My brother, Hugh, the local Folk Hero! Just wait until I get the opportunity to introduce him to some strangers sometime. I'm gonna really embarrass him. I'll just introduce him as the local folk hero made famous by the Detroit, Michigan

How did this come about? As the result of the bank robbery a few weeks ago. Apparently Ann Sweeney, a writer for the Michigan paper, was passing through right after all the excitement about that robbery. She stayed around long enough to do a feature article on Detroit, Texas, as opposed to the giant city up north.

The article definitely takes a few liberties with facts, and paints Detroit, Texas as a real live western Robberies, Sweeney says, jumped 100 percent (from none to one) with the Community National Bank of Detroit's armed gunmen arriving to steal $14,500.00.

She continues "The bandits underestimated bank president Hugh Jeffus, who saw the confrontation as High Noon in the city of tractors. Jeffus took off after the robbers in his own car, running them down until they abandoned their stolen truck and took to the woods. There, authorities picked up the trail with bloodhounds. BLOODHOUNDS? They don't fool around in Detroit!"

Now, that little paragraph has caused Hugh a lot of ribbing in Detroit, his work place. That's because most everyone over there has a copy of the Detroit (Michigan) paper. Word has been a little slower filtering into Deport, his home place. I just wanted to help it alon g and spread the word a little faster so he can get as much teasing in the Deport City Drug Store as he does at the Detroit Community National Bank! (He's going to KILLLLL me!)

Of course, that isn't the paragraph that REALLY is going to bring about the ribbing. The one that's the real side-splitter is the one under his photograph. Yes, his photo, along with Pam Pellet of the local Detroit paper, a map of Texas, Dale Miller the mayor and Main Street.

And under that photo it says, in really BIG letters, "The bandits underestimated bank president, Hugh Jeffus, now a local folk hero.'

Oh, boy, hold on while I let my breath come back and wipe the tears from my eyes....now, maybe I can go

OLK hero? Come on, now

You see, I didn't think chasing after bank robbers was too smart. In fact, I thought it was downright stupid! And I'm never, ever gonna let him live down being a FOLK HERO! Oh, here I go again!!

Deport City Council To Ticket Illegal Fishing

The Deport City Council met Monday night, and one of the items on the agenda was drawing for the ballot replacement of names in the upcoming election. The drawing resulted in Jo Elmore Bryant at the top, James Short next, Gordon Isbell next and then Nancy Gresham.

A discussion of fishing permits took up some time, and the motion was made and seconded to enforce the fishing permits by writing tickets to the violators. Members of the City Council are authorized to give tickets to those fishing in the lake north of town without permits.

Kala Barnard made the motion to support the new Tort Law that is now a bill in the Texas Legislature. Nancy Gresham seconded the motion and it carried one hundred percent. The Tort Law is a bill which would prevent unnecessary or "frivilous" lawsuits against cities and municipalities.

An executive session was held to discuss insurance coverage for Sharon Francis. The Council agreed to pay $864 in insurance for the City Secretary.

The 1986 audit was approved. Minutes were approved as read, the financial report approved as presented, and payment of bills was approved.

potential, stimulating self-discovery.

The Red River Valley Fair Association is hosting a Professional Championship Bull Riding on Friday, March 13 at the Rodeo Arena in Paris, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The bull riding, produced by the Wing Rodeo Company of Bogata, TX will feature 50 professional bull riders from across a four state area.

Also, in conjunction with the bull riding competition, the first annual Red River Valley Bullfight will be held. Four bullfighters have been selected to work this first bullfight, named the "Super Challenge".

Bullfighters will be competing for 90 seconds, with the finalists of this and other Super Challenges across the area, will be eligible to compete during the 1987 Cowboys Regional Rodeo Association Finals Rodeo held in Ft. Smith, AR in October.

A total of $1,000.00 in added money has been added to the Paris Super Challenge. Each contestant in the bullfight will pay a $100.00 entry fee for the Paris match.
