You bet, it's summer

Yes, it's hot. Yes, it's easy to sunburn. Yes, it's summer.

Funny thing about that...long about July and August summer rolls right on in. I think somewhere in the back of our minds there is the idea (or forlorn hope) that it will miss us some year.

Well, it isn't going to happen. I don't mind, however, being a sun worshiper from way back.

My poor husband hates heat with the passion only those who blister, peel, sweat and generally suffer under the sun.

But, whether you love it or hate it, this time of the year is much better this summer than it was last year. Last year at this time leaves were falling from trees, crops had long since withered and died and water shortages were imminent.

July and August in this part of Texas is a strangely rich, yet oddly colorless time of year.

The Mexican Hats, Black Eyed Susans and thistles are gone now, swept away in the heat. Only the hardy and glorious Crape Myrtle adds it's exotic plume of color to the landscape.

But underlying that is a palette of rich greens on the wide variety of trees and grasses that grace East Texas.

How welcome and cooling those greens are. How pleasant their shade.

Summer music is more silent than it was. The wild birds have raised the babies, and they no longer swoop in clouds of feathered finery around the nests. The constant calls of cardinals is muted, even the mockingbird is quieter.

But the cicada's steady drone has filled the air with a not-unpleasant sound that signals summer...long days, nights when the slightest breeze is welcome.

There is a reassurance to that steady sound of cicadas...that all is as it should be in the world.

No, summer isn't always the best season here in this part of the world.

But it is a lot nicer since the advent of air conditioning, which makes it possible to sleep at night, and ice makers and all the other contemporary aids to surviving 100 degree heat.

And summer is what summer is...a natural, normal part of the progression of seasons, with it's rewards as well as it's harsher side.

Prairiland FFA teen spends a month in Australia Ashley Doyal learns about life "down under"

When you have just finished your sophomore year at Prairiland High School, are an avid FFA member and want to do something unusual, what do you do? If you are Ashley Doyal, you go to Australia.

Ashley first learned about the possibilities of travel through Future Farmers her freshman year. There were articles in FFA Horizons that captured her interest and she set her sights on Australia.

She had to raise a total of $5,000 before she could go, and after months and months of work and soliciting funds she departed from Tulsa, Oklahoma on the first leg of a long journey. From Tulsa she flew to Los Angeles and from there to New Zealand then on to Melbourne, Australia.

There were nineteen FFA students from across the United States. They toured in Sydney and Melbourne for a number of days, then were split up and went to their host families for three weeks.

Ashley's host family lived in Shepparton and she spent one of the happiest three weeks of her life.

The mother of the Wall family, Helen, took Ashley under her wing immediately, and the whole family, indeed Wall's whole circle of friends made her welcome.

The family consisted of mom Helen, dad Jeff, and two children, a son, Simon, age 23, and a daughter Karen, who was older and only visited for a short time during Ashley's visit.

Jeff spent time teaching Ashley about the farm. They went to a rotary dairy, a cattle sale and shearing sheds. The Walls have 3,500 head of sheep, 430 cattle, five or six dogs, five or six cats, peacocks and a duck named

Yuck!

As an FFA student Ashley was fascinated with the differences in farming there and in the U.S. A rotary dairy is a huge cement circle with dividers. The circle slowly moves around and fifty head of milk cows step into their stalls. This trips a cord that puts feed into their feeder. Only two people are needed to work this operation. One puts the milkers on, then when the dairy rotates around one takes them off and the cow steps out. On that dairy there were 500 cows, and 100 of them can be milked in only 20 minutes.

At the cattle auction there are pens of cattle. Built over them are walkways on which the auctioneer walks. The pens of cattle are then auctioned off to the highest bidder.

In the cities Ashley says "McDonalds and KFC are the biggest chains there, why in Shepparton (which is smaller than Paris, Texas) there are two or three of each chain!"

But at home with the Walls Ashley delighted in the good, home cooking.

"I met lots and lots of people. I went to Church, a Christmas in June Dinner, went to movies and plays with kids my own age" she reports. "They're just the friendliest people in the world, everywhere you go."

Her host mother is the president of the Country Woman's Association and there were lots of meetings and places to go and things to do.

"I was lucky, my host family had lots of big dams, which meant that we had plenty of water for drinking, washing and bathing. One girl stayed on a farm that was so low on water they could only shower every third day" the teenager recalls.

Ashley helped feeding the bottle lambs, collected eggs from the chooks

(what Australians call chickens) and took Yuck the duck for a swim daily in the wheel barrow. For some reason, Yuck won't swim in the pond, only in the water filled wheel barrow!

She learned that the market for Murray Grey cattle had "gone bad" and that the family was working to raise only Angus cattle. She learned about wool prices and many other agricultural aspects of life in Australia.

There was always something planned to fascinate Ashley. They took her to the ocean, the Blue Mountains, a petting zoo, and many of the other traditional tourist things.

When asked what the best part of the trip was Ashley lights up. "My host family" she beams. "They were just great. I'd love to go back my senior year, in fact, I'd love to go to college there but it's too expensive."

Ashley also learned that she can do things for herself, a valuable lesson for a sixteen year old girl.

"I planned the trip, raised the money and went through some pretty strange plane changes getting to and from Australia" she explains. "I ran back and forth between terminals at one of the world's busiest airports, and found out you can even manage when they lose your baggage!"

Ashley is the daughter of Kim Doyal and David Doyal. She lives in Blossom and will be active in FFA again in the coming school year. But she will view the world from a different perspective now, having traveled half way around the world to meet and enjoy people in another country. Listening to Ashley's combination of common sense coupled with bubbling enthusiasm one suspects that her host family enjoyed her visit as much as Ashley did!

BIG, HOT FIRE!-this semi-tractor trailer loaded with activated carbon burned Wednesday afternoon, July 21 after a fuel tank came loose, dragging on the highway until it ruptured and caught fire. Deport and Pattonville Volunteer Fire Departments extinguished the blaze, which occurred on Hwy. 271 just west of Deport. (Staff Photo by Nanalee Nichols)

ARSON-these round hay bales belonging to Dalton Gibson, were burned last Wednesday morning. It is one of several round hay bale fires in the past week, and arson is suspected. Pattonville and Deport Volunteer fire departments kept the blazing hay from destroying a structure. (Staff Photo by Nanalee Nichols)

Arson suspected in hay fires

Arson is under investigation as the result of a number of round hay bale fires, which have occurred in the past few days.

Pattonville, Blossom and Deport Volunteer Fire Departments have been called out repeatedly to fight these fires.

Hay bales belonging to Mark Nations of Blossom burned first. Then, last Wednesday, July 21st, hay belonging to Dalton Gibson burned, with Pattonville and Deport fire departments responding.

On Friday night, July 23rd hay only a short distance from the previous fires burned with units from Pattonville, Blossom and Deport responding. It was reported that the hay had been on fire earlier, and put out. Apparently the arsonists returned and succeeded the second time.

On Tuesday, July 27 yet another group of round bales burned with Pattonville responding to that call.

The matter is under investigation by Lamar County Law Enforcement.

Anyone seeing suspicious activity in the vicinity of hay bales should contact the Lamar County Sheriff's Department. License plate numbers in particular would help.

I know that a lot of you have already preserved a lot of vegetables and fruits this year. This year has proved to be one of the best growing seasons that we have seen in a while. If you can't use any of these, put them up for next year and make use of them then! Here are some tips also for processing your own fruits and vegetables.

Growth of the bacterium Clostridium Botulinum in canned food may cause botulism... a deadly form of food poisoning. These bacteria exist either as spores or as vegetative cells. The spores, which are comparable to plant seeds, can survive harmlessly in soil and water for many years. When ideal conditions exist for growth, the spores produce vegetative cells which multiply rapidly and may produce a deadly toxin within 3 to 4 days of growth in an environment consisting of 1) a moist, low-acid food, 2) a temperature between 40 degrees and 120 degrees and 3) less than 2 percent oxygen. Botulinum spores are on most fresh food surfaces. Because they grow only in the absence of air, they are harmless on fresh foods.

Most bacteria, yeasts and molds are difficult to remove from food surfaces. Washing fresh food reduces the numbers slightly. Peeling root crops, underground stem crops and tomatoes reduces the numbers greatly. Blanching also helps, but the vital controls are the method of canning and making sure the recommended research-based process times are used.

The processing times ensure destruction of the largest expected number of heat-resistant microorganisms in home-canned foods. Properly sterilized canned foods will be free of spoilage if lids seal and jars are stored below 95 degrees. Storing jars at 50 degrees to 70 degrees enhances retention of quality. Pickle products are subject to spoilage from microorganisms, particularly yeasts and molds, as well as enzymes that may effect flavor, color and texture. Processing the pickles in a boiling-water canner will prevent both of these problems. Standard canning jars and self-sealing lids are recommended. Processing times and procedures will vary according to food acidity and the size of the food pieces.

Remember these few safe canning practices: 1) carefully select and wash fresh food, 2) peel some fresh foods, 3) many foods may be hot packed, 4) add acids (such as vinegar or lemon juice) to some foods, 5) use acceptable jars and self-sealing lids and 6) process jars in boiling-water or pressure canner for correct period of time.

Collectively, these practices remove oxygen; destroy enzymes; prevent the growth of undesirable bacteria, yeasts and molds; and help form a vacuum in jars. Good vacuums form tight seals which keep liquid in and air and microorganisms out.

We hope you enjoy and can use some of these recipes and we will see you in the kitchen!

Beet Pickles-a favorite of this area; many prefer canned to the store-bought type.

Dilled Green Tomatoes-a favorite for any outdoor cookout or barbecue!

Dilly Beans-this is a great recipe if you have an abundance of green beans.

Hot Peppers-this recipe can be used for hot or sweet peppers! Remember, anytime you cut or seed hot peppers, be sure to wear rubber gloves to prevent hands from burning!

Hot Pickle Mix-got lots of vegetables this year... this recipe is chocked full of vegetables!

Okra Pickles-area gardeners are producing an abundance of okra this year and this is just one way to prepare it!

Squash Pickles-another variation of a pickle recipe!

Zucchini Pickles-who said these vegetable was just for making breads!

Cucumber Rings-these may also be cut into sticks or chunks and not just rings.

Sweet Icicle Pickles-crunchy, sweet sticks that will taste delicious this winter!

How Year 2000 Fraud works

The first thing a con artist often does is persuade consumers that Year 2000 computer problems will create havoc on our economy. They may describe frightening scenarios of banks shutting down, leaving account owners empty handed and unable to recover funds from their accounts or investments in IRAs and Certificates of Deposit.

Con artists may also warn about problems affecting other sources of income such as government assistance or investments in the stock market. Fearing the elimination of social security, Medicare, or their hard earned retirement dollars.

Common schemes con artist use to swindle money:

- * Convincing consumers that the dire predictions regarding loss of financial security due to Year 2000 problems are true.
- * Persuading consumers to invest in "special" or "secret" products, companies, or accounts that will generate tremendous profits.
- * Advising individuals to withdraw their money out of banks, credit unions, or other financial institutions and turn it over to them for "safekeeping"

Tips and warning signs to guard against fraud

- * NEVER give out account information or credit card numbers to someone unless you're certain they are trustworthy. Thieves can appear very sincere and friendly. And they can be very persuasive. All they need is your account number to empty all the money out of your account.
- * Don't enter into a deal if you're being pressured to act immediately.
- * Be wary of people posing as bank officials, police officers, or other government agents who ask you to assist them in an investigation or audit of your financial institution. You may be asked to withdraw cash or give out your account information. No legitimate official would ask a consumer to participate in this type of investigation.

FOOT NOTES

Finding The Right Running Shoe

Runners should choose the athletic shoe type best for their biomechanical needs. There are five basic running shoe categories: motion control, cushioned, lightweight training, trail and stability. Motion control are best for people who overpronate, wear orthotics, have flat feet, or are heavy runners. Stability shoes are ideal for the midweight runner with normal arches looking for comfort and durability. Cushioned shoes offer the least medial support and encourage foot motion, ideal for runners with rigid feet and high arches. Light weight training shoes are best for runners who want a light second shoe for fast-paced training. Finally, trail shoes should be considered by those who run off-road and need extra traction and protection from stone bruises.

We firmly believe in helping you help yourself. We'll make recommendations as to how you can help keep your feet healthy and happy. From choosing the appropriate foot wear, to preventative care, to dealing with hereditary concerns, to simple pampering, we'll take the time to answer your questions and explain any procedures. We want you to be as informed about and actively involved in your foot health care as we are. Call DOCTOR'S FOOT CLINIC, 784-5585.

OFFICE LOCATED AT 3605 N.E. LOOP 286, STE 1800 PARIS, TEXAS

P.S. Running shoes are made with straight, semi-curved and curved lasts. Your podiatrist can tell you which last is preferable for your foot type.

Pardon Our Dust

At Texas-New Mexico Power Company we've been busy scouring through our computer-based systems and equipment, testing and making necessary changes, so that we're Year 2000 ready. One of the final and most critical steps in our cleanup is nearing as we prepare to switch over to a new customer information and billing system.

In August you might notice some minor changes to the look of your bill.

If you visit our local office to pay your bill in person, you might experience a few slight delays in our response to your inquiries as we adjust to the new system.

We anticipate a smooth transition and we appreciate your patience during this important time.

At Texas-New Mexico Power Company we're working to be your Power of Choice.

CUNNINGHAM VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL was combined this year with Cunningham Baptist Church and Life Tabernacle Church. Students are pictured here as they perform before parents and friends during closing ceremonies last week. Each person received a T-shirt designed by Brenton Norwood.

Cunningham News

Floyd Elmer Daniel of Gordonville, formerly of Cunningham, was in the area on Monday visiting friends. While here, he dropped by the Times office for a short visit.

Jackie Wood is Volunteer of Quarter

Jackie Wood was named Outstanding Volunteer of the Quarter for the second quarter of 1999 by the YWCA Board of Directors. She was honored for her efforts to establish the Tune Into the Arts Fiddling Contest, a division of the Paris Art Fair. She has also been active with the YWCA as a member of the Board of Directors.

Cunningham enjoys combined Bible school

Thanks to a great group of children to work with, the Cunningham Community Bible School that was sponsored by the Cunningham Baptist Church and Life Tabernacle Church was a great success. The theme of the Bible School was "When You Believe". The three-day school was presented by a group of women who were dedicated to presenting what happened when Moses, Elijah and Jesus believed. L'Wanda McKnight taught each class about life of Moses. Mendy Cole taught about Moses, Elijah and Jesus through activities each day. Paula Taylor and Julie Norwood assisted the children as they made wind chimes during art time. Neva Jean Oats and Amber Norwood led the classes during music time. Pat Norwood, Ida Mae Norwood, Shelby Kennedy, Ann Baker and Melba Baker prepared and served lunch each day. Class leaders were Debbie Gilbert, Carol Jones and Helen Roberts. Other helpers were Toni Baker, Brenton Norwood, Marty Anderson and O'Neal Drinnon. Each person received a T-shirt for attending Bible School. The T-shirt design was created by Brenton Norwood. The closing ceremony was Wednesday night. Parents, grandparents and community friends were entertained by the children as they performed songs. Bro. Tatum, interim pastor of the Baptist Church, spoke to the parents about the importance of spiritual training in children's lives. Everyone enjoyed the fellowship and refreshments served after the program.
