Austin. — Texans will have ample opportunity to give their views on how the state should be divided into 23 congressional districts of equal population.

A seven-member study group of Texas Legislative Council (research arm of the Legislature) plans to begin extensive hearings over the state soon after the May 2 primaries.

Congressmen and party officers already have been invited to make suggestions as to how districts should be drawn with approximately 416,000 population each.

U. S. Supreme Court has supported a Houston federal court ruling that the districts must be formed to provide "equal representation for equal numbers of people" as nearly as possible. The Houston court on April 1 agreed that the Legislature should have a chance to do the job in regular session of 1965.

Sen. George Moffett of Chilli-cothe, senior member of the Legislature in point of service, heads the study committee which will conduct the hearings. Other members are Sen. Abraham Kazen Jr. of Laredo, and Reps. Paul Floyd of Houston, Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth, Wayne Gibbens of Breckenridge, Richard C. Slack of Pecos, and G. F. Mutscher of Brenham.

Gov. John Connally praised Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr for his representation of the state during the redistricting case. He said work of Carr and his assistants made it possible for the state to "hold our 1964 congressional elections without the requirement of a special session or at-large (statewide congressional) races."

AGING — Governor Connally revealed that 1,400 of the 3,500 senile patients in state mental hospitals have been moved to private nursing homes in the last year.

He told his Committee on Aging that this is one method being used to better the lot of older, ill persons. Many have been sent to mental hospitals because there was no place else for them to go. But under the new Federal-state program of paying nursing home costs of the ailing aged, those not really mentally ill can be taken out of the state hospitals.

He urged the committee, headed by Sen. Walter Richter of Gonzales, to find further ways of bettering the lot of older Texans.

HIGHER EDUCATION — Texas Commission on Higher Education allocated $3,980,000 in appropriations to meet student enrollment increases in the 20 state-supported senior colleges for the coming school year.

At the same time, the Commission took a step toward higher standards in the state colleges when it moved to abolish state financial support for "questionable" or "frill" college courses, including:

1. Courses not counted toward graduation requirements;
2. Tour or travel courses;
3. Certain "work experience" courses;

4. Dramatic and forensic activities not in regularly organized classes;
5. Courses devoted exclusively to learning operation of one or two simple business machines;
6. Social or self-improvement courses;

7. Remedial courses on the high school level not carrying college credit;
8. Orientation courses aimed at counseling or guidance of freshmen students.

Commission approved recommendations to strengthen graduate and research programs in the North Texas area and authorized new third and fourth-year courses for Angelo State College, San Angelo.

COURTS SPEAK — Fifty-third District Judge Herman Jones granted the first injunction sought by the state to enforce the new small loan act.

Action was against E. L. Parker, operator of an Austin liquor store, whom Regulatory Loan Commissioner Frank Miskell alleged was lending money at rates in excess of 10 per cent without obtaining the required state license.

State Supreme Court knocked out a state law granting a land-

School Election Set for May 9

County Judge Cecil Franklin has called an election for Saturday, May 9 in the Talco Independent School District and Wilkinson Common School District on the issue of consolidation of the latter with Talco.

The election was ordered after petitions from each school district were presented to the Titus County Commissioners Court.

Both school districts must favor the consolidation in order for it to pass. Last year, Talco voters approved adding the Wilkinson district but Wilkinson voters turned the proposition down.

Election judge at Talco will be Mrs. Mary Welch. W. W. Blalock is election judge at Wilkinson.

Postoffice In Economy Drive

The limited adjustments in some postal services ordered in Washington March 10 by Postmaster Gen. John A. Gronouski to save $12.7 million will begin to take effect here May 4, Postmaster Westbrook said.

Very few of the adjustments ordered will affect our local service. The normal delivery of parcel post will not be affected. There will be no change in our window service hours.

The changes that will affect are as follows: Money orders will not be issued on Saturday. Rural carriers will not accept money order applications on Saturday. The Postmaster emphasized that no essential major services are affected under the orders. There will be no change in rural delivery or special delivery. Letter and other first-class mail will be handled with the same priority as ever.

The economy step the Postmaster explained, is in line with President Johnson's programs under which the recent federal income tax cut was provided.

Wright Patman's Weekly Letter

1st Congressional Dist. of Texas
 "Heart of the Gulf Southwest" Consumers have been victimized by the practice of some manufacturers in placing unrealistic and excessively high "preticketed"
 retail prices on their merchandise thus permitting retailers to make the false claim that they are offering a cut-price bargain. The Federal Trade Commission has recently ordered some firms to discontinue misleading the public with these non-existent bargains.

Moonlighting or the holding of two jobs by one worker, is frowned upon by some economists who think jobs should be rationed,
 but most dual jobholders work
 relatively few hours at their second jobs, and research has developed that only a very small portion of the unemployed are interested in the type of work
 found in the supplemental job category. Also, enterprising Americans should not be denied the opportunity to improve their economic condition to the best of their abilities and energies.

President Johnson was the real unifying force in the House passage of the Wheat-Cotton Bill and the Food Stamp Bill. On balance
 these are necessary programs that will help extend our still rising levels of prosperity to all segments of our society.

Red River Army Depot: This facility, located at Texarkana, is vitally important to our local economy and is more complex than many people realize. The Depot has over 4,000 civilian employees and its payroll, both civilian and military, is more than $2,000,000 per month. There are almost 15,000 buildings on its 35,- 000 acres, all of which is valued at about $70 million. Close to 10,000 acres are planted in pine seedlings. Each month, the Depot does $235,000 worth of business with concerns within a radius of fifty miles. There are two man-made lakes (Caney and Elliott) which also furnish water for Lone Star, Red River, and City of Hooks. Two water-treatment plants have a capacity of 3 million gallons per day. Both lakes have been stocked with fish, mostly black bass, and about twenty years ago, a herd of 49 adult deer were released in the restricted area. This herd has now increased to the limit of the carrying capacity of the range.
 Fishing and hunting have been authorized for members of the general public at various times,
 in accordance with local conditions. The Depot has always been managed with great efficiency and has a high reputation
 both locally and in the Pentagon

Hospital Employees Honor Mrs. Hendricks

Mrs. Sue Hendricks, Ward Secretary at Medical Hospital in Greenville, was elected personality of the month by fellow employees, according to an article from the hospital news there.

She was commended for her pleasantness, helpfulness and courteous service to doctors,
 nurses, patients, and their families. In spite of the numerous interruptions, demands and ques-

 highly praised for the outstanding job she is doing.

 and had two years of nursing school prior to her marriage.

Accent On Health Frozen Foods

Austin. Can you get food poisoning from frozen food? If frozen food thaws out, should it be destroyed? Can you refreeze meat that has thawed out?

These questions persist although frozen foods have become an integral part of modern living. But properly stored, handled and prepared, frozen foods will serve you and your family well.

Food poisoning, originating from frozen foods, is a rarity. Processors are careful to prepare and freeze their products at the peak of freshness, insuring that bacteria are at a minimum. The very act of freezing the food suppresses the ability of the bacteria to multiply.

Not until food temperatures rise and conditions become favorable to growth of the bacteria do they begin multiplying.

And what about frozen foods that have thawed out... must they be destroyed? Not necessarily. After all, they must be thawed before they can be cooked and eaten. If foods have been thawed only for a short time, they may be safely eaten. The important question is how long have they been thawed out and how high the temperature has been.

If the temperature went no higher than 45 degrees, the food may be maintained at this level safely for several days but should not be refrozen.

Is it ever safe to refreeze meat that has thawed out? Refreezing meat is permissible if the meat was fresh at the original freezing and if it was thawed for only a short period. There may, however, be some degrading of flavor and quality with the second freezing. The risk in refreezing cured or smoked meats is greater. These meats may be slightly spoiled even though there is no discoloration, off-odor or other signs of spoilage.

Can you tell about the quality of frozen food simply by looking at it? Loss of quality—resulting from improper handling or extended storage—is usually indicated by loss of flavor and color. (This is particularly true of vegetables.) Orange juice, as it deteriorates, tends to separate and "settle out" rapidly when reconstituted. Cream sauces appear curdled and the liquid begins to separate.

To preserve the quality of frozen foods, store them at the lowest possible temperature, and when you transport them from the store to your freezer, do so as quickly as possible. Rising temperatures cause chemical changes which influence the food's flavor and quality.

Alcorn Comes Out In Favor of Folk Singer's Idea Of Ear-Marking Taxes

Editor's note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur, won't get anywhere with his idea this week, but we sometimes doubt he's trying to get anywhere.

Dear Editor: A prominent folk singer, well, I say prominent, she's prominent with people who go for folk singing, which I'm not one of, who has been making a lot of money lately has announced she's not going to pay a sizeable portion of her income tax because that portion would go for defense and she's opposed to war.

This introduces a brand new idea in tax paying, and I hope you'll keep up with this singer's luck with the Internal Revenue Service and let me know how she comes out.

If it works, I am going to rework the list of things I am opposed to that the government is spending money for and by wracking my brain and re-shuffling my prejudices I figure I can cut my income tax by around 90 percent, with the remaining ten per cent ear-marked for increased government checks for agriculture. One of the things I am particularly opposed to is the manufacturing of guitars.

It had never occurred to me you could ear-mark your tax payments, but it opens up vast opportunities. For example, if you're a Democrat and don't like Republicans, think they're bad for mankind, you could withhold your tax payments anytime a Republican is in office and resume them when your side is in. By the some system, if you're a Republican and a Democrat is in, you could decline to pay, and this way about half the people would escape taxes, regardless, and practically everybody would be pulling for the other side to win. With Democrats pulling for Republicans to win, and Republicans pulling for Democrats to win, just as a tax dodge, you think politics would be more confused than it generally is?

Say, when my subscription to your paper comes due, don't be surprised if I pay only 60 per cent of the regular amount. I never do read the society news anyway and see no reason for paying for something I don't use.

It had never occurred to me you could ear-mark your tax payments, but it opens up vast opportunities. For example, if you're a Democrat and don't like Republicans, think they're bad for mankind, you could withhold your tax payments anytime a Republican is in office and resume them when your side is in. By the some system, if you're a Republican and a Democrat is in, you could decline to pay, and this way about half the people would escape taxes, regardless, and practically everybody would be pulling for the other side to win. With Democrats pulling for Republicans to win, and Republicans pulling for Democrats to win, just as a tax dodge, you think politics would be more confused than it generally is?

Say, when my subscription to your paper comes due, don't be surprised if I pay only 60 per cent of the regular amount. I never do read the society news anyway and see no reason for paying for something I don't use.

Alcorn Comes Out In Favor of Folk Singer's Idea Of Ear-Marking Taxes

Editor's note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur, won't get anywhere with his idea this week, but we sometimes doubt he's trying to get anywhere.

Dear Editor: A prominent folk singer, well, I say prominent, she's prominent with people who go for folk singing, which I'm not one of, who has been making a lot of money lately has announced she's not going to pay a sizeable portion of her income tax because that portion would go for defense and she's opposed to war.

This introduces a brand new idea in tax paying, and I hope you'll keep up with this singer's luck with the Internal Revenue Service and let me know how she comes out.

If it works, I am going to rework the list of things I am opposed to that the government is spending money for and by wracking my brain and re-shuffling my prejudices I figure I can cut my income tax by around 90 percent, with the remaining ten per cent ear-marked for increased government checks for agriculture. One of the things I am particularly opposed to is the manufacturing of guitars.

It had never occurred to me you could ear-mark your tax payments, but it opens up vast opportunities.
