Worth

By Nanalee Nichols

This column may plainly exceed the bounds of good taste. In fact, I know it will. I'm going to try and be as civilized as I can about the subject, but it's simply too good to pass up!

We discovered, on our recent trip to the Netherlands, that the Dutch never seem to have two toilet flush levers the same!

No, I'm not kidding, they have a wider variety of flush levers than America has baseball teams.

And, it got to be quite a game among the 20 or so of us on tour together to compare the various kinds we encountered.

"How many types can there be?", you may be wondering. Lots and lots.

There is, of course, your basic lever mounted on the tank, made out of silver metal, pretty much like ours. And there's a porcelain model very similar to that, which obviously causes no problems.

Then, there is the old fashioned "water closet" type, where the tank is mounted on the wall and a chain hangs down with a knob on the end. Those, also, require very little figuring out.

But what about the frosted glass square on the wall? Yes, that's what I said. After spending what seemed like thirty minutes scrutinizing the entire unit, I finally noticed this four inch square white frosted glass panel inset into the tile wall at about shoulder level. It had Dutch instructions, and a tiny little picture of a hand on it. So, adventurously, I placed my hand on the glass, and was rewarded with the desired results! When four or five of us gals met back on the bus to a woman, we were ready to comment about THAT one!

Then, there was the lever mounted under the tank for foot use.

And the little rubber "bump" on the floor.

And the plastic panel inset on the side of the tank.

And the lever that had to be pumped, kind of like a foot operated air pump.

And buttons, and knobs, and a bewildering variety of various mechanisms which required figuring out!

I'm not even going to go in to the various ways to wash hands, because they have quite as many different methods of turning on water faucets!

Do you know how inferior and inadequate it makes one feel to have trouble figuring out how a toilet works? After all, any three year old should be able to do THAT!

We haven't decided if they just like the variety, have few standards for plumbing to follow, or like to play games with the tourists!

I kind of favor that last one. I'm convinced that the native Dutch stand around and snigger as bewildered tourists emerge from the public rest rooms going "wow, did you see how that one worked!"

Oh well, I'm glad we could provide some entertainment, anyway.

An attractive way to save energy

A ceiling fan can do more than add to the beauty of your home. It can also increase your home's energy efficiency. During hotter months, the moving air can make a room feel cooler, even with a higher thermostat setting. In the winter, a slow-moving ceiling fan can help force warm air downward.

Susan Richey and Charles Kennedy have been awarded the national I Dare You Leadership Award in recognition of personal integrity, balanced living, and potential for leadership. The honor was presented by Dr. Gary W. Ballard at ceremonies held at Prairiland High School on May 8.

The I Dare You Leadership Award is made available each year by the American Youth Foundation in cooperation with principals, headmasters and 4-H County Agents across the country. The award was first offered in 1941 by William H. Danforth, founder of the Ralston Purina Company in St. Louis, who dared young people to achieve their highest potential and to influence others through lives of service. The award takes its name from the book, I Dare You, written by Mr. Danforth, in which he commends the balanced life of mental, physical, social and spiritual development as the backbone of leadership.

In addition to a certificate of recognition, they will receive a copy of the book, and a scholarship opportunity to attend the American Youth Foundation's National Leadership Conference at Camp Miniwanca in Michigan or Camp Merrowvista in New Hampshire. Over 8,000 schools and 4-H programs participate in the I Dare You Leadership Award each year.

Blossom Pony League Team Outpowered By Cooper

The two out-of-town teams in the Pony League in Paris met Monday night with Cooper coming away from the match with a 8-5 win over Blossom.

Cooper scored five runs off Blossom pitcher, Justin Withers, in the first inning. Blossom answered with one run when Gearl Keys walked, Withers hit a base hit and Keys scored on Cooper miscues.

Blossom scored two runs in the second inning on hits by Eldon Jackson, Isaac Unruh, Jamie Slayton and miscues by Cooper. Cooper answered with two runs in the third and Coach Jackie Whitley brought Paul Jackson from shortstop to relieve Withers and sent Withers to shortstop. With this change, the Blossom defense seemed to tighten up and Paul Jackson did a fine job on the mound.

At the end of the fifth inning, the score was 8-4 with Blossom trailing. Blossom and Cooper each scored one run in the sixth inning.

Coach Whitley then brought Jamie Slayton in to pitch to one batter and brought Swede Ladd in from center-field to finish the top of the seventh inning. Blossom made an effort to come back scoring one run in the bottom of the seventh inning before Cooper shut them down. The Cooper team showed Blossom a strong pitcher and two strong hitters that were too much for the young team.

Fine defensive plays were made by Jamie Slayton, Paul Jackson, Scotty Murray, Swede Ladd and Eldon Jackson.

Hits were registered to Gearl Keys, Swede Ladd, Paul Jackson, Justin Withers, Eldon Jackson, Isaac Unruh and Jamie Slayton.

Also seeing action with the Blossom-Deport Pony League team were Jeff Gilbert, Stephen Swaim, Jeremy Smith and Aaron Kutzer.

McDowell-Day-Russell Reunion Held

The descendants of William B. and John H. McDowell families, early settlers of Tennessee, held their first reunion on Saturday, May 19 at the Shady Grove Methodist Church. William B. McDowell, born in Stokes County, North Carolina, came to Bledsoe County, TN in 1830, and moved his family to Warren County, TN shortly after the Civil War. He was a farmer and established McDowell Cemetery in Pikeville, TN. His son was the first person buried there, John H. McDowell, who was in a stagecoach driver for Jay Walling Banking Company in McMinnville, TN.

Those attending were Wilburn and Maggie McDowell and Jo Leta Reynolds, Charles L. and Dorothy Smith of McMinnville; Bill and Sarah Day of Dallas; Bradley O'Brien of San Angelo, Dr. Stephen O'Brien, Rachael and Stephanie Euleess; Dr. Randy O'Brien, Charlotte, Courtney and Ethan of Mesquite; Ruth and Stanley O'Brien of Garland; Alpha Russell, Wallace Russell, Ruby Jones, Joe Day, Mary Brockway, James Day, Bob Day, Calvin and Judy Day, Danny and Lisa Edwards, John Marc and Jessica Semple.

A covered dish was served, pictures displayed and Ruth O'Brien invited the group to the annual McDowell reunion at Dunlap Rescue Squadron on June 9, the lunch is catered at $5.00 per person. Bill Day gave the invocation.

The McDowell home was purchased in 1865 and is located at Rock Island, TN. The reunion represented the seventh generation of this family.

Ruth and Stanley O'Brien arrived Friday to meet relatives from Tennessee, Charles and Dorothy Smith, and Wilburn and Maggie McDowell and Jo Leta Reynolds. The McDowell family visited points of interest in Dallas and a tour of West Texas before returning to Tennessee. Charles Smith visited his cousins, Charles, Helen and Juanita Boren in Paris.

Farmers Home To Begin Guaranteed Loan Program

The Farmers Home Administration is extending its guaranteed loans to community program projects, thereby expanding its lending ability, FmHA State Director, Neal Sox Johnson, said recently.

Until now, all of FmHA's loans for water and sewer systems, fire stations, health clinics and other community facilities, have been direct loans from the agency to the borrower.

Under this program, FmHA guarantees a loan made by a bank, savings and loan, insurance company, Federal Land Bank or other qualified lender against a certain percentage of loss. Since the mid-1980's, guarantees have become the major component of FmHA's farm loan program, accounting for more than 50% of all farm loans.

The 1990 fiscal year appropriations bill authorizes $74.5 million in guaranteed loans for water and waste disposal loans and $23.9 million for other community facilities on a national basis.

Prospective borrowers and lenders interested in the program should contact the Farmers Home Administration State Office at 101 S. Main, Suite 102, Temple, TX 76501 or call 817/774-1306.

Amsterdam Proves A Study In Contrast-Cultures

As we continue our trip tales we appreciate those who have expressed their pleasure in the stories we have run.

Amsterdam...the new and the old, the conservative and liberal, a city of astonishing beauty, and amazing tolerance.

As we pulled into the city of Amsterdam there was no way we could understand about this old, canal-laced city.

Our guide, Anne Marie, Said "Amsterdam is an amazing city...you can do absolutely anything here...people do what they want as long as it doesn't interfere with others". It took an evening to figure out what she meant!

But first we were introduced to the city by the best of all means...and canal cruise.

Pristine white, sleek boats ply the ancient canals of this seaport city, loaded with tourists from all over the world. And it is by far the best way to see it, for the city was designed for most of its commerce to take place by boat.

The buildings that face the canals are narrow fronted...because they used to be taxed by their width.

Elaborate facades of marble and granite top these buildings, often showing what 17th century profession the owner was engaged in. Medical symbols, tobacco symbols, sea captains and Greek statues gave the brick buildings grandeur and scope.

From the top of almost every building would protrude a simple or elaborate beam.

This, we learned, was the hoist beam used to bring everything into the building. During Holland's "Golden Age" of empire, in the 17th century, it was common for families to have their offices on the first floor, homes on the second, and warehouses on the third floor.

Thus, furniture was transported by boat to the house, lifted by hoist to the floor, and goods were warehoused in the top floors, also installed by use of the hoist.

The stair ways had to be narrow because of the narrow fronts (remember the taxation), and today when people in Amsterdam move they still use those same, three hundred year old hoist beams!

We passed hundreds upon hundreds of broad beamed boats, tied up to the canal banks. These are permanent living quarters for thousands. Some are elaborate, and complete. Others are shabby, and lit with kerosene lanterns. That's because they aren't legal, paying no rent for the space, and can't have electric hook-ups without being detected.

We sailed by the "pussy cat boat" which houses 30 to 50 of the city's stray cats, cared for by an elderly woman and supported by donations. Everywhere we looked in Amsterdam there were cats sunning themselves in windows or on ledges.

Because it was a rare sunny day, the citizens themselves were out and about, lying in the sun, painting, airing clothing, generally getting into that liquid golden light that shows in so many famous Dutch paintings.

The canals were very, very clean, with almost no litter floating on them.

We passed the Loard Mayor's house, and toured the busy harbor. Then, it was time to go and view one of the reasons for Amsterdam's wealth...diamonds. The world's diamonds almost all pass through Amsterdam. We visited a factory, where we saw the sparkling gems laid out for our inspection by the hundreds. A few of us even purchased the brilliant, fiery stones, but Thomas and I weren't among them!

As our bus worked its way through the traffic of a European city (bicycles, trams, buses and cars) we noticed that one thing different in the city was the graffiti. Everywhere there was the ugly evidence of spray cans, and one didn't have to read Dutch to know that it was very much the same here as in a big American city.

Our hotel was located on Rembrandt Square, right in the heart of town.

A statue of the famous artist stood, surrounded by tulips and trees...and casinos, peep shows, cafes and various other things!

For that is the thing about Amsterdam. They have few laws governing pornography, drugs, alcohol, or any other of the "past times" that we generally label as vices!

For country kids, it was indeed a revelation! This city of such grace, such beauty, is also a city that sports a lot of neon advertising pursuits better left unmentioned here!

We quickly came to realize that the Dutch don't necessarily approve of this...they just believe in tolerating it.

This tolerance goes back for hundreds of years, and includes religious tolerance too, but it was still difficult for those of us unaccustomed to such things to comprehend!

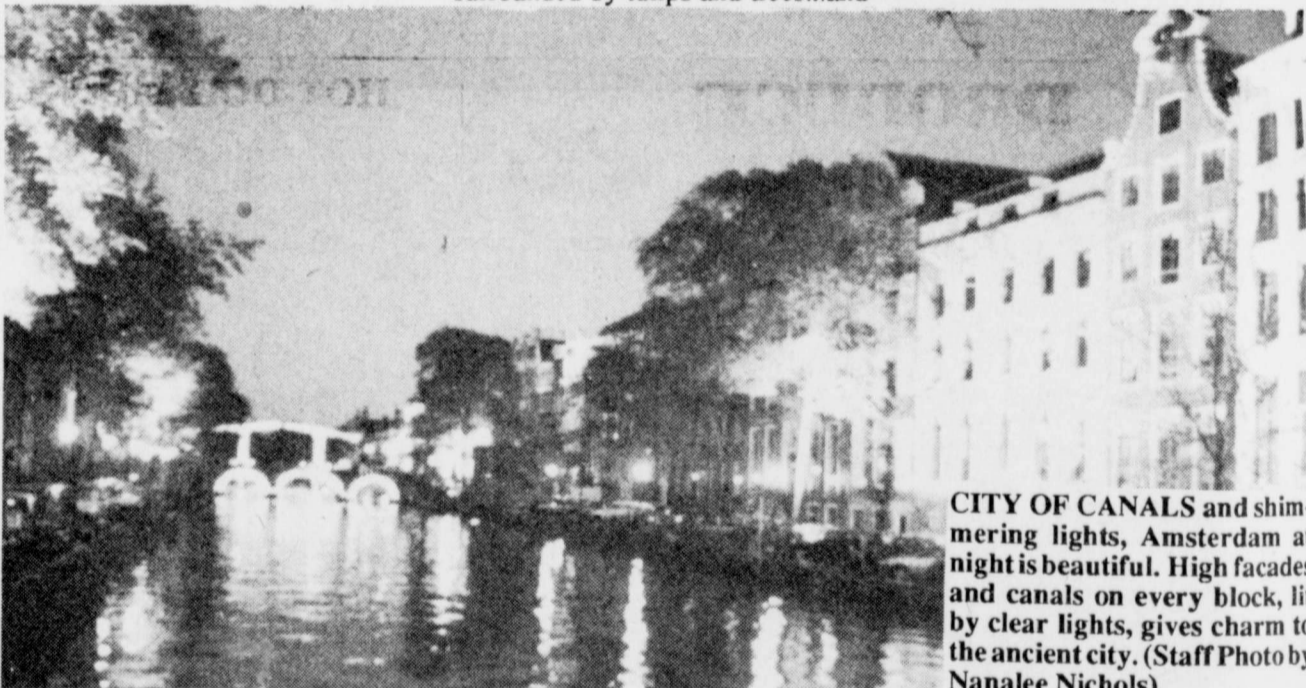

That evening, after exploring our massive, charming old hotel, about six of us got up our "nerve" and decided to go out exploring.

Soon we found ourselves paying very little attention to the garish neon signs or loud music coming from windowless buildings. Instead we were enchanted with the arched bridges and houseboats lined with clear lights, shimmering on the canals.

We walked past gardens and apartments, over ornate bridges lined with light, we walked past cafes where people sampled cuisines from around the world, and snacked on a speciality of the city, "Frites". Frites are fried potatoes, served in a rolled paper cone, hot, delicious and served with curried mayonnaise. Inexpensively sold from sidewalk stands, they were a taste treat.

Finally we began to realize that as raunchy as some things in the city were, no one was going to bother us. Like any big city we had been told to keep a close grip on purses and bill-folds, but there was no feeling of threat or danger, as there would be in some urban areas.

The biggest danger we discovered, was from cyclists, who come zooming around curves soundlessly, and make little effort to avoid gawking tourists!

CITY OF CANALS and shimmering lights, Amsterdam at night is beautiful. High facades and canals on every block, lit by clear lights, gives charm to the ancient city. (Staff Photo by Nanalee Nichols)

HOUSEBOATS-like many European cities, Amsterdam has a housing shortage. The canals which lace the city provide extra space...houseboats line virtually every inch, and serve as permanent residences. (Staff Photo by Nanalee Nichols)

-non-surgical removal of kidney stones

AN ALTERNATIVE TO SURGERY FOR KIDNEY STONE DISEASE

More than ever before, Extracorporeal Shock Wave Lithotripsy (ESWL) is being used as an alternative to surgery for kidney stone sufferers. Thousands of patients worldwide have enjoyed the benefits of this non-invasive procedure with far less pain and recuperation time than normally associated with kidney stone surgery.

The word extracorporeal means "outside the body" and lithotripsy means "to crush stones". In essence, the extracorporeal Shock Wave Lithotripter uses shock waves created outside the body to crush stones inside the body into sand-like fragments which are then naturally passed out of the body.

The benefits of lithotripsy include:

- Considerably less pain than with surgery
- Minimal complications
- Reduced recovery time

For more information on lithotripsy, consult your doctor or call McCuiston Regional Medical Center at 737-1111
