LYNDON BAINES JOHNSON. The editorials continue their thousands of words attempting to define his place in history. I stand by the thoughts I wrote (set forth below) just four years ago as LBJ left the highest office in the land, loyal to family and friend, loyal to state and country, a Texan born and bred, true to the land, true to the people.

THE HONORABLE LYNDON BAINES JOHNSON, President of the United States from November 22, 1963 to January 20, 1969. In my opinion stands among the honored few whose thoughts, words and actions have had a special significance in making this country productive, powerful and preeminent among nations; he shares the mantle of greatness with President Lincoln. Wilson, Franklin Roosevelt, and Truman, with whom there is special reason to compare his five difficult years in the nation's highest office. (1640th Weekly Letter, January 23, 1969)

THEY TOO ARE CITIZENS. Police officers have been called the most abused minority group in this country — too frequently they are called upon to endure vicious physical and verbal abuse. They are not the best paid of our public employees although their work is essential and often dangerous. Last year 112 local, county, and state law enforcement officers were killed in the line of duty — murdered by criminals. I have, therefore, co-sponsored H. R. 1531, the Law Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, to safeguard the rights of law officers under investigation, provide for police representation on complaint review boards, and permit police officers to bring civil suit for damages or abridgment of their rights. Those who hazard their lives to protect us should not be obliged to forfeit their own rights as citizens.

POLLUTION CONTROL. Last year Congress approved the Water Pollution Control Amendments to help communities get rid of their sewerage and pollution control problems. This must be done, but the Administration has threatened to cut program funding and I have, therefore, joined with 21 other Members of the Texas Congressional Delegation in co-sponsoring a bill, H. R. 1288, directing that money be provided at a level no lower than that of the 1972 fiscal year. The trouble with any false economy is easy to spot — it costs too much.

MEDALS. In addition to producing our coins, the U. S. Mint also manufactures a wide range of commemorative medals for sale to the public. The Presidential series, for example, includes bronze medals honoring each of our 36 Presidents from Washington through Nixon. These Presidential medals are available in two sizes — 3 inch diameter ($5.25 each) and 1.5/16-inch diameter (60 each). Other bronze medals commemorate American military and civilian leaders as well as major events in American history. A new brochure describing the hundreds of medals now available (including an order blank) will be sent free to constituents upon request to my office. East Texans will be particularly interested in the handsome medals honoring President Johnson and Speaker Rayburn.

EDUCATIONAL AIDS FOR OUR YOUTH. The average male high school graduate earns about $350,000 in a lifetime, and the average college graduate earns about $586,000. A college education, therefore, makes good sense — and money, too. A recent publication prepared by the American Legion, entitled "Need A Lift," contains valuable information about the more than three billion dollars in scholarships, loans and part-time jobs available to assist students in obtaining a college education. This comprehensive and well-organized 140-page handbook is available to constituents without charge upon request to my office.

Graveside services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robbie (Rusty) L. Woods, born Jan. 17 in a Mt. Pleasant hospital, were held Saturday, Jan. 20 at 4 p. m. in the Springhill Cemetery, near Ringgold, La. Survivors besides the parents are a brother, Jeffery Alan Woods of Talco; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Darnell of Bossier City, La., Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Woods of Elm Grove, La.

Survivors are Mr. Shuford's wife, one brother, Jud Shuford of Beaumont, and several nieces and nephews.

Ottis Hall has been transferred from the Franklin County Hospital, Mt. Vernon to the V. A. Hospital in Shreveport.

Mr. and Mrs. Odell Belcher met Mrs. Mamie Blackburn at Dallas Love Field Saturday. She had returned from a two months visit with her daughter, Mrs. Bobby Kelley and family in California.

Rev. Johnny Umphries returned home Monday after visiting his brother, I. L. Umphries, who is seriously ill in Augusta, Ga. His mother, Mrs. Emma Kirsch of Bossier City, La., accompanied him to Georgia. The Rev. C. W. Pate of Mt. Pleasant brought the morning message at First Baptist Church due to Rev. Umphries absence.

Austin. — This city lost a part of its "personality" last week. Most Austin citizens acted sophisticated about the fact that President Lyndon Baines Johnson was seen frequently at public events . . . but his personality gave the entire area a certain glamor that will be lost with his passing.

He had made frequent appearances recently — the Cotton Bowl, Civil Rights forum, Governor Briscoe's inauguration, and an economic seminar at San Marcos. Yes, Austin and Texas will miss LBJ.

He did not try to dominate the show when he appeared publicly, did not make "news" by voicing opinions on everything, but his influence was felt in many important ways.

During last year's political campaigns in Texas, he was on the phone raising money, offering advice — supporting those who had been loyal to him during his political career.

The Texas Democratic party will miss LBJ.

Although it will not be listed in his biography, Lyndon Baines Johnson was a journalist.

He wrote a book. He helped write and produce several television news specials. Most of all, he "made" news during his entire lifetime.

His daughter, Mrs. Luci Nugent, likes to point out that her father was "surrounded by journalists."

"My father had to live with journalists all of his life," she said recently. "My mother was a journalism graduate of the University of Texas. My sister wrote for major magazines, and I've enjoyed doing some writing."

Men who influenced him on many major decisions were journalists . . . Bill Moyers, George Christian, Tom Johnson and many more. He confided in many Texas newspaper editors, Art Kowert, Bob Jackson, Bill Hobby and others.

Texas Journalists will miss LBJ.

He refused to let his illness slow him down.

His last public appearance was a tree planting ceremony near his home with Lady Bird. He had spent an active Christmas holiday with his wife, daughters, their husbands and children.

He attended the funeral of the 14 young people who had been killed in the bus-truck accident and the funeral of President Harry S. Truman less than a month ago.

His family will miss LBJ.

President Johnson's political career will continue to be an inspiration to young people interested in government and politics.

He came from a family of public servants, but hundreds of college students in this state look at his career and contemplate the "path to the presidency."

He was first a young school teacher, then youth administrator, aide to a Congressman, Congressman, Senator, Vice-President then President of the most powerful nation in the world.

Yes, Lyndon Baines Johnson made history interesting for Texas.

Texas will miss LBJ.

ABORTION LAW STRUCK DOWN — The U. S. Supreme Court voted 7-2 to strike down the state's abortion statute. Holding that medical abortion in the first six months of pregnancy should be a private matter between a woman and her physician, the high court ended a controversy begun in 1970 when "Jane Roe" a pregnant, unmarried woman from Dallas took the abortion argument to the federal courts.

Ironically Miss Roe, as she was named to protect her identity, won her case, but had the baby.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill for an evaluation of the ruling and for alternatives open to Texas in light of the high court decision.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, however, said that "the best solution is one in which the state is neutral on the subject . . . I believe the medical profession of Texas will respond to the decision and will treat abortion as a medical matter in a responsible way."

ENGINEERS OFFER LEGISLATORS PROFESSIONAL ADVICE — Legislators last week offered the expertise of a group of engineers on "broadly defined areas of environmental protection" and other areas of public concern.

The Texas Society of Professional liquid and solid wastes, insecticide and Senate members that 700 members of that association were available for "factual presentations" before committee hearings on air pollution, water pollution, liquid and solid wastes, insecticides and pesticides, health, safety and many other categories.

TOO MANY SCHOOLS? — Texas may be expanding educational facilities to the extent that the quality of education may be diluted, while the taxpayer keeps digging deeper into his pocketbook to pay the bills.

Opinion was expressed here by Wales Madden, an Amarillo attorney, who is a member of the Coordination Board, Texas College and University System. Madden told CB members "educators know that increased funding is dependent upon growing enrollments. With institutions planning independently and on ad hoc basis for enrolling the same students, and with there being fewer students to spread among the colleges, we may endanger the critical mass of students, faculty, facilities, equipment and libraries established at such high cost and hard effort in our existing institutions."

Madden placed part of the blame on local pressure on state legislators, who feel duty bound to try to create by statute a junior or senior college or technical training facility in their communities. Madden urged CB members to moderate the present expansion trend "until we determine fully what the needs are and where we are going."

Fire Friday Destroys Rychlik Home

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rychlik and family about 3 miles west on Farm Road 71 Friday morning. A man passing by noted the fire and turned in the alarm. Talco Fire Department truck went to the fire but the blaze had gained too much headway for anything to be saved, Mr. and Mrs. Rychlik were away from home and the children were in school.

This is the second home to burn in the Talco area within a three weeks period. The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Moles in Wilkerson community burned during the night some two weeks ago.

The Moles' son, Henry, came home from work and found the house filled with smoke. He awoke his parents in time for them to save some things, but the house was destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Postlewait, Ronny and Timmy of Louisville, Ky., arrived the first of the week to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Herzer. Mr. and Mrs. Herzer accompanied them to Sapulpa, Okla., where they visited relatives. Mr. Postlewait returned home Tuesday; the family remained for a longer visit.

PIPELINE TALK

OUT OF THE ARCTIC ICEBOX: A GREAT NEW STEEL

For years, the Free World has been agog over the discovery of vast resources of oil and natural gas on the North Slope of Alaska. Estimates range as high as 427 trillion cubic feet of natural gas and untold billions of gallons of oil. One of the greatest strikes of all time!

But what a fiendish location. Far beyond the Arctic Circle. Snow that buries earthmoving equipment. Temperatures of 60 degrees below zero and lower. Ground frozen solid in spots up to 1800 feet deep. A soft top layer, called tundra, that goes soggy in summer. Towering mountains to block easy laying of an overland pipeline to feed natural gas southward through Canada to the United States. Above all, cold. Cold so bitter that no ordinary pipeline steels have the impact strength, toughness and weldability to stand up.

But thanks to an all-new metallurgical formula with new ratios of alloying agents, a pipeline may yet be the most economical and ecologically satisfactory means of transporting the natural gas overland.

One of the most magical of the alloying agents in the new pipeline steel is molybdenum, pronounced mo-LYB-den-um, familiarly called "Moly" as in the girl's name.

Moly has long been used as an alloy in metals because of the incredible range of its properties. It makes steel almost unbelievably tough. It doesn't melt until reaching a temperature of 4750 degrees which is 2000 degrees higher than the melting point of steel and 1000 degrees higher than the melting point of most of the world's rocks!

Most amazing, the new combinations of Moly and other alloys in the new pipeline steel resist the almost unbelievable sub-zero temperatures, so bitterly cold that most steels would crack like peanut brittle.

The new steel was developed in an intensive cooperative program between Interprovincial Steel and Pipe Corporation Ltd. of Canada and Climax Molybdenum Company of Michigan. Over 80 miles of 42-inch diameter pipeline are now in operation under tough climatic conditions of Canada. One proposed pipeline to the U.S. bor-

One proposed pipeline would run about 2500 miles from Prudhoe Bay, Alaska, to the Great Lakes, U.S.A. Solid line is the 80-mile or more pipeline already in operation.

Many steel companies are now taking a long hard look at the new steel for new applications of vast significance. These include railroad cars, automobile bumpers, heavy mobile and industrial equipment, where even the strongest steels to date haven't been practical because of cost. Thus, Moly in steel from the Arctic icebox may soon be improving the lot of man in the boiling Tropics.

Hardly a day goes by that new applications of Moly prove it is, indeed, a "Gee Whizz" metal. Moly is now a magic ingredient in chemicals, inks, paints and in fertilizers that increase the yield of certain crops by as much as 30% to 300%. In a chemical called molybdenum disulfide, Moly gives the toughest, longest-lasting lubricant ever known in industrial and automotive applications. Or in your power mower or teenager's bike, for that matter. Incidentally, Moly adds little to the cost of lubricants, a good reason to say, "Moly grease, please," when you get your next lube job for your car. Or lubs for industrial fleets, farm equipment or your community's school buses.

Experts at Climax Molybdenum Co., an AMAX Division, world's largest producer of Moly, never cease to be amazed at where Moly bobs up next from engineering departments across the country. Talk about new frontiers! Moly is breaking down barriers everyday!

Ernest P. Jennings New Pastor Talco And Hagansport

The Rev. Ernest P. Jennings assumed the responsibilities of pastor of the Talco and Terry Memorial (Hagansport) United Methodist Churches Sunday, Jan. 21. The Rev. Jennings was appointed by the Dist. Superintendent, Dr. C. C. Sessions of Paris, to fill the vacancy resulting from the Rev. George A. Thompson moving to the Wichita District to serve the Alvord pastorate. There was good attendance in the morning services at both churches: Terry Memorial at 10 o'clock and Talco at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Jennings, and his wife, Pauline, moved to Talco from Greenville, Illinois, where Mr. Jennings had been in the employ of Greenville College as a book-keeper in the Business Office of the college for the past 11 1/2 years.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Jennings are native Texans. Mr. Jennings was born in Hays County 35 miles southwest of Austin, and Mrs. Jennings was born at Cuthand, but moved to Campbell, in Hunt County at the age of seven.

VIEWPOINT

ARE WE ON THE RIGHT ROAD?

Over the last 30 years, the American public has chosen a low density living pattern which has brought about a dispersed pattern of trip making. Understandably, this life style relies heavily on an individual mode of transportation, namely, the automobile.

Yet, there are organized interests at work today creating the impression that the American public no longer wants or needs the highways necessary to maintain this life style. If these interests are successful in scuttling a continuing federal highway program, Americans will find their personal mobility limited, ownership and use of their cars restricted, and continuation of their present life style made more difficult, if not impossible.

The American Automobile Association (AAA) believes that the American public will not willingly give up improvements made in the last quarter century for a return to the more crowded living and working conditions of an earlier era. The motoring federation believes that this country has a continuing need for highway improvements to insure mobility, safety and continued economic growth.

AAA believes that the Interstate System should be completed as rapidly as possible and improvement started on the bread and butter roads—those used every day for trips to work, school, shopping and getting to the doctor and church. The highway program for the '70's must concentrate on improving those outdated roads built 50 years ago. Highest priority must be assigned to those road systems carrying the largest volumes of traffic in urban as well as rural America.

Though there is documented proof of the need for a continuing highway program, no highway legislation was passed by the Congress during the last session. In fact, there were some legislators and vocal anti-highway groups who wanted to see highway improvements end and the taxes you pay for such improvements diverted to other purposes.

The failure of the individual motorist to tell his elected officials about his desire for improved highways as well as his views on the use of his highway user taxes, contributed to this legislative stalemate.

AAA surveys have consistently found that 80 percent or more of the respondents want highway user taxes used for highway purposes only. AAA is convinced that this also represents the views of most motorists, yet neither their voices, nor yours, are being heard or heeded.

Is the investment in your auto, safer highways, and your life style worth an eight cent letter to your Congressman? You bet it is! Let your Congressman know now before the debate starts.

Contact your two Senators at the United States Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510. Contact your Congressman at the United States House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. If you don't know their names, contact your local AAA Club and the names will be furnished to you.
