The other day I witnessed two children getting an education. They had their major lesson in a cemetery...

Lest you think this is morbid, the purpose of the cemetery visit was to take some photographs of bluebonnets at their peak.

But with a 10-year old nephew and an 8-year old friend, the visit turned into something of a treasure hunt.

They started out looking at some of the "old fashioned" names carved into the headstones. They were fascinated by the Woodsmen of the World markers with their stone "logs".

Then they began to read the dates. When they found one with World War II on it, and the deceased's name and rank, it was as if history became alive for them.

I assured them that if they kept looking they would find graves of soldiers from World War I as well.

Shortly there was an exclamation of excitement, typical of a 10-year old, "Nanalee, come look at this absolutely COOL grave." (I never thought of gravestones in exactly those terms.)

The grave they had found was of a Confederate soldier. Their eyes were big, their active minds impressed. Then the real lesson began to sink in. For they discovered that lambs and angels usually marked the graves of infants and children.

To today's modern youngster, the concept of so many children dying is simply inconceivable. We had a little talk, about how infants died from unpasteurized milk, from pneumonia, from smallpox and scarlet fever.

I pointed out to my nephew that at Christmas when he underwent emergency appendicitis surgery, his biggest problem was missing Christmas morning at home. Back in the early part of the century, he would have died.

They grew more and more thoughtful as they scamped from marker to marker...trying to find the oldest grave, the most unusual grave.

They had a wonderful time...and came away with a new perspective on life...that families go on for many years...that modern medicine truly saves lives...that people once lived, loved, fought and played just as they do now.

I believe they truly have a feeling of continuity with their ancestors now. What started as a simple picture-taking expedition turned into an experience for us all.

Patriots Keep Playoff Hopes High

By Harold Morrison

The Patriots played the Clarksville Tigers on Tuesday night, May 10, and won the game 9-5. Mt. Vernon lost their game on Tuesday. Prairiland will meet Mt. Vernon on Friday, May 13. Should Prairiland beat Mt. Vernon, and Clarksville lose their game on Friday, the Patriots will have a shot at the district title.

At the Prairiland Sports Banquet, Coach Bill Scudder told the audience that the Pats would win their remaining five games and make the play-offs for the seventh year in a row. After Friday's win over Paul Pewitt, that number dropped to two.

Jack Kindel and Martin Babb combined for a three-hitter and the Patriot bats slashed out eleven hits in an 11-1 victory.

Wade Sparks, Kevin Mowery and Shannon Baker led the hitting attack with two base hits each.

Giovanni Scarano blasted a three run home run and Steven Johnson belted a triple.

Deport City Council Meets

The Deport City Council met in regular session Monday, May 9.

Foster and Donald Crawford.

Election votes were canvassed, minutes read and approved and payment of bills approved.

Correction Facility Could Locate In Red River County

The prospect of several hundred new jobs for Red River County was the subject of the day at the May 9 meeting of the County Commissioners' Court.

Corrections Concepts, Inc. ("CCI"), a non-profit corporation founded by a group of prominent Baptist laymen-businessmen, has been offered a contract by the Texas Department of Corrections to train and prepare 500 non-violent prisoners, all within 24 months of completing their sentences, to return to productive life on the civilian economy.

CCI is considering a site near Red River County General Hospital for housing the trainees and to provide training facilities. The site would also enclose an industrial plant at which trainees would be gainfully employed while learning skills that would assure them employment (most probably near their original homes) upon release.

The site under consideration, some three miles from Clarksville, is about thirteen miles from Bogata and fairly close to the "center of population density" of the County. As many as six "satellite plants" would be located nearby to provide additional training and employment to the trainees.

The central site would mean about three hundred new jobs for Red River County residents, and the satellite plants could mean several hundred more. If it becomes an actuality, the project will give a much-needed boost to the county's sagging economy.

At Monday's Commissioners' Court meeting, CCI representatives told the Court that it needed a "Certificate of Participation" from the County in order to qualify for the TDC contract.

On the initiative of Commissioner Drue Pirtle of Jothtown, the Commissioners told CCI that the Court would be ready to provide such certification if the County could be assured that it would be free of financial and other liability. A letter to this effect is being prepared on an urgent basis.

County Judge L.D. Williamson, who is also president of the County Industrial Commission which seeks to attract industrial jobs, told The News that he was confident that problems facing the project could be solved. In addition to the question of the County's liability, CCI must be assured that an adequate supply of water can be delivered to the site.

Should the project go forward, construction could begin "very soon" at the central site. Financing for site acquisition and construction has been lined up by CCI, and the plant would eventually become the property of Red River County, free and clear.

Cool Weather Contributes To Insect Problem

By Herb Brevard

Cool weather has contributed to some heavier insect populations in vegetable crops than normal. The aphid population has been extremely high and needs to be controlled. Aphids can transmit disease to other plants and reduce plant vigor. Sprays containing malathion, diazinon and insecticidal soaps may be used to control aphids.

Thrips cause a curling of the leaf tissue on peas and beans a delay maturity because of damage to the growing terminal. Commercial growers who control thrips with insecticides can harvest about a week earlier than those who do not use insecticides. Malathion, diazinon and Cygon are approved for thrip control.

Squash bugs are not hard to control if control measures are started early enough. The insect overwinters in the adult stage and invades the squash or cucurbit plant shortly after it begins growth. Eggs are laid on the underside of the leaf. The eggs are amber color and triangular in shape. Control should be started when the eggs hatch. Small squash bugs are green with black legs. Sevin and Thiodan may be used for control.

Fire ants are common nuisance pests in vegetable gardens. No baits can legally be used inside the garden. Sevin, diazinon and malathion can be used as a drench or in the granular form in the garden.

If you're shopping for a new cooling system, understanding "SEER" can help you choose an energy-efficient model.

"SEER" — or Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio — is an efficiency measure calculated for air conditioning equipment. Higher ratios mean greater efficiency.

Texas-New Mexico Power Company recommends that units have a "SEER" of at least 9.0 and that they're properly sized to serve the areas you need to cool.

Grafting Clinic Set

By Paul D. Payne

Individuals desiring to learn the art of grafting pecan trees will want to attend the Lamar County Grafting Clinic Saturday morning at Crawford's Pecan Orchard at Forest Chapel at 9:30 a.m. The orchard is in the Red River bottom north of Forest Chapel. Be looking for direction signs on FM 197.

Instructor for the clinic will be Herman Lynch of New Boston, a retired county agent of over 30 years and will be showing those in attendance tyree types of grafting, inlay, four flap and bark.

A $3.00 registration fee will be charged. Participants should bring a sharp knife, step ladder and other equipment needed as they will do actual grafting at the clinic.

A field meeting will be Friday, May 20 at the site of the County Wheat Variety Demonstration in Brookston at 9 a.m., located on land owned by A.W. Shelton at the intersection of FM 38 and 1509, the demonstration contains 13 varieties.

It appears that May 25 will be acceptable to spray pecan trees for control of the Pecan Nut Casebearer. Entomologist at Texas A&M predicted that 10% of adult emergence will occur about May 14 along the Red River and that on about May 27 the first significant nut entry by the casebearer will occur.

The infestation of aphids is severe on just about anything that grows this spring. They are the ones that are responsible for the sticky droppings on vehicles and lawn furniture. In order to control oen will need to spray the entire tree with an insecticide such as Malathion or Diazinon. Either of these insecticides can be used on ornamentals and vegetables. Consult the label for rates and time limitations.

Votes in the beef referendum will be counted May 24 in every county in the United States. The reason for the two week delay is to give individuals to challenge the eligibility of the voter and for the County ASC Committee to check the challenge. All challenges must be in writing to the ASC office by May 12.

Help For Back Pain

Are you waking up with a backache? Check your mattress. An old and worn mattress may be courting back pain, according to orthopedic surgeons.

In a nationwide survey, orthopedic surgeons said a quality inner-spring mattress and box spring set is important for the prevention of back problems in adults and children. Most physicians recommended a firm to hard inner-spring mattress.

"Manufacturers' warranties vary and people differ in the way they put wear on a mattress. A good habit is to check one periodically for sags and lumps, and for any loss of support," says Arthur Grehan, executive director of the American Inner-spring Manufacturers (AIM).

"Don't give old and worn mattresses to children or adults. According to the orthopedic specialists, old hand-me-downs could encourage back problems," he adds.

When shopping for a new mattress, test the various models thoroughly. Always buy a mattress and box spring in sets. An old box spring will reduce the life of the new mattress and provide less support.

"You're better off spending a little more for better quality, Grehan says. "It's worth it if the mattress can save you a backache."
