Christmas is over. Most of us breathe a sigh of relief. As much as we love the season, we still had so much to do. Now it is done and it's easy to get "down in the dumps". After all the excitement, rushing around and family visiting it all comes to a screeching halt. We feel exhausted, let down and rather empty.

Here at our place of business we are left with wierd, incomplete feelings that something is wrong. Because of the mid-week holidays, both Christmas and New Years, we have to change up our publication and mailing schedule. Our readers don't care for this. We care for it even less.

Add in to this the annual newspaper sale winding down and it's hard not to feel stressed and depressed. We've burned more midnight oil than a refinery. We're tired. Don't get me wrong, I'm not complaining. It's nice too.

But sitting at my desk writing check for taxes, bills and postage I found myself getting lower and lower. Our biggest edition of the year was done.

Our year was ending. Our gift giving was through. More for distraction than anything else I found my mind wandering ahead to what day Christmas might fall on NEXT year.

With relief I noted that it would be a Friday...a wonderful boon that would keep us from having to juggle such a frantic schedule!

Since the calendar had '93 and '94 on it I looked at them too.

With delight I realized that it would be four years before we had to dread another mid-week publication.

And, with that simple thought I realized how useless our post-Christmas blues really are.

Without consciously knowing it my mind was placing faith in the next four years...just as it should.

In a flash all my worries about what the future might hold were gone.

My subconscious had prompted me to look ahead instead of simply worrying.

My subconscious knew best. It does no good to worry about the future. Work towards it... surely. But the very things we usually spend time worrying about don't usually come true anyway so why bother!

So, I put my worries away in a mental "File 13" (the trash) and got on with doing my work.

It was so simple as soon as I gave a little thought to what looking ahead four years on the calendar meant!

Happy New Year, everyone.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

As another great year comes to a close, we'd like to extend our warm wishes and heartfelt thanks to all the good folks we've had the privilege to know and serve.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Drue Pirtle Files For Re-Election

H. Drue Pirtle announces he has filed for a place on the Democratic Party 1992 Primary Ballot for re-election to the office of County Commissioner, Precinct 1 of Red River County.

Pirtle stated, "We have made a lot of progress in county government in the last four years and I hope to continue to serve you for the next four years."

In reviewing the last four years, some of the accomplishments made by the county to the courthouse include: a new roof, cleaning the outside of the building, installing central heat and air conditioning in the hallways; new rest rooms, a concrete ramp and an elevator to make the building handicapped accessible, an automatic sprinkling system for the lawn and new landscaping. A concrete parking lot was built on the North side of the building and new sidewalks were built on the East side. Additional improvements are planned for the future.

Within the last years, the county has also purchased a larger computer system and the Red River Bank building which has been renovated and is being used as the courthouse annex.

During the last four years, the working equipment in Precinct 1 has been up-graded to include: new motor grader, used track loader, used dump truck, new pickup truck, and a new Ford tractor. Also, fifteen steel railroad tank cars were installed to replace bridges that had to be removed. Additionally, twelve large bridges have been rebuilt. Several miles of roads have been re-oiled and two miles of roads have been paved.

Pirtle stated, "All of the above improvements have been made in the last four years with a tax rate decrease. The county tax rate four years ago was 61.350 and the current tax rate is 57.490 cents per hundred."

Plans for the future include a new bridge across Sulphur River. If the bridge is built by the State Highway Department, the county will apply for a new Farm to Market road from Cuthand to Sulphur River.

"I hope to visit with as many of you as I can before the election on March 10, 1992," Pirtle said.

From December 25, 1953 edition of the Talco Times.

The first day of winter had brought in a very cold spell.

Bob Sandlin Motors was selling Chevrolets and Oldsmobiles at Mt. Pleasant. The ad promoted the new Chevrolet with Power Brakes (first in a low-price field), Blue Flame 125 engines, new styling and most colorful interiors.

The Dorcas Sunday School Clas of the First Baptist Church of Talco had held their Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Elton Welcho with 18 ladies attending.

The Book Lovers Club held their Christmas party at the Humble Recreation Hall.

Rebel Sports Report

Paris Wildcats, Lady Wildcats Defeat Rivercrest

By Rosie Jasso
Traveling to Paris, the Rebel teams knew that facing the 4A Paris Wildcats would not be an easy task. Unfortunately, their tough efforts did not pay off for either varsity team. The Lady Rebs played strong ball throughout the game. A 3-point play by Krista Weatherall in the first quarter tied the game at 7-7, but the Lady Cats jumped ahead for a 17-13 lead after the first quarter. The Lady Rebels came back strong in the second quarter as Tiffany Parish scored two to tie the game at 17-17. Unfortunately, the Lady Cats scored 13 points to the Lady Rebels' six. Scoring at the half was 30-23. The final score was 62-48 in favor of the Lady Cats with Weatherall leading the Lady Rebs at 16 points, followed by Parish with 13. In boys action, the Paris Wildcats exercised great tactics upon the Rebs as the first quarter ended with a 22-6 lead. Building upon their lead, the Cats never stumbled as the 54-17 halftime score showed. Through team work, the Rebs outscored Paris 21-11 during the last stanza, but the game resulted in a 81-48 loss for Rivercrest. Corey Gable led the Rebels with 10 points followed by Dean Tiffie with 9.

How To Understand Your Child's Development

Reprinted with permission, National Education Association of the United States, Copyright 1987.

Just as important as how to talk with your child is how to listen as he or she talks with you. The most valuable thing you can give your child is your time and attention. Communication is a two way process. With a child it requires more listening than talking on your part, for it often takes a great deal of time to grasp his problems and concerns between the lines of what he says. Giving your child time each day for her alone to talk with you indicates you really care about your child's concerns.

The basic ingredients of your relationship should be love and warmth, liberally laced with respect and understanding. The child who drinks in the security of these attitudes from a parent is more able to develop a healthy personality and to grow ever outward into the world. To your child, the most crucial words in your vocabulary may well be, "I understand how you feel."

Every child needs his or her parents to impose some limits on freedom. Otherwise, the world is too big and disorganized for the child to adjust to it. But it doesn't matter very much whether a home is "permissive" or "strict" about the number or kinds of limits enforced. More crucial to a child's development is how the parents place the limits, how they discipline, and how well they understand their child's special needs.

Some generalizations about children at the various stages of their lives can help you understand your children and communicate with them more meaningfully. To use these clues effectively, you must recognize the individuality of your children, love and respect them for the individuals they are, and adapt what you say to your own situation.

HELPFUL IDEAS FOR SUCCESSFUL RETIREMENT

Living Wills

This is not one of my favorite subjects, but one which I believe needs to be considered, so here goes.

What would you want done to keep you alive? Recent court rulings on the "right to die" have a lot of people thinking about that.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that there must be proof of a patient's wish to die rather than be kept alive in a vegetative condition. To provide that proof, a living will is essential say lawyers, doctors, and others who council individuals on patients' rights.

An estimated 15-20 percent of Americans have written living wills already, but many are not specific enough to assure that the patient's wishes will be followed.

If you're interested in more information, you can contact the Society for the Right to Die. Write them at 250 West 57th Street, New York, NY 10107.

Living-will forms are also available for $1 and a self-addressed, stamped envelope from The Medical Directive, Harvard Medical School Health Letter, 164 Longwood Ave., 4th floor, Boston, MA 02115.

After completing a living will, one copy should be given to your doctor and one copy to your next of kin. A living will should be reviewed periodically, as you might not feel the same in years to come.

Your Vote Will Be Appreciated
