Some Little Insights As we bustle and run trying to get ready for the holidays, it's hard to find the time to slow down and smell the ...well, not roses, but perhaps the poinsettias.

I was reminded to do this last week, driving down a busy street in Paris. There was a small scene taking place in the sunny, pleasant afternoon.

There sat a lawn mower in the middle of a half mown lawn. It's driver was busy with something else, something much more important. He was throwing a football gently to three small children who laughed and scrambled through the leaves in delight. It was nice to see that having fun with those kids was more important than getting a lawn done.

During the Deport Christmas Parade Monday it was awful. Cold, we all watched in despair as signs and decorations ran, melted, fell apart and we all turned into a bunch of "drowned rats". But the joyous part was the fun everyone actually had. In spite of the weather everyone laughed, grinned and generally accepted that what cannot be cured must be endured. It was a great parade in spite of the

An employee pointed out something doesn't make a lick of sense. On the label of a box of Christmas lights..."For indoor or outdoor use only". Okay, indoor or outdoor use ONLY. Wellll, I hadn't really considered using them underwater, and that's the only place I can think of which is neither indoors or outdoors. Or, wait! I know....you aren't supposed to use half the string inside and then run the rest of the strand outside? Finally, I looked up the other day to see three small boys lined up looking in the office windows. They had the brightest, most innocent looks on their faces as they gazed in awe at Santa Claus and his computer slowly moving back and forth, back and forth. It was just wonderful to see the joy on their little faces as they chattered back and forth about the window display.

Take a little time to slow down, to look at the youngsters and their excitement, their joy and excitement. Take a little time to appreciate the beauties of the the season, and to spend time with those to whom it means so much. It brings home the true sirit of the season.

Petition circulating to save Deport Clinic

A petition was begun last week to ask McCuistion Regional Medical Center to assume the Deport Medical Clinic after St. Joseph's Hospital and Health Center made the decision to close the clinic. St. Joseph's has generously agreed to relinquish the license belonging to the clinic to allow a citizen's committee to use this as an attraction to getting another hospital interested in operating the facility.

Ron Ragan Executive Director of Business Development at St. Joseph's said "We will assist the community in any way in helping to obtain medical care in Deport. The least we can do is release the license."

The original petition has requested McCuistion to take over the facility and, if possible, keep the current staff in place. However, this does not rule out the possibility of some other hostal putting in their own personnel.

A citizens committee of Deport people has been formed. Spokesperson Nanalee Nichols says "We feel that the current staff is a definite asset to this clinic, and would make a transition easier. Nurse Practitioner Susan Scholz has many loyal patients. We are aware that anyone looking at the clinic must take all factors into consideration. Our main concern is to keep easily accessible health care available in this town and the surrounding communities"

Anyone wishing to sign a petition will find them located at Deport Times, City Drug, Darden-Sparks Department Store, Guaranty Bank-Deport, Allen's Food Mart or Deport City Hall. Signing should be done quickly, as the petitions needs to be submitted within another week walls of the Cunningham Community Center. Photos of the school and military history of the residents of the Cunningham Community grace the center, thanks to Jean Williams and her daughter, Davy Jo Williams.

The military photos date back to the Civil War, featuring John C. Cunningham, father of Sam Cunningham who founded the community by giving any family who would settle there 2 acres of land. Other photos represent Veterans of World War I, World War II, Korea and Vietnam who came from Cunningham.

belongs to Melba Baker, and the frame is made from the Cunningham School Mascot that was painted on the

Some of the old school photos were lost or destroyed, but the mother and daughter team have worked relentlessly to make copies of individual or created some of the lost and destroyed class photos at their own expense.

One large picture frame that stands out among the rest belongs to Melba Baker. The big red frame houses various photos of individuals and captures a part of the community's past. The frame is constructed from hardwood removed from the center of the Cunningham School's gymnasium. The school's mascot, the Cunningham Warrior, represented the school and the community's pride for nearly thirty years. Now it is once again a symbol of that pride.

Cunningham is typical of many communities in this area. They no longer have a school, but they still take pride in their memories. They are fiercely loyal to their community, meeting to support the fire department, or to rally around anyone who suffers a loss or disaster. They hold well-attended homecomings, meet at the center for a variety of events, and have many active churches.

The Cunningham Community Center shines with that loyalty and feeling of community which hallmarks so many of the smaller towns in this area. It is a pleasure to behold.

Please help spread the word to Red River County families that may be in need of assistance so that their children may have a Merry Christmas. All applications must be in by December 7.

Internet service affects millions of men

Millions of young men were given an easier way to fulfill a civic and legal responsibility on December 2. As of that date, 18 through 25-year old male U.S. citizens everywhere were able to register with the Selective Service System using the Internet.

Federal law requires virtually all men to register with Selective Service within 30 days of turning 18. About 1.8 million men are required to register each year. Although late registrations are accepted, a man cannot register after reaching age 26. Failure to register is a felony. Registration is linked to many federal and state benefits. Male immigrants who fail to register as required cannot obtain citizenship. Half of the states have supporting legislation which precludes men who are required to register, but who have not done so, from receiving many state benefits, like state tuition assistance, eligibility for state jobs, and enrolling in state post-secondary institutions.

Although the U.S. relies on an all volunteer military today, the Selective Service System and the registration program help America remain prepared to reinstate a timely and fair draft in a future crisis, should a draft become necessary.

Vehicle vandalism is Crime of the Week

PTO to collect Campbell Soup labels

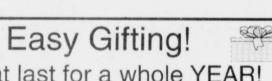

The Blossom PTO met on Thursday, November 12 and decided to sponsor a Christmas Bazaar for the students on December 11. Students will have the opportunity to shop for Christmas. Two locations willbe set up, one in the library for the junior high students and another in the cafeteria for the elementary students. Parent volunteers are bing sought to work and all parents are asked to send craft items.

Another item on the aenda was purchasing a plaque for the school. It will be mounted on the front of the school. This plaque will show that the Blossom campus is a recognized campus for their TAAS scores.

The school will also participate in the Campbell's Labels for Education. Students are asked to bring in all Campbell Soup labels, although labels are not the only product eligible for this project. A letter will be sent to each student with a list of products that can be used. This will be an ongoing project.

Among the labels accepted are any products from the following lines: Campbell products including tomato juices, Franco-American, Pace Picante, Pepperidge Farm, Prego, Swanson and V8 products.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kirk Gibson

Yohn-Gibson exchange vows

Beverly Ann Yohn of Lamar Point and Ronald Kirk Gibson of Pattonville were married in a double ring ceremony on September 16 at the First Baptist Church of Pattonville with Bro. C.G. Renfro officiating. The couple chose to be married on this date as it fell between both of their birthdays.

The bride is the daughter of Dick and Dorothy O'Gorman of Sunray. The groom is the son of Granvel and Helen Gibson of Pattonville and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. A.I. Chandler and the late Mr. and Mrs. R.F. Gibson.

The bride wore a western style ivory broomskirt with matching lace covered jacket and a western hat with a trailing lace band. She wore matching lace-up boots to complete her outfit. The bride wore the grooms' mothers' old heirloom wedding band on her right hand in fulfilling the tradition of wearing something both old and borrowed.

The bride's bouquet of white, blue and violet flowers was made by the groom. Kirk also made the bride's attendants' bouquets and the flower girls' basket. He made the wedding invitations, bookmarkers and thank you notes on his computer.

The wedding song was "From This Moment On", by Shania Twain. Daphnia Downs served as music coordinator for the wedding.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, Dick O'Gorman. Attending as Maid of Honor, for her sister, was Mary Tadlock of Stinnett. Also attending as bridesmaid was Beverly's other sister, Margaret Contreras, also of Stinnett. They wore matching broomskirts of blue and violet with ivory colored blouses and western boots to complete their ensemble.

The bride's daughter, Kelly Yohn, served as flower girl. The groom put a ring on her hand to symbolize their joining as a family.

The best man was the groom's brother, Dale Gibson, of Lake Jackson. The groomsman was the groom's nephew, Nathan Gibson, of Houston. Serving as ushers were Brad Barton of Borger and the bride's son, Joe Yohn.

The couple took their vows in front of an archway of white and blue roses that the groom designed. They lit a unity candle to symbolize their union. The bride and groom gave their respective mother-in -law's each a red rose to symbolize the uniting of their families.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church after the ceremony. The wedding cake was a sheet cake with two large heart shaped cakes on each side with white icing an ivory trim. One heart was adorned with an elevated bride and groom surrounded with white doves. Hostesses for the reception included Loretta Robison of Paris and Brenda Gibson of Pattonville.

The couple danced at the reception to the song "The Keeper of the Stars" and exited the reception to the sound of "Happy Trails".

Following a wedding trip to Beavers Bend, the couple will live outside of Pattonville.

The bride is a graduate of Stinnett High School in Stinnett and is employed by McCuistion Regional Medical Center of Paris in Environmental Services.

The groom is a graduate of Prairiland High School, Paris Junior College and Texas A&M at Commerce. He is employed by Earthgrains as a machine operator.

Don't forget, until December 31, the papers are on sale now.

Only $16 ($2 off the regular price) for Lamar, Red River or Titus Counties, or only $19 ($2 off) anywhere else, the paper makes a great gift for everyone. The elderly love to keep up with visiting and grandchildren, parents and children love to keep up with school events and their photos, and everyone in between can enjoy cooking columns, fascinating features, award winning columns, and all the rest of an award-winning weekly newspaper.

The price is great for a year-long gift. See our full page ad in this edition.

Don't forget to renew your own subscription.

The US Post Office has promised that they are going to try and improve the periodical class mail delivery, which has, since they "restructured" two years ago, declined.

Also, many local subscribers will find that they have been receiving a newspaper thrown in their ŷard. This is in hopes that they will clip out the handy coupon in the full-page ad in this paper and begin a subscription.

Subscription will continue to come in the mail, the thrown delivery is just during the holiday season, and is in addition to the usual mail delivery.

Drake-Jerguson exchange wedding vows

Todd and Bill Ferguson and Brittani and Steven Drake announce the marriage of their parents, Linda Drake of Bogata, to James Ferguson of Meeker, CO on December 5.

The wedding took place at the home of Maurine Womack, mother of the bride, with the Rev. Davi dNorwood, cousin of the bride, officiating.

The couple's chosen colors of red, green and white were used throughout the house. Music selections were pre-recorded by Lana Pritchard, cousin of the bride. Corsages and wedding decorations were made by Ms. Drake's mother and her aunt, Barbara Smith of Bogata:

Ms. Drake was escorted to the altar by Zackery Drake, her grandson. Attending the couple were their children, Brittani Drake and Todd Ferguson. Flower girl was granddaughter Alexandra Drake and ringbearer was Paul Burke.

Ms. Drake is the daughter of Maurine Womack of Reno and the late Steve Womack.

Mr. Ferguson is the son of Suzie Ferguson of Meeker, CO and the late Clarence Ferguson.

After a brief honeymoon, the couple will reside in Meeker.

Out of town guests were Judy Graeff, Bill Ferguson, Todd Ferguson, Brittani Drake, Tammy Drake aned Claire Carrol.

Town's assets being sold at auction

Newgulf, Texas assets are to be sold at auction Dec. 8-9, 1998. The days of company towns are coming to an end, at least in Texas. Newgulf, Texas will be sold at public auction.

Conducted by Premier Auctioneers International from Dallas, the sale will include construction equipment, trucks and trailers, a complete machine shop, and much more, such as the town's lone fire truck and an equipped ambulance.

The vintage fire truck is a 1952 Chevrolet with only 10,300 miles and has only been used in Newgulf. It comes equipped with a Champion 500 GPM Fire Pump, hose reel and hoses, ladders and bunker gear. It would make a great parade vehicle for any fire department.

Texas Gulf Sulfur Company was the original owner of the town and built it for it's employees and the company's sulfur operation on the gulf coast. Established in 1909, the town at one time housed about 4000 people and was the largest sulfur operation in the world. Prior to the record-breaking sale to investors Tommy Littlepage and Stewart

Heighten, the Newgulf officials donated the company-built school to the County, as well as the community center, and actually gave their employees the homes in which they were living.

Littlepage, one of the investors, had dealt with Newgulf Sulfur for a number of years buying and selling drilling equipment (used in sulfur mining). When the opportunity to purchase the land and assets arose, he partnered with Heighten who was a land and cattleman. After liquidating the physical assets and majority of the land, the partners plan to develop a retirement community in this picturesque area, and further expand the existing golf course.

The auction will be by color slide at the Boling Community Center, a short distance from Newgulf. Viewing of the property to be sold will begin on December 3 at Newgulf, from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. daily through the sale days.

Further information can be obtained by calling 972-870-9997 or on the internet at www.wcnet.net.

Matter of Fact Texas Agriculture Commissioner

It has truly been an honor to have served as your Commissioner of Agriculture for the past eight years.

When I first took office, I laid out a vision for the Texas Department of Agriculture that soon became our mission statement; "To make Texas the nation's leader in agriculture while providing efficient and extraordinary service." I think that during the past 96 months, we've done a pretty good job.

We've seen our industry grow to meet the challenges and demands of a global marketplace. We've seen ar increased interest and investment in processing more of our raw agricultural commodities in the Lone Star State. And we've seen a boom in research and agritechnologies that we couldn't have imagined eight years ago. Of course, we weathered a couple of droughts along the way too. It has been a busy and rewarding tenure.

As I prepare to end my administration, I may be leaving the Texas Department of Agriculture but I'll always have agriculture with me. This industry has ever been an important part of my life and will continue to be whatever the future may hold for my family and me.

My family and I want to wish each of you the very best. It has been a privilege and honor to work for an industry that holds such great promise for all Texans.

FOOT NOTES

WHEN DO YOUR FEI NEED HELP?

Most of us take pride in being able to care for ourselves. That's why do-it-yourself books- from plumbing to estate planning-can always be counted on to crowd publishers' lists of new releases. When it comes to your feet, though, there are some warning signs that should send you in search of professional nelp. You should never attempt to treat foot problems if you are diabetic, if you have impaired circulation, if an infection develops, or it allergies prevent you from using over-the-counter medications. In addition, certain physical limitations may make self-care impossible, such as poor vision, hands that are unsteady, and inability to reach the eet comfortably.

The components of the foot and eg are designed to work together, sharing the tremendous pressures of day-to-day living. When they don't work properly, though, it can cause trouble for the rest of the body, and it's time to get help. The specialized care and treatment a podiatrist provides can make an mportant contribution to an individual's total health. Conveniently located, we are here for you for whatever kind of foot and leg care you need. Please call 784-

Laser utilized in hair removal

Improvements in laser technology are making hair removal more effective and less painful.

"New technology allows the laser to pulse for a longer time and provides enough energy to destroy the hair bulb," said Dr. Martin Moskovitz. a plastic surgeon at Baylor College of Medicine and The Methodist Hospital in Houston.

Use of lasers for hair removal was approved by the Food and Drug Administration earlier this year. For the procedures, Moskovitz uses a longpulse Alexandrite laser.

"The laser has a cooling device which sprays coolant on the skin a microsecond before it flashes," Moskovitz said. "This cools the skin, making the process less painful and less likely to cause blisters.'

The laser emits a single wavelength of light that is absorbed by the brown color found in melanin, the dark pigment causing brown hair and tanned skin. Before laser treatment begins, all hair is shaved from the area being treated.

Since the skin does not have as much melanin, the laser beam passes through the skin and targets the brown-colored hair bulbs. The laser's reaction with the melanin damages the hair bulb, causing it to atrophy and later fall out.

The best candidates for laser hair removal are fair-skinned people with dark hair." Moskovitz said. "Darker skinned patients can experience a little pain and blistering because their skin might absorb some of the laser light."

By doing a test spot, you can adjust the laser's energy level and decrease the amount of temporary pigment change," Moskovitz said.

To achieve permanent hair removal, most patients require three or four treatments. During the first treatment, about 30 percent of a patient's hair bulbs will be in a resting phase with no melanin in them.

The second treatment gets the hairs that were in a resting phase, and following treatments get any other missed hairs," Moskovitz said.

Treatments take about one minute for a moustache and an hour or more for a back. Prices vary according to area treated, ranging from $200 to $1,400 per procedure.

Moskovitz cautions that laser procedures should be performed by a plastic surgeon or dermatologist.

BUFFALO ARE BACK

And A 'New' American Cowboy Rides The Range

(NAPS)—Standing on a hilltop in the Dakotas, the tribal leader speaks passionately of the buffalo's role in the culture and economy of his people. But he isn't reminiscing about a time long

The year is 1998, and Fred DuBray, founder of the Intertribal Bison Co-op, is in fact surrounded by buffalo. Slaughtered by the millions and brought to the brink of extinction in the "taming" of the American West, the shaggy 2,000pound creatures are making one of the most remarkable comebacks in conservation history-both in the wild and as a commercial enterprise. Even more notable, perhaps, is that the buffalo's resurgence is infusing new vitality into the spiritual, cultural and economic lives of Native Americans.

In 1903, only 23 buffalo were known to exist in the American wilderness, with an estimated 500 scattered in zoos and on private ranches. Today, some 2,500 buffalo roam in Yellowstone Park alone, with about 10,000 head being raised commercially by Native American tribes on 45 reservations across the Great Plains. Also, about 150,000 buffalo are in other parks and on ranches.

Among the tribal communities closely involved in buffalo herding today are the Cheyenne River Sioux Reservation in South Dakota and the Crow Reservation in Montana, where buffalo round-ups and a variety of cultural and religious festivals related to the buffalo take place. The round-up is especially exciting and dangerous. Although assisted in a limited way by a helicopter, the trial members do most of the work the traditional wayon horseback. In an ironic sense, they have become the new American cowboy.

can. And in this day and age where many societies are falling apart, we are becoming whole again. And when we see the wildlife free and wild and nourishing, then we know that we will be too.'

November is American Indian Heritage month, and the NATURE" series, produced for PBS by Thirteen/WNET in New York, helps kick off the observance November! 1 with a penetrating exploration of the role of the buffalo in tribal life, past and present. American Buffalo: Spirit of a Nation, will be seen at 8 p.m. in most places (please check local listing.)

The program is a co-production of the National Wildlife Federation, Devillier Donegan Enterprises and Thirteen/WNET. Produced, written and directed by Judith Dwan Hallet.

NATURE, which has won more than 100 awards, is made possible in part by Park Foundation. Major corporate support is provided by Canon U.S.A., Inc., Ford Motor Company and TIAA-CREF. For more information, visit Thirteen/WNET's website, wNetSta tion. at www.wnet.org/nature.

CHRISTMAS WINNER-Trystan Chapman participated in the Shining Stars Christmas pageant on Sunday, December 6. She won the Holiday Wear competition and also won a trophy. She is the daughter of Skipper and Amy Chapman of Blossom.

Buckboard Annie Saus......

So far today, God, I've done all right. I haven't gossiped, haven't lost my temper, haven't been greedy, grumpy, nasty, selfish or even overindulgent. But in a few minutes, God, I'm going to get out of bed and from them on, I'm probably going to need a lot of help!!

Gossip, pretending to have the eyes of Argus, has all the blindness of a bat.

Matter of Fact

Texas Agriculture Commissioner

It's not taught in any driver's ed course, but it is a basic three-step lesson of Driving 101: drive up to the gas pump, select the grade of gasoline you want and fill 'er up.

Over the years, the Texas Department of Agriculture has worked to ensure that when you paid for a gallon of gasoline, the pump was accurately providing a gallon of gasoline. Now TDA inspectors are looking closely at the octane levels posted at the pump to verify what you're selecting is actually making it into your tank.

Under a comprehensive octane testing program now underway, TDA inspectors collect samples for both octane and alcohol analysis during routine gas pump inspections. Those service stations found selling gasoline that doesn't match up with the posted octane levels face a fine of up to $500 per violation.

An octane rating in gasoline measures how the fuel performs in an engine. In many engines, the higher the grade the lower the probability of engine knock. For that reason, many consumers choose to spend a little more to pay for higher octane gasoline.

More than 40 states have an octane testing program. And if their experience is any gauge for Texas, then consumers here will discover that the vast majority of service stations are selling you exactly what they say.

It's a shame that TDA's strong commitment to consumer protection isn't taught in driver's ed either. But rest assured those efforts take place every day to help you steer clear of problems at the pump.

To the Editor:

This is not a criticism not of any one or the city, but I have heard there has been some criticism about the sign board on business Main and 271. Everyone I have talked to about it said they could see down 271 east well.

I have driven by several times just to see for myself and I could see past the quick store and on down where 271 makes a curve.

I am 86 years old, and I can see down the road well. So, I say anyone who can't see down 271 needs new glasses or not be allowed to drive.

While I am on the subject, I asked everyone to take a tour of the city and count the blockage on our streets. There are several places that are blocked by either cars or shrubs or beautiful trees that grow close to the ground on corners.

It seems to me we should be proud to have every new business that comes into our city and hope the old ones stay. We will be hurt enough when the new highway passes us up. Kathren E. Campbell

Merchants and All Participants,

I would like to thank each and every one of you that gave their time and participation in the 1998 Christmas Parade. It could not have happened without your help. This year's parade was a great success with all that participated in it. Due to the weather, it still went very smooth and I would like to thank you again for all the hard work you put into your floats, trucks, cars, horse drawn buggies, antique cars and etc. to make the parade a suc-

To all the merchants who gave their money and time to the parade, I can't tell you how much it was appreciated not only to me but the children. They enjoyed it very

To the judges and helpers of the parade, I would like to give my sincere thanks to each and every one of you. The parade would not have been the success it was without your help. Thank you once

Sincerely, Sharon Francis, City Secretary
