Since 1902 when President McKinley was assassinated, the U. S. Secret Service has been charged with guarding the President.

George Seaney was pictured at work in the Silverton Cemetery early this week. This is an almost-daily routine for the man who has been president of the Silverton Cemetery Association since 1947, and without whom the neatly-trimmed cemetery would probably not be a reality. Grass and brush were waist high in the cemetery when Seaney was elected to head the association. Seaney began the memorials program for the upkeep of the cemetery during the time this has been his "pet project." Seaney is a charter member of the Silverton Lions Club and recently was awarded a Life Membership, the highest honor which the club can confer. He is an active member of the First United Methodist Church in Silverton.

Record Sunflower Yield Could Be Seen Here

The Briscoe County sunflower crop—a relatively new agricultural development on the Texas High Plains—is being watched with interest as a short growing season cash crop that may produce a record yield in its first year. Raymond McJimsey, manager of Briscoe Cooperatives, told the Briscoe County News that a top sunflower yield is 3200 pounds per acre, and he believes that farmers in this area will see harvests of 3000+ pounds per acre.

The sunflower is a good crop to plant after a hailout or other loss due to weather because the growing season is only 120 days. Combining of sunflowers in this area is expected to begin at Brice about August 10. McJimsey said that G. W. Lee had some sunflowers that should be ready for combining about August 15-20.

Briscoe Cooperatives has contracted 3100 acres of sunflowers to the oil mill in Lubbock for 15c a pound, and of these, McJimsey estimates that about 1500 acres are growing in Briscoe County. Some of the Briscoe County acreage is contracted to other buyers. About 350,000 acres have been planted to sunflowers on the South Plains.

The sunflowers yield a high-quality cooking oil, to be marketed by at least one major national food distributor, Frito-Lay.

McJimsey said that the sunflower crop is looking good. "We have seen farmers spraying for the head moth, but this insect really hasn't gotten as bad as it had been expected to be. It looks like some farmers may get by with only two sprayings."

He also pointed out that unlike other Plains crops, the sunflowers require little water, offering high potential for sound growth. "Of course, the more water they get, the better yield can be expected," McJimsey said. "But Harold Storie has a beautiful patch of dryland sunflowers." The sunflowers will also withstand hail better than other crops, and have been known to go ahead and yield when all of the plants' leaves have been knocked off.

Ben Bingham
 "Corrals" Ocean
 For A Living

As a guy who spent half his life squeezing the precious juice from a West Texas windmill, Ben Bingham could be voted least likely to succeed as a professional "ocean maker."

The sunbrowned, booted, ex-cowboy, skin still dry from the arid winds of his native plains near Silvertown, today is responsible for the filtration, curation and daily turn-over of 2½ million gallons of fresh and salt water for the 14 main pools and lagoons at Seven Seas.

The salt and ocean water he produces is corralled into homes for sharks, a killer whale, dolphins and sea lions. The fresh water is for mermaids, high divers, pearl divers, exotic birds, koi fish and turtles. Bingham is Seven Seas' water quality control manager and assistant maintenance superintendent.

In harness with animal curators and trainers, a veterinarian, lab technicians and scuba divers, Cowboy Bingham presides over four water plants in which 25 pumps and filters operate continuously 24 hours a day. He and his aides also keep water temperature at correct levels—58 to 60 degrees for Newtka the killer whale and 64 degrees for the dolphins and sea lions.

Almost 3,000 pounds of salt are used each day for the sea animal pools, with the sharks requiring an exact mineral and chemical mix like that of real sea water.

A Bingham-original forces air into the outlet lines to keep ammonia down to healthful levels.

The only pump Bingham knew anything about as a boy and later as custom combine operator, cattle and horse buyer near Silvertown, was run by a creaking old windmill. The lifeline for him and his livestock was the casing to a 160-foot deep well beneath. The wind that turned the blades was a mixed blessing. In tornado form, it killed his father and flew the windmill into the next county.

The first "big water" Bingham saw was in crossing the Atlantic with a howitzer outfit in World War II and the English Channel for the invasion of Normandy. Water problems plagued him and his fellow GI's often thereafter, in the form of sold rain, snow and mud as they slogged through Europe to victory under Gen. George Patton. Bingham survived five major battles and came back to West Texas with the Bronze Star.

After his "roping arm" was shattered when he was thrown from a rattlesnake-spooked cow pony, Bingham went to work as a mechanic for Boeing and then for Lockheed sub-contractor in the Arlington area. He came to Seven Seas when the unique, inland marine park was being built in 1970 and has remained as maker of oceans and lagoons.

A widower and grandfather, he says, "This is my home—I saw every pool dug, every bush planted and every sea animal moved in. For an old dried-out country boy, this place is like a dream come true."

He chuckles at his boss and friend since start of the park's 1975 season—John Rognlie, maintenance superintendent who came in with the new management team from Sea World, San Diego, California.

"Rognlie came from beside an ocean and he's spent most of his off-hours here hunting for a Texas windmill to take back for his 30 acres in the California country near the coast," Bingham laughs. "I came from beside a Texas windmill and now I'm making ocean water. Here we are together and we've each found what we were looking for."

Ben Bingham has an anonymous saying which he calls his code of life.

"Ask for and thou shall receive. He who expecteth nothing shall not be disappointed."

Bingham found 14 "oceans" and Rognlie, aided and abetted by a bit of newspaper publicity and three classified ads, at last count had found more than a dozen Texas windmills. Apparently, the water situation is under control, in

 SITUATION & APPROVED
 INSECTICIDES

Reports from the Texas A&M Extension Center indicate that we may be in for a battle with the Sunflower Head Moth. Dr. James Supak emphasized that if a producer has a field that is blooming, he should be in that field every day checking for the moth or young worms (larvae).

The adult moth is about ½ to ¾ inch long—light buff to silver color and easily detected when resting or depositing eggs on the yellow flowers. The young worms are about ½ inch long and yellowish in color—older worms are up to ¾ inch long, yellowish-green in color with light and dark stripes on its back.

In checking fields, growers should check about 25 plants at several locations throughout the field. If the adult moth or young worms are found . . . insecticide should be applied in about 3 days. Repeat applications, if necessary, should be applied at 5 day intervals. Two to three applications may be necessary as it usually requires 12-15 days for hybrid sunflowers to bloom completely.

As of today, there are only 3 insecticides that have an approved label for use on sunflowers . . . METHYL PARATHION . . . THIODAN . . . and SUPERCIDE. Every producer should be cautioned to use only those insecticides that have an approved label. Otherwise, he may find himself with no market for his seed . . . the field could be condemned by the food and drug people . . . and any storage bin containing seed with residue of a non-approved insecticide may have the entire lot condemned.

We will do our best to keep you informed on developments as the season progresses.

Caution: Methyl Parathion will cause foliage burn on certain sorghum varieties. This may influence your choice of insecticides when sunflowers are planted adjacent to sorghum.

Roller Coaster Spirit

There are days when we feel on top of the world. Everybody loves us and shows it. Nice things are done for us. Sunshine and happiness drenches everything. And then there are other days — when we're blue; people are busy. We're alone. We're afraid. It might as well be raining. Nobody knows the trouble we're in. Needed is a little self-discipline, not a lot of self-pity. We must learn to face the fact that life is not always a flowery bed of ease, and pleasure. Children dodge hard places, responsibility, and painful experiences. A mature person stands on his own two feet under God. Time, insight, and the grace of God can remove mountains — and take away that roller coaster spirit. Begin the road to spiritual maturity by attending church this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Cattlemen Could Face Another Market Drop In 1975

What's in store for cattlemen as far as prices are concerned for the remainder of 1975?

"Although there's optimism in some circles due to current stronger market prices and an increase in cattle feeding, it's a little early for cattlemen to begin cheering," contends Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "In fact, producers may be in for another drop in market prices as the year moves along."

So Uvacek advises cattlemen to market or contract calves early and cull old cows as soon as possible.

What are the reasons for Uvacek's gloomy outlook?

First of all, the supply of grain-fed beef should increase during the second half of the year. Fed cattle marketings are expected to be about nine per cent larger during the last six months of 1975 than during the first half of the year.

Increased cow liquidations will also boost the total beef supply. Uvacek expects cow slaughter to increase 42 per cent during the last half of 1975 compared to the first six months of the year.

More beef will also result from large kills of non-fed steers and heifers and calves. Slaughter of non-fed steers and heifers is expected to be up 62 per cent during the last half of the year while calf slaughter should be up almost 70 per cent, according to the Texas A&M University System specialist.

"Cow-calf producers are loaded with calves that they will be marketing this summer and fall," points out Uvacek. "Many of them will be moving to feedlots, but the expected overflow is sure to bring feeder prices down."

"All this means a weaker cattle market during the remainder of this year," believes the specialist.

Booklet On Lawns Is Available To Homeowners

A new Texas Agricultural Extension Service publication, simply called "Home Lawns," should be a real winner for homeowners, contends Eddie Holland, Briscoe County Extension Agent.

The publication features a complete digest of information on home lawns, ranging from types of lawn grasses to care and maintenance.

A complete discussion is offered on both warm-season and cool-season turf-grasses for Texas. The warm-season types include bermudagrass, St. Augustine grass, buffalograss, zoysiagrass and centipedegrass. Among cool-season grasses described are ryegrass, tall fescue and Kentucky bluegrass.

A section of the new publication is devoted to information on establishing a new turf, points out Holland. Three major steps are discussed as being essential in this endeavor: preparing the soil properly, establishing the grass, and caring for the young grass.

Electric Company Surveying Area Industries

The Area Development Department of Southwestern Public Service Company has completed a survey of industries in the area served by the electric company.

The first phase of the survey, completed in March, was made in all of the towns that SPS serves in Texas except Amarillo and Lubbock. The second phase of the survey covers these two metropolitan areas.

"The purpose of the survey is to assemble information that will aid in the design of programs to assist existing manufacturers expand their production facilities," commented Larry Milner, Area Development manager for SPS in Amarillo.

The survey, representing 23 communities on the North and South Plains, reveals that 52.4 percent of the existing industries responding to the survey plan future expansion. Forty-seven of the companies surveyed plan expansion within the next 12 months, while another 61 plan expansion in the next three years. During the next five years, 25 more companies plan expansion.

Employment expansion for the near future was projected in the range of 43 percent.

The survey covers general manufacturing, agri-related, and oil and gas related industries, with a total employee representation of more than 14,000. Of this number, about 9,000 are production workers, 1,000 are management employees and the remainder work in clerical or administrative jobs.

In discussing the survey, Milner said, "Some of the major problems faced by industry when planning expansion are labor supply, reduced sales, resources, financing, lack of technical information, transportation, building space, management and air pollution laws."

"Helping all the towns in our service area with new and existing industries is one of our primary functions. We feel that the information in this industrial survey will aid us in providing that help," Milner concluded.

A major portion of the publication is keyed to management of established lawns. Specific information is presented on fertilization, watering and mowing.

A review of lawn problems is featured in the final pages of the publication. Information is presented on thatch accumulation, shade problems, weeds, insects and diseases.

With hot summer weather here, homeowners generally experience a variety of lawn problems, notes Holland. The new "Home Lawns" publication can be a valuable guide in identifying these problems and in taking corrective measures. A copy may be obtained at the Briscoe County Extension Office.

Parallel Terraces Now Being Built

Modern parallel terraces that can be farmed with six and eight row equipment are designed to control erosion and hold water on the land. Lem and Max Weaver are putting this system on one field near the Brice community.

Parallel terraces can be built either level or graded. Level terraces are built on farms where the soil has a high intake rate of water. With the level terraces no outlet for the water is needed. A safe outlet for the water such as a waterway or strip of grass is needed when graded terraces are built. These outlets will keep erosion from occurring on the outlet end of the terraces.

Cost share assistance is available to interested land owners and operators who want to install terrace systems on their farm. The programs that are available are the Great Plains Conservation Program, administered by the SCS, and the Agricultural Conservation

Dear Charlotte,

Our daughter's foot locker is all packed and ready for camp. Along with the inventory of her clothing, I have pasted this note inside the trunk lid:

To Whom It May Concern: This is a very special little nine year old girl. She is especially special with her father, and he isn't quite sold on this trip to camp. However, if you know a few important things about her, I am convinced she'll be the camper of the year.

She likes coffee milk brought to her bed each morning—that's just a little coffee in a cup of milk with two spoons of sugar. She doesn't eat breakfast early, but at about ten o'clock she likes soft scrambled eggs, bacon (crisp) and toast (cinnamon toast)—just a little cinnamon. She doesn't like spinach, carrots, roast beef, ham, cabbage, green peas, beets, sausage, oatmeal and milk. But she loves ice cream (vanilla), soup (chicken noodle), hot dogs (with mayonaise), hamburgers (with catsup), French fries, Cokes and candy!

She has never spent the night away from home except with her grandparents and a few special friends. And she may wake up at three o'clock in the morning with a horrible stomach ache and want to come home. Oh, incidentally we always leave the bathroom light on for her at night—she doesn't like the dark. And I should tell you she doesn't like lightning and thunder, and she always crawls in bed with us on a stormy night. She also kicks her covers, so if you are up at two a.m., please check on her; she might be cold.

She doesn't like to brush her teeth or her hair, but if you will patiently remind her about six times each morning, she will cooperate.

She doesn't like to go to bed on a summer night, but if you will let her watch just a portion of the 10 o'clock movie, this will solve the bedtime problem, especially if you give her a glass of orange juice and cookies after you have kissed her goodnight three times.

If you will remember these few likes and dislikes of our daughter, I'm sure she will love camp. But if she doesn't, we will appreciate your calling 4-2525, or 4-2626, or 4-3649, or 4-3240, or 4-2698, or 4-4548, or 4-4545, or 4-3646. Any one of these people will be happy to pick her up.

P. S. Please don't change her; we like her just the way she is.
