As of September 1, 1983, a thief has to work harder to become a felon!

That's right, the state legislature enacted a law which now says that for a theft to be a felony offense it has to be in excess of $750.00.

Anything under that, from $20.00 up, is a misdemeanor of varying degree.

Now come on, Lawmakers! What we need is stricter laws...not more lenient ones.

Theft is theft, and dishonesty is just that, and it should be treated as such.

No one, not one person involved in law enforcement that we have contacted, thinks this new law will be helpful in lowering the number of thefts...how could it?

Perhaps the legislature thinks that allowances for inflation should be made? Perhaps they think that the statistics showing how mad felony theft is will go down if they raise the amount...and they will!

Pardon my ignorance...but there seems to be absolutely no valid reason for making it a lesser crime to steal more!

Theft in this area...and throughout the state, is already completely out of hand.

A local farmer left his tractor on the turn row for a few hours...and came back to find the expensive hydraulic cylinders stolen from it!

People come home from funerals or vacations to find their homes empty of their expensive possessions.

Theft of gasoline, batteries, tires, small personal items...the list is endless, all are on the increase.

This seems to indicate that we need stricter penalties, not lighter ones!

Back in the "old days" stealing a ham was a felony. The sentence handed down reflected the severity of the crime...and that is how it should be.

The hands of law enforcement officers and prosecutors are increasingly being tied!

Well, it's time to DO something about the situation. We must begin examining the voting records of legislators more carefully...we must care enough to do something about the situation!

And on a local level we must work to protect our neighbors and ourselves by watching carefully what is going on around us...and reporting when things seem amiss.

It won't be an easy situation to correct...but it will never be corrected until we ALL try to correct it!

An order by State District Judge Virgil Mullinax of Gilmer is carrying on the Red River County drama concerning Commissioner Bruce Scott.

Judge Mullinax filed an order in the Quo Warranto proceeding seeking removal of Scott from office.

The ruling of the District Judge essentially ruled: Scott had automatically resigned from office of County Commissioner of Precinct 1 when, after the Commissioners Court redistricted the Precinct lines, he filed in the race for Precinct 3 Commissioner's post, where his home was located on February 1, 1982.

However, Scott had legally continued to serve as Commissioner, and still continued to serve legally, as Commissioner under a holdover position of the Texas Constitution, Article 16, Section 17. This law was designed to insure continuity in public office, and provides that an official will continue to serve until his successor has been duly elected or appointed and sworn.

The suit had attempted to require Scott to repay all salaries and benefits since the filing date, 19 months previously, but the Judge's order ruled that he was entitled to such payments as long as he continues to serve.

Now, however, Red River County Judge Wm. S. (Scotty) Whiteman, has the right to appoint a successor Commissioner, without consultation with or the approval of the Commissioners Court. Judge Whiteman said that he does not plan to make an appointment until after time for an appeal has expired or other actions have taken place.

This is primarily due to the fact that Judge Mullinax' judgement will not become final for 30 days after the date of filing, and Scott would have until at least then to file an appeal.

The entire situation is due to a relatively unusual series of events.

The quo warranto proceeding was filed by County Attorney Thomas Fowler on March 18, 1983 at the request of seven citizens, who are known as "relators" in this action, and represented by attorney Pat C. Beadle Sr., who handled the case in District Court.

This suit challenged the right of Scott to continue to serve, and was based on the Texas Constitutional provision which forbids an official seeking another office by serving in one.

The redistricting plan which moved Scott's house from precinct 1 to precinct 3 happened prior to Scott's filing for precinct 3 position, and just after he had finished his first term of office in Precinct 1.

Scott was defeated in the Precinct 3 bid, and continued to serve in the Precinct 1 office.

The relators, several of whom were not satisfied with the Commissioner's performance of duties, are mostly from the Bogata area, where road conditions have been reported to be less than "quality".

Rebels Over Cooper

By Diana Eudy
The Rivercrest Rebels rolled to a 13-0 victory over the Cooper Bulldogs last Friday night on Rebel home ground.

The first Reb score was the result of a recovered Bulldog fumble by Rivercrest's Joel Mangrum on Cooper's 10 yard line. Randy Galloway carried the ball for 4 yards to the 6. On second down Greg Russell added another 2 followed by a pass play to the one yard marker.

Galloway, 145 pound senior halfback, picked up the needed yard on 4th and goal to make the score 6-0 with 1:46 left in the first period. The extra point, kicked by Stanley Jessee, was good to bring the score to 7-0 in favor of the Rebels.

The Rebels set up their second scoring drive after a Cooper punt to the Reb 44. Greg Russell picked up 2 and brought up 2nd down and 8. Randy Galloway broke loose to the Bulldog 30 yard line for a Reb first down. Charlie Roberts, 165 pound junior, picked up 3 yards. On 3rd and 4 quarter Kelly Jeffery connected to Galloway on the 20 line marker. On 2nd and 6 Jeffery lofted a pass to James Anderson -- the pass was batted up into the air, but Anderson managed to pull it in.

An off-side penalty against the Bulldogs made it 1st and goal from the 9. Galloway tucked in another Jeffery pass for a gain of 2 to the 7. Roberts carried to the 5 and on 3rd and goal Rivercrest called time out with 50 seconds remaining in the half.

It was Galloway yet again for 4 yards to the one. On 4th and goal Galloway scampered into the end zone for another six points leaving 34 seconds in the first half of play. The point after was low -- halftime score was 13-0.

Outstanding defensive play by Stanley Jessee, 187 pound senior tackle, and Scotty Goates, 170 pound senior defensive end, as they sacked Bulldog quarterback Rodney Morris helped to boost Rebel confidence.

The Bulldog defense met the Rebel challenge in the second half and managed to hold them to their first half scoring.

The Bulldog offense continued to have difficulty with the fired-up Reb defense which allowed only 63 yards rushing and 11 yards passing in the entire game.

The Rivercrest offense rushed for 261 yards and completed passes for 21 yards. They made 18 first downs to the Bulldogs' 4.

"Our boys played a real tough ballgame. We were really pleased with the fine job they did," said Coach Milford Groves. "Some of our boys are pretty sore and bugged up -- this happens in a close, tough, hardhitting game."

"We played conservative ball in the second half. If they were going to beat us they would have to work for it. It wouldn't be a result of a mistake by us," Groves added.

Rivercrest will meet the Mt. Vernon Tigers at Rivercrest Friday night at 8:00 p.m.

Rally Set For Methodist Church

Sunday, September 25 has been designated as Sunday School Rally Day at the United Methodist Church. A special class for those who don't go to Sunday School will be held at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary. Travis Hale and Iva Hooker will teach the class and provide historical facts about the church. All classes are encouraged to contact everyone in their class to come. Recognition

"Notch Years" Penalize Recipients

A number of "notch-year" babies have written in or contacted the paper concerning a letter in a famous "advice" column concerning social security.

They expressed the desire that people in the area should know about the situation, and perhaps remedy a situation that seems most deplorable.

It seems that if a person is drawing Social Security and was born in 1917, 1918, 1919, or 1920 and 21 called "notch" years, there is a penalty by receiving lower benefits than those born prior to or after the above mentioned names!

If a person worked until they were 65 years old before starting to draw their Social Security, they receive $100 less than those born before 1917 or after 1921.

A bill in Congress which would have corrected this situation failed to make the committee and died at the end of the 1982 session.

The information given was checked out, and is true!

People, especially those who are "notch year babies" should write their U. S. congressman and let him know that you feel this should be corrected.

Churches Combine For Game Fellowship

There will be another Fifth Quarter after the game this Friday at Calvary Baptist Church, Talco. Any youth in high school is invited. You do not need to be a member of either of the churches to come.

will go to support the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation's programs of research, care, and education.

The Walk-A-Thon will be held on Saturday, October 15, and high school students are encouraged to participate.

Please support this worthwhile project by making donations and pledges.

Kelsey, Wood And Byndas Claim Money

Joe T. Kelsey, Bogata, claimed the first place prize money in the newspaper football guessing contest last week with only 6 misses, and picking Wolfe City over Prairiland 20-12. He will be awarded the $12 first place money.

In second place was another Bogata resident, Denise Wood, who also missed six guesses, but picked Wolfe City to defeat Prairiland 21-8. Denise was the ONLY person in the numerous entries that predicted the Jets would beat Seattle!

In third place is another female football fan, Kay Byndas, who missed six games but picked Wolfe City over Prairiland 21-7.

Close behind was Melvin Hines, missing seven games, and Lori Franks and Carlos Ladd missing eight games.

No contestant managed to see or predict the tie between TCU and Kansas.

Another set of games appear in the ads on the football guessing contest on page 4 in this weeks paper, so check the rules, get out a pencil or pen, and get to guessing...who knows, you might get to claim some money!

Jamie Brown
 Nine-year old Jamie Brown of Paris has set a national record.
 But no one believes him when he tells them about it. Jamie, the son of Frank and Connie Brown, 930 Old Jefferson Road, plays video games with a passion. And he's good. So good, in fact, that he set a national record on the game named GyruSS produced by Centuri Inc. of Miami, Fla.
 Jamie, whose mother manages the local Ken's Pizza Parlor, had been playing the newest machine located just inside one of the establishment's entrances for a few days when he plunked another quarter in the slot at 7:15 p.m. Monday Aug. 15.
 When he finished his game, some two hours later, he had posted a score of 2,138,680 on the machine which is the newest in a trio of related space-theme games. He'd already mastered predecessors Galaxy and Galagua.
 The fact that her son had been playing almost two hours on the same quarter sparked Connie Brown's interest. "I called the game's distributor in Dallas, because I'd gotten a little curious," she said. "Someone there told me I'd have to call Centuri in Miami. That's where they told me he'd set a new national record. The closest score to Jamie's was 1,743,400 and it had been set by a 27 year old truck driver."
 According to Jamie, it took some time for there to be much pleasure in having posted the record. "By the time I got through, my hands were numb. I couldn't feel a thing," he said. "They looked like I'd been washing dishes...all wrinkled and everything. I couldn't believe it."

 Then came the problem. In spite of the fact that Jamie's feat prompted an interview by a local radio station, apparently none of his classmates or teachers listen to that station because none of them would believe that he'd done what he said he'd done.
 "Nobody wanted to believe I'd done it," Jamie said, a somewhat dejected tone coloring his voice. "Guess they didn't want to think a nine-year-old could do something they couldn't..."

Jamie is the son of Frank and Connie Brown of Paris, grandson of James and Mary Brown of Bogata and Billy and Jean Hill of Paulden, Arizona.
 Great grandparents are Millie Harper of Bogata and May Whitaker of Clarksville and Jack and Mildred Whitt of Paris.

Footprints From The Past

By John W. Hood

Fall of the year is almost here and that used to be an exciting time for me when I was a small boy as it meant that you had to start to get ready for the fall harvest. It was also the time of the year that you had a little extra money as you could sell the cotton that you had worked all year to grow and get ready for the market and it was also time to get the cotton gins ready for the ginning of the cotton crop.

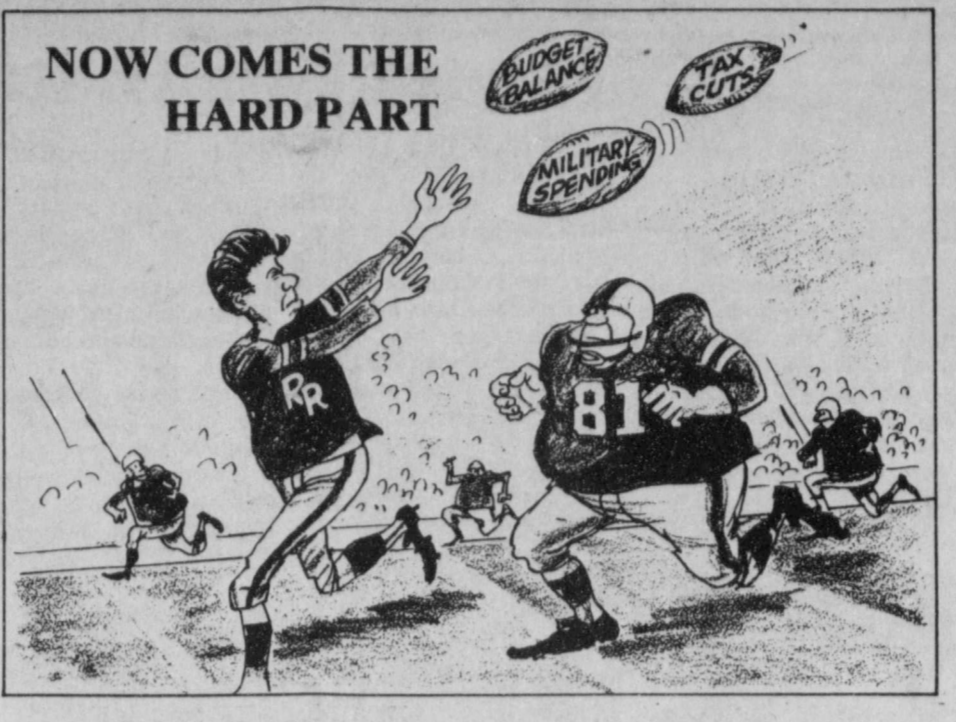

My Dad and also my father-in-law always worked at the gins in the fall of the year and they had to start to get the gins ready to do the work they had to do and that meant over hauling all of the gin from the boiler to the stands. They would start to work about the middle of August to be ready when the first bale came in to be ginned and the towns would start to fill up with a lot of strangers all come to help with the harvesting of the cotton and to make some money to buy some clothes and groceries for the long winter ahead it was exciting time in this part of the country every thing and everyone was busy and all the gins would be running full time to try and keep up with all the ginning some times they would run all night and all day and still could not keep up with all the ginning when everyone made a good crop and all the clothing stores would be open late at night to try and serve all their customers.

Saturday was a busy day for everyone as all the local people were buying school clothes for their kids and the people who came to help with the harvest would be in town buying supplies for the coming week and also for the time when they would be going back home. Home for some of them was as far away as Mexico and also all the other states as well for the fall of the year was the time when you could have a little money to buy some of the things that you had done without all the rest of the year. Cotton harvest time was about the only way to make any extra money in this part of the country as we had no manufacturing plants and we did not have a strong enough economy to make any money except to work in the fields and the spring of the year when planting time and then the chopping and hoeing of the cotton and corn was the only way to make money and that did not last very long so we all looked forward to the coming of fall and the harvesting of the cotton crop for besides extra money it was also a very exciting time of the year with all the hustle and bustle and the stores jammed with people buying things. You could hear the gins humming and the rumble of all the cotton wagons either hauling the cotton to the gin or on their way home to get another load and you could hear both the wagons and the gins all day and night. This part of the country had their part of the gins as I can remember that there were three gins in Deport and two here in Bogata, one in Fulbright, one in Pattonville, one in Minter, one in Cunningham and several in Paris and one or two in Clarksville so you can see that we had our part of the gins and they were all busy all day and night.

There was a lot of hard work back in the days when I was growing up and not much money but there was also some things that a lot of the younger generation will not get to experience and some things that we all miss and that is the hustle and bustle of fall of the year when you and I was young.

House Joint Resolution 91 proposes a constitutional amendment which requires a county with a population of 30,000 or more to be divided into not less than four nor more than eight justice of the peace precincts. A county with a population of 18,000 or more but less than 30,000 shall be divided into not less than two nor more than five justice of the peace precincts. A county with a population of less than 18,000 shall be designated as a single justice of the peace precinct or, upon a finding of necessity by the commissioners court, shall be divided into more than one justice of the peace precinct but not more than four. The amendment provides further, that in any precinct in which there is a city with a population of 18,000 or more, two justices of the peace shall be elected. The amendment allows a justice of the peace, constable or commissioner to continue in office until the expiration of his term, although a change in precinct boundaries results in the officer no longer being a resident of the precinct for which he was elected or appointed and allows a justice of the peace or constable to continue in office until the expiration of his term even though a change in precinct boundaries results in the abolition of the precinct or more than one justice of the peace or constable serving the precinct. Vacancies in the office of justice of the peace or constable that result from a precinct boundary change shall be filled by the commissioners court until the next general election. The amendment would take effect on January 1, 1984, and counties with populations of less than 30,000 and with more than four justice of the peace and constable precincts would have until January 1, 1987 to comply with the amendment.

The amendment empowers the Governor, after consultation with the Speaker of the House and the Lieutenant Governor, to suspend the constitutional requirement that the Legislature hold its sessions in Austin and allows the suspension of procedural rules by the Governor issuing a proclamation in which the House of Representatives and Senate concur by resolution approved by a majority of the members present. Suspension of the constitutional rules may not exceed a period of two years under a single proclamation; however, the Governor may renew the suspension by issuing a new proclamation concurred in by the House of Representatives and the Senate through a resolution approved by a major-

Travel In Britain, Many Ways Around!

By Nanalee Nichols
Britain offers one of the widest varieties of transportation choices anywhere in the world.
Driving our own car is the major method we chose...but we tried many other ways also.
Admittedly wandering around in a nation not your own is a little less relaxed than traveling within the U.S.
But it is also filled with new things to see, to do, to learn.

In a nation where the average person is more likely to travel to and from work on a bicycle than a car, public transportation is bound to be available.
Forewarned not to attempt sightseeing in London by driving ourselves around the central part of the city, we decided to try public transportation.
It was good advice...traffic in London is absolutely hair raising!

We caught a train from Windsor to Clapham Junction, and from there to Victoria station. British railroads are clean, cheap, fast and efficient, stretching the length and breadth of the nation.
Some trains go as fast as 125 miles per hour. The commuter train we took did not, stopping at tiny villages and towns to pick up passengers and let them off.

Victoria station rivals a major airport for "bustle". Indians in turbans and silk saris, Africans in white robes, little old ladies that look like something from "Mary Poppins" mix and mingle with executives, tourists and shop clerks.
One runs to catch the train, and had better hop off fast too!
Catching a city bus was also an experience in itself. During many hours of the day central London traffic is closed to anything except bus and taxi traffic. And the buses seem determined to prove that they can outdrive on another...not to mention the taxis.

They wing and sway in and out of traffic, cutting off other bus drivers, violently pulling in front of a big, black taxi, horns honking. But no one but us seemed to take it seriously.
I, for one, kept reminding myself that "we're the biggest critter on the road". There was some consolation in that.
The buses stop every few blocks...but watch out. The driver had told us he would call out the stop for Saint Paul's Cathedral. But we failed to recognize his cry of "Sem ples", "semplees" as having a relationship to our destination.

The undergrounds are clean and safe...but hectic during rush hour.
We recommend a taxi. Told that they were expensive we found that they were well worth the money as fast, easy method to get around. Obviously, they would be expensive for those who travel daily to and from their jobs, but for the tourist they are a good way to see London.
Canal barges are also a common method of sight-seeing.

TRACK NUMBER TWO? Windsor station is considered a small train station in England, but is still proved a maze of schedules, track and fun for American tourists. Trains run every few minutes and thousands of London workers, from bank executives to laborers, take them to and from work each day. They often can be seen dozing off until their stop, when some "second sense" wakes them just in time! (Staff Photo)

HORSEBACK policemen are not infrequent in London. This "bobby" as they are called, helps two tourists with information upon a closed off street. Policemen in Britain do not carry guns except when at the scene of an armed robbery or similar crime. Instead, they use a night stick. England citizens are extremely proud of this fact. (Staff Photo)

The annual N.E.T. Brahman Field Day will be held September 24 at the Arnold Barfield Ranch located three miles north of I-30 in New Boston. The field day is being held by the Northeast Texas Brahman Association, according to association past president, Henry Burress of Paris.
Activities get underway at 9:00 A.M. Field day features will include live cattle displays, an educational program, 4-H and FFA cattle show and barbecue meal.
Everyone in the area interested in Brahman cattle are invited to attend.
Sodseeding Winter Pastures...
Extend your warm season pasture's grazing period by sodseeding a cool-season grass or legume.
A common example is ryegrass sodseeded into bermuda grass to provide winter and spring grazing. Before deciding to sodseed, carefully consider the disadvantages and advantages.
Because of the warm season base grass, sodseeded pastures furnish less fall and early winter grazing than those planted in prepared seedbeds. Also, some warm season grazing is lost with sodseeding, and sodseeded pasture may retard the growth of warm season grasses during a dry spring.
In addition, sodseeded pastures require more nitrogen than those planted on a prepared seedbed and are highly dependent on rainfall near or after planting.

On the "plus" side, sodseeding uses land during a normally unproductive period by extending the pasture's grazing period. Also seedbed preparation is simpler with sodseeding, thereby reducing land preparation costs.
Sodseeded pastures also provide better footing for grazing livestock due to the warm-season grass root system. In addition, fertilizer application will help warm season grasses next spring.
"Need" is the determining factor when deciding between sodseeding and prepared seedbed winter pasture.
Stocker calf operations need fall and winter grazing, so the producer is almost forced to pick the prepared seedbed. Spring calving cows and calves winter well on good hay, and sodseeded pastures provide early spring grazing.
If you decide to sodseed, allow the warm season grass to make early September growth but do not fertilize. In late September graze or closely cut the grass so sunlight can reach the soil.
Plant in late September-early October. While specially designed equipment is preferred, a standard drill can be used. The most popular method, disking, is the least effective.
Ryegrass at 20-30 pounds per acre can be seeded alone, overseeded on small grain or seeded in a legume mixture. Seed oats, wheat, barley, triticale or rye at 100-120 pounds per acre.
Fertilizer is the key to successful sodseeding. Determine needed nutrients by a soil test, and apply nitrogen only after the sodseeded grass is up and again in late February.

Lastly, allow the sodseeded pasture to grow five or six inches before grazing it.
Wheat production for the 1983-84 season is estimated by USDA at 2.42 billion bushels which is 14 percent below last year's level. Use, estimated at 2.41 billion bushels is slightly less than production and as a result carry over at the end of 1983-84 may increase slightly.
Increased carry over stocks are expected despite heavy participation in the 1983 wheat program, which contributed to a 23 percent reduction in harvested acres.
Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Soft Drink Stains
Sponge area at once with cool water, then launder in water that's as hot as is safe for the fabric. If stain persists, soak bleachable fabrics for 15 minutes in a solution of one tablespoon chlorine bleach to one quart of water. BANK CENTS

By Neil Rozell

How has the computer affected you and your banking business? The computer has helped you, in getting your banking business out of the horse and buggy days and into the space age. I know that it was a drastic change for you when you had to start carrying your own checkbook with those funny little symbols on the bottom of it, and to start using those deposit slips with the same little letters on it. If you will, look at it from the overall standpoint, since the advent of computers, the banking business has been able to get you your monthly bank statement out to you every month on the same day. There have been fewer errors, and there have actually been less bank employees accused, convicted or sentenced for bank embezzlement than ever before. Also, when you deposit an out-of-town check, you receive credit for that deposit at least three or four days quicker than you did before the computer came into being. Let's face it, the computer may be a little more trouble than the old method, but it is working for all of us.

We want you to know more about our business!!!

Use Energy Wisely...

Is Your Thermostat Working Properly?

Defective or out-of-adjustment room thermostats can cause heat-come on unnecessarily, or thermostats located near heat-producing appliances, such as lamps or T.V.s, can give false readings tempting you to constantly adjust the temperature. To use energy more wisely check your room thermostat to be sure it is working correctly and that it is located in an area free from drafts where it receives a flow of air from the heating and air-conditioning system. Set the thermostat at a temperature of 68° in winter and 78° in summer. For more energy-saving tips ask for a copy of the booklet, "A Guide To Better Home Energy Management."

Missionaries To Africa Lead Fascinating Lives

By: Nanalee Nichols
Most people want to help, to do good works. But few people will completely dedicate their lives to doing so, especially when it means living far away from all that is dear to them.

But that is exactly what Fred M. and Joy Allen have done.

The Allens are missionaries to Zambia, Africa for the Southern Baptist Churches.

They have been doing this for many years. Their four children, who were ages 11, 9, 7, and 5 when they first went to Africa in 1971, have grown up there. They have had to go to high school 1600 miles away from their parents. Nairobi, in Kenya, was the closest place for higher education for them.

The Allens see their family only every 3 years or so. Fred is a native of Cunningham, and Joy hails from Ft. Worth. All their children are grown now, except the youngest. They either have, or are getting college educations.

But when asked if this isn't hard for them they reply, "Yes, but it's your relationship to the Lord that determines your happiness, not where you are living."

Their love for their work, and the people they work with, shines plainly through every statement.

What makes a couple dedicate their lives in such a manner? When asked they simply state that they felt God calling them to serve in a foreign country. Joy actually felt the desire to do overseas mission work at the age of twelve!

Before becoming a Missionary, Fred served in Paris, Cooper, Ft. Worth, Lubbock, and Colorado as music director, full time minister of youth and music and various other capacities.

But when the couple heard of the great need for missionaries, and saw their own unique qualifications, they went to Zambia in 1971.

His main responsibility is the development of music and youth ministries in about 120 churches spread over a city and rural area. The rural or "bush" churches are simple structures of mud and grass. The city churches are more sophisticated.

The area he ministers to is roughly 750 miles by 600 miles in size. During the rainy season travel is restricted due to many streams not having bridges, so training programs are set up during April through November, before the rains come.

Joy's main duties are as a housewife and hostess, plus working with teaching Bible study, literacy, nutrition, baby care and a host of other important things.

Their enthusiasm is high. They speak fondly of the country.

The mission attempts to minister to the whole person, providing food during times of shortage, medical care, spiritual guidance.

The mission headquarters, where the Allens live, is in Lusaka the capital city of Zambia. It is a city of half a million people.

From there, and other places, the mission presents radio and TV broadcasts.

Another of the things that Fred does is to take groups of choirs or singers around to school campuses. Unlike schools here, Bible study is a requirement at Zambian schools.

The youngsters are anxious and delighted to hear singing, recordings and Christian films.

The Allens speak with pride of the choir competitions that are held in Lusaka each year now. They point out that in 1973 only eight choirs were present, and this past February 34 choirs, with a total of over 500 people competed for certificates and merit.

The very best of this music is recorded and produced in cassette form for release too!

Although the Zambian people do sing standard hymns, they like indigenous musics. These, accompanied by rattles and drums, express their own feelings about Christianity and life. According to Fred, they are often astonishingly beautiful and melodious.

Between the two of them, the Allens meet the needs of many people... and, perhaps just as importantly, meet needs within themselves to be useful, worthy humans.

There is one more thing that Fred and Joy Allen do well too...they serve as a reminder and inspiration for those of us here in their home area of just what dedication can be!

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hall of Mt. Pleasant and Latane Roberts visited Mr. Benny Alewin who is a patient in the Mixia Hospital. Mr

Randy and Lisa Carroll are the proud parents of a 8 lb. 2 oz. baby boy born Sept. 8. The little one is named Nathan Lee Carroll. Mother and son are doing fine and there is still hope for the father.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Stephens, Randy and Jason of Paris, Texas had as their dinner guests Sunday Mrs. Stephens parents, Mr. and Mrs. I.L. Hearron of Talco. The special occasion was in honor of Grandparents Day.

Words can not express the appreciation we feel for the families and friends that stood by us in our time of sorrow.

A special thanks to the staff at Red River Haven Nursing Home for the kindness and consideration shown our loved one.
