

NICHOLS' WORTH

By: Nanalee Nichols

Consider the wave. No, I don't mean the curls of water found in the ocean, but the friendly hand gestures that are used to acknowledge one person to another.

There are many kinds of waves in the world...in Italy, for instance, a wave goodbye consists of pulling the arm towards the body with the palm turned in...confusing to Americans, who think they are being called BACK for some reason.

But just right here in East Texas there are numerous types of waves.

There is the whole-hearted wave, which consists of entire arm movement from side to side, fingers spread wide. In a joking mood, BOTH arms may be called into service, making the wave look much like a member of a World War II signal corps without flags.

There is the military wave...more of a salute than wave. It consists of two fingers vaguely extended from the forehead.

Some people, usually women, wave by raising the hand and wiggling fingers rapidly.

Some folks, mostly men, will extend the friendly gesture by simply raising arm and hand, palm outward, and not move fingers or hand at all.

Others get in wrist exercise by wiggling the entire hand rapidly from side to side.

Then there are the "car waves" which are a distinct art form in themselves.

Some people wave with both hands still firmly affixed to the steering wheel. They flick up a forefinger quickly, as if afraid that the car may run off with them if they relinquish their grip for just a moment.

Then there are those who go completely to the other extreme, throw caution to the wind and take both hands from the wheel to wave frantically. In between is the most common form, one hand from the wheel to wave with while the other still remains in control of the auto.

But what happens when both hands are tied up? When one is busily engaged in some project, ranging from grooming a steer at a calf show to typing by the office window on Main Street?

Then, of course, enters the nod. And nods are very expressive. There is the quick jerk upward, the up and down several times nod, which is frequently accompanied by raised eyebrows and a big grin, and the slightly irritated, "Yes, I see you but I'm busy right now" head jerk, which is more of an acknowledgement than a friendly move.

Yes, there is a wide spectrum of waves...but they all have one thing in common...they are a quick, expressive way to say hello when distance or circumstances prevents verbal communication. Waving...it's a basic part of the English language...body language, that is.

Brothers Enjoy Delving Into The Past

By Mollie Williams

Local brothers, Donnie and Deon Williams, spend a lot of their free time digging in various areas of Red River County searching for arrowheads and other artifacts. The boys recently unearthed several pieces of Indian pottery which date back many centuries.

According to Mr. and Mrs. D.R. Williams, parents of the boys, their eldest son, Donnie, was born with a natural interest in digging for buried treasures. They recall that as a small boy he would spend hours digging in the back yard of their Odessa, Texas home, always expecting to find something. They laughingly tell of the time when he was five years old and persuaded two neighbor friends to help him dig to hell. As Donnie began to tell friends what they would find once they reached their goal, the boys became frightened and ran home. Their mother promptly called Mrs. Williams and angrily advised her to warn Donnie to keep his interpretations of hell to himself.

During summer vacations and at Christmas time, the Williams family visited relatives in Red River County. During one of these visits, the boys grandfather, Travis Williams, told Donnie about finding arrowheads near a farm on which he and his parents, George and Ada Williams, had been sharecroppers. This information, coupled with his natural desire, motivated Donnie to spend more and more time digging.

Donnie's consistency and determination in searching for things of value didn't actually begin to pay off until the Williams family bought a grocery store and moved to Clarksville, Texas in 1972. While his parents worked in the store Donnie occupied himself with digging in an area beside the store building where an old washateria had once stood. He found old coins, rings, pins, and some broken pieces of gold plated china.

Donnie found his first arrowhead on a catfish farm in Oklahoma while passing the time as his dad bought fresh fish for the store. Later he found several more arrowheads on the building site of the Assembly of God Church parsonage in Bogata, and with these, Donnie began his arrowhead collection.

The Williams family built a home at Pine Branch on the old Mauldin place in 1975. While helping his dad build a gate there, Donnie spied a tomahawk head lying nearby. He learned later that the tomahawk was made by the Caddo Indians which once inhabited this area. This new knowledge sparked a special interest to learn about the early civilization of Indians in the area.

He became an avid reader of biographies, novels of early Texas settlers and books about Indians. In later years Donnie was given the privilege of visiting the Caddonian Indian Museum in Crockett. He learned from information gained there that most of the arrowheads in his collection were made by the Caddos. Although the Caddo Indians were mostly farmers, they could become savage when protecting themselves. Another interesting fact he learned from the museum was that the Caddos practiced cannibalism. If an unhealthy, deformed or undesired child was born, the parents would use the child for food!

By this time, Deon, the younger Williams brother, was old enough to go with Donnie on his digging expeditions, and from the influence of his older brother, he too, developed a great interest in digging and began his own collection of findings...arrowheads, tomahawk heads and other items.

The many years of digging and constantly scanning areas in search of artifacts developed into a special knack to spot items usually overlooked by most people. A common saying among the family and friends is "If you need something found, just call Donnie". His parents acknowledge that on a number of occasions while riding with them, Donnie would look out the passenger's window of their pickup and spot arrowheads along the road. At first they thought his preoccupation with his hobby was causing him to act irrationally, but after relenting to his pleas to stop, they found that he had truly found arrowheads!

Deon tells of the time when Donnie was riding his bicycle down a paved road and found an arrowhead partially stuck in the pavement. Apparently it had been dumped out with the gravel as pavers worked on the road.

With Donnie and Deon spending so much time digging, their collections have become quite large. Digging at the Cross Arrow Ranch in Maple Community, Deon discovered another tomahawk and Donnie found several "Apache Teardrops". Studies revealed that these transparent purplish-black rocks were brought into the area by Northwestern Indian tribes. The rare stones were used as money in trading by the early tribes. Other findings include small clay balls used as rattles in gourds, hard bags of buffalo hide or tortoise shells which served as drums for the Indians. They have found stones used for grinding corn for food and herbs and roots for medicine. A shark's tooth and a tiger's tooth are included in Donnie's collection and he believes that these were probably worn on a necklace by an early day Indian. The arrowheads found are made from petrified wood, bone, pine sap, soft flint, hard flint, quartz and obsidian. The most recent and perhaps the most valuable findings include several pieces of Indian pottery, some of which are in perfect condition.

The pottery was found in Red River County, buried under about two feet of earth. A white substance filled about one third of one of the bowls, and inside another bowl Donnie and Deon found an arrowhead. Digging in the same mound, Donnie unearthed several bones which a medical doctor later declared to be human.

Donnie says he can tell about how old his findings are by the number of layers of ground soil under which the items are buried and the technique used to make the arrowheads. He says that each layer of artifacts will be different. Arrowheads found in the bottom layer are usually more crudely made than the other layers, testimony that these layers are remains of different tribes and different eras of time. Donnie and Deon use a trowel for most of their digging and have learned from experience to dig carefully so as not to mar the items.

In judging where to dig, Donnie looks for sandy places near creeks or rivers. He also looks for high places or mounds. These mounds were here the Indians usually built their adobe or grass huts.

Along with their archaeological hobby, the men enjoy playing gospel music, talents which they use at the Assembly of God Church in Bogata, where they are both members. Donnie plays lead guitar and Deon plays percussion. The brothers also enjoy fishing and again their special abilities of seeking out hidden things are shown in the number of catches brought home from each trip.

Donnie is now married and he and his wife, Tina, have a 15 month old daughter, Kristen Noel. They live on Clarksville street in Bogata. Deon is a sophomore at Rivercrest High School and lives with his parents in Pine Branch community.

Although the brothers both have busy schedules with work, school and church activities, they still manage to find time each week to do what they enjoy most, pursuing a glimpse into the past through archaeology.

DONNIE AND DEON Williams have acquired a large collection of arrowheads, Indian pottery and other artifacts through their hobby of archaeology. Most of the items in their collections were found in various areas of Red River County. (Staff Photo by Mollie Williams)

Where Are The Wildflowers?

With spring in the air, wildflowers are blooming abundantly along Texas roadsides. Bluebonnets, Indian paintbrushes, pink evening primroses and phlox present a vibrant display of Mother Nature's harvest of hues.

But where do the wildflower seekers find their favorite tapestries of color as the blooming season progresses into summer?

For the many motorists who will be scouring the countryside looking for the most colorful displays, the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation provides a special service. Representatives in the department's 24 district offices have available the locations of the most bountiful wildflowers in their districts. The department's 11 tourist bureaus also have this information.

With more than a million acres of highway right-of-way to maintain, the highway department is the nation's largest landscape gardener, giving Mother Nature a little help through native plant and wildflower seeding programs. The programs, in all 254 of the state's counties, cut maintenance costs, save water, and also control soil erosion on the roadsides.

"All the conditions are right to have an outstanding year for wildflowers," said Craig Steffens, supervising landscape architect for the department. "The late freeze confused the plants, but we're just now having warm nights which will tell the plants to burst out in beautiful colors."

A treasure that endures

Harmonious detail and design make the Waterford a classic floor clock in its own time. A profiled arched bonnet displays three Carpathian elm burl overlays, complementing the raised book-matched Carpathian elm burl panel with dentil molding at the clock base. Both front and sides invite viewing of the large brass lyre pendulum through beveled glass. The clock face is a study in beauty with its arched brass, moon phase dial and raised Arabic numerals. Your choice of Westminster, Wittington, or St. Michael chimes is played by a cable-drive, triple chime movement. Finally, a brass plate is included to be engraved with the owner's name and date of purchase.

Presbyterian Women Meet

Presbyterian Women of the Deport Presbyterian Church met Tuesday, April 14 in the home of Mrs. John Moore.

Mrs. Farris Read, president, opened the meeting with the Mission Yearbook of Prayer. She discussed the mission work being done in Greenbrier, West Virginia. She reported many of the 126 churches were destroyed by floods in November, 1985. The immediate needs of rescue, shelter, food, clothing, health care and clean up were met by emergency programs and organizations as well as volunteers from Presbyterian churches. Members of the Presbytery lift up their hearts in praise for the renewal that has come through the response of faithful disciples.

Mrs. Sam Rice gave a report on the meeting of Presbyterian Women in Grace Presbytery held at Austin College in Sherman on April 11. This meeting was attended by Mrs. Rice, Helen Moore, Reba Temple and Jessie Marie Woodard. Elder Michal McKenzie was the principal speaker at this meeting. Ms. McKenzie is vice Moderator of the 198th General Assembly. She gave an interesting report on the Gift Center, a storefront based ministry in a predominantly black, inner city neighborhood in Rochester, New York. She is presently director of this mission program.

Miss Edith Fuller gave the devotion of the Least Coin, and this offering was collected.

Marilyn Singleton presented the Bible Study, "Remember and Go Forth". She discussed "Life Under the Covenant", stating God chooses to be in the covenant with us and has renewed this repeatedly throughout the bible. We find the creator entrusting human beings with much power and authority to rule, giving much to the stewards of the world and from these stewards much is expected.

Mrs. Singleton closed with prayer, asking God's strength and wisdom in all our relationships.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Patriots Record At 8-1

By James VanDeaver
 Friday evening at Clarksville, the Prairiland Patriots defeated the Tigers 9 to 8 to up their district record to 8 and 1.
 In the top of the first inning, third baseman Martin Babb led off the game by lining a single to centerfield. After Babb had stolen second base, Richard Eatherly reached first base on an error. On the late throw to first, Babb came sliding home with the first run of the game. Following a ground out by Jack Kindle, Steven Johnson drove in Eatherly with a sacrifice. Although the next two hitters failed to reach base, the Patriots held a 2-0 lead after half an inning.
 Unfortunately, the Tigers also scored runs in the first inning. With Jack Kindle on the mound for the Patriots, the Clarksville lead-off man reached base via an error. After the next four out of five hitters picked up bases, the Tigers had a 4-2 lead. Fortunately, the next two hitters grounded out and struck out to end the inning.
 With one out in the top of the second, Wade Sparks singled and advanced to second base on a wild pitch. One out later, Babb scored Sparks with his second single to centerfield.

After Eatherly was hit by a pitch, Jack Kindle got a base hit on bad hops which scored Babb and Eatherly all the way from first base. Steven Johnson ended the inning with an out but the Patriots had the lead back at 5-4.
 Once again, the Tigers proved to be good at catching up in the bottom half of the inning. After a lead-off walk, the next batter hit a slow roller which Kindle failed to field cleanly. Although the next batter hit into a force, the fourth hitter in the inning singled to right field to score a run. On the play, the Patriots caught a Tiger living dangerously and threw him out at third. The inning came to a close when first baseman Mike Blackburn caught a foul ball. After two innings, the game was knotted up at 5-5.
 Following a Blackburn out in the top of the third, Giovanni Scarano reached first on an error and then stole second base. P.G. Morrison continued the Patriot success when he singled to left to score Scarano. Although the Tigers got the next two outs to end the inning, the Patriots reclaimed the lead at 6-5 after two and one-half innings.
 In the bottom of the fourth inning, after an initial ground out, the Tigers got in scoring position with a triple. On a ground out to shortstop Carey Borden, the Tigers tied up the game at 6-6. The inning came to a close on a fly-out to Sparks in centerfield.

 As fate would have it Friday, the Tigers kept coming back throughout the game. Following back to back walks and an error, the Tigers had the bases loaded with no outs in the bottom of the fifth. The Patriots then got two quick outs. However, the next batter singled in two runs and the Tigers once again had the lead at 8-6.
 In the top of the sixth inning, with one out, Babb reached base on a single to rightfield. Eatherly then moved Babb to second when he followed with a duplicate single. One out later, after Johnson was intentionally walked, Blackburn hit a sharp single to left to plate both Babb and Kindle. Scarano picked up the final and winning run of the game when he scored Johnson with a single. After five and one-half innings, the Patriots had a 9-8 lead.
 The final inning in a half were scoreless. Mike Blackburn got the last six outs of the game with very good pitching in relief.
 In a game dominated by offense, Babb was the leading hitter of the day as he went four for five at the plate.

Blossom Locals

By Mrs. Marvin Bruce
Mr. and Mrs. Tom Garrett visited Mrs. Clara Gable Thursday. Pete Skidmore is some what improved but is still in guarded condition in the hospital. Mrs. Ethel Jackson is at home with a fractured bone in her foot. She will be away from her job as site manager for the Senior Citizens Center for a while. We will miss her.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bruce attended the funeral of L.D. Rainey Saturday in Commerce. We would like to extend our sympathy to the Rainey family of Klondike. Mr. Rainey had lived in Delta County all his life.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Garrett visited Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Kincaid recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Evers and family of Van Alstine visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Weddle over the weekend.

Mrs. Mable Parker was honored Sunday, April 26, as a fifty year member of the Blossom Church of God. She and her four children, Mrs. John (Faye) Shores, Mrs. Herschell (Minnie Lee) Shands, Mrs. Junior (Pauline) Weddle and Haskell Booth sang a special song with Mrs. Parker. She also received a plaque. She has been a member longer than any other living member.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Skidmore of Dallas were here to attend his father, who is in the hospital in Paris.

Mrs. Nedra Elvington of Paris visited her mother, Mrs. Ruby Ray, who has been ill Saturday and while she was there, she cleaned Mrs. Ray's house for her then Nedra came down and had lunch with her mother, Mrs. Ray, Sunday.

Jack and Nelda McQuigg of Honey Grove visited Mrs. Ruby Ray Monday.

George Henderson of Hugo, OK, a son-in-law of Mrs. Ruby Ray, spent Wednesday with her and got caught up on a lot of odd jobs for her.

It was good to see several of our senior citizens back with us today. Mrs. Raye Outland was back after eye surgery and Mrs. Howard (Ruby) Crawford was back after being ill and out for a while.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gauntt of Edgewood visited her dad, Homer White in the Deport Nursing Home and her brother, Mr. and Mrs. James White, last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bruce attended the Stone family reunion at the Mesquite Community Sunday, April 26. There were about 20 direct descendants of the Stones at the gathering and two visitors present.

By Aileen Herron and Lottie Vickers

Cory and Ashley May, Mr. and Mrs. Jelly May visited Ruby Dickerson last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forbis visited her mother, Mildred York Wednesday also Bill Lane visited Mildred.

Minnie Lee Shand, Pauline Weddle and Lorri, Melita May had lunch with Mabel Parker Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Herron visited Lottie Vickers Sunday afternoon.

Morene Bradley spent the weekend in Longview with Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Bradley and family and they shopped Saturday in Longview and returned home Sunday afternoon.

Ione Woodard and Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Couch visited Edd Clark, Mr. Crenshaw and Virgie Jarnigan at St. Joseph Hospital Sunday and also visited Randy Wright and Pete Skidmore in McCuiston Hospital.

Ione Woodard visited friends at the Cherry Street Nursing Home Saturday.

Pat Hailey, Mr. and Mrs. Don McCarty visited Dorothy Wilson
