

Nichols
Worth

By Nanalee Nichols

The war of wills is just about done...and I think I've lost. Much as it pains me to admit it, I think I've been outwitted by a baby calf.

We have this bottle calf, as pretty a little white-trimmed hereford heifer as can be found.

She is currently in residence under the back carport, where she has the company of about eight cats and two dogs.

In spite of our naming efforts, she has become known as simply "Baby".

There is a daily routine. I hang the bottle in a holder off the fence, and rush to open the pen gate, rush in with a shovel, scoop up, (and anyone who knows cattle knows how much solid deposit a bovine can leave), and rush out.

Meanwhile, Baby is chowing down on that big bottle with all her might.

She doesn't pause to breathe, she simply empties that bottle.

Why do I hurry so to get out of the pen? Because if I don't get out before she runs out of milk she attacks me.

"Attack?" you ponder.

Yes. She promptly runs over and begins to suck on my leg. She can turn a pair of blue jeans into a slobbery, soaking wet mess in about three seconds.

She chases me around the pen as I try to use the scoop. She butts at me, and persists in trying to get a grip on my pants leg.

It's extremely hard to get out of the pen gate with her attached to my leg.

To avoid this I rush around inside that pen just as fast as I possibly can.

But I swear, as that claf grows, she gets faster...and faster at emptying that bottle.

And yesterday, I lost big time.

I had almost made it. I was just about to duck out the gate with my nice, smelly scoopful. And Baby looked up, saw me leaving, and targeted in.

I swear, even though she had an inch or so left in that bottle, she left it and charged me.

And I swear, there was a look of deliberate mischief in her eyes as she didn't attempt to grab my pants leg...she simply took aim and butted the scoop.

Hmmm.... the best way to say it is that "debris" flew everywhere. In my face, down my front, all over.

I didn't really hurt her, honest. I used the flat of the shovel.

Surely no one will blame me for whacking her on the backside with the shovel as she whirled around and went calmly back to her bottle?

Census Shows Deport Population Up Slightly

Deport Mayor Charles Foster has received an unofficial postcensus local review of the 1990 Decennial Census results on the population within the city of Deport.

These preliminary results show a slight increase in the town's population.

From 724 in the 1980 census the population now stands at 740.

There are 311 housing units (homes or rental properties, etc) in the city limits. Thirty-three vacant units were reported.

Mayor Foster expressed satisfaction that the census showed an increase, since many small towns are showing a population drop instead.

FIRST BALE-John Allen of Deport brought in the first bale of cotton at Blackland Prairie Gin over the weekend. Cotton yields will probably vary according to whether it was planted early or late this year, Allen says, but hopes for a pretty good crop. Allen brought in about 10 bales over the last three days. (Staff Photo by Nanalee Nichols)

There Are Reasons For Rules!

Hunting season is here. While most hunters are safe, careful and observe game laws, there are some who do not. And it's a good time for those who don't pay attention to safety or laws to think about a few things.

For some reason, there are those hunters who think game laws are stupid, or unreasonable, or simply don't apply to them.

Game laws are made so that birds and animals will have a chance to remain just that...game instead of endangered species that cannot be hunted. While it may be easy to think that "I'll just take a little more than the limit" won't do any harm, what happens when hundreds of people think that? Obviously, game population goes down.

Hunting from vehicles, spotlighting, using illegal ammunition, all are laws made for the purpose of keeping hunting a sport instead of a slaughter, or for the safety of those hunting or in the area in which hunting may be going on.

One of the most common infractions is hunting from roads and firing guns from vehicles. This is not only illegal, but every year results in livestock being injured or killed, or even more devastating, results in the injury or death of a human.

Yet another problem is trespassing. Some people apparently don't realize that they don't have the right to hunt on other people's land without specific permission.

Landowners pay for land in order that they can use it as they see fit...not to provide a hunting place for unauthorized people.

Fishing is a major problem to landowners, as some fishermen fish without permission. It's wise to remember that just because a landowner gave one person permission, that doesn't mean it's wide open for everyone!

Laws aren't passed to harass hunters, or fishers...laws are made to protect, conserve and regulate sensibly.

This season, remember, abide by the rules. It will result in a continuation of enough game for future sport...and in much safer hunting conditions!

My First Day Of School

By
Jenny Roach, Age 13

The alarm clock rang at 6:45. I got up and went and jumped in the shower. I got out of the shower and went straight to my bedroom.

I preceded to put my clothes on that I had layed out the night before.

I got on my clothes and went back to my bathroom in a mad dash just knowing I was going to be late for school.

I put on my make-up and fixed my hair. Got everything just perfect and went to put my shoes on. While putting my shoes on I glanced at the clock and it said 7:30!

Finally I got to school and headed for homeroom. When I got there I saw a new teacher and thought "what fun and mean things you can do to a new teacher that does not know us!"

Ended up she had read our life history and even knew where I lived. So there went the fun. But it turned out that she is a pretty neat teacher.

All during homeroom you could look out the door and see sixth graders wondering down the hall like they were lost. I would think "Boy, do I know what they are going through."

So I went through the morning thinking lunch time would never get there and when it finally did I ate like a starved dog.

After lunch is science and then P.E. It is an all girl class but the thing is we had a new coach that we would have to break in. So Mr. Riddles is introducing us to him and when he gets down to me he says that I'm trouble. So the guy goes around saying that I am trouble. Me of all people.

We head to the last class which is rearing and also an all girl class. We get through the class finally and head home to eat and watch t.v.

But all in all the day wasn't half as bad as it sounds. I think this year is going to be a pretty good one!

Houston Calf Scramble Positions Open

By John Senter
Enrollment for members who wish to participate in the Houston Livestock Show Calf Scramble is coming to a close and if you fit the criteria and are interested in a possible participant slot you have until Wednesday, September 12 to sign up in our office.

To be considered for a scramble position, the Houston Calf Scramble has set a few guidelines that must be met. Some of these are: participants must have reached their 12th but not their 18th birthday as of January 1, 1991 and not be enrolled past their junior year in high school; participant's minimum weight should not be less than 100# and be in top physical condition; member catching a calf may purchase either a registered beef or dairy heifer and must be willing to keep records and correspond with the show and sponsor for one year. Winners must also have suitable facilities for developing a registered heifer. Finally, winners must be willing to return to the show in 1991 and exhibit their heifer in the Houston show.

If you would like more information on exactly what goes on during a winner's year, feel free to check with Gina Harrington, Jimmy Metzger or Brian Payne. If you meet the specifics and would like to add your name, address and birthdate to the list to be considered, call the office before the deadline.

As of September 1 each year the Texas 4-H enrollment goes to zero. This means that each member, parent and leader must re enroll for the new year. According to the Texas 4-H Club Managers System, this should have been done in May of this year. If for some reason you have not done so, you need to reenroll immediately.

Another stipulation of the program is that each club in Texas elect new officers and club managers each year. If your club has not done this, it should be taken care of immediately. When the new officers and managers have been elected, each club should submit a list of the newly elected officer and manager to our office. We have several clubs that we haven't received a list from and this is important to our records so please take care of this ASAP. All new club officers, county council members and club managers take office as of September 1.

The success of each club is directly related to the involvement of the managers and officers. Whether you are a 4-H veteran or a first year member, you should rely on the leadership that these folks will provide. If you have questions feel free to call us.

Shooting Is Crime Of The Week

On Sunday, August 26, at approximately 3 p.m. at the Wal-Mart store in Paris, an unknown suspect or suspects armed with a BB or pellet gun shot Shannon Osborne in the chest. He received an injury from some sort of projectile which did break the skin and caused some bleeding.

Osborne and a friend were about to get into their car when they heard a noise that sounded like a rock hitting glass. As they got into the car, Osborne noticed damage to his windshield that had not been there before. He got out of the car to inspect the damage and at that time was shot in the chest. Damage to the car windshield was estimated at approximately $200.00.

If you have information as to who is responsible for this crime, a reward of up to $1,000 will be yours if that information is received by Crime Stoppers by September 10, and that information leads to the arrest and indictment of those responsible.

Crime Stoppers also pays for information on other felony crimes. Those calling do not have to give their names. Call Crime Stoppers at 785-TIPS.

The Army newspaper "Stars and Stripes" was first published in 1918.

FIRST FIRE TRUCK-the first Deport Volunteer Fire truck came into town during 1937. It became an immediate addition to the Christmas parade, with Faye Baughn playing Santa Claus. The young fellow with the cap is our mystery man. Anyone who can identify him, please let someone know. The man in the tie and fire hat is Dr. Brittain. The man in the brimmed hat is Tom Furgeson, barely visible behind Dr. Brittain's shoulder is Marvin Couch. Driver of the truck is Kenneth Read. The old picture was left in the seat of a current firetruck, and the donor is anonymous. The Deport fire department is asking for old pictures, to be copied, or used as they are, in a pictorial history of the department. They can be sent to Nanalee Nichols at the Deport Times, or Marilyn Glover at the City Drug Store.

Deport Junior High News

By Jenny Roach, Age 13
The year has started out pretty good so far.

In Junior High we have two new teachers to break in. Ms. Kim Evans who is the new reading development teacher.

We also have a new coach and his name is Mr. Woods. He is taking Mr Riddle's place so that he can coach at Prairiland.

The sixth graders have done pretty good this week. Changing classes is pretty tough to get used to for some of us.

The first Junior high football game is September 13 at Prairiland. Good luck guys!

Anyone wanting to put anything in the Deport Junior High news please get ahold of Jenny Roach either at school or at home. Her home number is 652-3405
