The Scissors Grinder

The doorbell rang, and as I answered, I found an elderly, shabbily-dressed man supported by crutches standing on the step. He had no overcoat, and a cold, north wind was blowing, yet the man smiled as he asked if we had any knives or scissors which needed sharpening.

There always were dull knives about the house, so I rounded up a few knives and a pair of scissors, and directed the man to the garage, where he would be out of the cold wind. I arranged a seat for him and asked if he wished something on which to fasten his emery grinder.

He answered, "No, you see I use my crutch for that purpose,' and added with a smile, "you know I'm luckier than most scissors grinders, for they do not have a crutch to use, and it handicaps them in using their grind-

There was no grumbling, no complaining in this man, only the smile and the use of a crutch as an aid in his adventure in living.

I returned to the house, and found more knives and scissors, and took them to him. And I learned a lesson in living from the lips of a master.—Sunshine Magazine.

A brilliant "fireball"—possibly an earth satellite - was visible in this area as it streaked across the sky about 7 p. m. Monday. Far brighter than Venus, the meteor was first sighted to the north-northwest, shooting to the east before burning up about 20 degrees above the horizon.

The object's brilliance and irregular shape brought up the possibility of an earth satellite, but no satellite was scheduled to return to the earth's atmosphere at this time. Local observers, upon first sighting the meteorological phenomena believed it to be a burning plane.

PEDESTRIAN IS JAILED FOR HIS OWN GOOD

Detroit. - A 63-year-old Detroiter who has been ticketed 16 times for pedestrian violations was sent to jail Saturday for 60 days "for his own good."

Traffic Judge John D. Watts told Joseph T. Lucas: "The way you have been ignoring the pedestrian laws, you are lucky to be alive. I'm sending you to jail for your own protection."

It may not be recorded in the books, but it is generally conceded that grandma was the original baby-sitter. Only her hugs and kisses could have maintained her position all these thousands of years.

Indispensable in our way of life... vital to our national defense

In the 100 years since the drilling of the first oil well in the United States, the usefulness of petroleum has been often demonstrated in many ways . . . It is an economical and efficient source of energy and a raw resource convertible through petrochemistry into innumerable useful materials. . . . It is indispensable in our way of life, and vital to the national defense.

It is comforting to know that today's reserves are ample for today's needs. And if incentives to undergo the heavy risks involved are continued, there is no doubt that more oil will be discovered and produced to replace the oil we use . . .

The United States has found, produced, refined, and used more oil than any other nation. This has made petroleum products a feature of the abundant American life. Americans use more petroleum products than any other people on the globe.

The past is prologue to the future. During its second century, oil can serve you and your grandchildren, and the nation, as well or better than ever before.

The Humble Company, incorporated in 1917, has participated in the development of new and better ways to find and produce oil, and in the research that has improved petroleum products and discovered countless new uses for oil and natural gas. Humble is a major producer of U.S. oil, with production extending all across the southern tier of states from Florida to California. Marketing operations are carried on in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. Humble's Baytown refinery, near Houston, is one of the great refineries of the world. (Humble Pipe Line Company, a major transporter of crude oil and finished products, operates more than 9000 miles of pipe lines in Texas.)

Every once in a while the space scientists shoot a capsule or ose cone into orbit and then try to bring it down and catch it, so they can check its instruments and gather a lot of scientific information about which I don't know any more than you do.

But the point is, when they get one up and then signal it down, sometimes they can't find i. It just floats down by parachute somewhere over the Pacific ocean and despite the fact they comb the area with airplanes and ships, they can't find it, and this causes some people to criticize them. I carefully lay the hammer down, make a mental note of exactly where it is, couldn't anybody forget that, then go about my business and a week or so later when I a while, remember the fence, go back and look but it's not there. I think it's the same fence, but to make sure I walk em all, up one side and down the other, but I might as well be searching the Pacific ocean for a nose cone.

The same thing is true with my saw, axe, hoe, pliers, wrenches, why, one time I even lost my tractor. It's a fact, I left it at the end of a row, got interested in keeping up with a Presidential campaign, weeds grew up around it, and later in when I needed it it was days before I could find it.

As far as I'm concerned, if those scientists find one nose cone out of ten, they're doing better than most of us, except for those rare people who know where every tool they own is and never have time to explore outer space or even just sit down and do nothing.

Yours faithfully, A. A.

Is Our Credit Good?

It seems unthinkable-even insulting-for a foreign country to question the credit of the United States. Yet President Eisenhower disclosed that 21 foreign governments have questioned "our ability to pay our bills and keep the dollar as sound as it needs to be."

What's worse, private American citizens are expressing the same kind of doubts. They are refusing to buy U.S. bonds—the government's promise to pay, with interest. Why this doubt in the dollar? Because for 24 of the last 28 years the United States has spent more than its income. The government has piled up a debt of 283 billion dollars, and has helped produce inflation that cut the buying power of the dollar. As a result, people don't want to invest in long-term government bends because they are afraid the money they get back won't buy as much as the money they put in.

Obviously the government wouldn't need to borrow if Congress didn't spend more money than the treasury takes in. If we didn't need to borrow, there would be no credit problem. So to solve the problem-or at least to keep it from getting worse-it is essential for us to keep Congress from spending more money than we give it to spend in taxes.

ALCORN HAS NOVEL IDEA WHAT TO SHOW KHRUSHCHEV IN USA

Editor's note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur has gotten wind of Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States, his letter this week reveals

Dear Editar: Right now, me and Washington are doing a lot of thinking and planning about the forthcoming visit of Premier Khrushchev, the Russian dictator, but we're thinking and planning in exactly opposite directions.

Here's the situation: Khrushchev has never visited the United States before, all he knows about the country is what he's heard and he's heard that from 31-c his fellow-Russian propagandists who are notorious for telling about how down-trodden we are over here, how half the country is starving, and all the wealth is owned by two or three families.

And a bunch of Washington thinkers are getting ready to open his eyes.

For example, Khrushchev says he wants to visit an American farm. What will the Washington ector or a grain dealer on the side on my tractor. and has the last word in equipment, and Khrushchev will ok it over and go back home and tell his slaves, all right, get to work harder, America is way ahead of us in agriculture.

Now what Washington ought to do is pick out a farm that's. well, a farm sort of like mine. all right, pick out mine, and let Mr. Khrushchev come out here and look around. Let him see a pasture full of weeds, fences that're falling down, crops overrun with Johnson grass, bony cattle, a 20-year-old tractor with two flat tires, etc.

Then Mr. Khrushchev will go back to Russia and say, take it easy, we got nothing to worry about. American agriculture is on its last legs, we got em whipped already.

This is a fine opportunity to win a great propaganda war, but I'm afraid Washington's not up to this type of advanced thinking. what it'll do is try to dazzle him, and it will, but he won't resign his job and take up residence here and join the Republican party. What he'll do is go back home and drive his slaves harder. But if Washington should switch and decide to show Mr. ed reasonable. Contact Doyle experts do? They'll pick out a Khrushenev my laim, let me Whitaker, OL 2-4020, after 8 big, modern farm, owned by a know in advance. I want to let man who's probably a bank direction on the side on my tractor.

Yours faithfully, A. A.
