribers between now and December 31 will also receive a gift for themselves, a free "Captain EO" wristwatch, valued at $17.95. Captain EO is Disney's new 3-D musical space fantasy film starring Michael Jackson, directed by Francis Ford Coppola and produced by George Lucas. Captain EO is shown exclusively at Disneyland and Walt Disney World's Epcot Center.

The Disney Channel, a subsidiary of The Walt Disney Company, is the nation's fastest growing pay cable service, with more than 2.55 million subscribers.

Feeding the Garden
There is nothing better than compost to feed a garden. It can only be made, it cannot be bought in stores. Grind onion skins, peelings, eggshells and leftover vegetables in a blender, then sprinkle around the garden. Coffee grounds are good too. Large plastic containers, like the ones ice cream come in, make fine storage bins for collecting compost in the kitchen.
